SMOKER—In spite of a very bad night over sixty men were present at the smoker, given on the evening of All Saints' Day, by the Men's Guild. The Rector read the annual report of the Guild, showing what the men of the parish have done during the past year. Mr. Tingley made an address, and the rest of the evening was taken up with conversation, music and recitations by some of those present.

PARISH VISITING—The Brotherhood of S. Andrew, of our parish, have undertaken to make a religious census of the neighborhood of the Church, that is, find out what sort of people live in the different houses, whether they are Jews, Roman Catholics or what not. And when they find there are persons who belong to the Episcopal Church, or do not go to any Church, an effort will be made to bring them to our Church. One or two ladies have volunteered to go and see any such families as may be reported.

We want to increase the missionary work of the Church. The congregation is growing, but it is more among the well-to-do classes than among the poor. It ought to grow in both classes.

WINTER WORK is now pretty well under weigh, the societies and classes are all started, but we need more workers in nearly every department. Who will volunteer?

STRANGERS—We notice a great many new faces in the congregation. We hope all such will give their names to the Rector. It is very bad for people to attend a Church regularly and not feel they belong to it, and it is very unsatisfactory for the clergy not to know their own people. A great deal more Church life will be developed, and the people themselves will derive a great deal more good from the Church they attend if they make it their permanent home and feel that they belong to it.

CHURCH SUPPORT—The Vestry are very anxious that all who attend the Church should use the envelopes as the method for its support. This seems to be the wisest and best means of supporting a free Church. It proportions what one gives to his means, not to the seat he can secure in the Church. It secures regularity and system, and enables the Vestry to know on what income they can depend. It does not bind one for any length of time, as the amount subscribed can be altered or stopped altogether at any time; and it insures secrecy. But it must be loyally carried out. It should be a point of honor with every one attending the Church to take a pledge and fill it out for a sum conscientiously proportioned to his income. If every one coming regularly to the Church will do this, its support will be assured. The blanks for pledges are always found in the rack near the door of the Church. Take one, fill it up and put it in an envelope directed to the Accounting Warden of the Church, and send it to the Church by mail or put it in the alms box in the vestibule. When the Warden receives it he will send you the proper number of envelopes for each Sunday in every quarter. These you fill with the amount promised and put them in the offertory plate. If you are away one or more Sundays, be sure and return the envelopes for the Sundays you are away the first time you go.

CHRISTMAS OFFERING—As usual the Church asks for a large special offering on Christmas Day. We need this not only to pay the interest on the mortgage on our property, which falls due this month, but also to pay part, at least, of the amount we were obliged to borrow to meet our expenses during the Summer months, when so many of our people were away. We need, at least, $1,000 for these purposes. Will not our people see that we get it? There is nothing so disagreeable as as to be always asking for money. But the Church cannot be carried on without it, and if the Church is to be free it must depend on voluntary offerings. Let each do his full share and all that is needed can be raised.

Put your special Christmas offering in the envelope so marked, to keep it distinct from your regular contribution.

CALENDAR — So many persons seem to find it impossible to remember our hours of service, meetings of our societies, etc., that we are having printed an Ascension Calendar for 1898, which will contain all this information together with the Festivals, Fasts, etc. It will be printed on heavy paper and can be hung up where it can be easily seen. They will be sold for the benefit of the Church by the Sexton, at ten cents each.

THANKSGIVING.—Through the kindness of the young ladies of Miss Anable's school and some of our own members, all the women attending the Mothers' Meeting were supplied with a bountiful dinner for themselves and families on Thanksgiving day. Through the generosity of one of our members, we will also be able to present each with an order for half a ton of coal.

CHRISTMAS SERVICE.—As usual we shall have extra celebrations of the Holy Communion on Christmas Day at 6.30 and 8.30 A. M., as well as at 7.30 and 11.30 A. M. We hope to see all our people at one of the Celebrations. The choir will sing Gounod's S. Cecilia Mass at the 11.30 service.

THE CHILDREN'S FESTIVAL.—The Christmas treat for the children of the parish will be given on the evening of Holy Innocents' day, Tuesday the 28th. Contributions towards it may be handed to any of the teachers of the Sunday School or placed in the alms chest in the vestibule, which is marked for the Christmas decorations and festival.

THE YEAR BOOK containing the report of all the Church work for 1896-7, was distributed to the members of the congregation on Advent Sunday. Copies can be had from the rack near the door.

FOUND.—A pair of eye glasses were left in the Church. The owner can get them from the Sexton.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—The following subscriptions have been received since our last issue:

Mr. Henry C. Kerr Mrs. Alexander
Miss Schell

Donation from Miss Schell, 50 cents.

PUBLIC WORSHIP.

Worship is a duty all men owe to God. Church-going is not a matter of inclination or caprice, but an imperative duty, the neglect of which brings its penalty in loss of spiritual power. Worship is required by the first and second commandments as the basis of right living. Indolence, indifference, amusements, business, should not interfere with this paramount obligation. With many, public worship has become a lost art. The large majority of our people never enter church doors, and many go merely to hear the preacher, forgetting that worship is not preaching, but something higher. We go to church not to get, but to give; not to be entertained nor pleased, but to do our duty to God and to offer ourselves and all we have to Him as a sacrifice. Never was there greater need of insisting on worship as a supreme and sacred obligation.

Worship is, moreover, a spontaneous expression of love. If we love God we cannot keep from worshipping Him. Our souls will have an uncontrolable desire and longing for Him. We shall ask no higher joy than to fall at His feet in loving self-surrender. A Christian worships as naturally as a bird sings. He will say: "I was glad when they said unto me, 'we will go into the House of the Lord.'" It is a heart that is cold or dead that will not worship.

CATHOLIC.

This term is applied to those who believe that Catholicity, that is universality, is the test of the truth of doctrine or practice in the Church. Our blessed Lord promised that He would be with His Church to the end of the world. It is not possible, therefore, that the whole Church should err, or that promise would fail. Individuals may err, or portions of the Church may err, but not the whole Church. Whatever, then, has been believed or practiced by the whole Church must be true, and part of the deposit of the faith. This principle is laid down in what is known as the Vincentian rule that that is true which has been believed or followed "always, everywhere and by all" in the Christian Church.

This rule is of immense importance and practical value. It gives an authority which ought to settle all the disputes by which Christians are divided, and affords a test by which every Christian can determine what he ought to believe and follow. Instead of being left to his own individual judgment in the interpretation of Scripture, or determining what is true, or relying upon the authority of one theologian or another, he has here an authority on which he can absolutely rely. What authority could be greater than that of the whole Church? Not only does it come to us with the force of our Lord's promise to be with His Church, which must mean to guide and bless it, but the force of the consent of the great mass of Christians on certain points must be greater than the authority of any individual or even a considerable number of Christians. If all Christians have agreed that certain things are part of the Christian system, surely there can be no doubt about them, even though a few think otherwise. So, in all those questions which are raised about the belief or practice of the Church, instead of every one attempting to investigate and decide for himself, we have simply to ask what has been the belief or practice of the Universal Church, and that should be sufficient for us; that is what we should hold and follow.

This principle follows from the High Church teaching to reverence the Church. And yet there have been, and are, High Churchmen who do not grasp it. They reverence only that particular branch of the Church to which they belong. But the promise of infallibility is not to any one branch of the Church, but to the whole Church. And as all High Churchmen are not necessarily Catholics, so all who call themselves Catholics are not truly such. For there are some who take that for truth which has been taught or practiced by a very large part of the Church. Some seem to think that if anything has had Western use, or has even Roman authority, that is sufficient, though the whole Eastern Church has never taught or followed it.

We must always distinguish Roman Catholicity from real Catholicity. The one is that only of a branch of the Church; the other is of the whole Church. Because anything is taught or practiced in the Roman Catholic Church is no proof of its truth, but if it is held everywhere by the Roman, the Greek and the English Churches we may be sure it is true. It is the failure to realize this distinction which has led some persons to leave the English Church and enter the Roman, and there are some among us who try to force things upon us simply because they have Roman or Western authority.

The principle of real Catholicity is what we should hold to and follow. Everything in doctrine, discipline or worship that can show that authority we should claim as part of our heritage. And it is of great importance that all should understand and try to follow this rule, instead of trying to teach or hold doctrines simply because they commend themselves to us individually. And no branch of the Church should demand of its members belief in anything that cannot show this authority. It is that which separates the different branches of the Church and keeps them out of communion with each other. And it is of great importance that each branch of the Church should conform to this rule in all particulars, instead of keeping up forms or rules or discipline which belong only to themselves. Surely it is better that the Holy Church throughout all the world should be the same, at least in all its great principles and characteristics, so that one might feel at home in it wherever he may find it. So it is important that its great principles of discipline and worship should be the same.

It is this belief which has led to what is known as the Catholic revival among us of late years; that is, the restoration of those things in worship and discipline, which have been generally accepted throughout the whole Church, though for a time disused in England through Puritan influences. So the use of music, vestments, lights, the sign of the cross and other things in the Church is not because they are Roman Catholic or because they who use them would have our Church turn Roman Catholic, but because they have been the universal use of the Church in all its branches and through all its history. They must be, therefore, the wisest and best things to be used. And it were a blessed thing if all the differences and distinctions among Christians could be abolished and all united in one faith and practice. It is only by grasping this principle of Catholicity that that can be done. We should never give up the name of Catholic to any one branch of the Church. It is a misnomer when so used. Catholic means universal, and only what is so held and followed can be true and right, and so we should hold and follow only what is truly Catholic.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—Thirty-four bound volumes for the Parish Library and a large number of illustrated papers and magazines, a number of cakes, toys and other things for the children's Christmas festival, and supper for the Mothers' Meeting.

CHRISTMAS. — We were favored with fine weather and a beautiful service on Christmas Day. The choir sang that most beautiful of all the great services, Gounod's S. Cecilia, very well. The Rector was assisted in the earlier services by the Archdeacon of the Diocese and the Rev. Mr. Meigs. We regret to notice, however, that the attendance at the different services was somewhat less than last year, and we find this has been the experience in several other Parishes. We can only account for it from the fact of Christmas coming on Saturday. Many persons may have said to themselves that they would perform the religious duties of the day on Sunday. And, then, Sunday proved to be a stormy day, and they did not perform them at all, which shows the danger of putting things off. We should always perform our religious duties when the Church calls upon us to do so, and not put them off to attend to other things.

THE CHRISTMAS OFFERING was also smaller than last year, being something under $500, when last year it was nearly $600. We regret this very much, as there are obligations the Church ought to meet at once, and if they are not met it only rolls up a greater accumulation of debt. We fear there are persons in the congregation who made no special Christmas offering at all, and yet we doubt if there are any who let Christmas go by without making gifts to their relations and friends. Surely, we should not at such a time forget the Church and its needs, which taught us to keep Christmas and gives us the greatest and most important gifts man can ever receive.

We want our people, also, to remember that last year we were making special exertions to reduce our debt, and it was only by doing so that we were able to meet the expenses for the year. So, unless something of the same kind is done this year, we shall not only not pay off any of our floating debt, but not meet our expenses, and so add to that debt. We hope everyone in the congregation will at least give as much this year as he or she did last year.

THE CHILDREN'S FESTIVAL took place on the evening of Holy Innocents' Day. The members of the Sunday School and Bible Classes assembled in the Parish building and entered the Church with the choir in procession, where they sang their carols and listened to an address by the Rector. They afterwards had a magic lantern exhibition in the school room, followed by a distribution of candy, cake and oranges, with toys and dolls for the smaller children, and for those who had been most regular in their attendance since the Sunday School began in the Autumn.

GIFTS TO POOR CHILDREN.—Through the generosity of a lady not connected with our Parish a large number of toys were given away on Christmas eve in our Parish building to children who would otherwise have had no Christmas gifts. Their names were obtained chiefly through the ward office.

BACK ENVELOPES.—We are sorry to learn from the Accounting Warden that there is over $370 due to the Church on account of envelopes which have not been returned. Surely, these should be regarded as a sacred debt. Those who make pledges through the envelope system are at perfect liberty to alter or withdraw them at any time. But if they allow them to run on they certainly should be paid. There is no mode of Church support which is so elastic as the envelope system, for, unlike a pew rent, which is for a definite time, it can be stopped or the amount changed at any moment. But if that is not done the amount pledged should be paid in full. There are those, however, who, not only do not do this, but who even, have been known to leave the Parish because they have allowed their offerings to get behindhand and they are either unwilling or not able to make it up and are ashamed to say so.

It would quite make up for the deficiency in the Christmas offering if what is owing to the Church would be paid.

NEW ENVELOPES.—We are glad to notice that a good number of new envelopes have been taken of late. Every one attending the Church regularly should use them. They are as much the system adopted in this Parish for the support of the Church as pew rents are in another, and so should be used just as universally. It would relieve the Rector of constant financial worry and the need of repeated appeals for money, if our people would all take and conscientiously use the envelopes in contributing to the support of the Church.

SUBSCRIPTIONS TO THE NEWS.—Our business manager informs us that there is due to the NEWS this month from subscriptions and advertisements no less than $71. Now, if this was paid in, it would go a great way in settling our indebtedness to the printer. Will not all owing subscriptions pay them promptly? They can be handed to the sexton or placed in a marked envelope in the plate or in the alms box in the vestibule of the Church.

SPONSORS.

BY REV. M. M. MOORE.

The Church requires, when they can be had, three sponsors for every child to be baptised. In this she is true to the loving example of God, Who appoints guardian angels to keep watch and ward over His little ones. It is significant that the "perfect number" seven indicates the spiritual care which each soul should receive when it comes into life. There are two parents, three sponsors, the Church, through her pastors, and the guardian angel. The soul of no child ought to suffer, nor will it if its guardians all do their duty.

The duty of sponsors is sharply defined. While it is to be supposed that those who gave the child existence will, by the natural ties and duties of parentage, care for the child's soul as well as its body, yet the Church specially charges the sponsors with this duty. No matter what parents may or may not do, sponsors are in duty bound to look after the child's soul, and to know that it is learning those things which the Church charged them to see that the child should be taught.

The choice of sponsors, of course, ordinarily rests upon the parents. And that choice should be carefully and thoughtfully made. It should be the parents' object to choose such persons for this sacred office and duty who will conscientiously attempt to perform it. And, too, the choice should be made and the duty accepted consistently. This point is sometimes overlooked, and sponsors are chosen from considerations of friendship, position, policy, or mere fancy or convenience. There are some things which disqualify persons from accepting this duty. Conscientious parents should not ask, and certainly no conscientious minister should accept persons who are thus disqualified. There may be no explicit requirements mentioned in the rubrics, but the laws of common sense and consistency clearly enough indicate what a sponsor should be.

THE PARISH CHURCH.

Is there any spot on earth around which such tender associations are entwined as a Parish Church? It is the spiritual home of all the neighborhood. It is intended for all of God's children living in a certain district, whether they be rich or poor, old or young. It should be worthy of its purpose. As it is God's house it should be larger, finer and more beautiful than any other house. It should be built in such a way that no one would mistake it for any other house. It should be arranged solely to carry out its sacred purposes. Its every part should teach some religious truth. It should solemnize every one who enters it. It should not be built like a theatre, as a place primarily to see or be seen in, but a place for worship. Its long-drawn aisle, its aspiring arches, its lofty roof, its symbolism, its air of solemnity and mystery, should compel the soul to worship. Not the organ or the pulpit should be the most prominent object, but the altar, with its ornaments of cross and candles, telling of the blessed sacrifice of the Saviour for the sins of all mankind, and of how He in His divine and human natures is the only true light of the world.

How does every part of such a building teach! The space before the altar for the white-robed ministrants of divine worship; the organ to inspire the strains of heavenly music, with its tender pathetic notes or glorious trumpet peals, touching every sensibility of human hearts; the Lectern on one side, holding aloft the inspired volume of God's word; the pulpit on the other for its exposition and for exhortation and teaching; the font near the door, telling of the need of cleansing and new birth in order to enter God's kingdom; and without in the lofty spire the bells joyously proclaiming throughout the neighborhood the privilege of worship in God's house, compelling the most thoughtless and indifferent to hear the call, or singing in tones loud enough to be heard within the houses, the Church's sweet hymns and carols.

How vivid are the impressions produced and lessons learned from such a building. If we have especially gone to one church through all our life, how dear does it become to us! The font where we were baptized as babes; the altar rail where we knelt to receive confirmation and our first communion and have made many communions since, some in times of joy and some in sorrow, or in great perplexity or trial; that sacred spot just before the altar where we stood when we plighted our troth to that dear one with whom our subsequent life was to be bound up, and where, perhaps, the sacred form of sainted parent or precious child rested for the last time on its earthly pilgrimage, to receive the final blessing of its Mother Church. There, too, is the seat where we were brought as children and our minds first began to drink in a sense of the reality of eternal things; and the pictures in the windows, the memorials on the walls, the carvings of capitals and corbels, the very lines of the architecture, how our eye has drunk them all in, how familiar have they all become to us, and how dear and sacred.

Is there any other spot on earth with which such memories and such associations could be connected, which could be so hallowed? And it is not the luxury of the rich man. It should be the home of all God's children. The Church performs her offices for all alike. She baptizes, confirms, communicates, marries and buries all with the same words and in the same way. So, the Church should be dear to all alike. And if this is so, what interest should each one take in his Church. How careful to claim and exercise his privileges in it! He who does not care for the Church is like one who does not care for his home. And should not one do for it just what one would do for one's home? Make it just as beautiful as we can, add every adornment we can afford, see that it stands in no danger from debt, provide for its permanence, that it may not be injured or destroyed by shifting of the population or changes of time, but go on witnessing for God, and blessing generations to come as it has those in the past.

We know of no building which can be of more use to a community, bring more blessings and joy into individual lives and is more worthy of the love and labors and benefactions of those who attend it, than is a Parish Church.

PARISH NOTES.

CONFIRMATION.—The Bishop of the Diocese has appointed the evening of Wednesday, March 30th, to administer confirmation in this Parish. We mention it now, that all adults in the Parish who have not yet been confirmed may look forward to receiving it at that time. There will be, as usual, two classes of preparation, one will meet on Tuesday afternoons at 4 o'clock, beginning with Shrove Tuesday, and the other on Friday evenings at 8 o'clock, beginning with February 25th. All desiring to be confirmed are expected to attend one of these classes. Give your names at once to the Clergy.

PARISH BOUNDARIES.—At the last meeting of the Southwest Convocation, the following boundaries were assigned to the Church of the Ascension for its missionary work: From Lombard street to Washington avenue, and from Broad street to Sixteenth street. The Rector hopes to have every house in this district visited, so as to ascertain where the people go to Church, and if they go nowhere, to try and bring them to the Ascension. The idea of having these definite districts is that the whole city may be thus thoroughly canvassed, and every family brought under Church influences.

MISSIONARY OFFERINGS.—The special envelope sent out last quarter was for Diocesan Missions. Our Parish is expected to give $90 for the Convocation Fund, and $10 for the Sustentation Fund, making $130 in all Not a tenth of this has yet been received. Will not each member of the Parish see that his envelope for these purposes is returned, and make his offering large enough to secure this sum, else it must come out of our general funds and increase our debt?

The special envelope this quarter is for General Missions, and goes through the Board of Missions, to carry on the work of the Church in the foreign and domestic fields. Every one ought to contribute to this, as well as the work in our own diocese.

MISSIONARY BOX.—The following acknowledgment has been received. Our ladies will be interested in hearing how their efforts have been appreciated.

DEAR MRS. GILPIN:—The box arrived on New Year's day. It was opened, and I can assure you met the admiring appreciation of four girls, who could not decide which was prettiest, which was nicest. Olivia, the youngest, has the dolly and dishes; Maria, the little set of furniture, and they and their dollies lost no time going to housekeeping. I think you may congratulate yourselves on having been most successful in your missionary effort. The two older girls were sorely in need of dresses, and we took the two green plaids, ripped, brushed, damped and pressed them, and now the girls say "We have just what we wanted," and they are very much elated with the kid gloves.

Dear Mrs. Gilpin, please convey to the ladies of your congregation our sincere and loving appreciation of their bountiful and loving gifts, and we pray the new year may bring you all prosperity and happiness. Thanking you for your kindly interest and for all the trouble you have evidently taken in the collection and packing of the box, and wishing you the comforts and happiness you have been the means of bringing to us, for Christ's sake. Sincerely and truly

Colusa, Cal., Jan. 6, 1898.

MISSIONARY MEETING.—In spite of all the Rector's appeals, he has not succeeded in getting more than a handful of ladies to attend the missionary meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary, on the first Friday of each month, after morning prayers.

The ladies have talked over among themselves the reason why others do not attend, and they can only conclude that it is from the fear of being asked to give money. To obviate this, it was resolved at the last meeting that each one attending should be expected to give ten cents a month only. This will pay all the incidental expenses of the Auxiliary, and perhaps afford a fund to to answer some of the appeals that come. Surely, every one can give this much without feeling it, and if no more is asked, no one should stay away from fear of having appeals made that she feels she cannot respond to. Do not let us close our eyes and hearts to all knowledge of the wants of our fellow creatures because we cannot do all that we would like for them. It will do us good to know about them, even if we cannot always relieve them. We still hope to see our ladies come in good numbers to these meetings.

ENTERTAINMENTS.—S. John's Guild will have an exhibition of their sports on February 7th, and S. John's and S. Mary's Guild will have a joint sociable on February 21st. The members of S. Mary's Guild are preparing a play for the occasion, and the singing society will provide some music.

LENTEN WORK.—During Lent the members of the Ladies Aid, which meets on Thursday afternoons at 3 o'clock, expect, as usual, to sew for some charitable object, and invites any of the ladies in the congregation, who are disposed to do so, to join with them. The members of S. Mary's Guild expect also to assist.

OLD CLOTHES.—Will not the members of the congregation who have any old clothes to dispose of send them to the Church? We can use clothes of any description, even cast off shoes.

We particularly need boys' clothing. There are several boys in the parish who cannot attend Sunday School because they have not the clothes, and we want to fit them up.

MEMORIALS.—We are sorry not to have had any additions made to the Church this Winter in the way of adornment. Is there no one in the congregation who would like to put up some memorial to a lost loved one? We have still three windows in the chancel to be filled with handsome glass, and there are a great many yet in the clerestory. The latter are comparatively inexpensive. But above all, we need a handsome altar. The one we have is utterly unworthy of the Church. We have long hoped to see it superseded by one of stone, with sculptured reredos.

Quiet Day and Conference.

A Quiet Day for Churchwomen, to be conducted by the Rev. Richard H. Nelson, Rector of S. Peter's Church, will be held in the Memorial Church of the Advocate, Diamond and Eighteenth streets, on Thursday, March 3, 1898. The Walnut Street cars marked North Nineteenth Street, pass within a block of the Church. Services, beginning with the Holy Communion, at 10.30 A.M. and at 3 P.M. The offerings of the day will be devoted to the united offering of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Board of Missions.

The Conference of Churchwomen will be held in Holy Trinity Parish House, Twentieth Street below Walnut, on Friday, March 4th, at 10.30 A. M. and at 3 P.M. Papers will be read, and discussion invited on the topics, "The Right Use of Money." "What is a Churchwoman's Duty to Her Country?" "How May We Amuse Ourselves?" "What Can Busy Women do for Missions?" Mrs. Twing will give an account of the London Churchwomen's Conference last Summer.

Lent.

The season of Lent is a time when sinners are called to repentance, backsliders urged to faithful endeavour, and the children of God are refreshed by the outpouring of spiritual grace. We deny the desires of the flesh that the spirit may all the more be satisfied with food from on high. We still the noises of the world that the voice of God may be heard all the more clearly. We tread the "Courts of the Lord" where alone can be found "the peace of God that passeth all understanding."

—Montreal Advent Messenger.

Some Suggestions for Lent.

1. Let your observance of Lent be sincere and real

2. Arrange to go to the daily services as often as possible.

3. Add to your usual prayers and Bible reading some book of spiritual instruction.

4. Come oftener to the Holy Communion and be more careful in your preparation.

5. Overcome one bad habit and acquire one more virtue this Lent.

6. Some reasonable act of self-denial may help you much.

LENT.

The season of Lent is again upon us. How are we going to keep it? The purpose of Lent is for the quickening and developing of our spiritual life. We all need it. We are all apt to fall behind, to become careless and forgetful, even if we do not fall into grievous sin. Lent comes to awaken us, to remind us more forcibly than the ordinary routine of our services can of the duties and obligations of our Christian calling. It helps us to begin anew, make a fresh and more earnest start.

This is the purpose of all our Lenten discipline. Fasting, prayer and church going are not meritorious in themselves apart from the object for which they are intended. But they are most useful as aids to the cultivation of the spiritual life.

Thus it is wise to fast, to abstain in the first place from amusements and pleasures, which at other times may be perfectly innocent, in order that we may for a time be undistracted in our attention to our religious duties.

Secondly, as a self-discipline, to abstain from certain things to eat, or that we especially like, in order to gain the control of all our own tastes and appetites, so as to be in the habit of holding all our fleshly impulses in check, that we may be the masters of our bodies, not they of us.

So, with prayer and church attendance. These are things we should perform at all seasons, but special prayer and more frequent church going for a time will increase our love, and the habit of doing them at all times, and be a replenishing and strengthening of our spiritual life. And if we make this season a time for special intercessions for others, whom we know need our prayers, who can tell what blessings we may not be able to draw down upon them?

Then, again, Lent is a time for the special performance of good works, for special alms giving. If we are abstaining from amusements and personal indulgences, let us take what we save in that way and give it to some religious or benevolent object. We know how much need there is. The Church cannot begin to get the means it requires to carry on its work, either at home or abroad, and all our benevolent societies and institutions are crying out for funds to sustain or enlarge their work. There is no end to the calls of the regularly established and recognized agencies of religion and charity, which we know are doing a necessary and good work, for help.

And then there are a great many personal calls and opportunities which we all have for doing good. How are we responding to them? Are we spending all we have on ourselves or are we doing the better, nobler work, and that which will make us more truly happy, of ministering to and relieving the wants of the needy, both physically and spiritually? Let us see that we make some sacrifices to do so, at least in Lent.

Or, if we have no money to give, or in addition to what we can give, is there no personal service, no good work in the Church or in the world we can render to our fellow men? Our home circles, our neighborhood, our societies, our churches afford ample spheres for such actions. Let each lay out for himself some good work to do during Lent.

The Church does not lay down a hard and fast rule for every one to observe during Lent. She simply "requires such abstinence as is more especially suited to extraordinary acts and exercises of devotion." What would be suitable for one might not be suitable for another. Let each lay down a rule for himself, and adhere to it strictly throughout Lent, always having the great spiritual purpose in view of developing and strengthening, our spiritual characters, becoming the better, nobler men and women. So shall we keep a good Lent to our soul's health.

The Easter Offering.

We speak now of our Easter offering, because we want our people to keep it in view and realize the necessity of making it a large one.

We want those who are new to the Parish to understand that we always rely on our Easter offering to make up for the small offerings during the Summer months and on rainy days and other occasions, when we may happen to have small congregations and our offerings are correspondingly small. And we want all our people to know that there is special reason why the Easter offering this year should be a large one. We are over $500 worse off this year than we were at the same time last year. This is because last year we made special efforts to get rid of our floating debt. Many of our people took the little collection albums called "Gleaners." These alone brought in over $500. We have been doing nothing of the kind this year, though the Rector still has these albums, which he will gladly give to any who will apply for them. A few are still out which have not been returned. Let these be filled up and others taken, and let all resolve to make a large, handsome offering at Easter. We ought to have at least $1,500 to meet our expenses and pay off some of the notes the Church has been obliged to give for money it had to borrow. Can we not do it? If every one in the congregation, and all who attend our Church from time to time and enjoy its services, will give liberally, it certainly can be done.

PARISH NOTES.

CONFIRMATION. — The annual Confirmation in the Parish will take place on the evening of March 30th. Preparatory instructions are given every Tuesday at 4 P.M., and Friday at 8 P.M., and all looking forward to confirmation are expected to attend one of these classes, and to give their names at once to the clergy. The step is too important to leave preparation for it to the last moment.

HOLY WEEK.—As the next issue of this paper will not come out before Good Friday, we mention now that our Holy Week services will be as in other years. Holy Communion daily at 7.30 and 10 A.M., except Good Friday, when there will be Morning Prayer and Litany at 11 A.M., followed by the preaching of the Cross from 12 to 3 P.M. There will also be a special service for the children of the parish at 9 A.M. Evening Prayer daily at 5 P.M., and Sermon on the Passion daily at 8 P.M.

On Easter day there will be the usual Celebrations at 6.30, 7.30, 8.30 A.M., in addition to that at mid-day.

SPECIAL SERMONS.—The Rector has been asked to preach this Lent at S. Elizabeth's and S. Paul's Churches, in this city, and at West Chester, Bala, Lansdowne and Ridley Park. He will ask the Rectors of some of these churches to lecture for him in return at the 5 P.M. service on Fridays. The Rector of S. Peter's Church, the Rev. Richard H. Nelson, will also preach for us on the morning of March 20th. The sermon in the course on social subjects on the last Sunday evening of the month will be delivered on March 27th, on "Inequalities."

THE MOTHERS' MEETING.—The ladies in charge of the Mothers' Meeting desire to acknowledge the receipt from Strawbridge & Clothier of a piece of unbleached canton flannel for their work; also 2 doz. flannel underwear, 1 doz. black stockings, 6 pairs woolen gloves, 1 pair blankets, 3 suits for boys, 2 jerseys and several bundles of clothes from members of the congregation. They also want to thank those who have contributed to the fund for paying for the work done by the members of the meeting. It is a great assistance to them.

THE PLEASANTON LEGACY.—By the death of Mrs. Augustus Pleasanton, which took place last month, the Church will shortly come into a portion of the legacy left to it by Miss Julia Pleasanton, who died in December, 1896. As a part of the property is in real estate, which will have to be sold, it is impossible as yet to know exactly what it will amount to, but we are informed by one of the executors that he believes it will be in the neighborhood of $15,000, which will be a very nice offset against the $21,000 indebtedness still remaining on our property, the payment of the interest on which has been such a drain upon us.

MISSIONARY MEETING.—A general missionary meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Board of Missions, will be held in our Church on Thursday, March 24th, at 3 P.M. Addresses will be delivered by a number of distinguished clergymen. We hope the ladies of our congregation will manifest their interest by a good attendance.

As the Annual Conference of Churchwomen of the Diocese takes place in the Parish Building of the Church of the Holy Trinity on the first Friday of this month, our usual parochial missionary meeting will be postponed to the second Friday after the 10 A.M. prayers.

THE LADIES' AID SOCIETY have decided to work this Lent for the Home for Incurables, and will be glad to have any of the ladies of the congregation join them. They meet every Thursday in the Parish building at 3 P.M.

THE MID-WINTER SPORTS held by S. John's Guild, Monday evening, February 7th, eclipsed all previous endeavors in that line. The events were run off in a quick, concise manner.

The tug of war contest, S. Peter's vs. S. John's Guilds, proved a very exciting contest, S. John's winning both heats. The defeated contestants took it good naturedly and did not behave in the boisterous, manner so common to the visiting teams of former sports.

Mr. Harvey Hindermyer, having secured the most points out of the various events, will have his name engraved on the Spencer Ervin Memorial Cup.

We heartily thank the Committee for their earnest efforts also Mr. Conger and all others giving exhibitions.

THE MINSTREL ENTERTAINMENT given by the Dramatic Club, Friday evening, February 18th, owing to the short space of time allowed for preparation, was not quite up to the standard of which the Club is capable.

On the whole, however, it was very creditable considering the various difficulties the boys were laboring under.

Financially it was a complete success, and as that was the chief consideration, we should all feel satisfied.

THE SOCIAL GATHERING of S. Mary and S. John's Guilds on the evening of the 21st, afforded a most delightful evening to all present.

A farce presented by the young ladies of S. Mary's Guild, entitled "Womans' Rights," was very amusing, and showed in a surprising manner the histrionic ability of the participants. The young men have had this field almost entirely, and we are glad to see the young ladies asserting their "Womans' Rights" in this respect. Messrs. Hindermyer, Dunn, Shelton, Marshall and M. Carrick contributed some very amusing selections, after which refreshments were served and some dancing indulged in.

THE SOUTH WEST CONVOCATION has elected our Rector as Presiding Officer to succeed Bishop McVickar. This will entail some additional work upon him, but he hopes to be able to do something to extend the missionary work of the Convocation.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—The following subscriptions have been received since our last issue:

Mr. C. L. S. Tingley, Miss Rousseau,
Mrs. Chas. L. Leiper, Miss Barrington,
Mrs. Chas. J. String, Miss Zantzinger,
Mrs. J. M. Wirgman, Mrs. Larzelere,
Mr. John H. Mason.

Kindly Words.

"He is kind to the unthankful, and to the evil." S. Luke vi. 35.

Do you know there is some one waiting
For that kindly word of yours;
A heart that is sore with its aching
Sad burden of sorrow's hours?

Do you know a voice that is crying
For love, both tender and true;
Of Faith, in a heart that is dying
For a word of love from you?

Speak! One word to the heart now breaking,
That Brother of yours and mine;
Oh, trust me—fresh hope will be waking,
New light in those eyes will shine.

Wait not for the morrow that's coming
To-morrow will never be;
To-day is the time for our doing,
The time for you and for me.

Speak now, for the day is fast waning
And darkness will come apace;
If a soul you would now be gaining,
Speak the love that's in your face.

Help, help for a life that is broken,
A word that is clear and true;
The "kindly word" just now, if spoken,
A blessing will bring to you.

'Twill banish despair and its blindness,
From a faint and weary one;
One word that is full of God's kindness,
And a life work you have done.

THE SIGN OF THE CROSS.

Every army has its banner, every country its flag. The standard of the Christian Church is the Sign of the Cross.

In the days before Christ the cross was the sign of the greatest opprobrium. It was what the gallows is to us, that on which the lowest and most depraved criminal was executed. But the fact that the all holy and spotless Lamb of God suffered death upon it—a voluntary death, by which great act of self-sacrifice He would take away the sins of the world—has changed all human thought and feeling about the Cross. The Jew still speaks of Christ in contempt, as "He who was crucified;" but all the rest of the civilized world honors and adores Him who so humbled and devoted Himself to death for love of man. And that which was the instrument of His death has become the very sign and synonym of love and sacrifice and power.

From the very earliest times, Christians looked upon it so. They marked it on their altars and their tombs and used it on their persons. It was the sign and password of their faith; that by which they recognized one another, and in time, by which they came to be known by their enemies. It was the sign which appeared to Constantine in his vision, and gave him the clue by which he learned how to conquer the world. And from his time on, it was set up over and in every Church in Christendom; marked on every one admitted to the Church in Baptism or receiving any sacrament; it was set up along the roadsides, placed over every grave, or where prayer was to be said or any holy office performed; it was carved or painted on every vessel or utensil or piece of furniture used for sacred purposes; embroidered on all vestments and linen for the Church's service; it was carried in processions, emblazoned on banners, hung round the necks of prelates, sewed on the habits of monks and nuns or crusaders or of any one engaged in the service of Christ. Christians used it as a sign on the person in saying their prayers or at any solemn part of the Church services; in getting up, in going to bed, before their meals or in any moment of danger or temptation. The bishops and the clergy used it as means by which, as they rode or walked along, they might scatter benedictions over those whom they met or who saluted them by the way. It was the one universal sign and symbol of the Christian faith, and the application of that faith to all acts and incidents of life.

And there was nothing necessarily superstitious in all this. The Christian Church, like every other association of men, required its outward insignia to teach its truths and witness to its principles. Doubtless, ignorant and bad men may have come to use the Sign of the Cross superstitiously, to think that it alone would bless or protect them without any corresponding acts or intentions in their hearts or lives. Hypocrites may have tried to shield themselves and dissemble by its use. But what good or needed thing is there which has not or cannot be abused or misused? Because this sign has been so abused, is that any reason why its use should be altogther given up, and the Church left without any sign or standard to teach and symbolize its faith? And if it is to have any, what better, more effective sign could possibly be chosen? It is the very epitome of the Christian religion, expresses its most fundamental principles, sets forth its greatest power. What should the Christian Church so hold up before the world as that which the Scriptures tell us should be the burden of all Christian teaching—Christ crucified? What should be so ever kept before the eyes of all Christians as that of which our Lord said: "If any man will come after Me, let him take up his Cross daily and follow Me."

And yet, at the Reformation, because some had used it foolishly, this, with so much else which belonged to the historic Church, was swept away and entirely given up by all Protestants, except some Lutherans. And from that day to this it has been a point of conscience with them not to use it in any way. They seem to regard it with actual horror and detestation.

But the position of the Church of England in regard to it was very different. Her Reformation sought to retain all that was good and useful in the old Church. Her prayer book directed that "all the ornaments of the Church and of the ministers thereof should be retained and be in use." It ordered that every one baptized should be marked with the Sign of the Cross, though our prayer book wisely does not force its use on any objecting to it, though it says it "knoweth no worthy cause of scruple concerning the same." And if it can be used then it can be used at other times. It is the natural standard of the Church, that which teaches most forcibly the essentials of the faith, by which she marks and seals all that belongs to her, and by which Christians may well remind themselves of the solemn teachings and obligations of their religion.

The true position which Christians ought to assume in regard to this and similar things, and the way in which they should treat those who use or do not use them, is that laid down in a note attached to the first English prayer book, which says: "As touching kneeling, crossing, holding up of hands, knocking upon the breast and other gestures they may be used or left, as every man's devotion serveth, without blame." Let no one find fault with those who use them or those who do not. Let each do what he finds most edifying for himself.

PARISH NOTES.

Resignation of Choir Master. Mr. Frederick B. Neilson, who has been our organist and choir master since May, 1891, has resigned, his resignation to take effect the end of this month. Mr. Neilson finds that his business makes it impossible for him any longer to give the choir the attention it requires. Our thanks are due to him for the labor and interest he has bestowed upon the choir and for the very good music he has given us.

His place has been supplied by the appointment of Mr. Howard R. O'Daniel, who was formerly our sub-organist, and who has for the last five years been organist, and for the last three years organist and choir master of S. Andrew's Church, West Philadelphia. He will enter on his duties May 1st.

Easter Music.—The choir will sing again at Easter the S. Cecilia Mass. It is the most beautiful service we have, and Mr. Neilson is anxious to have it on the last occasion of his acting as choir master. The Halleluia chorus will be sung at the 4 P. M. service. The same music will, of course, be repeated on Low Sunday.

Altar Fund.—This fund provides all the flowers, candles and other decorations of the altar, and pays for the washing of the linen of the altar, clergy and choir. It is made up by a number of the ladies of the congregation contributing each a small weekly sum. More contributions, however, are needed, as the fund is not sufficiently large. The treasurer, Miss Parmelee, would be very glad to receive additional subscriptions. Those who do not care to contribute to it regularly can put their offerings in the alms-box in the vestibule of the Church, marked for "Flowers" during Holy or Easter week.

Easter Offering.—Again we remind the congregation of the necessity of a large Easter offering. We need at least $1,500 to meet our expenses for the year. This can only be obtained by every member of the congregation and every one attending the Church making a large and generous gift. A free Church cannot be successfully carried on unless every attendant gives regularly and conscientiously according to his means. We must meet our regular expenses and have no more deficits. Put your offering in the envelope, marked "Easter Offering."

Gift.—A member of our congregation who intended to leave the Church $500 in her will, recently made it a present of that amount on conditions that the Church would pay her $25 a year so long as she lives. This secures this amount to the Church, and enables it to make that payment on the debt, and at the same time secures the donor a sure investment of her money and at a larger interest than she might otherwise have been able to obtain. Perhaps there are others who would do the same thing. We noticed recently that a gentleman in New York made a very large gift to Columbia University on similar conditions.

Confirmation.—On the evening of March 30th the Bishop administered Confirmation in our Parish to a class of twenty, ten males and ten females. With one exception, they were all just at the age when Confirmation should be received, that is, in early youth, when one begins to act for and govern oneself. If all were confirmed then, we would not see that common sight of grown men and women unconfirmed and living in neglect of the sacraments of the Church.

Easter Day.—Celebrations at 6.30, 7.30, 8.30 and 11.30 A. M. Let every one make his Communion at one of the earlier services. Make your special Easter offering then, and put what you give every Sunday in the plate at the mid-day or afternoon or evening services.

Missionary Meeting.—We had quite a nice missionary meeting in the Church on the afternoon of March 24th, in spite of its being a very rainy day. Addresses were delivered by the Bishop of Spokane, Archdeacons Page, of Japan, and Russell, of Virginia, and by Mr. Herbert Welsh.

Special Sermons.—The Rev. Mr. McGarvey, Rector of S. Elizabeth's Church, will preach for us on the morning of the second Sunday after Easter, and in the evening the Rector will preach in the course on "Social Subjects," the topic being "Amusements."

THE INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL FESTIVAL will take place as usual on the Saturday after Easter. Will not the members of the congregation who have not yet returned the envelopes marked for "The Schools," which were sent to them last May, do so at once, as the Rector depends on the amount so received to provide this festival? Very little came in this year for the purpose. Look over your envelopes, and you will find the right one, or you can get one in the rack for envelopes in the Church. See that those poor children have their festival.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH. — 12 gymnasium suits and 12 pairs of shoes for members of S. John's Guild, 3 brushes and 2 combs for the choir room, 14 oak frames for Stations of the Cross, material for cassock for server.

English Denominations.

Of the 110,600,000 English-speaking people in the world, Mr. Waller said, there are only about 20,000,000 without any avowed religious belief.

The remaining millions, he said, are divided among the adherents of the various religious beliefs, as follows: Episcopalians, 29,000,000; Methodists, 18,000,000; Roman Catholics, 16,000,000; Presbyterians, 12,000,000; Baptists, 10,000,000; Congregationalists, 5,000,000; Lutherans, 2,000,000, and Unitarians and Universalists, nearly 2,000,000. — Times, Washington, D. C., January 17th.

The Three Hours' Service on Good Friday.

The service from noon until 3 o'clock on Good Friday is a most touching tribute from redeemed man to the Suffering Saviour. As we walk with Him step by step during the last week, so we assemble during the hours of His Agony on the Cross and "watch with Him," while He bears our iniquities. The order of exercises is of the very simplest, consisting of hymns and addresses, with spaces for silent prayer and meditation.

Do not fail to come, you for whom Christ died!

Easter Communion.

"If faithful men can be rallied to any one service in the year more than to another, it is to the Holy Communion on Easter. The heart that does not thus respond to Good Friday is not likely to respond to anything that the Church on earth knows anything about."

"Divine and human love combine at Easter to draw men to the feast. What memories of our dear Lord come to us in that glorious hour? How dear our beloved ones, once close by our side in the flesh, now with the saints that rest and wait."

Easter Offerings.

In many Parishes hundreds and even thousands of dollars are laid on God's altar on Easter day. This custom of special Easter offerings is a recognized feature of our Church life wherever Easter is duly observed. It shows our appreciation of Easter joys and privileges, since what a man value that he is willing to pay for. It shows also that Lent has taught us to love God, and to deny self for His sake.

THE EPIPHANY AND S. LUKE'S.

Most of our readers, we suppose, have heard that the Church of the Epiphany is to unite with S. Luke's Church, forming one corporation, and using, for the present at least, the existing Church on Thirteenth Street below Spruce. This may prove a great detriment to the Church of the Ascension. For, while it is true that there is already a Church in that location, still, S. Luke's Church as it is, and S. Luke's Church plus the Epiphany, with an enlarged congregation and $600,000 in cash, which will provide a new and attractive Church and a large staff of clergy, with the best preaching talent and the finest music and a well appointed parish house and everything else to make a Church powerful and attractive, will be a very different thing. And undoubtedly, people living in this part of the city will be attracted there rather than to a smaller and less well-appointed Church at Broad and South Streets.

Though our Rector and Vestry are thoroughly aware of this, they have not availed themselves of the right given them by the canons of the Church, and of which they were duly notified, to appear before the Bishop and Standing Committee, his council of advice, and protest against this combination. They did not do so, first, because they felt sure it would be of no use, that the ecclesiastical authorities had already committed themselves to the plan, and that consent to it would be given in any event, and, secondly, because it was argued with a good deal of force that S. Luke's being already an established parish, we could no more object to its becoming rich in this way than we could if an individual gave or left it money.

Then, again, it was felt that though this combination will be a disadvantage to our Church, still, nevertheless, it has certain advantages which S. Luke's and the Epiphany will not possess:

First, it is a free church, and S. Luke's, in spite of its great endowment, will continue to rent its pews, and so, like all pewed Churches, it will not be a church for the people, but only for a select number of persons who are able and willing to pay large pew rents. And so we shall still have the advantage of offering open doors and a free entrance to all. And it will certainly be a good demonstration of the superiority of the system, if the unendowed free Church can support itself and be better attended than the heavily endowed pew Church in the same neighborhood.

Secondly, our services will be more attractive than those of S. Luke's. Doubtless, some improvements may be made in the services there, but they will hardly come up to our standard, so that persons who would come to the Ascension would not be satisfied to go there. Those, for instance, who believe that the Holy Communion is the great, distinctive and most precious rite of Christian worship, with which every Sunday and Holy Day should be hallowed, will not be content to go to a Church where it is celebrated only once or twice a month.

Thirdly, the Ascension offers to those who want definite Church teaching, thorough belief in the Catholic faith as it has always been held, "a certain faith" by which one can live and guide his life, and give him hope in his death, rather than the uncertain, indefinite vagaries of modern speculation.

Fourthly, we have an advantage in being on such a prominent thoroughfare as Broad Street, rather than on so quiet and obscure a street as Thirteenth Street. And if we could only get the funds to complete our church building so as to add to its prominence, it might be made much more attractive than it is.

Fifthly, we have the possibility of Broad Street improving between South Street and Washington Avenue, which is our natural parish, an improvement which we feel must come in time, and when it does come, it may bring as many people and as much wealth to our church as to any in the city.

These considerations make us hope that we shall be able to hold our own in spite of the big combination which is being formed so close beside us. But in addition, we think all the energies of our people should be bent towards the accumulation of an endowment fund for our parish, which is the only way to make a Church, especially one that is free, safe from the vicissitudes that may come to it. When the Pleasanton legacy is paid, which we hope will be before long, our Church will be practically free from debt. That is, the amount of indebtedness remaining against it will be covered by the amount of the Johnson fund, the principal of which has to be kept intact. And in addition, we shall have another $10,000 coming to us from the Pleasanton bequest at the expiration of a life interest, which can serve as the basis of an endowment. But we should have at least from $50,000 to $100,000 as an endowment, and we hope our people will see that that is provided, by remembering the Church in their wills, if in no other way.

We think we have done pretty well in having had some $35,000 bequeathed to us during the last five years, and we hope we may do better still in the future.

Let all our people be interested in and do all they can for their Church, and there will be room enough, both for S. Luke's and the Epiphany and ourselves in this neighborhood.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—One oak pew for side aisle, large arm chair, fine alb with lace edged sleeves for Rector, eucharistic white silk stole, embroidered, for Assistant Minister, quantity of cake for Industrial School Festival.

EASTER.—We had a bright Easter and crowded Church. The number of Communicants was nearly 400, the largest number we have ever had on one occasion, and a very good proportion of the 500 we have on our list. The offerings amounted to a little over $900, which though not all we needed, was some $200 more than last year. The children's offering in the afternoon for Missions was $41.70.

PRESENTATION.—After the afternoon service on Low Sunday, the retiring choir master and organist, Mr. F. B. Neilson, was presented by the members of his choir with a massive, three handled silver loving cup, as a testimonial of their affection for him. A presentation speech was made by Mr. Clayton on behalf of the choir, and Mr. Neilson replied, returning his thanks and expressing his regret at parting from the choir, especially from the boys, to whom he is devotedly attached.

SPRING SPORTS.—The members of S. John's Guild will have their Spring Athletic Exhibition in the Parish Building, on the evening of May the 12th. Admission, silver offering at the door.

LENTEN WORK.—The Ladies' Aid made up a very nice box for the Home for Incurables during Lent. It contained 18 sheets, 40 pillow slips, 12 dresses, 12 night dresses, 9 aprons, 3 flannel skirts, 1 chintz skirt, 1 sacque, 1 cape, 7 towels, 5 wash cloths, package of old linen and some reading matter, valued at $43.50. Also 7 infant wrappers and some partly-worn underclothing was sent to the Sheltering Arms, valued at $2. 105 yards of material was contributed by members of the congregation, and $2.50 by S. Mary's Guild, the members of which also made a good number of the garments. A very warm letter of thanks for the box has been received, saying that everything in it beautifully answered the needs of the Home, and that it was seldom that such a contribution was received containing nothing but useful and valuable articles.

THE INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL FESTIVAL took place on the Saturday after Easter. One hundred and twenty-five children were provided for, and seemed much pleased with their ice cream and cake, the fish pond, and the special prizes given to those who had been most regular in their attendance and proficient in their work during the Winter.

THE FEAST OF THE ASCENSION will be observed as usual as our Parish Festival. There will be Celebrations of the Holy Communion at 7.30 and after Morning Prayer at 10.30 A. M.; Evening Prayer at 5 P. M. and Special Evening Service, with Anniversary Sermon by the Rector, at 8 P. M. On the following Sunday evening there will be the usual Guild Service, including the Procession of the Guilds, with a special sermon addressed to them. On Monday evening, May 23d, our annual Parish Tea will take place in the Parish building. We hope to see all our people present, it gives an opportunity for them to come to know each other socially. S. Mary's Guild are preparing a short play for the occasion.

SUMMER ENVELOPES.—At the beginning of this month the Accounting Warden sends out envelopes for the succeeding six months, in order to cover the time so many of our people are out of town. It is hoped that as many as can possibly do so, will fill up and return all the envelopes dated for the weeks they expect to be away, before they go, that the Church may have the means to meet its expenses for the Summer. Two benevolent envelopes are sent out for the two quarters of the year, one for the Poor of the Parish, the other for the Schools. And our people will remember that as we have no special offerings for these purposes, we depend upon what is received through these envelopes for the amounts necessary to carry on the benevolent and educational work of the parish.

FAIR FOR MISSIONS.—Miss Emily Pepper and Miss Alice Smith, two of the young ladies of our congregation, held a fair on April 27th, in the house of the former, in order to make up the $130 which this parish was expected to give for Diocesan Missions this year, a part only of the sum having been contributed through the envelopes. The young ladies interested their friends, and worked hard themselves, each of them made some fifty different articles to sell. The affair proved a great success, realizing $83.75. This was not only enough to make up the $130, but left over $6.10. to be used for the same purpose at the discretion of the Archdeacon.

These young ladies deserve great credit for enabling the congregation to do what ought to have been done through the regular offerings, and they have our hearty thanks.

VESTRY ELECTION.—At the annual election for Vestrymen, held on Easter Monday, the following gentlemen were elected to serve for three years: Samuel Wetherill, J Edward Carpenter, Stevenson H. Walsh, Robert R. Corson, being those whose terms were expiring. The rest of the Vestry remains the same, as do the Wardens and other officers, only some of the committees of the Vestry being rearranged.

WHITSUNDAY, being a day for general Communion, there will be an additional Celebration, as on Easter, at 6.30 A.M.

The United Offering.

It seems incredible that the long three years, between the General Conventions of 1895 and 1898 will soon have passed away. Those of us who left Minneapolis filled with joy and pride, at the mighty sum of over $58,000, the United Offering of the Woman's Auxiliary of the years from 1892 to 1895, felt a pity that any woman should be deprived of the joy, of being a contributor. We now find ourselves asking of each parish, has every one of its women a mite chest to hold her gifts, and to remind her to make them; or if any will not have one, do they remember to send their gifts marked "for the United Offering." Do I hear any one ask, "What is it?" It is the offering made at the Triennial Meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary, and it is called "United," because it is designed that every woman in the Church should unite in it. At Minneapolis, there was no Diocese or Missionary District that did not take part in it. Our Sisters in China and Japan, in far away Alaska, and from Maine to California and Oregon to Florida, were all there with us by their gifts. They were for "the Endowment of a Missionary Jurisdiction." The United Offering to be made in October is for "the training and support of women workers in the mission fields." There are good women ready to go, there is a loud call for them at home and beyond the seas. Shall we not all gladly help in so good a cause?

Ask your Rector for a mite box, or apply to the janitor at the Church House, Twelfth and Walnut streets, for one. And when it is filled, return its contents to the Treasurer of the Woman's Auxiliary of your Parish, or if there is none, to the Diocesan Treasurer, Mrs. George C. Thomas, Southeast corner Twenty-first and Spruce streets.

OUR PARISH YEAR.

The Feast of the Ascension, our Dedication Festival, being the name-day of our Church, occurs very conveniently, generally a little after the first of May, which is the end of our diocesan year. That is the date to which all our parochial and financial statistics are made up. So it is very easy for us to review at this time the working of the parish for the past year, and note what progress we have made. This our Rector always does at the special anniversary service on the evening of Ascension Day. We regret that, doubtless, owing to the bad weather, the congregation at that service was not very large. So there is more reason than usual for our giving the chief points of that review here, that all our people may be made familiar with them.

We print in this number the the regular parochial report for the year as made to the Bishop, so we only point out some things connected with it. The number of baptisms for the year has been larger than in the previous year, and the number confirmed less. This was due to the failure of many adults in the parish, who have not yet been confirmed, to present themselves; the class, with one exception, being composed of very young persons. The number of marriages was just the same and of burials somewhat more. The increase of the communicant list of the parish was fifty-nine, a very good number, but the number of names removed, from death, transfer to other parishes, suspension, or neglect, or having been lost sight of, was fifty-two, making the real increase for the year only seven. This shows how fluctuating our parish is, which is owing largely to its situation in a portion of the city from which removals are constantly being made to the newer parts of the city, and from the number of persons attending the Church who live in boarding houses, and are constantly changing their residences.

The number of deaths among our communicants during the year has been unusually small, only four. One was Mrs. Voigt, long a member of All Saints Church, but recently transferred to our parish. She was much attached to it, and attended its services very regularly as long as her health lasted. The second, Miss Fanny Cox, was one of the few whose names were on the register when the present Rector took charge. She had long been an invalid, and her death had several times been expected. She, though living lately at a great distance, attended the Church as often as her strength permitted. The third, Mrs. Augustus Pleasanton, had also been an invalid for some years and had previously, for a year or two, been absent from the city. But before that, she had been much interested in the Church and taken an active part in its work, especially in the Mothers' Meeting, in which she took an active part. Through her death, the Church comes into a part of the legacy left to it by her daughter, Miss Julia A. Pleasanton, who died a little over a year ago. The fourth, Mrs. Elliott, had been connected with the Church for some years and attended it when her health permitted. She had a long and trying illness, lasting nearly a year, during which the clergy constantly visited her and administered to her the Sacrament. May these each rest in peace and may light perpetual shine upon them.

Our Sunday School has not been as large this year as it was formerly. This has been largely due to changes in the neighborhood, so many foreigners and colored people taking possession of the houses in the vicinity of the Church, driving the white people away. We fear this condition of things is going to increase in the future. Still, if we have plenty of faithful and regular teachers, we are sure a good school can be maintained. Are there not those in the parish who will consecrate themselves to this most benevolent work in the coming year?

Our Industrial School has been well maintained during the past year. It is drawn more from the children in the neighborhood, many of them belonging to other denominations.

The Mothers' Meeting has done a very good work in helping those in the parish who find it difficult to get along, and it deserves the support of the congregation. We hope to see its numbers much increased.

The Parish Guilds have held their own and done useful work. The reports of their operations will be published in detail in the year book. We only wish that there were more in the parish who would take part in them. Why should all the work be thrown on a willing few? We note especially the interest manifested in the Young People's Guilds, and the way in which they are feeders to the Bible Classes. The Parish Chapter of the Brotherhood of S. Andrew has been especially useful this year in taking a religious census of the neighborhood.

To turn to the financial statistics for the year, we note that the total receipts have been about $500 less than those of last year. This was due in part to the fact that a portion of our endowment fund lay for the greater part of the year uninvested, making a difference of some $200 in our receipts from it, and also to the fact of $150 being received from an entertainment the previous year, and also to the special efforts then made to pay off our floating debt, which were not continued this year. We received, however, a special donation of $500, which enabled us to meet that much of our debt; and the general offerings from Sunday to Sunday for the support of the Church have been larger, which is a most hopeful feature.

There has been a slight falling off in the benevolent offerings of the Church. Our people must remember that in every Church they are expected to give to these purposes in addition to what they give for the support of the Church. They are works which every Church must carry on, and we trust our people will see that the means for them are furnished.

On the whole, we feel that in spite of certain discouragements we have to contend with in this neighborhood, we have not only held our own but made progress, which makes us hopeful for the future, and we believe that with an improved neighborhood and better times, and a faithful and devoted congregation we can make still greater progress in the time to come. May God put it into the hearts of all our people to be so devoted and earnest and self-sacrificing on behalf of their parish Church, that it may be strengthened and increased, and do greater and better work still in the future than it has in the past.

PARISH NOTES.

Gifts to the Church. — A walnut extension table, sideboard and bookcase for the Guild room, sixty pounds of small candles for the altar, material for two cassocks and three cottas, twelve dozen palm leaf fans, about fifty pounds of cake and other donations for the Parish Tea, quantity of Church papers.

Our Dedication Festival.—Ascension Day this year proved a very stormy day, which materially affected the attendance at our special services. The Church was very prettily decorated with flowers, and our choir master furnished us with a special choir, numbering over fifty voices. He had also printed a very neat programme of the musical selections, which was distributed in the seats, both on Ascension Day and the Sunday following. The Guild service was well attended by our own parochial Guilds, the sermon being preached by the Rev. Mr. Schulte of S. Peter's Church. The attendance at the Parish Tea was a good deal interfered with, too, by the bad weather and by a great parade which took place on Broad Street that night. Still, some two hundred persons were present who seemed to enjoy the occasion very much. There was abundance of provisions, and the company were entertained first by a play very well rendered by the members of S. Mary's Guild, and afterwards with singing by a male quartette from the choir of S. Andrew's Church, West Philadelphia, Mrs. Spencer Ervin, Mr. Hindermeyer and others.

The Annual Spring Games of S. John's Guild were held on Thursday evening, May 12th, and proved a great success.

The following events were all well contested:

Running Broad Jump—Won by J. Brown.

Sack Race—Won by H. Hindermeyer.

Running High Jump—Won by W. Perry.

Messrs. J. Brown and W. Wilson of S. John's Guild, defeated a relay team representing S. Stephen's Guild.

Mr. Walter Conger gave an interesting bag punching exhibition, followed by mat work and tumbling by Messrs. Shelton, McCracken, Perry and Hindermeyer.

Prizes were awarded the winner of each event by Miss M. Gilpin.

Summer Services.—The usual change in our services takes place with the beginning of this month. The Sunday services remain the same, except that instead of the 4 and 7.45 P.M. services, we will have only one evening service, with the full choir, at 7 P.M. The daily and Wednesday night services stop, prayers being said on Wednesdays and Fridays and Holy days only, at 10 A.M., with Communion on the latter days at 7.30 and 10.30 A.M. One of the clergy can be found at the Church at any of the above services, or during June and September, Mr. Lanpher can be seen at his house, 1310 Ritner Street, and during July and August the Rector can be reached by being addressed Station Z, Philadelphia.

Sunday School Picnic.—It is proposed to have a picnic for the Sunday School some time this month, of which due notice will be given. The Superintendent will be glad to receive donations towards providing this treat for the children. It may be the only outing some of them may have during the Summer. The sessions of the school will be discontinued during July and August.

TABLETS FOR THE OUTSIDE OF THE CHURCH.—A lady of the congregation who has been struck with the shabby appearance of the wooden notice boards on the exterior of the Church, has offered to replace them with brass ones, which will be a great improvement. They will be put up some time during the Summer. The Vestry have also directed the main door of the Church and the brick work around it to be repainted. There are other improvements we should like to see made, if there are any who would be willing to undertake them.

THE NEWS.—There will be no issue of this paper during July and August. A goodly number of subscriptions are now due. Please pay up, that our printer may be paid. Subscriptions may be left with the Sexton. The following have been received since our last acknowledgment:

Mrs. Griffith,	Mrs. J. Powell,
Mrs. L. Volmer,	Miss E. C. Hare,
Mrs. M. H. Barrett,	Miss C. W. Hare,

Donations—Mrs. Powell, 50 cents; Mr. J. E. Carpenter, $5.00.

THE REGISTRATION OF COMMUNICANTS.

The last annual Convention of our diocese passed a new canon in regard to the registration of communicants, which it is very important all our lay people should be acquainted with. We therefore print it in full, together with the explanation of it, given by the committee which drafted it.

"Sec. II. And the minister of each parish shall keep a list of the communicants within his cure. He shall enter on the list the names of all persons confirmed in his parish who have received the Holy Communion, or who have been received by letters of transfer from other parishes, or who, being regular communicants in his parish, he finds after diligent inquiry, are not registered anywhere else. And he shall from time to time, and at least annually before the meeting of the Diocesan Convention, remove from such list the names of all persons who have died, or received Holy Orders, or taken letters of transfer to other parishes, or been excommunicated or suspended, or who have formally renounced the communion of the Church, or who in the judgment of the minister have permanently ceased to be communicants of the same; or who, having removed from his parish without notice, after reasonable time and due effort, cannot be traced.

Sec. III. These entries shall, by the minister, or if so ordered by the vestry, by the clerk or registrar of the church, under the direction of the minister, be recorded in a suitable book to be provided by the vestry, which shall be the church register, and shall belong to and remain with the vestry, as a part of the church records.

Sec. IV. No one shall be registered as a communicant in more than one parish at a time. And any one connected with or attending, two or more churches, shall elect the one in which he wishes to be registered and shall so notify the minister thereof.

And whenever in accordance with Title II., Canon XII., Section I, of the Digest of Canons, a communicant of the Church in good and regular standing in any parish removing to another, shall ask of the rector of any parish in this diocese from which said communicant removes, or, in the absence of such rector, of one of the wardens, a certificate of transfer, it shall be the duty of such rector or warden within one month of date of request to furnish such certificate, or assign the reasons for refusal, which shall be subject to the approval of the bishop.

The principles embodied in the canon are that the names entered on a communicant list should be only of those who have become actually communicants, not of all who have been confirmed, as it is a list of those who are communicants, not of those who are entitled to be, that is wanted. And although reception by letters of transfer from other parishes should be the ordinary way, yet it were unwise to prohibit any other names being entered, because in some cases it is simply impossible to obtain such letters, owing to the fact, perhaps, of persons having made many removals without taking letters of transfer, and their being lost sight of in the churches in which they were registered, or having ceased for many years communicating at all, and so having their names removed from all lists. And yet, at the same time, the clergy should be required to make diligent inquiry before entering the names of such persons, lest their names should be retained somewhere else.

As to removing names, it is manifest, of course, that those of all who have died or taken letters of transfer should be removed. As to those who have received Holy Orders, they have ceased to be parishioners of any particular church. It is a list of lay communicants that is wanted. The number of clerical communicants can easily be computed as a separate figure. So as to those who have been excommunicated, or suspended or renounced the communion of the Church, either formally or by joining other religious bodies, it is evident that such persons are no longer to be considered as communicants of this Church.

As to the remaining classes, those who have practically ceased to be communicants or who have been lost sight of by the clergy, the committee think that the names of such should not be retained as communicants when, perhaps, they have lost all religious faith or are living irreligious lives, or at least neglecting all religious duties, or are, perhaps, not even alive. And yet it does not seem wise to lay down any hard and fast requirement as to the time when their names should be removed. Each case must be judged on its own merits, and it must be left to the discretion of the clergy knowing them to decide when it is no longer right to consider the lapsed as communicants, or when all hope of tracing those lost sight of must be abandoned."

We trust our people will remember that this is the law of the Church, and be careful to comply with it. The greatest confusion results from communicants moving about from church to church without maintaining a definite parochial connection. It is impossible for the clergy under such circumstances to know who are members of their parishes, to whom they should try to act as pastors, and it is a great loss to the laity, for they cannot feel the same interest in, or derive the same benefit from a church they only casually attend, as they would if they felt they regularly belonged to one particular church, which they looked upon as their parish home.

PARISH NOTES

THE ARMY.—Our parish has furnished its quota of young men for the army in the late war. The eldest sons of our Rector, our senior Warden, and of Mr. Thomas Robb, one of our Vestrymen, and Mr. F. B. Neilson, our late choirmaster, were each in the First City Troop, until Mr. Edward Carpenter received a commission as Second Lieutenant in the Regular Army and was assigned to duty in the Engineer Corps. The others are now with the Troop in Porto Rico. One of the members of St. John's Guild enlisted in the Navy, and has been serving in the Marine Corps. Another of our young members is in the Third Regiment, in Florida, the regiment of which Mr. William G. Price, the husband of one of our communicants, is Lieut.-Colonel.

THE PLEASANTON LEGACY.—About the middle of last month the Accounting Warden received $2,155 on account of the Pleasanton legacy. This enabled him to pay two notes of the Church, being part of our floating debt, one for $800 and one for $300. The remaining $1,000, by direction of the Vestry, he set aside to be kept as a reserved fund, from which to borrow for the payment of our current expenses when necessary, the same to be returned as soon as may be. For years we have had to borrow each Summer, when our receipts run down, about that amount, in order to carry us through, and it has always been a disagreeable and sometimes a difficult thing to find some one willing to lend that amount simply on the note of the Church. This will obviate that necessity and make it easy to meet our expenses all the year, provided the Vestry is careful to see each year that the amount borrowed from this fund is duly put back when the funds come in.

The remainder of the Pleasanton legacy will be used, when paid, first to extinguish the rest of the floating debt, some $250, and then towards the payment of the mortgage on the property, as far as it will go.

THE CHOIR.—Our new organist is making progress in the organization of his choir. Owing to the fact that all the principal boys of the old choir "struck", soon after Mr. O'Daniel took charge, he has had practically to train an entirely new choir. This is, of course, a long process and it will be some time before fully satisfactory results can be obtained. But we have no doubt but that they will be accomplished. The chief men's voices of the old choir, Mr. Paul and Mr. Clayton, have retired, and Mr. Thorn and Mr. Van Leer have taken their places.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL AND YOUNG MEN'S BIBLE CLASS recommence with this month, as well as the children's service at 2.30 P.M. We trust all the teachers in or near the city will be on hand to take up their classes. The Sunday School cannot be reorganized until the teachers return.

The Sunday School picnic in June to the National Park was enjoyed by the children and their friends who got off, though its arrangements were a good deal interfered with by the absence of the Superintendent, whose mother died just the day before.

SUMMER OUTING.—A lady attending our Church engaged two rooms at Atlantic City for the three months this Summer, and has been sending there for two weeks at a time different members of our Mothers' Meeting with some of their children. The privilege has been highly enjoyed and of great benefit. The general health of the congregation has been very good this Summer, in spite of the unusual heat.

THE NEWS.—The following subscriptions have been received since our last acknowledgment:

Mrs. J. Jackson Miss Annie O'Harra

Donation—M. L. W., $1.00.

Rules for Services.

1. Always be in Church when the services begin. Be there, indeed, some few minutes before the choir and clergy enter. How can any one plunge into the midst of a service—every part of which has its own place and meaning—without prayer and preparation? Do we not need to "confess our sins unto Almighty God," and to hear "the words and sentence of absolution?" It can only be under the stress of very peculiar circumstances that persons must be occasionally late for a service in the Church. If, however, lateness once in a while is necessary, remember, on arriving at Church, never to walk up the aisles during prayer. Nothing is more disturbing than to have people come to a pew, and try to obtain a seat whilst others are kneeling down. Yet this thing is often done. On entering the Church, therefore, if the people are kneeling down, one should go into the first pew near the door that is not full and kneel until the prayers are ended, and then go forward to one's accustomed seat. It is all wrong to come up the aisle when the confession or absolution is being said.

2. If any one comes to a pew, let those who are there move in to the end of the seat, leaving plenty of room at the door. To "use hospitality, not grudgingly or of necessity," is a good rule here. It is very noticeable that people move up in the pew an inch or two at a time to make room for others, when there is plenty of room beyond them in the seat. It is like saying: "We do not want you to sit with us, but if we must have you, you shall have as little room and be as uncomfortable as possible." This is no kind of a Christian greeting for one worshipper to extend to another.

3. Speak to those who seem to you to be strangers. The complaint is often made that the Church is cold in its manners. It is, and we may as well admit it. A few cordial words of greeting from an old to a new member of a congregation does go very far towards warming one's heart on coming to a Church for the first time. It is so easy, after service, to turn to a person who has never been seen in Church before, and simply ask the question: "Have you been here before, and are you living in this place?" Then might easily follow an exchange of names, and the opportunity to call. At any rate, there should be some kind of a welcome extended to those who have just come into the parish.

4. The responses in the service. These should be made much more heartily than they are now. Nothing is more inspiring than loud, earnest responses in the Psalter, or an amen that has some strength and force of numbers in it. The amen at the end of each prayer is said by the people, to signify their "yea, verily," of assent to every word of the collect or prayer that has been said. It should not, therefore, be muttered or mumbled under the breath, but spoken clearly and distinctly.

The singing. The same thing applies here. Our singing is not nearly hearty enough. It is asked that the congregation will sing—especially the hymns—as they should. The choir in any Church should be the leading, and not the performing element. No one ought to go to Church to hear a sacred concert. As we join in common prayer, so we ought to join in common praise. This is very important, and ought to be recognized as important. The hymns are simple enough for any one to know who has heard them once or twice, and there should be no difficulty about singing them. If every one sang no one would criticise. It is the passive listener who never enjoys a service, not the active worshipper.

5. In the office of the Holy Communion, when one comes up into the chancel to receive, let it be remembered that the gloves should be removed. In receiving the consecrated bread, hold both hands out, the right hand resting on the palm of the left, and so extended that the bread can securely remain on the palm of the right hand. If, as is so often the case, the hands are held in a slanting position, the bread may easily fall to the ground. One would suppose that this fact would be at once realized, but it is not, and, therefore, demands mention.

Every one should take hold of the foot of the chalice, thus guiding it to the lips. Otherwise, it is impossible for the Priest to know when a person has really received the wine. Veils should be lifted before receiving the chalice; if this is not attended to there is always danger of the veil dropping or dipping into the chalice.

6. Can it not be universally noted and remembered that there are three bodily positions to be taken during our Church service? This is a very simple rule: Kneel to pray! Stand to praise! Sit to listen to the reading of the Holy Scriptures! The very few exceptions to this rule, such as that we stand to listen to the reading of the Gospel in the Communion office, as an act of special reverence to the Gospel, prove the rule to be as given above.

THE SACRAMENTS.

There is nothing connected with the Christian system of more importance and benefit than the Sacraments. All Christians, therefore, ought to be fully instructed in regard to them.

What is a Sacrament? A very full definition of it is given in the Catechism. It is "an outward and visible sign of an inward and spiritual grace given unto us; ordained by Christ himself, as a means whereby we receive the same, and a pledge to assure us thereof." That is, it is a material thing to which, by God's appointment, a spiritual blessing is attached. It is something God uses as a means or channel to convey His grace and help to man, just as a man uses his material body to do what his spirit wants to do. The process is equally mysterious in each case. We do not know how the spirit is connected with or acts upon the body; we see and feel that it does. So, we do not know how God acts through the Sacraments, but we believe He does, because Christ ordained and directed their use, and we perceive that He does, we are conscious of grace and help coming to us through their proper use. They were ordained to correspond to, and act upon, man's dual physical and spiritual nature. As man is composed of body and soul, so the Sacraments, consisting of an outward physical part and an inward spiritual part, are capable of acting upon and blessing man as no mere spiritual or material thing alone could. They are not simply signs, something that affects us as a picture or symbol would, but are "means of grace," something like food or medicine, which ministers to us sustenance or health.

This is what gives them their great importance. Many uninstructed people look upon them simply as signs, expressions of one's faith or goodness. Christ would never have ordained them for that purpose. They are something vastly more, the instruments He uses to unite us to Himself and convey grace and healing from His very person to us. So it is as wrong and foolish for one not to receive them as it would be for one to go without food or medicine if he were hungry or sick. And yet, at the same time, we must remember that the Sacraments are not magical rites which will bless and benefit us by the mere reception of them irrespective of our own disposition. All food does not nourish, all medicines do not cure. The body must be in a proper state to receive food or medicine to be benefited thereby. So, the soul must be in a right state to benefit by the reception of the Sacraments. They are like seed. A seed has that wonderful principle of life within it which will bring forth fruit after its kind if it fall into the right soil and has proper conditions of heat and moisture. So the Sacraments have grace in them, but in order to produce good results in those who receive them they must be received with faith, penitence and sincerity. If these be wanting, they will be of no benefit, but, on the contrary, increase the condemnation of those who presume to receive them unworthily, that is, hypocritically, insincerely, or carelessly.

But to those who come to them with honest and true hearts they will be "most divine and comfortable." No true Christian will despise or neglect them.

THE NUMBER OF THE SACRAMENTS.

The Roman and Greek Churches each reckon the number of the Sacraments as seven. Our own Church teaches in the Catechism that there are "two only, as generally necessary to salvation, that is to say, Baptism and the Supper of the Lord." But in the Articles it speaks of five others "commonly called Sacraments," and in the Homilies, which are authoritative discourses appointed to be read in our Churches, she does not hesitate to speak, for instance, of "the Sacrament of Marriage." While, therefore, she does not deny a Sacramental character to Confirmation, Marriage, etc., she does not put them on the same level as the two which are generally—that is, universally—necessary to salvation. Every one must receive those two, but the others need not be received by all, as Holy Orders or Marriage, or are not of the same importance, as Penance or Confirmation. But they may have the same Sacramental character. In them, an outward and visible sign may be the means of spiritual grace to those who receive them aright. So there need be no real difference between the Latin, Greek and English Churches on this subject, as was conceded by representatives of the English Church at a conference held at Bonn, under the celebrated Dr. Dollenger, in the interests of unity. We can maintain the pre-eminence of the two great Sacraments and yet gladly recognize the Sacramental character in the other rites, and use them accordingly.

We hope from month to month to speak of each of these Sacraments in turn, and explain in full the character and use of each.

PARISH NOTES.

WINTER SERVICES.—We begin with this month, as usual, our full Winter services. The 4 P.M. choral service on Sunday, and the 7.45 P.M. service and sermon, instead of the twilight service at 7 P.M. we have been having during the Summer. The daily prayers at 10 A.M. and 5 P.M. also recommence, and the Wednesday service at 8 P.M.

In accordance with the arrangement with our new choirmaster, the regular choir will be present at the night service as well as in the afternoon. We shall be glad still to have the assistance of the ladies who sang in the night choir, though they cannot occupy the choir stalls, and the choirmaster will be glad to have more volunteer singers. The ladies will sing as heretofore on Wednesday evenings.

THE ARMY.—In mentioning last month the names of those in our parish who served in the late war, we omitted that of Mr. Thomas Thompson, formerly one of our Sunday School teachers. He was in the Third Regiment and came home ill with typhoid fever, being taken to St. Agnes' Hospital. We are happy to say now that he has been discharged, recovered. It is a great source of thankfulness that all the members of our parish who were in the volunteer army have returned home safely.

SPECIAL SERMONS.—The Rector proposes to preach a course of sermons on one Sunday evening of each month during the coming Winter on the Sacraments, thinking that this is a subject on which people need instruction very much. We shall publish, beginning with this number, a short epitome of the sermon to be preached each month, in order that it may reach a greater number of persons than may be able to hear it.

BRASS TABLETS.—The two brass notice tablets, to take the place of the wooden ones, which were promised last Spring, have been completed and put in place. They are a great adornment to the exterior of the Church. The outside doors of the Church and the brick work around the main door have been repainted. A short piece of iron fencing has also been placed between the main fence and the end of the Church to prevent the strip of ground along the side of the Church being made a thoroughfare by the children. This has preserved the grass and added much to the appearance of the Church. We wish the same could be done with the piece of ground at the Southern end of the Church, but that would deprive our young people of the only playground they have. We wish some rich person would purchase some ground which might be had back of the Church and convert it to that purpose.

THE BIBLE CLASSES recommence their sessions the first Sunday of this month. That for girls will be taught this Winter by Mrs. Hodge, in place of Miss Grider, who has removed to Boston.

WOMEN'S GUILD.—We trust the ladies of the congregation will not forget the annual meeting of the Women's Guild, which takes place on SS. Simon and Jude's day. This is a general organization, supposed to include all the female communicants, and other workers in the parish. And the object of the annual meeting is to hear reports of the various departments of work for the past year read, and to arrange the plans for the coming season. The Rector asks all the women of the parish to attend it.

THE SPECIAL ENVELOPES for the present and previous quarters of our Church year were for the poor and the support of our Sunday and Industrial schools. Let our people remember that this is the only way that offerings are collected for these purposes. Our schools could be made much more attractive to our children if more was done for them, and nothing can be done without money. And the only alms for the poor which the Rector has at his disposal are what is received through these envelopes or put into the alms box in the vestibule of the Church.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—Two cottas for the choir and material for a cassock.

BOOKS FOR THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LIBRARY.—If any members of the congregation have children's books, histories, travels or other good reading matter which they can spare we shall be glad to have them for our Sunday School Library.

THE GENERAL CONVENTION.—This is the great representative legislative body of our Church. It is composed of all the Bishops and elected delegates, clerical and lay, from each diocese. It is meeting this month in Washington, D. C. Our people ought to remember it in their prayers, that its deliberations may result in advancing the best interests of the Church and its progress among men. It has some very important questions before it, especially in connection with the extension of the Church in our new possessions of Hawaii, Porto Rico, etc. At its close we shall give our people a short review of what it accomplishes.

THE NEWS.—The following subscriptions have been received since our last acknowledgment:

The Giving of Money to God.

"To those who accept Christ's religion these few things ought to be perfectly plain and clear: 1. We should give "not grudgingly, or of necessity," but freely, out of rejoicing hearts, redeemed by the power of our Saviour's love. 2. We should give as God has prospered us. He that hath much should give plenteously; he that hath little should gladly give of that little. 3. We should give not impulsively alone, but conscientiously, after prayerful thought, and upon some wise and well-considered plan. 4. We should give, remembering that "he that soweth little shall reap little, and he that soweth plenteously shall reap plenteously. 5. The language of our hearts should be, in making our offerings "unto the King Eternal, immortal, invisible," "All things come of Thee, O Lord, and of Thine own do we give Thee."

HOW SHALL WE GIVE?

This has been settled for us, and wisely settled by our mother, the Church. So far as is possible, we should give through the offertory as an act of worship and of praise to Almighty God. As the sweet singer of Israel has taught us, we should give unto the Lord the glory due unto His name; we should bring an offering and so come unto His courts. No worship on the Lord's Day can be really complete unless, as a part thereof, "the deacons, church-wardens, or other fit persons appointed for that purpose, shall receive the alms for the poor and other devotions of the people," to be humbly presented and placed upon the Holy Table. And provision should be made whereby these offerings shall not be confined to the "current expenses" of the parish, but shall be received for any and all other objects of charity designated by the donor, whereby God is honored or man ennobled. How much should we give? This question cannot be answered by the statement of a definite rule. The Jew gave at least one-tenth of his income; frequently much more. Zaccheus gave one-half. The early Christians at times gave all, trusting for the morrow's bread to their Father's care. Circumstances vary. The right proportion for one fails when applied to another. Each individual person must answer for himself, or for herself, the question, How much shall I give? St. Paul's instructions to the Church at Corinth, "Upon the first day of the week, let every one of you lay by him in store, as God hath prospered him," is in all essential particulars the very counterpart of our "weekly offertory;" universal, voluntary, proportionate, systematic, associated with sacred days and duties. If envelopes are used, they must be regarded as merely the scaffolding. Once let a man become imbued with the feeling that he must give according to his means, without regard to the gifts of others, and the use of this or that method becomes indifferent. To what should we give? To all worthy Christian objects, so far as we are able; to objects at home, and objects abroad; to objects within our own parish, and to outside objects also. The field is the world. The Church's commission is "to every creature." Let us, indeed, use discrimination. Let us give to those things which God has brought to our very doors. But let our hearts expand so that we may pray and toil and give for the extension of His kingdom everywhere over the earth."—(Condensed from Parish Paper of the Church of the Saviour.)

HOLY BAPTISM.

This is the initial Sacrament, that which admits us into the Church. No one is a Christian until he is baptized, just as no foreigner can be a citizen of the United States until he is naturalized. It is the rite which our Blessed Lord Himself ordained as the means of admission into His Church. It was one in common use among the Jews and thoroughly understood among them as the method by which proselytes were made members of the Jewish community. So Christ adopted it for the similar purpose of initiation into the new body He was founding, though, of course, giving it far greater significance and efficacy. It consists in the washing with water, either by immersion or pouring, in the name of the Blessed Trinity. While the ordained clergy are the persons who should ordinarily administer it, in case of necessity any one, lay man or woman, may do so. So Baptism, properly administered, no matter by whom, is valid and should never be repeated.

Its purpose is, first, to make us "the children of God." While God is our Creator, we are not naturally His children, for a child has the same nature and characteristics as its parents. But God is holy and we are sinful; our nature is depraved. But in Baptism God overlooks this and takes us for His own children by adoption, as by a formal act any man can adopt a child not naturally his own, and he thereby becomes a member of his family. So all who are baptized are members of God's family.

Secondly, we are made "members of Christ;" that is, we are brought by it into so intimate a relation to Christ that He henceforth regards us as one would regard a member of his body. The company of Christians is spoken of in Scripture as "the body of Christ." United to Him as the members of one body are united together, they derived grace and strength from Him, and He uses them for the performance of His purposes, as one would use the members of his body to do what he wished. So we should look upon Baptism as a great privilege, because it brings us into such relationship to Christ and assures us of His help. And it is of great responsibility, as it entails upon us the duty of acting as the members of Christ should, and doing His works on earth.

Thirdly, as it makes us children of God and members of Christ, we become thereby "heirs of the kingdom of Heaven." A child is the natural heir of its parents, so, as children of God, we are heirs of His kingdom; that is, when we become fitted for it, we shall share the exaltation and blessedness belonging to God.

These are the benefits of Baptism, which impose corresponding obligations upon us, for it is a covenant in which God agrees to give us certain things, provided we do certain things. The promises that we make are, first, that we repent of our sins, that is, turn away from, forsake all that is evil; secondly, that we put our faith and trust in God and seek His help; thirdly, that we keep His Holy Commandments. If we fail to do these things we forfeit the privileges of Baptism, as a citizen would forfeit his claim to citizenship who rebelled against his country, or a child might be disowned who disobeyed and set at defiance his parents. So while Baptism is a great blessing, if received aright, it will not be of benefit to us against our will, if we do not wish to be, or try to be, God's good children.

If Baptism is a covenant and requires the fulfilment of these obligations, it may be asked how it can be administered to infants who are too young to understand or undertake to discharge its requirements? The answer is that just as children can inherit property which requires care, or enjoy the benefits of being the members of a family, so baptized children can profit by membership in God's family and relationship to Christ, though they are not old enough to appreciate it or themselves discharge the duties of that relationship. And just as in the State, guardians are appointed for children to look after them and take care of their property, so in the Church, sponsors or sureties are appointed for every child who is baptized, to look after it and see that it is properly brought up, taught what its Christian duties are and trained to perform them. And there is no reason why these sponsors should not answer for the child and promise in its name that it will fulfil the obligations of its Baptism, because those obligations are all right and proper and which the child ought to perform, just as a guardian would promise on behalf of a child possessed of property, that it would pay its taxes and fulfil the other requirements of the State. There can be no question but that Baptism is a blessing and that it is wise and right for a child to lead a Christian life. We have no hesitation in teaching a child all kinds of secular learning, we do not wait to see whether he will care to learn himself, so we need not hesitate to teach him to consider himself bound to live a godly and Christian life, for we know that his happiness and well-being is more dependent upon that than upon anything else that he can learn.

Thus, Baptism is a means of grace to all who receive it, young or old. It gives forgiveness of original and actual sins, it brings us into a new relation to God and assures us of His favor, assistance and benediction. So great is the change of state or condition wrought by it that it is called in Scripture and in the Prayer Book a regeneration, a new birth, the entrance on a new life. And these blessings are assured to all who receive it, except those who deliberately and wilfully cast them away, refuse to live in accordance with the new and blessed state into which, by God's mercy, they have been brought.

THE GENERAL CONVENTION

The great tri-ennial Council of the Church, which was in session the greater part of last month, adjourned on October 25th. It accomplished more work than it often has in other sessions. Its chief business was the revision of the Constitution and Canons of the Church. The former was completed, but little progress was made in the latter.

Two important features were introduced into the Constitution. One was the making provision for the division of the Church into Provinces. Heretofore, there has been no sub-division of the National Church except into Dioceses. The whole Church has formed but one Province. But it has now become too large. The meeting of the General Convention is very expensive, owing to the great distances the delegates have to come. When new Bishops are elected it is impossible for the Bishops and Standing Committee on the Pacific coast to be acquainted with some one elected in an Eastern Diocese and vice versa, and yet the consent of all is required for the consecration of a new Bishop. Then, too, there are many local interests and educational or benevolent institutions which might be looked after by a number of neighboring dioceses, which the whole Church cannot attend to. For these and other reasons it is now proposed to put in the Constitution the provision that neighboring dioceses may be associated into provinces and certain of the rights and powers of the General Convention given to them. This is the Catholic rule. Neither a Diocese nor a National Church in the unit of the Church, but the Province. It is complete in itself.

Another important provision was put in the Constitution, which is to allow the Bishops to take under their spiritual oversight congregations not in full communion of the Church, but whose ministers are willing to receive Episcopal ordination and conform to the essential requirements of the Church in regard to faith and worship, though not disposed to use the whole of our Prayer Book. This is to carry out the proposal of the Church to unite with Christians of other denominations on the four great principles, known as the Quadrilateral. We trust it may have that effect.

Another important action taken by the Convention was to redistrict the missionary jurisdiction in the West, not according to the lines of the States, but according to natural geographical requirements. Four new Missionary Bishops were elected, also another for Japan and one for Brazil. Provision was also made for extending our missionary operations in Porto Rico, Cuba, etc. The important question of further legislation in regard to Marriage and Divorce was postponed to the next Convention.

PARISH NOTES.

THE PEACE JUBILEE was kept in our parish by a special service of thanksgiving and an appropriate sermon by the Rector, on the evening of October 23d. Our vestry also determined to avail itself of the opportunity of erecting a stand along the Broad street front of our property, and renting seats on it for the two days which the processions passed it. This proved a great success. It was managed entirely by the church authorities, our sexton acting as ticket agent, and seven of the members of St. John's Guild as ushers. A most substantial stand was erected covering the whole of the Broad street pavement and running back at the south end the depth of the organ chamber. It was handsomely decorated with bunting, and the privilege of providing a restaurant in the yard was sold. The total receipts after paying all the expenses amounted to $620.00. This is a very nice sum for the Church to come by unexpectedly. Just what will be done with it will be determined by the vestry at the regular meeting this month. There are many ways in which it can be used.

THE CHOIR continues to improve and we shall look for great things from it in time. The Choir Master has began the issue of a monthly paper giving the full program of the music for each service for the succeeding month. This will prove very interesting and enable the congregation to know exactly what is being sung.

More boys are wanted for the choir, and male volunteers especially for the Sunday evening service.

ST. JOHN'S GUILD—We regret to say that Mrs. Spencer Ervin, who has taken so much interest in St. John's Guild, is going to pass the Winter abroad. Before leaving she gave a farewell entertainment. Some thirty members of the Guild were present; a very pleasant evening was passed, taken up with music, speeches and refreshments.

ST. MARY'S GUILD—Miss Barington who was treasurer of the Guild for a number of years and Superior for the year past has resigned, and been succeeded by Mrs. Van Harlington. It is proposed to introduce a number of new features into the Guild this Winter, among which will be a monthly social meeting, to which the young men will be invited, thus giving our young people an opportunity to become acquainted with each other.

WOMAN'S GUILD—The anniversary, which was postponed to All Saints' Day, on account of the jubilee, was quite well attended, though there are many other women in the parish who ought to have been there. The reports of the work for the last year, which will be printed in the Year Book, were read, and arrangements made for the coming winter. Most of the old officers hold over. Mrs. String will assist in the Mothers' Meeting, and Mrs. W. F. Smith represent the parish on the new board of the Woman's Auxiliary for Diocesan Missions. An effort will be made to get off a missionary box for the West before the cold weather sets in. Subscriptions for it can be sent to Miss Mary Chamberlaine, 1313 Pine Street, or donations of material or clothing to the Church.

WINTER'S WORK—The Mothers' Meeting, the Industrial School, the Ladies' Aid and the Embroidery Class begin with this month. Teachers are needed in the Industrial and in the Sunday School, as well as workers in the other departments.

VISITING CLERGY—We had the pleasure of having the Bishop of Milwaukee, formerly Rector of St. Mark's Church in this city, preach for us on Sunday, October 23d, when we were also favored with the presence of the Rev. Harry Carson, one of our old boys, who is now Chaplain of a Louisiana regiment and was on his way to Cuba.

SUBSCRIPTIONS—Will not everyone in the congregation subscribe to the NEWS, and those who have done so pay their subscriptions promptly when due. The following subscriptions have been received since our last issue:

CONFIRMATION.

Like Baptism or the Holy Communion, Confirmation has an outward and visible part, the laying on of hands, and an inward and spiritual grace, the defending and strengthening influences of God's Holy Spirit, as is shown by the words used by the Bishop: "Defend, O Lord, this Thy child with Thy heavenly grace; that he may continue Thine forever, and daily increase in the Holy Spirit more and more until he comes unto Thy everlasting kingdom." It is the solemn invocation by the Church of the Spirit of God upon the heads of those who have been baptised that they may have grace and strength to keep their baptismal vows. So it is the complement of Baptism. In the Greek Church, it is administered in connection with Baptism, but in the Western Church it has been thought best to defer it until that period when he who has been made a Christian in Baptism, which should be when he is a child, begins for himself the active discharge of the duties of the Christian life. When a child is baptised, his sponsors answer for him that he shall live as a Christian should, because he is not old enough to understand what are the obligations of the Christian. But when he becomes old enough to act for himself, to know the difference between right and wrong, then he should take the vows of the Christian life upon himself. And he needs at that time special assistance to enable him to keep them. So Confirmation was ordained for this purpose. As in the other Sacraments, there is grace in it, an inward and spiritual part which is bestowed upon those who receive it aright, and affords them the help they need.

It is not, as so many look upon it, simply a profession of faith. Much less is it, as some think it is, a profession that one is righteous, a setting up of himself as better than others. It is a means by which a real spiritual gift is given to those who are sincerely and earnestly determined to live a Christian life.

Before it is given, the Bishop asks each candidate whether he renews the solemn promise and vow which he made, or was made in his name, when he was baptised, in order to test his sincerity and learn whether he is determined as far as he can to live a Christian life. And on his answering that he does, he then lays his hands upon him to bless him and call down upon him the assistance of God's spirit in order to enable him to do what he cannot do in his own strength. And, as we are told in the Scriptures that the Holy Ghost was given by the laying on of the hands of the Apostles, so we believe it is still bestowed through the hands of their successors.

To confirm means to make strong. So Confirmation in the Church is to make men strong as Christians. That is the grace that is given in it. Of course, as in all Sacraments, that grace is not irresistable; it does not certainly make one a good and strong Christian whether one wants to be or not. We can erect in our hearts a bar to it. We can receive it hypocritically or carelessly, and then it will do us no good, but only increase our condemnation. But if we are honest and sincere in our intention and desire to do what is right, then it will be a real and blessed help to us, a means of grace.

Confirmation, then, does not consist in our taking upon ourselves our baptismal vows—confirming them. That is the necessary prelude to it. We come to Confirmation "to be confirmed by the Bishop," that is, the Bishop, as a successor to the Apostles, who, according to the Scriptures seem to be the only persons who administered it, lays his hands upon those who are old enough to understand what the duties of a Christian are and who has expressed his determination to perform them, in order to bestow upon them the spiritual help they need to do so. And we believe that that grace is given, if the heart is open and ready to receive it, if the seed thus sown falls into good ground.

So all who have been baptised should be confirmed. And the qualifications which are needed to receive it aright are, sufficient age and sufficient knowledge, and the intention to do what is required of Christians. That is what the Prayer Book says. Children are to be confirmed when they "come to years of discretion and having learned what their Godfathers and Godmothers promised for them in Baptism," that "they may themselves with their own mouth and consent, openly before the Church, ratify and confirm the same; and also promise that by the grace of God they will evermore endeavor themselves faithfully to observe such things as they by their own confession have assented unto." They are not to wait until they have gone through some religious experience, or think that they are good enough. As soon as they are old enough to know what is right and good they should undertake to do it, and seek by being confirmed the grace and help they need.

So Confirmation is often called the ordination of the laity. It consecrates and sets them apart as the servants of God. It admits them to the fullest privileges of the Christian religion and teaches those confirmed to look upon themselves henceforth as the special servants and agents of God to set forth His glory and do His work on earth.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFT TO THE CHURCH.—A lady of the congregation has presented us with a very good Singer sewing machine. This will be of great help, especially to the Ladies' Aid in their work. Some nine or ten years ago S. Mary's Guild purchased a second-hand sewing machine which has long since been worn out and unfit for use, and we have been obliged from time to time to borrow one. But now once more we have a serviceable one of our own.

THANKSGIVING—The young ladies of Miss. Anable's school provided six very bountiful Thanksgiving dinners for members of our Mothers' Meeting, and a few members of the congregation provided for six other families. Those who are enjoying special grounds for thankfulness themselves ought to do something to make others thankful, too, at this season.

CHRISTMAS.—We shall have as usual two additional celebrations of the Holy Communion on Christmas Day, one at 6.30 A.M., and one at 8.30 A.M., in order to give all an opportunity to Communicate on that Festival. And as it occurs this year on Sunday, we suppose we shall have more than usual.

The offerings, as heretofore, will be devoted to paying the semi-annual interest on our mortgage and other arrears which have accumulated during the Summer. As we have received from the Pleasanton legacy so far not quite enough to pay off all our floating indebtedness, there has been no reduction as yet of our mortgage debt, so that the full six months interest has to be paid this month. Can we not make the Christmas offering one thousand dollars? Let those, especially, who attend our Church and do not use the envelopes remember how many Sundays in the past they were absent from Church, and give an offering on that day which will make up for all that time. This offering should be put in the envelope marked Christmas Offering, which was sent out with this quarter's envelopes, or which can be had from the rack in the Church, and should be in addition to the regular Sunday offering. If you attend two services on Christmas Day, put your regular offering in the plate at one service and your Christmas offering at the other.

We hope our people will also remember to give something to provide a Christmas entertainment for the Sunday School. This can be put in the Alms box in the vestibule of the Church, which will be marked for that purpose.

TILING THE AISLES.—The Vestry have determined to use the money obtained by the stand erected in front of the Church during the Jubilee, in tiling the aisles of the Church. This will be a great improvement. The carpet now on the aisles has been down ever since the Church was built. It has been patched and patched until it can be patched no more, and, as it was out of date, it cannot be matched. So that if we had a carpet at all, we would have to get an entirely new one. But it will be far better to to put down tiles; which will be not only much handsomer, but much more durable and cleaner. And it is a very good purpose to which to put the money which came so unexpectedly by the Jubilee. It does not seem that we ought to depend upon such an occasion to meet our current expenses. Our debt will be pretty well provided for by the Pleasanton legacy, and other things we need about the Church may come in time as memorials. But as no one would tile the aisles as a memorial, it seems just the thing to do with this sum the Church chanced to make.

The work will be begun December 5th and is promised to be completed by the following Sunday. The daily prayers during that week will have to be said in the Guild room, in the Parish Building.

TABLET TO MISS PLEASANTON.—The Vestry have also decided to erect on the West wall of the Church a marble and brass tablet as a memorial to Miss Julia Pleasanton, who remembered the Church so handsomely in her will. It will be similar to the one to the memory of Mr. Johnson, but the same shape as that of Mr. Ervin. It is to be in place before Christmas.

DEATH OF MRS. ANN MITCHELL.—The widow of our former Sexton, Mrs. Ann Mitchell, died rather suddenly on All Saints' Day. She had been in the Church only a few Sundays previously, stopping afterward to speak to the Rector, giving him the change of her address. The next thing he heard of her was that she was dead. He buried her in her own lot in Mt. Moriah Cemetary, in the same grave as her husband, on November 4th. She was in her 71st year. Mrs. Mitchell's name stood at the head of the present Communicant list of the Parish, and she was probably the one longest connected with it. She was devoted to the Church, always attending its services when her health permitted her to do so. She had been very industrious and hardworking in her day, and had accumulated a little money. Out of this she put in some years ago one of the handsomest windows in the Chancel as a memorial to her husband. And last Spring she made a donation of $500 to the Church in lieu of a legacy she intended to make it. In addition this, her will, after giving legacies to a number of her relatives, leaves her residuary estate, which will probably amount to several hundred dollars, to the Rector to be given by him to the Bishop for Diocesan Missions. She also directed her executors to give a small remembrance both to Rector and to the Assistant Minister of the Parish. We wish every one would be as careful of their money and as particular in providing for its distribution by will as she was, and remember the Church in some way in doing so. May she rest in peace, and may God remember her for the good that she hath done.

S. John and S. Mary's Guild.—The new classes in S. Mary's Guild seem a great success, and we look for a large accession of members to the Guild. The Social Reunion of the two Guilds on evening of the fourth Tuesday in the month was particularly enjoyable.

S. John's Guild has purchased a shuffle board, which will be a great addition to their means of enjoyment.

Change in the Management of the News.—We regret very much the failure in sending out the last issue of the News. It was due to the neglect of the manager, and in consequence, we have made a change in the management. The paper will hereafter be sent out directly from the publishers, and all payments of subscriptions should be made either directly there, 147 N. 12th street, to Mr. G. V. Baird, who will have charge of it, or they may be made as heretofore, by being put in an envelope with name and address and dropped in the Alms box in the vestibule of the Church, or handed to the Sexton. Mr. Clarke will have nothing further to do with the paper.

Mr. Baird has already secured us a number of additional advertisers and we trust our readers will patronize them. As we are very much in arrears to the printer, we hope all our subscribers will pay up promptly to the new management.

THE HOLY EUCHARIST.

This is the greatest Sacrament, because it not only conveys grace, but in it our blessed Lord becomes mysteriously present to His people. On the night in which He was betrayed He took bread and wine and blessed them, and said, "This is My body," "this is My blood," and commanded his disciples to "do" the same as His memorial. If the bread and wine so blessed are His body and blood, and He is ever-living, His soul must be joined to that body, and where His soul is, there is the person of God the Son. So that that rite which He instituted as the distinctive rite of His religion was intended to be the means by which His promise to be with His disciples to the end of the world should be fulfilled, that where two or three of His disciples are gathered together in His name, there is He in the midst of them.

Of course, we cannot understand how the elements become the body and blood of Christ, or how He while in heaven, can yet be upon earth, but neither can we understand any of the operations of Spirit, nor do we really know what matter is, or how Spirit acts upon it. Men have tried to explain these things, and have invented various theories, such as those of Transubstantiation or Consubstantiation, or have denied that there was any truth or reality in our Lord's words, explained them away as a metaphor, said that the bread and wine simply represent—are figures of—Christ's body and blood. But the true way is simply to receive Christ's words literally, as the vast mass of Christians have always understood them, without demanding to understand how they can be true, just as we receive many mysteries of revelation, and of life, which we cannot understand.

So receiving it, we find that there are these two great purposes in the Sacrament: first, it is the great act of Christian worship, second, it is a great and constant means of grace. It is the great act of worship because Christ ordained it as such. Among the Jews and nations of antiquity generally, the ordinary act of worship was the offering of animal sacrifices as an atonement for sin and an oblation to God. Now, Christ came to offer Himself, His own body on the altar of the Cross, as a perfect satisfaction for human sin, thus doing away with the need of all bloody sacrifices. And in their place He instituted the Eucharist as the perpetual memorial of that one sacrifice and the means by which it could be continually pleaded before God. So when we celebrate it we are offering to God the memorial of Christ's sacrifice for us, recalling it, as it were, to His mind and beseeching Him on its account to have mercy upon us, to forgive us all our sins, to grant our requests and bestow upon us "all other benefits" of Christ's passion. None but a Christian can take part in this rite, and there is no other service which is so complete and perfect, as embodying every element of worship, and by which one can so enter into the very presence of Christ. No service of mere praise or prayer or instruction can take its place. By the common consent of all Christians from the very earliest times, every Sunday and Holy Day should be hallowed by its celebration.

Secondly, it is a means of grace. Christ commanded that the consecrated elements should be received. He is the source of all spiritual life; our souls can only live and grow as they receive strength from him. So He ordained this Sacrament as the means by which we might "feed" on Him, be spiritually strengthened and refreshed. In order that we may do so we must come with preparation, with honest hearts, sincerely seeking to be blessed, not carelessly, presumptuously or hypocritically. No Sacrament will bless us against our wills, but it is of priceless help to those who seek for grace. So all Christians should receive it, constantly, at stated times and with due preparation.

These two uses of the Sacrament may be combined in one celebration, and they must be by the priest at least to make it perfect. One may attend it sometimes as an act of worship, sometimes for Communion. The latter is best made at early services, when one can come fasting, paying it the honor of making it the first food one takes in the day, and when the service is plain and the hour quiet. Musical celebrations later in the day can be used for worship, but it should always be regarded as the highest, most central, most important act of Christian worship, that which no Christian can neglect. The greatest penalty the Church can inflict upon any of her members is to excommunicate them, forbid them to receive or to attend that holy service.

The things necessary for it are bread, either leavened or unleavened, preferably the latter, because Christ Himself used it, and real wine, not any other liquid, or even the unfermented juice of grape, but wine, with which should be mingled a little water, because, again, that was what Christ used, and these elements should be consecrated by the recitation of the words of institution and the invocation of the Holy Ghost by a duly ordained priest or bishop.

And for the receiver of the Sacrament there is needed repentance of past sin, steadfast faith and trust in God, with firm determination of keeping His Commandments, and a heart like His, full of love and charity to all men. Those who come to it so will find it the best means of approach to God, and the "most divine and comfortable" of spiritual gifts.

How can any one who calls himself a Christian refuse or neglect so great a privilege, such a fount of grace to the soul?

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—Two Welsbach burners for the Guild room, 18 books for Sunday School library, 12 loaves of bread for the poor, a fine linen alb for the Rector, a white silk stole embroidered in silver for the Assistant Minister, box of candles for the Altar, cake for the Christmas Festival.

CHRISTMAS.—We had a fine day for Christmas, but the attendance at the services and the number of communicants was considerably affected by the great number of persons sick with the grip, which has been so general. The choir sang well and gave us a service, portions of which were very beautiful. A medal promised to the best behaved boy in the choir was awarded to Enoch Pearson, and worn by him for the first time on Christmas day. The offerings amounted to $560. This was considerably less than the amount asked for, and we hope that all who were prevented from being at the Church on Christmas day will still make their special Christmas offering, as we do not want any more running behind hand.

The Sunday School children had their usual entertainment on Holy Innocents' Day, which this year consisted of an exhibition by a professor of sleight-of-hand tricks, in addition to a Christmas tree, with candy and cake and oranges.

THE TILING OF THE AISLES of the Church has been completed, after keeping the Church in an upset condition for over two weeks, and is a great improvement. It will be some weeks, however, before the full effect will be seen, as after tiles are newly laid there is for some time a white deposit on them, until the cement in which they are laid becomes perfectly dry.

THE PLEASANTON TABLET was not put in as promised, but we shall look for it before long. A very handsome design for it has been adopted, consisting of a floriated cross and an ornamental border, with an inscription, giving Miss Pleasanton's full name, with date of birth and death, and statement that she was a parishioner and liberal benefactress of the Church, with the text, "Thine alms are had in remembrance in the sight of God."

MISSIONARY OFFERINGS.—The Parish Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Board of Missions have determined to adopt a different way for making collections for missionary purposes during the coming year. Heretofore it was left to each of the delegates to collect for the boards to which they belonged as they saw best. Some made personal visits to the different members of the congregation, some sent postal cards or letters asking for contributions. Now it has been determined to ask the Rector to send a circular letter to each female attendant of the Church at the beginning of the year, explaining the purpose and working of the auxiliary and enclosing a postal card directed to the Parish treasurer, to be filled up, stating what amount each one is willing to give during the year. This will save a great deal of labor to the collectors, and we hope will secure a more general and systematic response. The letter also calls attention to the taking of mite boxes for the United Offering. We publish the letter here in full, as it may thus reach the eyes of some to whom it may not be sent. We hope all the cards will be filled up and returned promptly.

To the Women of the Church of the Ascension, Philadelphia.

MY DEAR FRIENDS: You are aware that the women of the Church generally have associated themselves in what is known as the Woman's Auxiliary to the Board of Missions, to aid in the missionary work of the Church, by collections of their own in addition to the ordinary offerings or envelopes used for that purpose in the collections in Church. We have a Branch of this Society in our Parish, which meets on the first Friday of each month, from November to May, inclusive, after Morning Prayer, to which meetings you are all cordially invited. I write also to ask if you will not kindly fill up and post the accompanying card, stating what amount you will contribute during the year 1899 to the different departments of missionary work.

There is also what is known as "The United Offering," a collection made by the women of the Church during the three years intervening between the sessions of the General Convention, which is devoted to some great advancement of missionary work. In this it is earnestly desired that every woman shall unite. For this purpose a mite box will be given you, which you should try to fill and return to our Parish Treasurer, in May and November of each year. Please state on the card that you will take such box.

Your offering can be enclosed with the card, or paid at any time during the year to the treasurer, or it can be left at the Church with the Sexton.

Hoping that you will realize the duty and privilege of thus contributing to the advancement of our Blessed Lord's kingdom upon earth, I am,

Faithfully yours,
G. Woolsey Hodge.

Missionary Box.—Our ladies got off early last month a very substantial missionary box for a clergyman's family in North Dakota, which reached its destination before Christmas. A very nice letter of acknowledgment was received, which we will publish in our next issue. The committee also sent a large package of clothing to a student in the Western Theological Seminary, Chicago.

S. John's Guild.—One of the recreation meetings of S. John's Guild has been changed from Thursday to Saturday evenings. This, it is thought, will be more convenient for all.

Subscriptions.—The following were received last month:

Miss Martha M. Martin	Miss Grider

MISSIONARY LOAN EXHIBITION.

A Missionary Loan Exhibition will be held in the Church House, Twelfth and Walnut Streets, on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, January 23d, 24th and 25th, 1899. The exhibition will be open each day from 3 to 10 P.M. The arrangements will include

1st. Courts representing Africa, Brazil, China, Mexico, Japan, Alaska, Cuba, Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippine Islands, together with work among negroes and Indians. The courts will contain specimens of costumes, ornaments, household utensils, idols, arms and other objects of interest, illustrating the daily life, the industries and the arts, as well as the worship of the people represented.

2d. Short lectures on various aspects of the work illustrated either by lantern views or people in native costume.

3d. A literature stall for the sale of missionary books and publications.

4th. A collection of the translations of the Bible, Prayer Books, etc., into the native languages of these lands where our Church has Missions. Also a collection of the missionary periodicals of the Anglican communion.

5th. The alms bags in which the Woman's Auxiliary United Offerings have been presented.

6th. An exhibition of lace making by Indian women as taught by Miss Sybil Carter.

7th. A monster missionary box to receive contributions.

PENANCE OR PENITENCE

The Sacrament of Baptism is the great method ordained for the remission of sins. By it one is so cleansed from all past sins that he stands in the sight of God perfectly clean and holy. But men fall into sin after Baptism, and for such falls God has graciously provided the means of escape and pardon by penitence or repentance; and where there is true repentance He has authorized His ministers to pronounce the absolution of sins. Our Lord did this when He said to His disciples "whosoever sins ye remit, they are remitted unto them."

No visible sign or ceremony was ordained in connection with this, though at times the laying on of the Priest's hand has been used, but the whole action of the confession of sins and the receiving absolution constitutes the outward part. And it is certainly a means of grace; it secures the forgiveness of sins and the restoration to God's favor, so it has a sacramental character. In order to be perfect there must be in it these three parts, contrition, confession and satisfaction. By contrition is meant true sorrow and regret at having sinned, and a firm determination not to do so again. Its essence is change of determination. Repentance is the translation of a Greek word meaning change of mind. It may influence the feelings more or less, but the necessary thing is the change of heart or mind—the resolve to forsake what is wrong and do what is right.

Confession is the acknowledgment of sin and wrongdoing. This must always be made to God, and in many cases, especially when the sin has been of such a nature as to offend or injure others or cause scandal to the Church, it must be made openly to the world; and in other cases, as a matter of discipline or as a satisfaction or an assistance in dealing with sin, it can be made to a Priest. In the early Church all sins were confessed openly before the whole congregation. But as it was soon found that this was not edifying nor advisable, private confession to a Priest was instituted as a preferable discipline.

Satisfaction is the making restitution of anything wrongfully taken or the undoing as far as possible injuries done to others or the doing of something to show the sincerity of our repentance or to punish ourselves for our sins. In certain sins there can be no true repentance without this, and in all cases something of the kind is advisable, that our confession of sin may be not a mere utterance of our lips, but attested by an action which costs us something.

Sin so repented of is sure to receive God's pardon, and the Priest as His commissioned ambassador is authorized to pronounce its absolution.

This may be done either in the public services of the Church or in private. In every important public service there is a general confession of sins provided, to be said by the whole congregation, followed by a declaration of absolution to be said by the Priest, and where in members of the congregation there is true repentance that absolution is effective in removing sin and reconciling the sinners with God and the Church. Where the words of confession are said without any intention in them, there no absolution is conveyed by the declaration, just as there would not be in a private confession and absolution under the same circumstances.

In cases where one is not satisfied with this general confession and feels the necessity of the discipline of the confession of specific sins or feels the burden and grief of sin too great to be borne alone or is in doubt and difficulty and cannot quiet his own conscience, then one may go to a Priest, and as the Prayer Book calls it, "open his grief," giving the details and circumstances of the sins committed, and the Priest, as skilled in dealing with moral and spiritual questions, can give his judgment thereupon and grant absolution or not according to the disposition of the penitent.

In the Roman Catholic Church this discipline of private confession to a Priest is required of all. No one can receive the Holy Communion without previously making such a confession. But in the English Church it is wisely made a voluntary matter. Such as feel the need of it may use it, and in certain cases, as in the exhortation prior to the celebration of the Holy Communion and in the visitation of those who are sick or who are prisoners, it is urged, but in no case is it made obligatory.

Some clergymen attach to it more importance than others. Some think that it is a useful discipline for all and urge it upon their parishioners, using all their moral influence to bring them to it. But by the law of the Church it cannot be made a requisite either for admission to or the reception of the Holy Communion.

It was one of the reforms made at the time of the Reformation that compulsory Confession was abolished. But that should not be pushed to such an extreme as to forbid all private confession, for in many cases it is very useful and advisable. There is no difference in principle between public and private confession and absolution. If the Priest can pronounce absolution in public, he can in private. It should be left to each one to use whichever he finds best suited for himself. The essential thing, whether it be in public or in private, is that all the parts of penitence should be performed, that there should be sincere sorrow for and determination to forsake sin, for without this, whether in public or private, no absolution will avail.

PARISH NOTES

The Clergy of the Parish have both been unfortunate during the past month in being laid up with bad colds. The Assistant caught one early in the month, which affected his vocal chords, and he was forbidden by his physician to use his voice at all. He has not been able to officiate for over three weeks, and is only slowly regaining his voice. In the midst of this the Rector took cold and so lost his voice that on Sunday, January 22d, he was unable to do more than give out the notices. He was so fortunate as to secure the assistance of the Rev. Dr. Lewis and the Rev. Arthur Hess, who preached for him that day and the latter took the other services, and also took Mr. Laupher's place on three other Sundays.

Deaths.—The Parish lost during last month two of its oldest and most devoted parishioners—Miss Zantzinger and Mrs. Hull. Both became connected with it at the beginning of the present Rectorship, and were warmly attached to it. Miss Zantzinger acted for many years as its representative on the Indian Committee of the Woman's Auxiliary, and was active in securing contributions to its building fund. Mrs. Hull was most liberal in her benefactions to the Parish, and did a great deal of most beautiful work in embroidering vestments for the altar and clergy, supplying much of the material. Her work and her interest in the Parish will be sadly missed. Both these ladies were buried from the Church which they so deeply loved, one on January 17th, the other on January 18th. May they rest in peace, and may light perpetual shine upon them.

Lent begins with the middle of this month, and we call upon our people to try to keep it so that it shall be what the Church intends it to be, a means of real spiritual good. The boys of the choir will be present as usual at the daily afternoon service at five o'clock, and there will be a short lecture after prayers on Friday afternoons, with a special collection of Lenten offerings.

Confirmation.—The Bishop of the Diocese will visit the Church to administer Confirmation on the evening of Wednesday, March 22d. We hope that every adult attending the Church who has not yet been confirmed will prepare for its reception at that time. Instructions for it will be given by the Rector every Monday afternoon at four o'clock in the Guild room of the Parish building, beginning with Monday, February 13th, and by the Assistant Minister on Thursday evenings at eight o'clock, beginning February 16th.

Diocesan Missions.—The special envelope for a benevolent purpose which is sent out with the ordinary envelopes for this quarter is for Diocesan Missions. The amount which this Parish is expected to contribute for this purpose is $65.00, together with $34.98 for what is known as the Sustentation Fund. By these two funds the work of the Church is sustained and extended in the poorer and weaker parts of the Diocese. We trust all our people will give as they should for this purpose, and that our Parish may do its share of the work.

Smoker.—The Men's Guild of the Parish gave a smoker on the evening of January 30th to all the men attending the Church. About forty were present and passed an enjoyable evening. Addresses were made by Mr. Messiter, of England, and Mr. Ewing L. Miller, Assistant Superintendant of the Sunday School of the Holy Apostles Parish. We trust it will result in attaching the men more to the Church and stirring them up to work on its behalf.

The Ladies' Aid will sew as usual during Lent for a charity, and will be glad to have any ladies of the Church join them. They meet on Thursdays at 3 P. M.

Acknowledgment of Our Missionary Box.—The following extracts from a letter of the wife of the missionary will surely serve, not only to arouse our sympathy, but incite us to new efforts to relieve the necessities and lighten the burdens of those who are leading in our stead, such lives of limitless self-sacrifice.

She writes, though crippled by a neglected sprain of her knee, her hands so distorted by rheumatism that she can scarcely hold a pen, her eyes almost blinded by the dust and severity of the climate.

"It is 6 A.M. and I have been up an hour getting my fires started and trying to limber out enough to get the daily wheels started also before the family come around. * * * I received notice that the box was at the station. It got here about night, and it would have done your kind heart good, I am sure, to have seen L—— opening it. The children were perfectly delighted with everything, and voted that you knew how to get up a Christmas Box." After dwelling gratefully upon the contents of the box sent from our Parish and containing very many useful and pretty articles to make glad the hearts of children at the Xmas season, she adds: "I can make very nice gowns of the other dresses for next year. I have to do my sewing in Summer when I am not so stiff and do not have so much hard work to do, tending fires." (This lady was once a college professor at a salary of $1,800 per annum.) "My stoves are poor ones; fuel is high here, you know, compared with the East, and so far the weather has been unusually cold for Nebraska, so that they require careful management. It is lack of heat and overwork simply which have caused my rheumatism; so, of course, there is no hope of one getting better as you kindly hope I may.

"If the children are to have an education I must work myself to death. * * * I trust that I have been useful, and that is the main thing." Referring once more to the boxes, she says, "L—— was charmed with her pretty white things. As for the generous boxes of candy, as each appeared there were new shouts of delight, for the youngsters seldom see candy. They were quickly hidden away to appear with the pretty handkerchiefs and the two books in their Xmas stockings. * * * Saturday's mail brought a lovely flannel waist from Philadelphia for L——. It is just what she needed, and if you know the donor will you be so good as to thank her for me. We have all been enjoying the good things greatly, and I hope all the good people who sent them had their reward in a happy New Year."

Our ladies also sent a bundle of clothes to a student in the Western Theological School in Chicago. He writes: "Your splendid package is received. You have made my Christmas most happy. I can never thank you enough for your kindness. May I prove myself worthy of your aid."

SUBSCRIPTIONS received will be acknowledged next month.

Quiet Day and Conference for Women.

A Quiet Day for Churchwomen, to be conducted by the Rt. Rev. Ethelbert Talbot, D. D., LL. D., Bishop of Central Pennsylvania, will be held on the second Thursday in Lent, February 23d, in Holy Trinity Church, Nineteenth and Walnut Streets. Services beginning with celebration of the Holy Communion at 10.30 A.M., and at 3 P.M.

The Conference of Churchwomen will be held in Holy Trinity Parish House, Twentieth below Walnut Streets, on the second Friday in Lent, February 24th (S. Matthias Day). Sessions at 10.30 A.M. and 3 P.M. Papers will be read and discussions invited on the topics: "How May We Amuse Ourselves?" "The Importance of Trifles," "The Discipline of Difficultics," "Development Through Activity and Repose," "What has Christianity Done for Women?" "What has Woman Done for Christianity?"

HOLY ORDERS

By Holy Orders is meant the offices of the ministry in the Christian Church. Our blessed Lord, while He was on earth, chose certain men whom He called Apostles —that is, those who were sent— upon whom He bestowed His spirit and to whom He committed the commission and authority to carry on and govern His Church after His ascension into Heaven. This, we learn from the book of the Acts of the Apostles, they did. They at once assumed the leadership and direction of the Church. They spoke and acted with authority. As vacancies occurred in their number they filled them, and they appointed and commissioned other orders of ministers which were needed to administer and carry on the work of the Church.

Holy Order is, therefore, the order, that is the power and authority, to execute the office of the ministry. Christ instituted that ministry, and committed it to those whom he had chosen for the purpose, and they in turn committed it to others, and so from one to another it has been continued down to the present day. No one can bestow it but one who has himself received it. That is what is meant by the Apostolic succession, the commission, handed down from one to another from the Apostles themselves.

The mode of its bestowal is the laying on of hands. This we see from the New Testament was the outward sign or rite used at the first, and it has been regarded as essential ever since. Other ceremonies have been used in connection with it, such as the putting on of vestments or the porrection, that is, the handing of the utensils used in, or the symbols of, the office bestowed; but these are not essential. No uniform words were prescribed to be used, but for the higher offices the words employed by our Lord Himself in giving the original commission are those generally used, viz.: "Receive ye the Holy Ghost." And the inward or unseen grace bestowed is the authority to execute the offices of the ministry, with the supernatural gifts and blessing flowing through them.

There are three grades of Holy Order. As the preface to our Ordinal that is, the form for bestowing Holy Orders—says, "It is evident unto all men diligently reading Holy Scripture and ancient authors, that from the Apostles' time there have been these three orders of ministers in Christ's Church—Bishops, Priests and Deacons." The Bishops are the rulers of the Church, the direct successors of the Apostles, they to whom the government of the Church was commissioned by Christ. They alone have the power of ordination and confirmation. Each has a definite district assigned him, which is called his diocese, and in which he is the supreme and sole ecclesiastical ruler. All authority to exercise any ecclesiastical office must come from him, he alone exercises discipline there, though he can and should call in the other clergy to consult with and assist him. He is chosen by the votes of the clergy and laity of the diocese, but receives his commission from other Bishops.

The Priests are the pastors of the different congregations of the laity. One is set over each congregation by the Bishop, though the congregations, or their representatives, may select the one they wish to have. He performs the rites of divine worship, celebrates and administers the Sacraments, exercises the spiritual discipline and teaches and preaches to that congregation. He is responsible for the care and carrying on of the work of his parish, which should be a definite part of a diocese. The laity may be associated with him in the care of the property and administration of its temporal concerns.

The Deacon is the assistant of the Priest in the celebration of the divine offices and the care of the congregation. He cannot celebrate the Holy Communion or pronounce Absolution or give the Benediction or have a separate cure or care of souls, and should only Baptize when a Priest is not present. He should have the special care of the poor and needy of the parish, the teaching of the children and the looking after of the young people. In large parishes this office is often, for convenience, exercised by Priests, who, of course, discharge all priestly acts, except that of government, which belongs to the parish Priest or pastor, unless he delegates to them the whole or a portion of his pastoral work.

There are other ecclesiastical offices, such as Archbishop, who is the presiding Bishop of a province or number of dioceses; or an Archdeacon, who is an assistant to a Bishop as a Deacon is to a Priest; a a Dean, who is the head of a Cathedral or College or Convocation of the Clergy. But these are not separate orders, each having the same inherent power that another Bishop or Priest would have.

So there are what is known as minor orders, such as lay reader, singer, catechist, etc., but these are not sacramental in their character, as they do not involve the bestowal of any special gift or power.

The reception of Holy Orders bestows a character, so that, though one may be deposed from the ministry so that he could not exercise its duty, he never can really cease being what he was and never could be reordained. We ought to look upon Holy Orders, therefore, just as we do upon Baptism or the Holy Communion, as that which our Lord has ordained for the blessing and benefit of His people. They are offices which no one should seek unless he feels inwardly called by the Holy Ghost, and which no one should attempt to exercise unless he has received authority to do so from those who have the power to bestow them, and the people should look upon and use these offices as they do the other sacraments.

PARISH NOTES

GIFTS.—Black silk girdle for the Rector, a patent roller sweeper, eight dozen sandwiches sent to the charity organization ward office, mattress, wrapper, pillow and comfortable for a sick woman, piece of muslin for Mothers' Meeting from Strawbridge & Clothier, fifteen yards of flannel from Menah's, one-half piece of muslin for work of Ladies' Aid.

THE MOTHERS' MEETING.—In order to get sufficient funds to carry on this work, the ladies in charge got up an entertainment for its benefit early last month. Mr. John Hawkins, the proprietor of the "Colonial" kindly placed his dining room at their disposal, and it proved most successful. Nearly one hundred persons were present, most of whom were not connected with our parish, and over one hundred dollars was cleared, after paying all expenses. This will enable the ladies to continue paying for the work done by the members of the Meeting, and also to provide for them an occasional entertainment. Up to February 8th 69 garments had been made for the Boarding Home, 150 for the Pennsylvania Hospital, 79 for the Woman's Homœopathic Hospital, and 246 for the Foster Home, making a total of 544, for which $72.75 has paid, this amount having been contributed by different members of the Parish.

During Lent the members of the Meeting will meet once a week to sew for a charity, a piece of muslin having been donated for the purpose by Strawbridge & Clothier.

BENEVOLENT WORK.—Thanks to a donation of $30 from a lady, not a member of our Parish, we were enabled to make some special provision for several families that were suffering during the late severe weather. It provided coal for two families, overcoats for two boys who had not any, ten pairs of shoes, pair of mittens, two pairs of rubbers, and a quantity of provisions.

LENT.—In addition to the daily service at 10 A.M. and 5 P.M. and Wednesdays at 8 P.M., there is a lecture on Fridays at 5 P.M. Confirmation instructions, Mondays at 4 P. M. and Thursdays at 8 P.M. The Ladies' Aid meets every Thursday at 3 P.M., St. Mary's Guild every Tuesday at 8 P.M., and the Mothers' Meeting every Wednesday at 6 P.M., to sew for charity.

We would like to see more people at the daily services during Lent than have appeared so far. The bad weather may have had something to do with it, but we fear many of our people are careless and do not value this privilege as they should.

HOLY WEEK.—On Monday evening in Holy Week our choir will sing Stainer's "Crucifixion." This was rendered a good many years ago in our Church, and much enjoyed by our people. After it a collection will be made for the necessary expenses and for the benefit of the choir, to give the boys some outing during the coming Summer. The boys have been working very hard of late, and show much improvement in their singing. They deserve to have some reward, and we hope our people will contribute to this fund liberally.

On the other evenings in Holy Week there will be a sermon on the Passion, and as usual the preaching of the Cross on Good Friday from 12 to 3 o'clock. The other services will be daily at 7.30 and 10 A.M. and 5 P.M.

EASTER.—On Easter-Day there will be celebrations of the Holy Communion at 6.30, 7.30 and 8.30 A.M., as well as at 11.30 A. M., when the choir will sing Guilmant's "Messe Solenelle" in E flat, and at morning prayer, Tour's TeDeum, and Benedictus in F, and Barnby's anthem, "Break Forth Into Joy," and in the afternoon Stainer's anthem, "They Have Taken Away My Lord."

THE EASTER OFFERING.—We hope all our people will give just as large an Easter offering as they possibly can. The Pleasanton legacy has wiped out our floating debt, and we do not want to have any new one. Yet, owing to the many bad Sundays we have had, the offerings have not been up to average, and unless we have a very large Easter offering we shall not be able to meet our expenses for the year. We ought to have at least $1,200. Can we not make it that? Let each do his share and it can be done. Beyond paying off the floating debt, the Pleasanton legacy will make no difference in our expenditure this year, as we have had to meet both the half yearly payments of interest on our mortgage.

HOLY MATRIMONY.

Marriage is "an honorable estate instituted of God in the time of man's innocency," and when entered into by Christians with the mutual vow of loving and cherishing each other, for better or worse, with exclusive fidelity, until death, living according to God's ordinance, it possesses a sacramental character. That is, it has a sacred, mysterious character which ministers grace to those who so enter into it. One of our Homilies, which are appointed to be read in our churches, calls it in so many words, "the Sacrament of Marriage." And of all earthly institutions there is nothing so important, or which so ministers to the welfare and happiness of the race. It creates the home, which is the formative influence of every life, and should secure its highest well being and greatest joy. Nothing is more essential, therefore, than that the laws of Christian marriage should be understood and obeyed, and that none should enter into marriage but in accordance with them. Those laws allow the union of only one man and one woman, and that union is to last for life. Once entered into it is regarded as just as lasting and binding as a natural relationship. The parties entering into it must be adults of mental and physical competency, and under no legal ban or restraint. If under legal age they must have the consent of their parents, and they must not be within certain degrees of consanguinity or affinity. According to the table of prohibited degrees, which is printed in all Prayer Books of the Church of England, and which the Church in this country has never altered, the nearest relations that can marry are first cousins. In the case of widows or widowers none can marry a nearer relation of a deceased husband or wife than one could marry one's blood relation. The theory being that marriage is so close and binding a relationship that a husband's or wife's relations become just the same as one's own relations.

The essence of marriage is consent. The ceremony of marriage consists in the mutual plighting of the Christian vow to each other in the presence of witnesses. It is usually performed in a Church and before a Priest, in order that the parties themselves may be impressed with the sacredness and solemnity of the step they are taking, and in order that the Priest may bestow upon them the benediction of the Church. But the parties really marry themselves, they are the ministers of the Sacrament. So the Church recognizes as valid what is known as a common law marriage, that is, the living of a man and woman together professedly as man and wife. But every Christian will naturally wish to enter into such a contract with all due solemnity and with the Church's benediction.

A marriage entered into contrary to the Christian laws concerning it is null and void ab initio. But if in accordance with those laws it should be indissoluble, except by death. If one party is faithless to its vow, that is, commits adultery, the other party, according to the law of the Eastern Church and of our own Church, is free to marry again. But nothing else except that crime, which destroys the fundamental character of Christian marriage, can sever the bond. Not even desertion, or cruelty, or insanity, or imprisonment of one of the parties, the hope being in those cases that there would be return, or improvement, or recovery. In cases where there is cruelty, or ill treatment, or impossibility of living in love and peace together, a legal separation may be obtained, but not an absolute divorce, else the door to repentance would be closed. And even in the case of adultery, if the one party chooses to forgive the other party the bond still subsists, but as mutual fidelity is essential to Christian marriage, if it is wanting on one side the other party cannot be held against his or her will. The Roman Catholic Church does not, professedly, allow divorce and remarriage even in this case, but the Pope can always give a dispensation allowing it, which amounts to the same thing as the law of our own Church, though the expense and difficulty attending such a dispensation practically limits it to a few.

Marriage, then, being so important and binding a contract, upon which the welfare and happiness both of the parties themselves and of their children depend, should not, as our service for its solemnization says, "be entered into unadvisedly or lightly, but reverently, discreetly, advisedly, soberly and in the fear of God."

It should never be contracted clandestinely or hastily, but only by those who know each other so well that they are sure they can live in love and peace together, and are of the same faith, that is, have the same Christian principles. To such it is, indeed, a sacramental relation bringing blessing, joy and grace.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS.—On Easter day there was presented on the altar, among the "other devotions of the people," a beautiful baptismal shell of mother of pearl with a silver handle and binding, a gift to the Church by Mr. F. Hartley Merrick, in memory of his godchild, Mary Norvell Walsh, the youngest child of one of our vestrymen, Mr. Stevenson H. Walsh, who died in February from the results of an attack of grippe. We have also received a gift of linen for six choir cottas and material for a cassock, 37 pounds of candles for the Altar, a new filter for the Vestry and a piece of muslin for the Mothers' Meeting from John Wanamaker and flowers for Easter.

THE PLEASONTON LEGACY.—The Accounting Warden received last month from the executors of Miss Julia A. Pleasonton the sum of $9,488.86, which is all that is coming to the Church from this source at this time. This, with the $2,155 already received, has enabled us to pay off all our floating debt, and to reduce our mortgage debt from $21,000 to $12,000. This means a saving in our annual expenditure hereafter of nearly $600 a year. And there is still to come to us, after the expiration of a life interest, a further sum of about $10,000, but this may not be for many years. The tablet which the Vestry has placed in the Church to the memory of Miss Pleasonton is at last in position, and is not only a merited tribute to her, but an ornament to the Church.

THE EASTER OFFERING.—As we said in our last issue we needed a very large Easter offering to meet all our current expenses up to May 1st, the end of our financial year. The actual amount required was $1,800. Of this sum, one member of the congregation offered to give one-fourth, that is $450, if the rest was made up by the congregation. As we did not go to press until after Easter day, although it occurs in April, we are enabled to say that the total Easter offering, including about one-half of the the above sum, was $765.49. This leaves some $800 still to be made up to secure the remaining $225 promised. Will not all who for any cause have not yet made a special Easter offering still do so, that we may enter another financial year without a new debt?

ENTERTAINMENT.—As we feared that the Easter offering would not realize the full amount needed to meet our current expenses, our ladies have been busying themselves in getting up an entertainment, which is to be given in the New Century Drawing Room, on April 27th. It will consist of a play called "A Night Off," by the Manheim Dramatic Club, who have most kindly volunteered their services for the occasion. The tickets are $1 apiece. They can be had from any of the lady patronesses, or from the sexton, and we hope all our people will not only take them themselves, but make the most earnest efforts to sell as many of them as they possibly can among their friends. We want to see every seat in the house filled that we may make as much money as possible.

HOLY WEEK AND EASTER.—Our services during Holy Week, including Good Friday, were much better attended than during the early part of Lent. At the Cantata of "The Crucifixion," sung on Monday evening by the united choirs of this Parish and of St. Andrew's, West Philadelphia, we had the largest number of persons present we have ever seen in the Church. Not only was every seat in the Church and every chair brought out of the Parish building in addition occupied, but the aisles far up were filled with people who stood during the entire service. There were 750 coins in the offertory, showing that there must have been very nearly if not quite that number of persons present. The amount of the offertory, however, we are sorry to say, was only $32 in all. The music was admirably rendered, and both the choirs and the choir master, who got out of a sick bed to be present, deserve a great deal of credit for it.

THE CHOIR has been working very hard in preparation both for the Cantata and the Easter music, for which a very elaborate program was prepared, and at a great disadvantage, owing to the sickness of the choir master, who was not able to play at all on Palm Sunday and who had to give up a number of practicings, and also owing to the sickness of the leading boy, who was to have taken the solos. He was obliged to leave the Church after the singing of the Benedictus on Easter Day.

A lady of the congregation offered two medals as prizes at Easter for the best behaved boys in the choir, they were awarded to W. A. Rowe and Robt. Lindsay. One for the best singer was awarded to Horace Walsh.

EXTRA ENVELOPES.—All envelopes for benevolent purposes sent out during the past year should be returned this month, which closes our financial year.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—The following have been received since our last issue:

Mrs. Walter Cox	Miss Lucy Perry
Mr William Miliken	Mrs. J. M. Wirgman
Miss Anna Griffith	Mr. George Wharton
Miss A. H. Chamberlaine
Miss Davis (2 years)	Theo. H. Butler

OPEN CHURCHES.

As the house of God should always be free to all His children, so it should be kept open daily for private prayer and meditation. People should be accustomed to the Church as a holy place and the home of their own soul's life; as a place whose doors are open when they want to think about the higher things of life, when they want to pour out their thoughts before God, and free themselves for a little time from the trouble and distraction of their ordinary surroundings. Says the Rev. Dr. G. W. Shinn, "When the objection is made that people can pray in their own homes, and that there is no need of opening the Church for them, the objector had in mind the comfortable classes who have homes where they can command quiet and seclusion. It may not have occurred to him that there are many people who find it difficult, indeed, to secure any quiet place at home for their devotions. Many live in overcrowded dwellings and boarding houses, in noisy and distracting surroundings, where it is entirely hard to find the slightest help toward being devout. Why should they not be thought of? Why should not the Church doors be opened for them? It would be a blessed thing if the business men could turn aside from the business activities of the street and spend a brief space in the Church. It would be helpful to the workingman who left his home early in the morning if a few minutes of the noon hour were his in the open Church. Think what such a quiet place might be to the poor, tired and tempted ones whose faith and courage are almost exhausted, if the doors of God's house stood open for them, and the altar ever spoke of an Intercessor who pleads with God for them. So important is it to pray, that if but one soul a day were to come into the Lord's house, it would be worth all the trouble of keeping a Church open.—22d Annual Report of the Free and Open Church Association.

UNCTION

The anointing with oil as a religious act has been used very generally and from the earliest times. We read in Genesis of Jacob pouring oil upon the pillar he had set up to consecrate it as a solemn witness and attestation of the intercourse he had held with God. Aaron and the other Levitical Priests were anointed to consecrate them for their holy office. Samuel anointed Saul and David as kings of Israel, and generally in the Old Testament anointing with oil is spoken of as a consecration or as the symbol and vehicle of joy and consolation. The very name "Messiah" or "Christ" signifies "the anointed one."

So we read of its use in the New Testament. S. Mark speaks of the Apostles anointing with oil many who were sick, and their being healed. And S. James directs in his Epistle that "if any be sick among you, let him call for the Elders"—that is, Presbyters—"of the Church, and let them pray over him, anointing him with oil in the name of the Lord," and promises that "the prayer of faith shall save the sick, and the Lord shall raise him up, and if he have committed sins they shall be forgiven him." So in the early Church we find that anointing was used in connection with Baptism and Confirmation. In the Eastern Church Confirmation consists in anointing with oil, which has been blessed by the Bishop for the purpose. So it has always been used in the coronation of kings. The coronation service of the Church of England to this day provides for its use in that way.

So it has been used as S. James prescribed—for the healing of the sick. This is called in the Latin Church "Extreme Unction," because it is the last of the Sacraments, and is, in that Church, only administered when a person is supposed to be dying. But that is a perversion of the original idea. S. James distinctly says that it is for the healing of the sick, as well as for the forgiveness of sins, and, therefore, could be administered in any case of severe illness. The first English Prayer Book provided for its use in this way, and appointed a prayer to be said in its administration, which beautifully and fully expressed these purposes of healing and pardon. But this was omitted in later editions of the Prayer Book, and the use of unction of the sick has fallen into disuse generally in the Anglican Communion; doubtless from the perverted idea attached to it in the Roman Church. In late years, however, it has been revived in many quarters, and a number of our Bishops regularly consecrate oil to be used by their clergy for the purpose.

Among Oriental people the use of, and dependence upon, outward signs and expressions, is more natural than with us of the West, but it is a question whether we do not lose by the neglect of so expressive and universal and scriptural a rite as this, one directly commanded even in Holy Scripture. As the water of Baptism cleanses from sin, so oil devoutly used may convey to us the healing, consoling and refreshing influences of the Holy Spirit, teaching us to look for those influences not from our own strength or holiness, but from the power of God. And it is as reasonable and likely that He will use a material element as the vehicle for conveying those influences in the one case as in the other. It is to be hoped, therefore, that our practice in this respect will come into accord with the rest of the Catholic Church, so that unction of the sick can no longer be spoken of as it was by the late Bishop Forbes, of Brechin, as "the lost pleiad in the Anglican firmament."

PARISH NOTES.

THE ENTERTAINMENT FOR THE CHURCH, given in the New Century Drawing Room, on April 27th, was a great success. The ladies in charge of it worked very hard to make it such. They got up a very attractive souvenir programme, for which was furnished a cut of the chief character in the play. For this they sought advertisements, in which they were very successful, clearing over $300 in this way alone. Another committee attended to the selling of the tickets, over 400 being disposed of. So that, after paying all expenses, we have realized $677.25 in all. Our sincere thanks are due to the members of the Manheim Dramatic Club, who so kindly volunteered their services, and whose performance was very enjoyable, and also to the ladies who kindly allowed their names to be used as patronesses, and to the ladies of our own congregation who worked so earnestly in the matter.

OUR EXPENSES MET.—A member of our congregation having generously offered to make good whatever sum might be needed, in addition to the receipts from the entertainment, to secure the $225 already promised, if the total amount asked for at Easter was raised, we have great pleasure in announcing that our total expenses for the year have been met, and we enter this month on a new financial year without any debt, except what remains of our mortgage. We are most thankful for this, and trust that we shall determine to keep up that record in the future, and in addition get rid of our mortgage debt as well.

ENTERTAINMENT OF S. JOHN'S GUILD.—Through the kindness of Mrs. Ervin, the patroness of S. John's Guild, who, though in Egypt, does not forget it, the Guild was able to return the civilities of S. Mary's Guild by inviting its members to an entertainment during Easter week. The members of both Guilds, the men of the choir and a few other invited guests were present. A pleasant evening was passed with music and dancing and a generous repast.

THE VESTRY ELECTION, held on Easter Monday, resulted in the re-election of those whose terms were expiring, and at the subsequent meeting of the Vestry the same Wardens and other officers and committees were appointed to hold over for another term.

ASCENSION TIDE.—In this month occurs the feast of the Ascension, which, being the name day of our Church, we keep as our special Parish Festival. The Feast itself is one of the great days in the Christian year, ranking with Christmas and Easter, and should be observed by church people more generally than it is. And as, in addition, it is the Parochial festival of this Church, our people ought to make a special point of keeping it. Our choir will give us a special service both in the morning and evening, and we trust both will be well attended. The Rector preaches his anniversary sermon in the evening, when he reviews the Parish year past and tells the people of his plans for the future. Let all take enough interest in their Parish Church to attend and hear what he has to say about it.

On the Sunday evening after the Ascension, there will be the usual Guild service, when the members of the different Parish Guilds will enter the Church in procession, and a special sermon will be preached to them by the Rev. Mr. Congar, Rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Rosemont.

On Monday evening, May 15th, will be the annual Parish Tea in Parish building, when we hope to see all the members of the Parish socially. The tickets—25 cents each, to pay the expenses—can be obtained from the Sexton.

ADVERTISING.—For two or three years past we have been doing no advertising of our services. But in order to make our services more generally known, we are now advertising the services each Saturday in the Ledger and Evening Bulletin, giving the anthems to be sung at the Sunday 4 P.M. and the subject of the sermon in the evening. We hope this will add to the size of our congregation. Master Horace Walsh, our soloist soprano, will sing either a solo or in a duet each afternoon, and the Rector preach on some popular topic each night.

THE ENVELOPES sent out the beginning of this month are for six months, as so many people being away in the Summer, it would not be possible to reach them the beginning of August if they were sent out for only three months now. It is hoped that all intending to be away during the Summer will put in offertory the envelopes for the time they expect to be away before they go, that the Church may have the funds to meet its expenses, which go on just the same in the Summer as in the Winter.

Two benevolent envelopes are sent out now, those for the Poor and for the support of the Sunday and Industrial Schools. These are the only collections in the year for these purposes, and we trust every one will contribute to them.

S. MARY'S GUILD.—Ten new members have joined the Guild during the past Winter. From last October until the beginning of Lent the Tuesday evenings were pleasantly and profitably spent as follows: The first and third Tuesday of every month, a trained nurse taught an Emergency Class for an hour; then another hour was spent in dancing or recreation of some kind. The second Tuesday of every month was devoted to the business and devotional meetings. The fourth Tuesday of every month a dancing class was taught, when S. John's Guild was invited to join S. Mary's Guild. When a fifth Tuesday occurred in a month some special lady was invited to give a talk. During Lent the members met to sew for two poor families in the Parish, and twenty-one garments were made. Since Easter seven members of the Guild are studying a play to be given at the Parish Tea, and the others meet to sew for a sale of fancy and useful articles which they hope to dispose of at the same time. On the fourth and fifth Tuesdays of the month the Winter arrangement of Dancing Class and Talk have been resumed since Easter. The meetings of the Guild will be discontinued during the Summer to be resumed again on the second Tuesday in October with classes and recreation. All girls in the Parish who have been Confirmed, not already members of the Guild, are cordially invited to come to this meeting and join it.

REPORT OF MOTHERS' MEETING

The ladies in charge of the Mothers' Meeting report having had a most interesting and profitable Winter. The members have been very regular in their attendance, the average number present being 16. Work obtained from several of the hospitals has been given out to be made up, for which the workers were paid. The total number of garments made was 993. Each member was furnished with a dinner on Thanksgiving Day, and for some six weeks a supper was provided before the meetings. The meeting has been made a center for the Star Saving Bank, all the members have opened an account, and all saving regularly every week as their means will allow. The members have all been constantly visited at their homes by one of the ladies in charge.

OUR PARISH YEAR

As usual on the evening of Ascension Day, the Rector preached his Anniversary Sermon, giving details of the work of the Parish for the past financial year. From the report prepared for the Bishop, it appears that the number of Baptisms and Confirmations were about the same as last year, there being one less baptized, one more confirmed. There were fifteen fewer names added to the communicant list and twelve fewer removed. The number of burials was more than double last year, due to the very severe and sickly winter we had.

The Sunday School is not as large as it should be, owing chiefly to the difficulty of securing faithful and devoted teachers. The Bible Classes have held their own, and the Industrial School has been larger and better attended. This school is composed of children living in the actual neighborhood of the Church, and does real missionary work.

The young people's Guilds of the Parish have been prosperous, as is seen by the reports we published in last month's and this month's issue. The Men's Guild gave one smoker during the year, which brought a number of the men of the Parish together. The Women's Guild has carried on the work of its several branches, the details of which will appear in due time in the Year Book, but it has to lament not having more members to take an active interest in it.

The financial report for the year shows the largest receipts for any year in the history of the Parish. This was owing to the Pleasonton legacy and to the amounts received from the stand in front of the Church during the Peace Jubilee, and from the entertainments gotten up by the ladies. The ordinary Sunday offerings of the congregation, we are sorry to say, were some $650 less than last year, though in last year's receipts was a gift of $500 which we cannot expect every year, and this year our receipts were very much affected by the unusual number of bad Sundays we had during the Winter.

The Pleasonton legacy puts the Church in a better financial condition than it has ever been in before. It has paid off all our floating debt, reduced our mortgage debt from $21,000 to $12,000, and added $1,000 to our endowment, the latter being held by the Vestry as a reserved fund to draw on during the Summer months when our receipts run down very much and when we have hitherto been obliged to borrow, and have often found difficulty in doing so.

The receipts from the Jubilee stand enabled the Vestry to make the very substantial improvement of tiling the aisles of the Church. And the recent entertainment, the receipts from which were nearly $700, made up the amount needed to meet the running expenses of the Church for the past year.

The review of the year presents some aspects which are very encouraging and some which are not so much so. We have now no debt but the remaining $12,000 mortgage, and our improved financial condition ought to make it easier for the Parish to meet its obligations in the future. On the other hand, we have not increased in numbers during the past year as we should have done. One reason for this is the deterioration of the district West of Broad street and between Lombard street and Washington avenue. This is the district which has, up to Sixteenth street, been especially assigned to this Parish by the Southwest Convocation, to which it belongs. In order to ascertain accurately its spiritual condition the members of our Parish branch of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew undertook, at the suggestion of the Rector, to make a religious census of it, the result of which is as follows: Number of houses visited, 889. Of these, 260 were occupied by colored people, 182 by Roman Catholics, 138 by Presbyterians, 43 by Methodists, 12 by Lutherans, 6 by Baptists, 32 by Jews, 2 by Chinamen, 26 by those professing no religion, 55 were vacant, in 54 were members of the Episcopal Church belonging to other Parishes, and 21 by persons attending this Church. This shows how difficult a field it is to draw from. Added to this is the fact that there are several other Episcopal Churches very near. St. Luke's-

Epiphany, All Saints' and St. Mark's Mission, each only three blocks off, the latter being conducted very much on the lines of the Ascension and in which there are no less than sixty workers from St. Mark's Church.

The fact that we have as large a congregation as we have, so many of whom come from a distance, is proof that the Church must possess special attractions. But the fact that the immediate neighborhood of the Church is such as it is, interferes very seriously with its growth. Our hope for the future is that Broad street south of the Church will improve, and that the Church will profit as well by the general improvement in the central part of the city, and we unite with the Rector in calling upon all our people to take more interest in, and work more for, and give more to, the Church than they have ever done before. We should get rid of all our debt and increase our endowment so that we shall not be affected by changes in the neighborhood, and we should have more and more earnest workers in all our departments.

We thank God for what has been done, the progress that has been made in the past, but we want to see still more done and more progress made in the future.

PARISH NOTES

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—Ninety volumes for our Parish and Sunday School library, material for three cassocks, flowers for Ascension Day, cake, coffee, sugar, cream, etc., for the Parish Tea.

ASCENSION DAY.—The keeping of our Parish Festival was greviously interfered with in the morning by a pouring rain, which made the mid-day congregation very small. It cleared off by night, when we had a fair attendance, but not nearly so many as the interest of the occasion should have called forth. The Guild service on Thursday evening passed off well, though the Guilds were not out in the force they should have been. The Parish Tea kept up the tradition of the Parish for a pleasant time. The large school room was crowded. S. Mary's Guild gave an effective play, and some members of S. John's Guild some songs. A new feature of the Tea was a small sale by the members of S. Mary's Guild, by which they realized $10.62 for the benefit of their Guild.

THE CHOIR, by universal consent, has improved very much of late. The tone of the boys' voices is especially good, and our leading soprano, Master Horace Walsh, has developed very much. He has been singing solos, or in duets, every Sunday afternoon during the last month, which has attracted much attention. We hope in the autumn still futher improvement in the music will be made.

SUMMER SERVICES.—As usual we change our hours of service this month, discontinuing the 4 p. m. and 7.45 p. m. services on Sunday, and having in their place a twilight service at 7 p. m. The daily service and Wednesday evening service also stop, there being services only on Wednesdays and Fridays and all holy days at 10 a. m. We hope all of our people who remain in the city will avail themselves of these services. There is no more reason why one should neglect going to church in the summer than in the winter.

The rector expects to be at the Church every Sunday during the Summer, and during July and August will take all the duty except the early celebrations, for which he will have help. Any one wanting a clergyman on account of sickness or for baptisms, marriages or burials can find one at the Church before or after any of the services, or can send word through the sexton, who will be at the Church daily.

DEATH OF GEN. LEIPER.—The Parish has lost one of its most distinguished members in the death of Gen. Leiper, which occurred last month very unexpectedly. Gen. Leiper was a veteran of the civil war, in which he so distinguished himself as to rise from a lieutenancy to be a brigadier general. He was in many battles, was taken prisoner and was wounded. The respect in which he was held was attested by the number of men attending the funeral, every seat in the Church being filled and many standing. The General had belonged to the Parish for some nine years, and took special pleasure in our musical services. He attended the last smoker given by the Men's Guild, and promised to make an address at the next one we should hold, giving some of his war experiences.

ENTERTAINMENT. — Additional receipts from the entertainment given last month bring the total amount received up to $698.41, almost seven hundred dollars! Well done!

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.—Our Assistant Superintendent, Mr. George W. Welsh, Jr., has resigned his position, having been transferred to the Church of St. John the Evangelist, at Third and Reed streets, as he lives in that neighborhood and finds it difficult to attend a Church at such a distance as the Ascension. Our thanks are due to Mr. Welsh for the faithful and regular way in which he has discharged his duties since he has been connected with the School.

S. JOHN'S GUILD for young men has now a membership of forty, thirty-five of whom are communicants of our Church, thirty are members of the Bible Class, six serve at the early or late Celebrations, four as cross bearers and banner bearers. The Bible class has contributed ten dollars to the Sunday school fund this year, and many help at the Church entertainments, etc.

The object of this Guild is to improve and help young men, and to bring their families into the Church. Miss Maria J. Gilpin is directress.

THE NEWS will not be issued during July and August. The following subscription has been received since our last issue:

Mrs. D. Hawkins.

ANOTHER SEASON.

As the summer, with its heat and departure of so many of our people from the city, with the consequent cessation of church work, is nearly over, and as we begin to gather our forces again for another season of activity, we want to call upon all our people for renewed and earnest exertions on behalf of our Parish, and point out to them some ways in which each and every one can help it on. In the first place, all Church people should remember that they belong to the Church, not only for the advantage and pleasure it may be to them, but in order, as well, to discharge through it their duty to their fellowmen. The Church exists to evangelize and bless the world, and that it may do that each member of the Church should do his or her full share in supporting and equipping the Church and taking part in its work.

Now, this can be done, first, by ever one belonging to a particular Parish. A person who simply belongs to the Church at large, and goes about from Church to Church without connecting himself with any, taking part in its work and helping in its support, is not doing his duty to it. There are many people who come here regularly, and a great many more from time to time, who are not known to the clergy or any one in the Parish. These people might do a great deal for the Parish, to say nothing of the benefit it might be to themselves, if they would let themselves be known. Let every one who comes to the Church with any degree of regularity have the goodness to give in his name and address that one of the clergy may at least call on him and make his acquaintance. If the clergy are ready and glad to do this, one would suppose that this request would be complied with. No one will be forced to do anything he does not want to do, but the acquaintance, at least, of the clergy can be no disadvantage. We should think it would be valued.

Secondly, let every one belonging to the Church be regular in his attendance. This is very important. It is important to the person himself that he may derive from the Church's services the benefits he should, and it is important from the influence he will exert upon others by his showing his appreciation of it and setting an example, than which nothing is more powerful. Many people get out of the way of Church going altogether because so many professedly Church people are so careless about it themselves. Surely, we must answer for the influence we exert, knowingly or unknowingly, on others. Few things would do more to fill up the Church and bring others to it, as its own members being always at its services. In fact, if all our own members attended with the regularity they should there would be little room left for outsiders.

In the third place, talk about your Church. Tell your friends about it. Tell them how much you love and prefer it yourselves to any other Church. Mention its free seats, its frequent services, the beautiful way in which they are conducted, its weekly Eucharists, its good music. These are things you do not find in every Church. And if they were more generally known they would be more appreciated. We must depend upon our members to bring others with them to Church. If they do not care to do it no one else will.

Fourthly, try to take some part in the work of the Church. We have a great many Parish agencies, including very different kinds of work, so that almost every one can find something to do in connection with the Church if he has the mind to do so. And ought we not to be as benevolent and charitable as we can? Of course, it will require some exertion and self-sacrifice. But can we profess to have any virtue if we are not capable of that? There is work needed to be done in our schools and other departments of church work, which is not done because there are not those who are willing to do it. How can those who refuse or are so unwilling to make the slightest exertion for the good of others, expect to have the approbation of Him who will say, "Inasmuch as you did it not to one of the least of these, my brethren, you did it not to me"?

Finally, let every one contribute as largely to the support of the Church and the carrying on of its benevolent work as he can. There are some who seem to think that a free Church is one in which one need not give anything. But, on the contrary, it is one in which each needs to give most generously, because it has no other means of support. It has no pew rents. It does not sell or let its benefits to the highest bidder. It gives to all freely, and so all should give to it. The rich should be glad to give liberally, feeling that they thereby provide religious benefits for others as well as for themselves. And the poor should give what they can, feeling that so far they do provide for themselves and are not wholly dependent upon the charity of others.

We shall speak again more particularly of this matter of church support, but we hope all our members will make a note of these different ways we have mentioned by which they can help their Church, and will resolve to throw their hearts and souls more into its interests and work during this coming season than they have in the past.

THE ASSISTANTSHIP.

The engagement of the Rev. Mr. Lanpher as Assistant Minister of the Parish terminates with the first of this month. His place is taken by the Rev. William Bernard Gilpin, who was a member of the Parish before taking Holy Orders, and so is already known to most of our people. For the last three years he has been curate of a Church in the suburbs of Boston, doing very hard work. We bespeak for him a hearty welcome back to the Parish and earnest support in his endeavors, especially to build up the Sunday School and extend the work of the Church in our immediate neighborhood.

PARISH NOTES.

THE SUMMER has been a delightfully cool one, a great contrast to the previous summer, which was excessively hot. The effect of the weather has been seen in our congregations, which, though not as large as they should have been, we are glad to say were better than a year ago. We keep a record of the attendance at each service, and so can compare year with year, and the average for the summer months was higher this year than it was last. Perhaps our music had something to do with it, as our choirmaster has tried to keep the standard up through the entire summer, when in so many Churches it is allowed to go down or omitted altogether.

As the summer was a cool one, so it was a healthy one. The Rector was, indeed, visiting some five sick persons during July and August, but one of these was the result of an accident, and he has not been called upon to officiate at a single funeral. One of the sick was a member of our Vestry, Dr. Thomas R. Neilson, who was very ill for some time from blood poisoning, contracted in performing an operation, but we are thankful to say he is now recovering.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL reopens with the first Sunday of this month, when we hope all the teachers and children who are in town will be present. We look for a large and successful school this year, as this is a department of church work in which our new Assistant Minister, Mr. Gilpin, is much interested, and in which he has been very successful in the Parish with which he was connected in Boston. We hope he will be efficiently supported by those who will be willing to take classes in the school. It is a most important and much needed work.

The Sexton has been diligently employed during the summer in reoiling the chairs and other furniture in the Sunday School and removing stains from the walls and ceiling, which adds materially to its appearance. And we hope soon to have a permanent division erected in the large Sunday School room, so as to make in the rear portion a separate room for the Infant School.

MEMORIALS.—Is there not some one in the congregation who would like to put a memorial in the Church to some loved one during the coming winter? We like to see some improvement made in the Church each year. We would suggest the following things as most needed: A stone or marble altar and reredos, the one we have is not worthy of the Church; a metal or carved wood rood screen to be placed on top of the dwarf screen we have. Both of these would be expensive. Less expensive gifts would be handsome stained glass for the windows where there is still only plain glass. There are three more in the chancel to be filled and a large number in the clerestory. The Rector has designs for these, which he will show to any one thinking of putting one or more in, and can give information in regard to the price. By resolution of the Vestry all the windows in the Church must be made by the same firm, so as to secure uniformity.

Another large improvement we need is the extension of our Parish building, so as to give us more rooms for our different departments of work. And then there is the debt, which, though reduced, still amounts to $12,000, on which we have to pay out so much interest every year.

In the way of smaller things, we need a new set of service books for the altar and clergy stalls.

FAMILY PRAYERS.

There is one mark of a household in which God is known and loved, which is too often wanting in our day. I mean the practice of family prayer. Depend upon it, the worth of a practice of that kind can only be measured by its effects during a long period of time, and family prayer, though occupying only a few minutes, does make a great difference to any household at the end of the year.

How, indeed, can it be otherwise, when each morning and, perhaps, each evening, too, all the members of the family the old, the young, the parents and the children, the master and the servants, meet on a footing of perfect equality before the Eternal, in whose presence each is as nothing, or less than nothing, yet to whom each is so infinitely dear that He has redeemed by His blood each and all of them? How must not the bad spirits that are the enemies of pure and bright family life flee away—the spirits of envy and pride and untruthfulness and sloth, and the whole tribe of evil thoughts, and make way for His gracious presence in the hearts of old and young alike, who, as He brings us, one by one, nearer to the true end of our existence, so does He, and He alone, make us to be "of one mind in a house" here within the narrow presence of each home circle, and hereafter in that countless family of all nations and kindreds and people and tongues, which shall dwell with Him, the universal Parent of all eternity.—Liddon.

ENDOWMENT OF OLD SWEDES CHURCH.

The late Dr. Charles J. Stille, ex-Provost of the University who died last month, did an excellent thing and set a capital example in leaving one-third of his estate to the Old Swedes Church in this city. How few persons leave money to churches, and yet to what better purpose could money be given, to carry on for all time the beneficent work which only the Church can do, and yet which cannot be done unless the church is supported and made independent of the fluctuations caused by death and removals among its members.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

The regular sessions of the Sunday School will begin October 1st, at 2.30 P. M. in the Parish rooms, followed by a service in the Church at 3 P. M. We look for increased attendance and deeper interest in the Sunday School this year than ever before.

It may be well to make a few general remarks on the subject of Sunday Schools. There are people who believe in Sunday Schools and there are people who do not believe in them.

Those who believe in them, and we hope all our parishioners are of this kind, may be divided into two classes:

1. Those who regard them as necessary evils.

2. Those who regard them as necessary blessings.

1. Those who regard them as necessary evils are they who never got any good out of the school and who look back upon them with but little pleasure, for they experienced no real benefit, but rather a great deal of discomfort and "nagging" on the part of a teacher who, knowing little, was not able to impart that little to the youthful mind.

The only reason such people have for sending their children to a Sunday School, is to get them out of the way of an afternoon.

Then, they recognize the material benefit that Christmas and Easter brings to the children, and they are not only willing to let them go where they like but allow them to attend as many Sunday Schools as they like.

2. Those who regard the Sunday Schools as necessary blessings, are they who look back upon them as a bright time in their lives. They associate with them some of the most helpful and happiest experiences. And even when most of what they learned has been forgotten, they cherish the memory of the teacher who had a personal influence upon them, because the teacher was one who took the trouble to know the scholar and show his or her interest in some real way. Such influence is seldom forgotten.

People of this class are anxious for their children to have the benefit of what was dear to them. They send their children to the school not for what they can get out of it in material benefits, but for what will help them to be good and true to right principles. They wish them above all things to learn to love their Church and will not allow them to float about from one Church to another.

They will see that the lessons for Sunday are as carefully prepared as those for week days.

They will encourage their children in many ways, especially in attending the children's Vesper service after the Sunday School.

It is hoped that all parents who read this article will wish to be regarded as they who believe that Sunday Schools are necessary blessings, and that they believe that it is our aim to make the Ascension Sunday School one of this kind.

We need the help of the parents at home. The teachers should realize the importance of their work; they must put their hearts as well as minds into the work. They cannot expect scholars to be prompt and regular if they are not. The children will become interested as soon as they see those whom they look up to are interested.

A CHURCH BELL.

There is more religion in the sound of a church bell than most people suppose. This fact was brought to the attention of the writer, while a curate at a Church in one of the thickly populated districts of Boston.

A large number of the people who lived in the houses and tenements that surrounded the Church, were employed in two large manufactories, and it was impossible for them to attend the daily services at the Church. Every morning and evening the small bell in the steeple of the Church was heard to ring for a few minutes. The sound of the bell carried its message into the homes, factories and saloons in the neighborhood, and this message was the fact that the Church was offering her prayers to God for her children—good, bad and indifferent.

Many a time a hard working man or woman said that although they could not come to Church, they heard the bell and knew that their pastor was praying for them. Many a sick person said the little bell brought to them much comfort while they lay upon the sick bed. Many a time sin-sick souls found their way into the Church and joined in the service. It was the bell that reminded them of a place where they could come apart from the world and rest awhile.

We do not know how many men and women were helped to resist a temptation to indulge in some vice by the memory that the sound of the bell brought to their minds, but we know that there are few who having become neglectful of their Church, do not associate the happy, innocent days of childhood with the sound of a Church bell.

The bell plays an important part in every well organized parish. It is necessary to the discipline of the Sunday School and choir; in fact, wherever children are concerned. The congregation as well as the clergy need to be reminded when the time for service is at hand.

These thoughts may suggest to some one the importance of our Church having a bell or at least a gong. The expense would not be much, and the blessing that its message would have for masses of people who pass by the Church, as well as for those within, would be very great.

PARISH NOTES.

THE ASSISTANT MINISTER of this Parish will hereafter be known as the Curate. This is the term universally applied in England, to assistant ministers, and some years ago the Bishop of New York strongly recommended its adoption in this country, together of that of Vicar for a clergyman in charge of a chapel, since which time it has become more in use. It is not only a shorter and more churchy term than that of Assistant Minister, but, especially where there are,as in this parish, many English people, it is better understood.

CHANGE OF SERVICES.— With this month the daily services recommence at 10 A. M. and 5 P. M., with Wednesday evening service at 8 P. M. and the Sunday evening services are changed to 4 P. M. Choral Evensong and 7.45 P. M. Evening Prayer and Sermon, in place of the twilight service.

THE DAILY SERVICE.—At the beginning of another season, when this service recommences, we want to call upon our people to use it more than they have done heretofore. Surely it is a privilege to be able to go to God's House for prayer and praise and meditation, not only on Sundays, but any day in the week. To do so, will be to bring our religion into our daily life, and make it more our support and guide. We are all too much taken up with earthly cares and pleasures. We do not think about spiritual things, as much as we should. The Church's daily service is her witness for the necessity of constantly thinking of and seeking God's help. The clergymen of this parish try faithfully to carry out the Church's provisions and yet the laity do not trouble themselves to use them. If a man like Gladstone could derive pleasure, and find the time as he did, even when he had all the cares of the British empire on his shoulders, to attend prayers in Church, at least once a day, surely most persons could do the same Cannot each of our members, as we have suggested before, resolve that they will attend at least one service during each week? If they did, it would provide a congegation at every service, and we are sure they would be helped and blessed by it.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL has been reorganized by the appointment of the following officers: Superintendent, Rev. W. B. Gilpin; Assistant Superintendent, Mr. Harry O. J. Childs; Librarian, Mr. Daniel L. Witmer; Organist, Mr. Albert H. Eagel. The sessions of the school will begin hereafter at 2.30 P. M. in the school rooms, followed by a Vesper service for the children in the Church, at 3 P. M. It is thought that this arrangement will give greater prominence to the Church service and secure greater reverence and punctuality in entering the Church, than having the service before the Sunday School, as formerly. As the session of the school will last only half an hour, and the service only half an hour, it is essential that there should be the most exact punctuality on the part of both the teachers and scholars.

THE BIBLE CLASSES will meet as formerly, at 3 P. M. recommencing with the first Sunday in this month. Mrs. Hodge and Miss Gilpin will both be present, and they hope to see all the former members of their classes, and any other of the young men and women of the parish who would like to join them.

WOMEN'S GUILD.—The annual meeting of the Women's Guild of the parish meets this month on SS. Simon and Jude's day, Saturday the 28th, after the morning service. Again we ask all the women of the parish to attend it. The object of the meeting, is to present to the ladies of the congregation an account of the work in its various branches which has been done in the past Church year, and to map out what should be done during the year to come. If our members would only feel it their duty to attend this meeting, we are sure that they would become interested, and learn of some way, in which they could help on the Church's work. If people were only willing to give a tithe of the time and attention to Church work, which is the most permanent and important work that can be done, that they give to all wordly interests, how much more might be accomplished than is done now. Do let all our women come to this meeting.

S. JOHN'S AND S. MARY'S GUILDS begin again their meetings this month, and it is hoped to continue the joint social meeting of the two Guilds, one evening in each month, which proved so acceptable last winter.

St. Mary's Guild begins its year's work with a devotional and business meeting on the second Tuesday in October, at 8 o'clock. It is hoped that all the old members will be present at this meeting, and all young girls in the parish over sixteen years of age, not already members, are cordially invited to come to this meeting, and become Guild members. The weekly meetings during the coming year will be for instruction, improvement and pleasure. A large membership and weekly attendance is earnestly hoped for.

BOY'S BRIGADE.—It is proposed to start a Guild for the younger boys of the parish, between the ages of eleven and sixteen years, and it is thought that the most interesting and profitable thing for them will be a military drill. No boy who is not a member of the Sunday School or Choir can belong to the brigade.

Meetings will be held every Saturday evening, beginning with this month, at 7 P. M., in the Guild Room. Applications for membership may be made to the Curate, the Rev. Mr. Gilpin.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Neilson, winter attendants of our church, celebrate this month the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage. We present them with our heartiest congratulations on this occasion, and join with them our heartiest prayers that they may still be long spared to each other and to the Church.

COMMISSIONED.—Our former choir master, Mr. Frederick B. Neilson has received a commission as First Lieutenant in one of the new regiments, and is now on his way to the Philippines. While we cannot but regret the loss of a man with his musical and other talents, still, as that is his choice, we congratulate him on the reception of his commission and trust that he will be happy in his new life.

CHURCH SUPPORT.

Churches, like all other institutions in this world, require funds for their support. Not only does it require money to build and furnish churches, but they must be kept in repair, heated, lighted and cleaned; there must be attendance, music must be provided, and if that is to be of a high standard it is costly. So with the clergy. If their whole time is to be given to the work, they must be supported, and a large parish requires a number of them, not only to conduct the frequent services required, but to visit and look after all the people, and attend to the schools, guilds and other parish societies.

The question then is, how is the money to be obtained for all this? Many different methods have been employed at different times and places for supporting Churches. In some countries they are supported by the State. The Church is looked upon as a department of the government and paid for out of the taxes and customs, etc. In other places the Church is endowed, property has been given or left to particular churches for the purpose. Another method very commonly resorted to, especially in this country, is that of renting the pews and seats. But to this there are great objections. It is wrong in principle, for it turns what should be God's House for all His children into the private property of those who can afford to pay for it. This has a very bad effect upon both the clergy and the people. It makes the clergyman dependent upon the approbation and support of the select company to which he ministers, and it makes the people selfish and luxurious, and forgetful of the great purposes for which the Church exists. And it produces the impression generally that religion is only a luxury of the rich, something poor people cannot afford, and so they learn to do without it, to their great loss, of course. We believe the neglect of the Church by so large a part of the community is due to this habit of pew renting more than anything else.

But if a Church is not endowed, which is the best and most to be desired thing if it can be accomplished, and the pews are not rented, how can it be supported? The answer is by voluntary offerings. But these must be sufficient and regular. That they may be, the person giving them must be conscientious and systematic. But it is difficult for people attending a church, some of them only casually, to appreciate how much is required to support a church or how much they individually should give towards it. And even those who do attend Church regularly, and wish to contribute their share towards its support, are very apt to be careless and forgetful of this duty. This is the great difficulty in supporting free Churches. And it is to obviate it that some system of pledges or regular subscriptions is generally resorted to. The plan most efficacious is that which is known as the envelope system. By it every one attending the Church promises to contribute so much a week, and an envelope is furnished him in which he can place his contribution. This helps him to be systematic and regular in making his offering and enables the Church authorities to know upon what they can count. And it is right in principle. It teaches that the giving to the support of God's House should not be a matter of barter and sale for the accommodations furnished in it, but a gift to maintain it for the benefit of all who can use it. And it makes the amount one gives to be measured not by the place in the church which it secures, but by the ability of the giver. "He that hath much should give plenteously, he that hath little should gladly give of that little" according to the Scriptural precept. But the benefits of the Church are given in return irrespective of the amount each contributes.

This system of Church support is that which has been adopted in this Parish, and, therefore, it should be used by all. But we are sorry to say that by no means all even of our communicant members comply with it. And, consequently, while they may contribute on the Sundays on which they are in church according to what they may happen to have with them, they do not give as largely and as regularly as they should. They do not give in the course of the year as largely as they would if they were renting a pew or contributing by means of the envelopes. In saying this we speak generally. Of course, there are exceptions. There are careful and conscientious persons who will, and do, give as largely and regularly without making any pledge as those who do. But they are exceptions. And, therefore, we urge every one, no matter how small the sum is which he feels he can give towards the support of the Church, to give it through the envelopes. It should be just as much a matter of course in this Church for a person to take an envelope as it is in another Church for him to rent a pew. And we want to see all our people doing it. The Church will not be properly supported, and we shall always be struggling with deficits until they do. Each member of a family should take an envelope, as well as the head of the family. It is one of the advantages of this system that it thus teaches each member of the Church the duty and responsibility of personally contributing to its support. The pledge may be withdrawn or altered in amount at any time you find it necessary to do so, but it should be made. We hope to see our list of contributing members largely increased this winter. Our Church needs a larger income for its support than it has, and the way to secure it is for each member to do his duty to it, and comply with the system which has been adopted for its support.

OUR BOYS.

Any one who is anxious to see our Parish grow, should remember that the boys and girls of to-day will be the men and women of the future; and just in proportion to the amount of interest shown these boys and girls now, will be shown by them in the future. The Church has an opportunity to reach many young people in this vicinity, and should take advantage of it. There are many ways of interesting children; but, possibly, there is no way of interesting boys so well as forming them into a company of soldiers. It is just as natural for a boy to pretend that he is a soldier, and hold himself erect and look brave, even though he holds a broom stick in his hand, as it is for a little girl to pretend that she is a mother, clasping her rag baby stuffed with sawdust.

It is proposed to take advantage of this characteristic in the boy and develop it into what constitutes manliness. A corps of cadets has been organized, and the boys have shown their usual enthusiasm and willingness to be trained. The advantage of such an organization to the Church has been fully shown by work of this kind in other Churches. It makes the boy have a great interest in the Church. It gives the clergy an opportunity to meet boys on their own ground and lead them into other branches of Church work.

Many of the boys who have joined the company cannot afford to buy their suits, and as it is very important that all the boys should be uniformed, in order to make them realize that they are in earnest, it is necessary to have the money to buy what is needed.

To meet this expense it is proposed to have a list of honorary members. Any one contributing fifty cents or more, may become an honorary member of the company.

At least fifty dollars is required, and it is hoped that all who are interested in the work among our children will help the Ascension Cadets. Contributions will be thankfully received by the Curate, who is at present in charge of the Company.

PARISH NOTES.

WINTER WORK. — With this month all our departments of work come into full operation — the Mother's Meeting on Wednesday evenings after the Church service, the Industrial School on Saturday mornings, the Embroidery Class on Thursdays after morning prayers, the Ladies' Aid Thursday afternoons at 3 o'clock, the Monthly Missionary Meeting on the first Friday of each month after morning prayer. Will not each of our ladies take an interest in one or more of these branches of Church work? The work and influence of the Church could be greatly extended if more would take part in these different organizations than have done so in the past. Will not especially all our ladies attend the Monthly Missionary Meeting of the Parish on the first Friday, and thus acquaint themselves with the wants of the different missionary fields, and see what they can do to help in them. If many would each do a little, a great deal would be accomplished altogether. Our ladies will now be engaged in making up their annual missionary boxes, and any contributions towards them will be most acceptable.

OLD CLOTHES.—We want to remind the members of the congregation at this time of the year, when they are renewing their wardrobes, that the Church is a depot to receive any kind of old or cast off clothing, even old shoes. Any articles of the kind can be sent to the Church at any time, as it is always open, or the sexton, if notified, will call for any bundles. Whatever is good enough for the purpose we put in missionary boxes, the rest we use in the Parish or among poor who apply for help. Often our children cannot come to Church or Sunday School for lack of clothes or shoes, and are thankful for what we can supply them with.

EXTRA ENVELOPES.—The special envelopes sent out this quarter are for the Christmas offering and for general missions. We require the Christmas offering to make up the average for the year and enable us to meet the interest on our mortgage, which becomes due in December, and which, though reduced in amount, is still considerable. And what is given through the envelopes for general missions is the annual offering of the congregation for the carrying on of the missionary work of the Church in the world at large. We hope every one will be returned well filled. And we must remind many of our people that they have not yet returned all the envelopes they received last month for the poor and for our schools. These envelopes support the benevolent work in our own Parish, and we need means, not only to keep up what we have been doing, but to enlarge the work. We have no other collections for the purpose but these. If any have envelopes marked for the poor or the schools, let them put in them as large an offering as they can and return them in some offertory very soon.

THE WOMENS' GUILD'S ANNIVERSARY on SS. Simon's and Jude's Day was better attended than any other we have had, more money was contributed to the different departments of work and more interest was shown. We hope this augurs a more successful season of Church work than any we have had. Let all our women take part in some of it.

WANTS—The Ladies' Aid of the Parish would like very much a piece of serge for cassocks for the choir, with the necessary lining. Also material which they could make up into clothes for some of our poorer members, especially children, who are in need of them.

SUBSCRIPTIONS TO THE NEWS.—Many of our subscribers are in arrears, and we need their subscriptions to pay our printer. Will not each one, when he gets his notice that his subscription is due, put it in an envelope marked ASCENSION NEWS, with his name and address within, and put it in the alms box in the vestibule of the Church. or hand it to the sexton? This will save the trouble of collection.

The following subscriptions were received since our last issue.

Miss Mary S. Hamilton.
Mrs. C. H. Darlington, $1.00.

FORMS AND CEREMONIES

There must necessarily be a certain amount of form and ceremony in the public worship of God. There is form and ceremony in the intercourse of man with man. The more polite and refined a society is, the more form and ceremony there is in it. The same is true of all public offices, our courts, the army, the navy, the Government. Even in a republic those in authority can only be approached under certain forms, and still more is this the case in a kingdom or empire. So, it is right and necessary that certain forms should be observed in approaching God. They are necessary to make us mindful of what God is and how inferior to Him we are. Yet there is always a danger in the use of forms that they will degenerate into formalities—that is, be used in a cold, unfeeling, perfunctory way, without the heart and soul being involved, and no worship is real that does not come from the heart. So, owing to this danger connected with them, there are persons who would discard them altogether. They say religion is a matter of the soul, and that outward forms are only show and hypocrisy. This has been the history of them in the Church. Under the old dispensation they were very elaborate, and came to be used by many in a merely mechanical way. This our Lord Himself reproved, and spoke very strongly of those who so abused them, though he never spoke disparagingly of the forms themselves. And so, in the Christian Church, forms were introduced from the very beginning, and gradually they became very elaborate and were abused in the same way. Then came a revulsion, and men said let us sweep them away altogether and do without them. And many of the Protestant bodies were formed on this principle of having no ceremony in the worship of God, erecting only plain buildings they called meeting-houses, and having no liturgy or vestments or other adjuncts of worship, not even organs. But, little by little, these bodies have been departing from these principles, and more and more form is creeping into the worship of all denominations; even that body called the Friends, which protested most against the use of form, has become the most formal, in its peculiar way, of all.

The truth is, there must be some form and ceremony in all worship, and the right thing to do is to try and guard against the dangers connected with it, and not attempt to abolish it altogether, for then we should lose the advantages it possesses.

Still, it is true, also, that it is largely a matter of taste and temperament. Some persons like and are helped by the use of forms, and to others they are very distasteful. This is largely due to education and habit. If persons have been brought up, or have long been accustomed, to worship without any form, or with a great deal of form, they naturally find it hard to conform to the opposite, whichever it may be. Then, there are persons who are very bigoted in regard to forms. They associate the use of certain forms with certain opinions or teachings, and they have no tolerance for them at all. And so there is often a great deal of discussion and contention in regard to forms.

Such a discussion has been going on lately in the Church of England, owing to the growth of ritualism there and the reintroduction of many things in the worship of some of the Churches which have been discarded since the time of the Reformation. The right to do this has been questioned. The Bishops and Archbishops have been appealed to to say what is the law of the Church in regard to them. And the Archbishops, as the highest spiritual authority in regard to such matters, have lately given their decision in regard to two points, viz.: that of the use of incense and the carrying of lights in processions, that they are neither enjoined nor permitted by the law as laid down in the Prayer Book and Canons of the Church. This may be true, as there is certainly no reference to them in the Prayer Book, which sets forth what are the ceremonies of the Church. And yet it seems a pity that if any persons are helped in their worship by the use of these things—things which were used in the Jewish worship and have been used in Christian Churches, eastern and western, for many centuries—that they should not be permitted to have them. Why should one class of persons want to thrust their tastes and preferences upon all other classes? Is there any right more inherent or essential than that of worshipping God according to the dictates of one's own conscience? Or is there any liberty one should be allowed more than that of worshipping according to the modes that may be most agreeable to oneself?

In this free country, where the Church has no connection with the State and is not bound by the same iron cast law, it is likely that greater freedom will obtain, and that we shall see, as we do, indeed, now, great diversities in the modes of worship in our various Churches. And we think that this is the right way. Let each congregation have the forms and ceremonies they like best and find most helpful. If there are people who prefer plain services, let them have them. And if there are those who prefer more ornate ones, with the use of various ritual accessions, let them have them. But do not let one set of people try to coerce another set, and force them to worship according to ways which are distasteful to them. Let there be no fighting or contention about such things, but let the right and liberty be fully recognized of each one to worship according to the method that he deems right and best suited for himself.

PARISH NOTES.

THANKSGIVING. — Through the bounty of the young ladies of Miss Anable's School and of some of our parishioners, all the members of our Mothers' Meeting were supplied with Thanksgiving dinners, consisting each of a chicken, potatoes, white and sweet, celery, a quart of cranberries and a pound of sugar and of rice.

CHRISTMAS.—There will be, as usual, on Christmas Day, three celebrations of the Holy Communion, at 6.30, 7.30 and 8.30 A. M., in order to give every one an opportunity to make their Christmas Communion. The music at the midday celebration will be Feild's service, including the "Te Deum." Special offerings are asked to meet the interest on our mortgage debt, $335, which becomes due this month, and also to make up for the summer months, in which always our expenses exceed our receipts. We should have $1,000 in all on Christmas Day. When you are making gifts to your friends, do not forget the Church, which is your best friend, and which freely gives her services to you without any charge.

THE CHILDREN'S CHRISTMAS.—A special effort will be made this year to make the children of the Parish have a happy Christmas. There will be the usual service in the Church on the evening of Holy Innocents' day, followed by an entertainment in the school building, in which some of the children themselves will take part, after which gifts and candies will be distributed. The families of the children are especially invited to be present. The entertainment, however, will be only for those children who are regularly attending the Sunday-school now. Contributions for the children's festival may be handed to the clergy or put in the alms chest in the vestibule of the Church.

ADVENT COMMUNIONS. — There will be a special celebration of the Holy Communion on Thursdays, during Advent, at 9 A. M. It is thought this may be convenient for those who cannot come on Sundays or at an earlier hour.

DIOCESAN MISSIONS.—The Rector will be called away from the Parish occasionally this winter to present the cause of Diocesan Missions in different Churches. There being now no Archdeacon, the presiding officers of the several Convocations have undertaken to do this work which formerly the Archdeacon did, and our Rector, as one of them, has to take his turn. He has already preached in two Churches on this subject, and is this month to preach in another one. He hopes not to have to do so more than one Sunday in each month.

THE LADIES' AID SOCIETY meets every Thursday to sew for the Church. Its members would be very glad to make up garments for some of the needy in the Parish, especially the children who have not proper clothes. But they must have material to do this. Will not some one send them a piece of gingham or of flannel for underwear?

MUSICAL RECITALS are given every Sunday evening for an half hour before the service, by our night organist, Mr. Twaddell.

MUSICAL PROGRAMME. — Last winter our organist and choir master, at his own expense, printed every month a musical programme of all the services. It was a great convenience, enabling all the people to see what music was to be sung, a list of all the hymns, tunes, etc. The cost of printing this was considerable, and we cannot expect the choir master to bear it all himself, as it is for the convenience of the people. If our people desire to have it continued it will be necessary for them to subscribe for this purpose. Any persons doing so can hand their subscriptions to the choir master or one of the clergy, or put it in an alms plate or box, in an envelope, designating the purpose.

THE SUNDAY NIGHT SERVICE.—In order to brighten up and make more attractive the night service, and as a musical service seems to be more generally acceptable, that service is this winter being rendered semi-chorally. That is, the Versicles, with the Creed, prayers and responses, are sung, though the earlier part of the service and the Psalter is still read. Two of the men of the regular choir sing now at the night service, in addition to some volunteers.

GIFTS.—A linen baptismal napkin, embroidered. The following volumes have been presented: Sadler's "Commentary on the Four Gospels." Also 29 other volumes for the parish and Sunday School library. Books from this library can be taken out after any Wednesday evening service.

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS.

As many of our subscribers do not seem to heed the notices that their subscriptions are due, which are sent them in their copies of the NEWS, we propose to send a postal card to all subscribers whose subscriptions are now due. Will not all owing subscriptions pay them this month, that we may be able to close the year free of debt.

The following have been received since our last issue:

Rev. G. W. Hodge. Mr. Carroll Hodge.
Mrs. Hodge. Miss Bryson
Miss Agnes Haynes. Mr. H. L. Kelley.
Miss Sarah Wilson (2 years).

SOME USEFUL SUGGESTIONS.

A new parishioner should at once make himself known to the Rector. This is quite an easy matter. It does not involve much labor, but it accomplishes a great deal. When this is not done it sometimes happens that a person may attend service for years and never become known to any of the members of the Church, nor even to the Rector. It is much better, therefore, to at once make yourself known.

Then, if you propose to finally settle down and make this your Church home, see that you have a transfer from your late parish. Your old Rector will be sorry to lose you, but he will be glad to feel that you are not ecclesiastically homeless.

Contribute as liberally as you can to the support of your Church. If envelopes are used, take one. You don't, of course, want to be dependent upon others for your spiritual privileges so long as you can pay for them. Many have no conscience in this respect and do themselves infinite harm thereby; but you will hardly care to be one of them. It will give you a sense of independence to know that you are doing what you can to support your Church.

Then identify yourself with one or more of the parish organizations, and bear your share of their work. We have never yet found a person who really wanted to work to whom we had to say that there was nothing they could do. We never expect to be in this position.—Selected.

DOUBTS AND DIFFICULTIES

A great many persons have doubts and difficulties in regard to religion. Some find it hard to believe in the existence of a God, or to reconcile human experience with belief in a benevolent God, there are so many things in human life which seem hard and cruel. Or some believe in God, and practice the duties of religion, until some sorrow or calamity comes upon them, and then their faith fails, and they are rebellious or cast down. Then, there are those who have difficulties with the Christian religion, with the doctrines of the Trinity, the Incarnation, the Atonement, or the miraculous element in the Bible, or with its claim to inspiration, the apparent inconsistencies and discrepancies of its histories, and variant teachings in it. Then, there are many persons who, even though believing in the Christian religion, find it very difficult to practice it, to carry out its teachings in their individual lives and conduct. They often are in great doubt as to how, under certain circumstances, they should act; what their Christian profession requires of them, or what is morally right or wrong, or they are oppressed with a sense of wrong-doing. They either have, or think they have, committed grave sins, and they are uncertain as to whether their repentance is sincere and their forgiveness assured; or they do not know what they should do to undo or make up for the wrong they may have done. Then, there are a great many persons who have difficulties in regard to the Church. They do not rightly understand the differences between the various denominations and the principles they teach. They do not know why they should belong to one denomination rather than another; or they do not understand the forms and ceremonies of the Church, what they mean, what is their purpose. And when they hear other people talking about these things, finding fault with them, or ridiculing them, perhaps, they do not know how to explain or defend them.

Now, what should people do who have these doubts and difficulties on any of these subjects? We answer, go to the clergy with them, and ask them to help them. This is the business of the clergy. They have been especially trained for the purpose. No one can be ordained a clergyman until he has gone through years of preparation and study. He must have learned several languages, he must have familiarized himself with all the objections that can be brought against both natural and revealed religion, and learned how they can be answered. He must have studied and mastered questions of Biblical criticism and still himself believe in the Bible as the Word of God. He must be acquainted with the great principles of morals and casuistry, and have some experience in dealing with cases of conscience. And he must know what is the meaning of, and the authority for, all the forms and ceremonies of the Church, and the differences involved in all questions of Church organization and discipline. So the clergyman is the proper person to consult on all such matters. Of course, he is not infallible, and he may not be able to answer every question you may put to him. But neither is any physician infallible, and yet you go to him if you are in any doubt, or have any ailment, as to your physical condition. And if the particular clergyman you go to cannot, himself, satisfy all your difficulties, he can at least refer you to those who can, or tell you authorities to be consulted, and how you can do so. This, we have said, is one of the great purposes for which the clergy exist, and yet, as a matter of fact, a great many persons having such doubts and difficulties as those of which we have spoken, never go to their clergy about them, never let them know they have them. The reasons for this are shyness, dislike of talking about religious matters, especially personal ones, unwillingness to appear ignorant, and dread of the clergy, fear they will be shocked, that they will regard the questions as very wicked, or that they will resent being approached or troubled about such things.

Now, this is a great mistake. The clergy should be looked upon as the most accessible of professional men, because it is their duty and their pleasure to do just this sort of thing. Other professional men you can not go to without paying them. But the clergy do not ask for pay. They want to be useful, they want to help men in moral and religious matters. That is what they have devoted their lives to. And it is a real grief to them that people so often fight shy of them and do not come to them with their troubles. Of course, they try to meet the doubts and difficulties which they know people have by their sermons and instructions and private conversations, when they get the chance. But unless people will tell them what they are thinking about, and what troubles them, they are more or less in the dark, and can only talk at random. Perhaps the very things they try to explain may be understood already, or those things they think to be plain may not be understood at all.

Never hesitate, therefore, to go to the clergy with any trouble you may have. Whether you belong to his congregation or not, any clergyman will be glad to give help and information in regard to religious matters. And our people do not go to the clergy nearly as much as they should.

In this Parish, the clergy announce that they will be glad to see persons wishing to talk to them after any service on Sunday or week day, preferably the latter, as they then will generally have more time, or they will make appointments with any persons desiring to see them. Go to them, and you will find them always ready and glad to help you in any way they can.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS.—The Eucharistic banner the embroidery class of our Guild has so long been engaged in working, was at last finished, and was most beautifully made up with gold velvet border and gold bullion fringe and tassels; also new banner pole, with the handsomest brass mountings. It was carried in procession for the first time on Christmas Day. It will be the chief banner of the Church. A new white brocade stole, the class has been embroidering, was also finished and used for the first time; also an embroidered linen corporal and stiff chalice pall In addition to this, the Rector received a very handsome lawn surplice, embroidered. Ten tons of coal were given for the poor of the Parish and a quantity of poultry and provisions for some twelve Christmas dinners.

A friend of the Parish has also kindly had printed a new sign for our evening services, and a circular asking for books for the Sunday School.

No one has yet given us the Altar service book we asked for some time ago; that in use now is going to pieces.

CHRISTMAS.—We were blessed with a beautiful Christmas Day and our services were well attended. The number of communicants was slightly larger than last year and offerings about the same. We would liked to have seen them larger. Our people do not seem to realize how important it is we should have a larger income than we have.

The children's Christmas festival was made quite a point of this year. Through the exertion of the teachers, quite a fund was raised and each child was given a present, in addition to the usual candy and fruit. The children themselves contributed to the entertainment by some piano playing and recitations, and by a regular cake walk, admirably performed by two of the younger children. Two members of St. John's Guild gave some singing. There was also a veritable Kris Kringle and his wife, who came in through a window, and, after Christmas greetings, distributed the gifts.

The service and singing in the Church were very good.

The poorer members of the congregation were not forgotten, some twelve families being provided with a dinner, consisting of poultry and other provisions; and ten tons of coal, the gift of one of our members, were distributed among the women attending the Mothers' Meeting who were most needy.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL.—Mr. Harry O. J. Childs, who was acting as assistant superintendent of the Sunday School, and his wife, who was one of the teachers in the Infant School, having moved out of town, have been obliged to give up their work. Mr. Henry B. Hodge has taken the place of the former. We would gladly welcome other young men as teachers in the Sunday School.

MISSIONARY MEETING.—Do not let our ladies forget the Monthly Missionary Meeting on the first Friday of each month, after morning prayers. The ladies sent to the West a very nice missionary box last month. But we ought to do more still. The postal cards, asking for contributions for the different missionary Boards of the Women's Auxiliary, will be sent out this month.

PARISH VISITING.—The Rector wants to say to those members of the Parish whom he has not seen for a great while, that he has not forgotten them. He will get around to see them in time. But the people must remember that he cannot be everywhere at once, for, though he spends a part of every day regularly in visiting, it takes him the whole winter to get all around to see every one. As he has over three hundred different houses to go to, and those are scattered all over the city, from No. 2400 South to 3800 North, and from Second to Fifty-second street, twenty-eight of them being in West Philadelphia, it does not require much arithmetic to show how long it takes to go to them all. If persons changing their residence would always let the clergy know, they would save them often a great deal of trouble.

THE NEWS—We enter this month upon the thirteenth year of the publication of this little Parish paper. We feel that it has been invaluable as a means of communicating with our people, teaching them and telling them about the Church, as could not be done from the pulpit. We think it most important, therefore, that it should be kept up. But if this is to be done, our people must pay their subscriptions to it. One hundred and fifty notices were sent out in December to those whose subscriptions were due, and only thirty-five have responded. Will not the others kindly do so? The following are the subscriptions received:

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. P. Pepper, $1; donation, $1
Mrs. Isabel Schell, 50c.; donation, 50c.

CONFIRMATION

"Why should I be confirmed?" In order that every one who asks this question may find a simple and definite answer, the following thoughts are given:

In the first place, it is important for us to remember that in our Baptism we were made members of Christ's Church. We were all given to Jesus, and He took us and made us His own. We belong to Him. Our profession is to follow His example and to be made like unto Him. It is our duty to live for Jesus, and we ought to be ashamed of ourselves if we do not. The truth is, we cannot do our duty without God's help; and this help is given to us in Confirmation. We receive the Holy Ghost to strengthen us.

In order to make the above clear, it is only necessary to consider more fully (1) the History, (2) the Meaning, and (3) the Effect of Confirmation.

History.—Our Lord himself was the first to be confirmed, for He received the gift of the Holy Ghost in an outward and visible sign—the form of a dove. The apostles were the next to be confirmed by the descent of the Holy Ghost at Pentecost; and, again, there was an outward and visible sign—the tongues of fire. Our Lord did not begin His work till He had received the gift, and He forbade the apostles to begin their work until they had received it, thus pointing out the importance of the gift. But the Holy Ghost came down on the apostles to stay until the end of the world, and from that day the apostles could give the Holy Ghost by prayer and the "laying on of hands," as Confirmation is called in the Bible. For we are told that after Philip had converted and baptized certain Samaritans, the apostles sent Peter and John, who laid their hands upon them that they might receive the Holy Ghost. S. Paul reckons the laying on of hands among the foundation principles of the doctrine of Christ. We have, therefore, no Scriptural pledge that we receive this gift except by the laying on of apostolic hands, and one can not be a Bible Christian and ignore this important rite.

Meaning.— The fullest idea of Confirmation, as taught by the Church, is found in the prayer repeated by the Bishop just before he lays hands upon the heads of the candidates: "Almighty and everliving God, who hast vouchsafed to regenerate these Thy servants by water and the Holy Ghost, and hast given them forgiveness of all their sins; Strengthen them, we beseech Thee, O Lord, with the Holy Ghost, the Comforter, and daily increase in them Thy manifold gifts of grace; the spirit of wisdom and understanding, the spirit of counsel and ghostly strength, the spirit of knowledge and true godliness; and fill them, O Lord, with the spirit of Thy holy fear, now and forever." This ancient prayer teaches (1) that we have been regenerated and born again in Baptism, and in Baptism all our sins, actual and inherited, were forgiven, and (2) that in this Baptismal life we need to be "strengthened" (the same word as "confirmed") by the Holy Ghost that we "increase" or grow in the seven gifts of the Spirit.

Effect.—In Confirmation we offer something to God, and God, through His minister or representative, blesses and sanctifies what we offer. That blessing is God's consecration. In Confirmation, we offer to God ourselves, our souls, our bodies, our hearts, our minds, our wills, and God consecrates all for His service.

A new power is added to all that is thus consecrated. The mind possesses a new power for knowledge, the heart a new power for love and devotion, the will for struggle and for service. Therefore, Confirmation is often called the putting on of the whole armor of God, a wonderful armor that strengthens as well as protects, and the soldier enlisted and professed in his Baptism goes forth to serve the Lord and battle against sin in the power of the Holy Spirit—the selfsame armor worn by Jesus in His fight for our redemption.

If the reader has not been confirmed, may he open his heart to the call of the Mother Church and say, "Why should I not be confirmed?"

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS.—In response to our appeal last month, a very handsome altar service book has been presented to the church, in memory of our late parishioner, General Charles L. Leiper. The Ladies' Aid has also received nine yards of material for a cassock, and 47 books have been presented to the Sunday School library, and some magazines for the Guild room The rector received lately a note containing a fifty dollar bill, to be used at his discretion for the benefit of the Church, from a lady who was formerly one of our parishioners. Such a gift is valuable, not only from the good it will do in meeting some expenses not otherwise provided for, but as testifying to the affection still borne for the Church by one who has been removed from us for several years, and can but seldom attend it.

A REAL CHARITY.—Many of our readers will be interested to know what is a real charity. It is the work carried on by the "Mothers' Meeting" of our Parish. Most of the women are hardworking people with families to look after.

The meetings began last November, and since that time some excellent work has been done, in the way of making garments for children in several institutions and a hospital.

The following is a summary of the work done up to January 10, 1900: For the Foster Home, 407 garments; Home of the Merciful Saviour, 48 garments; Home of S. Michael and All Angels, 32 garments; Hahnemann Hospital, 12 garments. Total, 499.

Mrs. Mason, who is the head of the "Mothers' Meeting," has received some grateful acknowledgements for the good work that has been done. Mrs. Innis of the Home of the Merciful Saviour, writes: "The work is well done, and most satisfactory. I cannot express my thanks to you and to all who have helped me so much in this work." Mrs. Barton of the Foster Home, also expresses her satisfaction and gratitude for the work done for the Home.

It is plain, from the above, that a great charitable work has been done. But the "Mothers' Meeting" does not stop here. Many of the mothers have received remuneration for their time, to the extent of $39.29. These cold figures, of course, do not represent the full benefit of the help that has been given to many who need it.

To meet this expense, $33.50 has been contributed by different members of the Parish, leaving a deficit of $5.79.

Last Thanksgiving Day many of the mothers were made happy, by receiving dinners for their families. $18.00 was received and spent for this purpose. Enough has been said to show that the "Mothers' Meeting" is a real charity, and that the work should receive the hearty co operation of all the parishioners, in order that the work may be carried on and extended.

MUSICAL SERVICE.—The choir gave us a very fine musical service, a cantata called the "Story of Bethlehem," on the afternoon of the second Sunday after the Epiphany. It was very well rendered, and the Church was full.

ENVELOPES.—We are glad to say that more envelopes are now in use by the members of the congregation than ever before. But we would like to see more still taken. Whatever you can give, do it in this way. If all would use them, so that the Church would thus have a sufficient income to meet its current expenses we might then have, as they do in other Churches, special collections on certain days for benevolent purposes, to which our people ought to contribute, as well as to the support of their own Church. The benevolent envelope for the quarter on which we enter this month, will be for Diocesan Missions. For this purpose our Parish is expected to contribute $120. The Rev. Dr. Harris, Rector of Grace Church, Dean of the Northeast Convocation, will preach on this subject in the Church, on the last Sunday morning of this month, and all the offerings at that service outside of the envelopes will be given to this object. If more than $120 is contributed, it will go to the Church Extension Fund of the Diocese. Our Rector will speak on the same subject on the morning of that day in S. Luke's Church, Germantown.

CONFIRMATION.—The Bishop of the Diocese has appointed the evening of April 4th, for the administering of Confirmation in this Church. Preparatory instructions will be given by the Rector on Mondays at 4 P. M. begining with Monday, February 26, and by the Curate at the Wednesday evening service, beginning with February 21. All looking forward to Confirmation will be expected to attend one of these courses, whichever may be most convenient for them.

ALTAR FLOWERS—One of the most beautiful things to see in a Church are the altar flowers. They give a brightness that nothing else can give. But their usefulness should not cease with beautifying the most important part of the Church. They ought to serve as a memorial to some loved one whose life, like the flowers, beautified God's House by his or her presence and the fragrance of devotion. Then the flowers should go into the homes of the sick and feeble to cheer their lonely hours.

The flowers that have been provided by the Altar Guild, owing to the smallness of the fund to provide them, are the florist's fragments, attached to wires stuck into moss. These soon fade, and are little better than artificial flowers.

In view of the foregoing facts, would it not be well for different members of the Church to take upon themselves the providing for the Altar flowers?

It is suggested, therefore, that any one who wishes to place upon the altar a fitting memorial for some loved one, to select a Sunday in the year for this purpose. Any one who feels so disposed, will kindly communicate with the head of the Committee, Miss Parmalee, 2304 De Lancey Place.

The flowers for the summer months are provided by the generosity of one of our members, who raises them herself.

FAIR—A fair will be held Friday, March 2d, at 1502 Spruce street, for benefit of the "Mothers' Meeting." The object of this fair is a worthy one, and should receive the aid of all who are interested in the good work of the "Mothers' Meeting." Miss Graham, of 1502 Spruce street, will be glad to receive articles from the members of the congregation. Every one should contribute something, and in other ways do all they can to make the fair a great success.

ENTERTAINMENT—A very successful entertainment was given by S. Mary's Guild, Tuesday evening, January 30th, under the management of Mrs. Van Harlinger and Mrs. Tait. They were assisted by the talented members of the Guild, and their friends, in music and recitations. The Parish Room was filled with an appreciative audience.

ASCENSION CADETS—It may interest those who have helped us with the cadets, to know that the boys now have their guns and are hard at work drilling under the care of Mr. Carroll Hodge of the City Troop and veteran of the late Spanish war.

The boys are to have a prize drill in the spring. It is hoped that more members of the Parish will become honorary members of the cadets, so as to enable the boys to get the uniforms, which are necessary to the organization of the company. In addition to the uniforms, a silk flag, captain's sword and a bugle are needed. Here is an opportunity for any one to show interest in our boys.

MISSIONARY BOX.

The following acknowledgment of the missionary box, sent in December, has been received:

January 8, 1900.

MY DEAR MRS. GILPIN:—The splendid box of valuable things reached us on Saturday last, and I have no words to tell you how thankful we are for the many useful things.

The suit for Tom fits nicely; in fact, everything seems to be just what we most needed. We are enjoying the delicious jellies and candies, and the chocolate also very much. It was so kind of you all to put them in the box. The pair of men's shoes are a splendid fit for me. I am so thankful for them. I pray that God will continue to bless you all in your work and labor of love for the dear Lord and His Holy Church.

It was one of the largest and most valuable boxes we have ever received. Our box came from Philadelphia last year from St. James' Parish. I have a great many very dear friends in your city. I hope to make a visit there sometime to see them. I have a large work for one man to do. I am supplying eight missions, but I love the work so much that it doesn't seem hard. Really, it it is great privilege to work for our dear Lord and His Church.

Thanking you again and all who contributed to our relief, and praying God's richest blessing upon every member of your Guild, I am, as ever, yours very sincerely and affectionately, —— ——.

A PARISH HOUSE

We have long been in need of more accommodations in our Parish building. On Sundays we have not enough rooms for our Bible classes, infant school, etc. The latter is now held in the Church, and one Bible class has to wait until another one is over in order to use the same room; and on weekdays we have often two or three things going on the same evening, requiring a great deal of arrangement, and one thing often interfering with another. Moreover, our Curate is very anxious to have a place where we can carry on a more extensive work among the young men of the Parish than we can with our present accommodations.

Various plans for enlarging the present building have been, at times, proposed, such as putting on another story, or extending it out to Broad street. But these cost too much money. Another plan has now been adopted as, at least, a temporary expedient. The Vestry have determined to rent the house in Kater street, immediately west of the Church, and cut a door into it from our present building. It is a three story brick, six room house, the rooms back and front being of equal size, the stairs going up between them. This will give us a good deal of additional space, rooms that can be used for work, play, smoking, library, etc., during the week, and for class rooms on Sunday, and will be of great advantage in extending the work of the Parish. Of course, it will increase our expenses. The rent of the house ($16 a month) must be paid, and it will have to be heated and lighted. For this we must look to increased offerings or special contributions from those who are interested in seeing our Church do all the charitable work it can. In addition to this, the house will have to be fixed up and furnished. The owner will not do anything to it, and it will probably have to be repapered and painted throughout, and a furnace must be put in, as it is now heated by stoves, also the door cut through. For this we ask for special contributions, which can be handed to either of the clergy or placed in any offering in an envelope marked for "Parish House." In regard to the furnishing, we have some few pieces we have been accumulating with this end in view, but we need more, especially in the way of chairs, tables, carpets or rugs. Perhaps there are those in the congregation who may have some pieces of this kind which they could spare, which would be very acceptable. We expect to get possession of the house the middle of this month.

LENT

The call of another Lent is upon us. Let us all resolve to use it as the Church intends it to be used—for practical efforts for the increase of our spiritual life.

We all need awakening. Some of us have been deliberately doing what we know to be wrong or neglecting evident duties. Others have fallen far short of doing what they should have done, become careless and remiss. And we have all been too self-indulgent, and had too little zeal for God and spiritual things. Lent is a call to all to reform and begin anew, and especially to exercise self-discipline and become more devout.

They are many different ways for self-discipline, and the Church leaves her children free to choose that method which each thinks best suited for himself. But let all see that they use this Lent in some way for discipline. That is essential for all bodies of men and for all individuals who would accomplish anything. An undisciplined life means a life that is a failure, if not a positive harm to the world. Let us put ourselves under discipline as an exercise, that we may gain the invaluable power of self-control under all circumstances. And let us give ourselves more to prayer and to good works.

We shall hope to see our people more regular at Church on Sundays and during the week. We hope to see our daily service better attended than it was last Lent. The boys of the choir will be present at the daily afternoon service at 5 P.M. as usual. And we shall have this year, as during Advent, an extra Celebration of the Holy Communion on Thursdays at 9 A.M. until Holy Week, when there will be the daily Celebrations at 7.30 and 10 A.M. On Friday afternoons at the 5 o'clock service, the Rector will give a course of instructions on the "Doctrine, Discipline and Worship of the Church," and there will be a special service for children on Saturdays at 4 P.M. The Confirmation Instructions will be on Wednesday evenings at 8 o'clock and Monday afternoons at 4 o'clock. Any one can attend these Instructions, and all thinking of Confirmation are expected to attend one course whichever may be most convenient, either that in the afternoon or the evening.

May this Lent be a spiritually profitable one for all in the Parish.

PARISH NOTES.

PICTURE OF THE CHURCH—Our diocesan paper, The Standard of the Class, contained in the number for February 3d a history of our Parish, with excellent photographs both of the exterior and interior of the Church and of the Rector. Copies were mailed free of charge to all the members of the Parish, and a hundred additional copies sent to the Church for distribution. If any have not seen it and would like to have a copy, they can apply to the Verger for one.

DEATH OF MR. JORDAN.—The congregation will miss the familiar figure of Mr. G. F. Jordan, who passed away February 8th, after an illness of six weeks. For more than ten years Mr. Jordan has been a most regular and interested attendant at the Church, generally present at two services each Sunday, frequently assisting in collecting the offerings. He was always too at our parish teas, and at the teas given to the members of the Mothers' Meeting, taking much pleasure in waiting upon young and old. Though seventy-five years of age at the time of his death, he preserved his health and faculties remarkably up to the time of his illness. He passed away most peacefully at the end, his devoted wife and the Rector being alone with him at the time. May he rest in peace.

REMOVAL.—We shall suffer a great loss in the removal to New York City of Mrs. John Mason. Mrs. Mason has for many years been the most efficient head of our Mothers' Meeting, a position entailing a great deal of work. She has also generally had charge of our annual Parish Tea and other entertainments which have been gotten up for the benefit of the Parish. In fact, we do not know how her place is to be filled on these occasions. Our only hope is that her removal to New York may not be a permanent one.

CANTATA. — Maunder's cantata entitled "Penitence, Pardon and Peace," will be rendered by the choir, largely augmented, at the 4 P. M. service on the second Sunday in Lent, March 11th. As the one given after Christmas was so successful, we have no doubt this will be the same.

A RECEPTION was tendered by the members of S. John's Guild to the Rev. Mr. Gilpin and to Mrs. Spencer Ervin on Monday evening, February 26th, in the Parish building. It was a most enjoyable occasion. A number of musical pieces were rendered by Mrs. Ervin and some members of the Guild, followed by an ample collation.

THE LADIES' AID will sew on Thursday afternoons during Lent for the Maternity Hospital, and would be glad if any of the ladies of the congregation would join with them. They will be thankful for donations of suitable material or of money.

DIOCESAN MISSIONS.—The Rev. Dr. Harris, Dean of Northeast Convocation, presented this cause most forcibly to our congregation on the morning of the last Sunday in February, and all the offerings outside of the regular Sunday envelopes were given towards making up the amount which this parish is expected to contribute to this object, which is $150. We made a mistake last month in saying it was only $120. This sum is more than double what we were asked to give last year, owing to a new system of apportionment having been adopted by the Convocation. The effect of this system is that the amount heretofore contributed by the larger and richer parishes has been greatly reduced, and that asked from the smaller and poorer parishes largely increased. We do not think this is fair. But since it has been adopted by the Convocation, we ought to try and comply with it. The offerings on Sunday, February 25th, together with some previously received only amounted to $18.47, so there is a great deal yet to make up. Will not each member of the congregation contribute through the white envelope marked "Diocesan Missions," as largely as possible. These envelopes may be placed in any offering during this or next month.

CHILDREN'S LENTEN SERVICES. During Lent there will be special services for children Saturday afternoons at 4 o'clock. These services will be particularly interesting to children. There will be a short address, illustrated by pictures representing the figures around the cross.

March	3.	The High Priest.
"	10.	The Roman Soldier.
"	17.	The Mother of Jesus.
"	24.	S. John, the Faithful Disciple.
"	31.	The Penitent Thief.
April	7.	The Centurion.
"	14.	S. Joseph of Arimathea.

SUNDAY EVENING SERVICES. The subjects of the addresses at these services during Lent will be as follows:

I. The Voice of Jesus.
II. The Word of Jesus.
III. The Ear of Jesus.
IV. The Hand of Jesus.
V. The Touch of Jesus.
VI. The Look of Jesus.

A GUILD FOR GIRLS.—We have, in our Parish, a "Mother's Meeting," S. Mary's Guild for young women, S. John's Guild for young men, and the Ascension Cadets for boys. It is now proposed to have a Guild for girls between the ages of twelve and fifteen. The meetings will be held Saturday afternoons at 2.30, beginning March 3d. The object of this guild is to band together the girls and interest them in the work of the Junior Auxiliary to the Board of Missions. We hope that the mothers who cannot take an active part in missionary work, will encourage their children to come and join the Guild; we are sure such interest on the part of the children will do them much good and be of great benefit to the Church.

THE NEWS.—The following subscriptions have been received since our last issue:

QUIET DAY AND CONFERENCE FOR WOMEN

The Quiet Day for Churchwomen will be held in Holy Trinity Church, Nineteenth and Walnut streets, on the second Thursday in Lent, March 8, 1900, to be conducted by the Rev. Floyd Tomkins. Services: 8 A.M., Holy Communion; 10 A.M., Holy Communion; 12 M., Meditation; 1 to 3 P.M., Intermission; 3 P.M., Address; 4 P.M., Address; 5 P.M., Evening Prayer.

The Conference of Churchwomen will be held on Friday, March 9th, in Holy Trinity Parish House. Sessions at 10.30 A.M. and at 2 P.M. Topics: "The Bible: Is It Regarded as the Guide of Our Daily Life;" "Our Children and Our Country;" "The Consumers' League;" "The Modern Craze for Work."

HYMN FOR CANDIDATES FOR CONFIRMATION

Take my life, and let it be
Consecrated, Lord, to Thee;
Take my moments and my days,
Let them flow in ceaseless praise.

Take my hands, and let them move
At the impulse of Thy love.
Take my feet, and let them be
Swift and beautiful for Thee.

Take my voice, and let me sing
Always, only, for my King;
Take my lips, and let them be Filled with messages from Thee.

Take my silver and my gold;
Not a mite would I withhold.
Take my intellect, and use
Every power as Thou shalt choose.

Take my heart, it is Thine own;
It shall be Thy royal throne.
Take my will, and make it Thine;
It shall be no longer mine.

Take my love; my Lord, I pour
At Thy feet its treasure-store.
Take myself, and I will be
Ever, only, all for Thee. Amen.

—Frances Ridley Havergal

SERVICE

We are placed in this world not to do our own will, but the will of God. As communion with God is our special privilege, so the service of God is our special vocation. We were made to commune with God and to serve Him. A beast has no idea of such a calling. He follows the instincts God has given him, and those instincts restrain him from the abuse of his appetites. This call to God's service raises our lives far above the animal nature into a sphere of superhuman and God-like existence, for which we were made.

But the vocation to serve God, as well as the privilege to commune with Him, depend for their growth upon our use of them. An arm allowed always to hang at the side would grow small, withered and useless. Exercise it regularly and constantly and it grows strong and powerful. This is one of God's laws of growth. So the vision of God fades away from those who neglect their prayers, and they fall into a godless life, and so the joy and love of God's service grows cold and dead in those who follow their own will and pleasure. On the other hand, the sense of God's presence, and his abiding and protecting care, become more and more vivid and real to those who increase the earnestness of their prayers, and His love comes home to the heart with greater conviction to those who live for Him.

SEVEN DESIRES AND HOW TO OBTAIN THEM

1. If you desire prosperity; believingly and faithfully cast your portion into the Lord's Treasury. Malachi iii, 8-11.

2. If you desire charity from your fellow-men; less gossip, unkind speeches and insinuations will bring it—and God's blessing, too. St. Matthew vii, 2.

3. If you desire love from God; daily acts of love toward your neighbors will bring it. St. James ii, 8.

4. If you desire strength to withstand temptation; daily acts of self-denial, in will and deed, will bring it. St. Matthew xvi, 24.

5. If you desire the wisdom that maketh wise unto salvation; God's word, daily read with prayer, will bring it. Psalm 119, 81.

6. If you desire a more devotional heart; you will get it if you make that the special intention of your daily prayers this Lent. I Thessalonians v, 17.

7. If you desire to grow in grace, to increase in godliness; a duly-prepared-for weekly Communion this Lent and at all times will help you. St. John vi, 56, 57.

THE LORD'S DAY.

There are some persons who have no idea of any moral obligation in regard to keeping the Lord's Day. They see no need of giving themselves, or granting to other people, one day in seven as a day of rest, or of using it for religious worship.

There are those who say that they see nothing moral in the Fourth Commandment. They regard it as part of the old Jewish ceremonial system which has been abrogated. But, in reality, it stands on a very different basis. The Ten Commandments were given by themselves to Moses under circumstances of great solemnity, and they have always been regarded by both the Jewish and the Christian Church as being the great summary of the moral law. And any one who reflects must see that it is a moral obligation to giving to others, and to taking for one self, a certain portion of time for rest and for religious worship.

While it is the part of man in this world to work, God does not require, and human nature cannot stand, working all the time without intermission. It is as necessary for the human body and mind to have rest and diversion as it is necessary for any machine to be stopped and repaired, from time to time. People may say that it is arbitrary to demand this particular proportion of one day in seven for a day of rest, but it is no more so than the requirement of the body for seven hours in every twenty-four for sleep. And it is a moral duty for every one to conserve and develop both his physical and mental powers, which one cannot do if one is over and unceasingly worked. Still more immoral is it for one to force others, over whom they have control, to work all the time without intermission.

So, in regard to religious worship, if there be a God, a certain amount of reverence and worship is His due, and if a man has a spiritual nature, he must give some time to its cultivation, and unless some particular set time is given to it, it will not be done. Hence the duty of keeping the Lord's Day for these two purposes—rest and worship.

It is true that there are certain classes of persons, especially the Puritans, who have insisted upon the keeping of this day with too much severity; they have turned it into a day of fasting, austerity and gloom, forbidding all, even the most innocent, relaxation and recreations on that day, and insisting that all its hours should be taken up with religious exercises. From this there has lately been a great revolt; rational people have felt that that was unwise and unnecessary. But in that revolt they have run very naturally into the other extreme of neglecting its observance altogether, ceasing to keep it as a day of rest and worship at all, and turning it into a day of boisterous and laborious pleasure seeking.

In addition to this, the increase of wealth and the many modern modes of easy and inexpensive locomotion, making it possible for persons of all classes to go out into the country or on various excursions, have tended to make the proper observance of the Lord's Day altogether forgotten. And many of our Church people have become most careless in regard, both to their occupations and to the performance of their religious duties on that day.

But it ought to be possible for conscientious people to observe the due mean between too much strictness and too much laxity in regard to the keeping of Sunday. Our Church has always taught that it was a festival, a day of cheer and brightness, when all persons are entitled to a holiday from their daily labor and to the enjoyment of all innocent and healthful recreation, especially those that do not require labor for themselves or other people, and a day which should be hallowed by at least one attendance on the public worship of the Church.

All Christian people ought to realize the moral duty of giving themselves, both their bodies and minds, one day's rest in seven, from all secular avocations, and, still more, of allowing it to all those whose labor they employ or can control.

It may not be possible for all persons to have the same day for rest, as certain works have to be carried on continuously. But that is not essentially the point, it is the proportion of having one day in every seven. So all households should be arranged so that every member should be permitted to attend Church at some time in the course of each Sunday. Unless our Church people are more careful in regard to this matter themselves, and will try to exert what influence they can towards preserving the Lord's Day for the purposes for which it is intended, a great moral and physical injury will result.

EASTER.

The Queen of Festivals is again upon us. Will not all our people try to observe it with due solemnity and devotion? Of course, we try to make our Church and services as beautiful and attractive as we can on that glorious day, but our people should come to them, not as onlookers at a show, but try to enter into their meaning and significance. Let every one realize what Easter teaches in regard to the divinity of our Lord and the religion we profess and the glorious hope it gives us for the future. So, let every one prepare himself with sincerity for his Easter Communion and make it really the beginning for a new and better life.

We shall have celebrations as formerly on Easter Day at 6.30, 7.30 and 8.30 A. M., in addition to the mid-day service, so that all can make their Communion at some hour during the day. Or, if anything should prevent one communicating on the day itself, let him do so on Easter Monday or Tuesday or the following Sunday, when there will be the usual celebrations.

We hope, too, that every one in the congregation will make a special and large Easter offering towards meeting the expenses of the Church. We are sorry to say, that in spite of the large reduction in our debt that we were able to make last spring through the receipt of a legacy, and some other reductions which we have made in our expenses, our regular income is still inadequate to meet our ordinary expenditures. It is, therefore, only by special and large offerings at Christmas and Easter that we can hope to come out square at the end of the year. The Rector has frequently asked the congregation for at least $1,000 on these occasions, but the whole amount has seldom been realized. Let us see if this year our people cannot, by special exertion, raise that full amount, as we shall need really more to meet our expenses for the year ending May 1st.

PARISH NOTES.

SPECIAL SERMONS—During Lent the Rector has had engagements to preach, in addition to his work in the Parish, at S. Timothy's, Eighth and Reed Streets; Epiphany Chapel, the Chapel of S. Simon the Cyrenean, S. Matthew's, Francisville; S. Paul's, S. James', Hestonville; Trinity Church, Oxford; Trinity Chapel, Centerville, and Christ Church Chapel. The Curate has preached in S. James', Hestonville, and at Cold Spring on the Hudson.

HOLY WEEK. — Our services during Holy Week will consist, as in former years, of the daily celebrations at 7.30 and 10 A. M., with the exception of Good Friday, when the mid-day service, consisting of Morning Prayer and the Litany, will begin at 11 A. M., and be followed by the preaching of the Cross from 12 to 3 P. M. There will be also the daily evening prayer at 5 P. M., and a sermon on the Passion at 8 P. M. every night except Monday, when Stainer's cantata of the Crucifixion will be rendered by the united choirs of the Ascension and St. Andrew's, West Philadelphia, and some special soloists. On Good Friday, at 9.30 A. M., the Curate will conduct a special service for the children.

EASTER MUSIC.—The choir will render Woodward's Te Deum in E flat and Guilmant's Mass in E flat, on the morning of Easter day, and Harry Rowe Shelby's Cantata called "Death and Life," at the 4 P. M. Service.

EASTER FESTIVAL.—The Children's Easter Festival Service will be held at 2.45 o'clock Easter Day. The children meet in the Sunday School room at 2.30, and march into the church at 2.45. All the children of the Parish, whether they belong to the Sunday School or not, should be present at this service to join in the children's praises. The mite boxes, which the children have been trying to fill during Lent, will be offered at this service. The children's offering for Missions should be much larger this year than last year.

After the service Easter plants will be distributed to the children.

ENTERTAINMENT.—The ladies of our congregation, in order to help meet our current expenses, have secured the services of some ladies and gentlemen who have kindly offered to give a dramatic entertainment at the New Century Drawing Room on the evening of Monday, April 23d. A large number of ladies have consented to act as patronesses, and a souvenir programme has been printed, from which we hope to realize a good deal from advertisements. The cards of admission will be $1.00 each, and can be obtained from any of the patronesses or from our verger, Mr. Morgan. The entertainment will consist of two plays called "Man Proposes" and "Poor Pillicoddy." There will also be some music, we hope, by Mrs. Spencer Ervin and others.

ST. MARY'S GUILD. — As the second Tuesday of this month occurs in Holy Week, the regular monthly meeting of St. Mary's Guild will take place the third Tuesday—the 17th. The members of the Guild are rehearsing to take part in the entertainment to be given by the members of St. John's Guild, on the evening of April 26th.

PARISH HOUSE.—The project of obtaining the house adjoining the Church property, on Kater Street, has fallen through, owing to a disagreement with the agent in regard to it. Would that this might lead to putting an additional story on our Parish Building, which would not only give us the accommodation we should have had in the Kater Street house, but would include a gymnasium, which we very much need.

A PASTOR'S CARE.

A woman, now well past fifty years of age, tells the following story of the Rev. Mr. Keble, the real leader of the great Oxford movement, though he worked quietly and out of sight, in his country parish.

"I was born in Mr. Keble's parish, and attended his Church. When I was about fourteen years old, Mr. Keble asked me to join the Confirmation class. I had a saucy tongue in those days, and told him that I was not good enough. But he told me that was pride, and that I ought to want to be good, and so I consented. One day, before the Bishop came, Mr. Keble saw me laughing in Church, and, after service, he spoke to me about it. I was a silly girl, and I got angry, and said: 'There, I told you I was not good enough to be confirmed,' and, turning away, I came no more to the class. I thought Mr. Keble would come after me, but he did not, and, in my pride, I was again angry because he did not come. The following summer, however, I took the fever and nearly died, and I remember well that when I came out of the fever, there was Mr. Keble sitting by the bedside. I just felt bad, and when Mr. Keble said: 'Martha,'—for that was my name—'would you not like to be confirmed now?' I said 'Yes.' Then he went away, and returned with the Bishop, who confirmed me in my bed.

"I got better after that, but when I got well I felt wicked again, and did not make my Communion for a long, long time. Whenever I saw Mr. Keble coming I got out of his way, and yet I knew I was naughty and proud. But one day I was walking along the road all alone, coming home from work, and I sort of came to myself, and said to myself: 'Martha, you are a naughty girl, and God will surely punish you. If you do not make your Communion now, you never will.' I was still too full of pride to let Mr. Keble know it, and so I ran away and took Communion at the next parish. Well, the very next day I met Mr. Keble on the road, and, in my pride and shame, I looked the other way. But he would not let me go by. He crossed the road and said: 'Martha, I am glad to hear that you made your first Communion yesterday. You must come back now, where you belong.'

"Soon after that I moved away to another parish, and saw no more of Mr. Keble, till one day I heard he was dying. When I heard that news I walked all the way home to learn how he was. I knew the cook at his house, and when I was coming up the path she stood at the door, and called out: 'Why, Martha C——, where have you been all this time,' and I went into the kitchen with her. Pretty soon the nurse came down from upstairs, and said Mr. Keble had heard my voice, and wanted to see me. She led me up to his room, and there was Mr. Keble in bed, and I was just crying. He put out his hand, said: 'Martha, I am too ill to talk, but I want you to kneel down while I give you my blessing.' Then I knew that all those years Mr. Keble had been praying for me while I had been so rude to him, and as proud and conceited as I could be."

RESURRECTION THOUGHTS.

ROBERTSON: "There are times when we envy, as possessed of higher privileges, those who saw Christ in the flesh. We think that if we could have heard that calm voice, or seen that blessed presence, or touched those lacerated wounds in His sacred flesh, all doubt would be set at rest forever. Therefore, these words must be our corrective. God has granted us the possibility of believing in a more trustful and more generous way than if we saw. To believe, not because we are learned, and can prove, but because there is something in us—even God's own Spirit—which makes us feel Light as light, and Truth as true; that is the blessed faith. Blessed, because it carries with it spiritual elevation of character. Narrow the prospects of man to this time world, and it is impossible to escape the conclusions of the Epicurean sensualist. If to-morrow we die, let us eat and drink to-day. If we die the sinner's death, it becomes a matter of mere taste whether we shall live the sinner's life or not. But if our existence is forever, then plainly that which is to be daily subdued and subordinated is the animal within us; that which is to be cherished is that which is likest God within us; which we have from Him, and which is the sole pledge of eternal being in the spirit life."

CHURCH UNITY

There is no question but that the greatest hinderance to the spread of Christianity and the greatest weakness to the cause of religion is the divisions among Christians. As long as Christians are divided up into so many different bodies, not in communion with each other, teaching such various and contrariant doctrines, and wasting so much strength and money in maintaining many different churches and institutions in the same locality, it is impossible that the world at large should have that respect for religion that it should, and bow to its teachings, or that the Church should exert the influence and do the good it otherwise might. Look at our small country towns, each with six or seven mean little churches, each struggling to exist and resorting to all sorts of modes and rivalries to maintain itself, when there are not more than enough people really to fill one large fine parish Church. And the same thing is true of the cities. There are many small and feeble Churches where there should be a few strong ones. And when such different doctrines and practices are taught, is it any wonder that men are puzzled as to which is true, and doubt whether there is truth in any of them. How, too, can the missionary work of the Church be carried on under such circumstances? If all the different Christian bodies send missionaries to the same place, what idea of the Christian religion do the heathen get, and how are they to know which is the true Church?

That this state of things is not in accordance with the mind of Christ is seen from His prayer in the most solemn moment of His life when He was bidding farewell to His disciples: "that they all might be one," and giving as one of the reasons of his prayer that they might be one, "that the world may believe." And in New Testament times we find no such divisions—only one Church—and when any sign of division occurred, it was sternly rebuked by the Apostles.

And that which makes these divisions so wrong and inexcusable is that so many of them are about such trivial things. We venture to say that a large number of the members of the different religious denominations could not give an intelligent reason for their existence as separate bodies. The separations have occurred about questions and issues which were largely personal, and have long since ceased to exist, so there is absolutely no excuse for their continuance.

But how are they to be done away with? How can Christians be brought together in one body, or how can even some of the divisions among Christians be done away with? When persons have been born and brought up as members of a particular body of Christians, and Churches have been built and often endowed as belonging to such a body, it is very difficult to get men to change or have the property transferred to any other denomination. And yet, if the present condition of things is wrong and an injury to the cause of Christ, ought not a way to be found for doing away with this evil? Ought we not at least to try to work towards this end? An evil that has existed a long time and taken deep roots may take a long time and require great efforts to eradicate, but it never will be done at all unless a beginning is made. Slavery would not have been done away with in the British Empire and in this country if no one had ever testified against it that it was evil. So we must begin this work of bringing Christians together by rousing their attention to the fact that is wrong for them to be separated. There are multitudes who are unconscious of there being any evil in it. They accept the present condition of things as if it was normal and right, and are so absorbed in the interests of their own particular denomination that they never think of the interests of the Church at large, and how its work and efficiency is hindered by these divisions. Then, too, many of the separations among Christians are due to ignorance and superstition, and inability to understand the position and principles of others and the attaching of too much importance to things that are not essential. All need to become more liberal and charitable in their judgment of others. So there is a vast educational work that must be carried on as a first step in the direction of Church unity.

It is chiefly to carry on this work that the "Church Unity Society"—of which the Rector of this Parish is the general secretary—exists. It has published a number of papers and tracts on the subject, which it distributes, as far as it can get the means to do so, among the clergy and members of the various religious bodies, pointing out the evils of division and the duty and necessity of unity. We should be glad if members of this congregation would become members of this Society, and thus help on this great work.

There has been a wonderful doing away of hatreds and prejudices and estrangements among Christians of late years, and many signs of a tendency towards union. But there is a great deal yet to be done—the end is yet far off. But it is worth working for, and it will not come unless it is worked for, and there is no work so blessed as that of the peacemaker.

OUR FINANCES

For the past financial year, in spite of a considerable reduction in our expenditures, and of about $400 received as the proceeds of an entertainment gotten up by our ladies, we come several hundred short of meeting our expenses for the year. These expenses are kept down to as low a figure as is possible, for we pay our clergy and pay for our music as little as we can expect, and yet we do not meet even that expenditure, and we do not see how it can be otherwise until all our debt is paid off and our endowment fund increased, or there is a very large increase in the size and wealth of our congregation. We believe our people contribute, generally, very handsomely in proportion to their means. But we have very little wealth in our Parish, and so cannot get the means to carry it on as we should like to see it.

PARISH NOTES

HOLY WEEK. — Our services, which consisted of at least four each day, were well attended. The Church was filled on Monday night when the Cantata of the Crucifixion was rendered. The Rector preached on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings, and the Curate on Wednesday and Friday. A service for the children was held by the Curate on Good Friday at 9.30 A.M. and the Rector preached the Stations of the Cross from 12 to 3 P.M.

EASTER was a gloriously beautiful day and the Church, too, was very attractive. There were about 350 Communicants at the four Celebrations. There was a large attendance of the children at the 3 P.M. service, and each child was presented with a growing flower in a pot. At 4 P.M., the Cantata of Death and Life was well rendered by an augmented choir. The Easter offerings amounted to just $700, though $1,000 was asked for. Unless this amount is made up, we will begin again the old process of eating into our reserve fund, which means living on our capital instead of our income.

NEW CHOIRMASTER.—The engagement of Mr. O'Daniel as choirmaster and organist of the Church having expired the end of last month, his place has been filled by the appointment of Mr. Walter St. Clare Knowdle, and as Mr. O'Daniel has secured another position out of the city, he was anxious to be relieved before the expiration of his engagement. Mr. Knowdle, therefore, entered upon his duties on Low Sunday. Since last June he has been organist and choirmaster of the Church of the Evangelists, on Catharine Street above Seventh, and comes to us very well recommended. We trust he will be able to keep up the reputation this Church has always had for good music.

THE VESTRY.— At the annual election for Vestrymen held on Easter Monday, Messrs. Francis S. Keese, Thomas Robb, John D. Henderson and G. Gibson McCall were duly elected to serve until Easter, 1903. At a meeting of the Vestry held subsequently, Mr. Wm. Moore Wharton and Dr. Arthur Van Harlingen were elected to fill vacancies caused by the resignations of Mr. Robert R. Corson and Mr. Stevenson H. Walsh. The Rector appointed Mr. J. Edward Carpenter Rector's Warden and Mr. Charles E. Bonnet was re-elected Accounting Warden. Mr. John D. Henderson was elected Secretary of the Vestry, in the place of Mr. George Gray Knowles, who declined a re-election to the Vestry owing to his removal to Washington. Messrs. Samuel Wetherill, J. Edward Carpenter and Francis S. Keese were elected delegates to the Diocesan Convention and representatives of the congregation in Convocation.

GIFTS. — The members of S. Mary's Guild and of the embroidery class presented the Curate with a very handsome white silk chasuble, stole and maniple, embroidered in blue. Another member of the congregation also gave him a surplice. A white silk stole, two white silk bookmarkers for the lectern Bible were made for the Church by the embroidery class of the Altar Guild. Material for a cassock was presented, some pieces of carpet for kneeling hassocks and four large photographs for the Guild room. An alb, amice and girdle for the Cross bearer were also presented, and used by him for the first time on Easter day. The servers ought properly to be vested in the same way. If any one will present the linen for the purpose our ladies will gladly make them. We need, also, linen for new cottas for the choir. A piece of muslin for the Mothers' Meeting was presented by John Wanamaker.

THE ENTERTAINMENT for which our ladies have been working came off on the evening of April 23d, and proved very successful. Two plays were rendered by some ladies and gentlemen living out in the neighborhood of Ogontz, to whom we owe many thanks. There were also some Gibson tableaux by some of this year's débutantes and other friends, which added much to the attraction of the evening. The New Century Drawing Room, where it was held, was well filled, and the receipts over all expenses from the sale of tickets and from a souvenir programme amounted to about $400.

PARISH FESTIVAL. — We shall keep our Parish Festival as usual this month. Special anniversary service and sermon on the evening of Ascension Day at eight o'clock, Guild service on Sunday evening, May 27th, and Parish Tea on Monday evening, May 28th. We hope to see all our parishioners at these services and at the Parish Tea.

OUR ADVERTISERS

It is only right and proper that we mention the subject again, and urge our people in return for their ads to give their patronage. But in so doing, be sure to mention this paper, or we do not get the credit due us.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

The work among the children has been most encouraging.

Since the schools opened last October there have been continual additions, and the attendance of both teachers and scholars has been very good.

The children seem to appreciate what has been done for them at Christmas and Easter, and have been generous in their offerings at the Sunday School services, and through the Lenten offering for Missions. After paying all expenses there is a surplus of $65.00 in the treasury. Beside this, the children gave $85.00 through their mite boxes. The total offering of the children is about 40 per cent. greater than last year.

The children of the Sunday School are arranging for an entertainment to be given at the end of the month. It is to be an entertainment of special interest to the parents and friends of the children. In addition to a cantata to be sung by the older girls, and fancy drill by the boys of Co. A., Ascension Cadets, there will be pieces and songs by the little ones.

The object of this entertainment is to raise a fund to send some of the children into the country during the hot summer months. It is the hope of the Curate to keep up the work among the children through the summer, for most of the children remain in town.

Most of the Sunday Schools close during the summer on account of the difficulty in getting teachers; this difficulty will be partly overcome by having the Sunday School continue after Whitsunday in the morning, at 9.30 The instruction will be given in the Church, instead of the Sunday School room.

THE GUILD OF THE GOOD SHEPHERD

This Guild was organized at the beginning of Lent to interest the younger girls of the Parish in the work of the Junior Auxiliary to the Board of Missions.

Miss Alice Marion Pepper is in charge of the Guild, assisted by Mrs. Gibson McCall.

The following is Miss Pepper's report of the work done by the Guild:

"The Guild met every Saturday afternoon during Lent at 2.30, with an average attendance of fifteen girls between the ages of twelve and sixteen.

The total number of garments made, 14, consisting of 8 flannel skirts, 2 underwaists and 4 checkered aprons. Eight beautiful scrapbooks were also made by the younger girls.

The Guild received a donation of 26 garments, which in addition to their own work, have been sent to Asheville, N. C. to be used in the Missionary work of the Church among the "poor whites."

EASTER COMMUNIONS, ETC.

The Philadelphia correspondent of The Living Church gives the following interesting items in regard to Easter in some of the churches of this city:

	Comm'cants	Offerings	S. S. Off.
S. Timothy's, Roxborough	400	$975 65	$165 00
S. Mary's, West Phila	430	1,000 00	53 76
Grace Church	350	5,050 00	187 00
S. Clement's	409	2,092 68
S. Andrew's, West Phila.	500	550 00	225 00
Holy Apostles	524	1,857 96	4,071 26
Ascension	330	700 00	80 00

The percentage in each church to its whole number of communicants was:

Grace Church	50.00 per cent
Holy Apostles	45.64 "
S. Andrews, West Phila.	77.25 "
S. Clement's	54.68 "
S. Mary's, West Phila	65.55 "

THE YEAR'S REPORT

Our conventional and financial year extends from May 1st to May 1st, thus closing just before our annual Parish Festival, Ascension Day, giving us an admirable opportunity of reviewing our past year at that time. This our Rector always does in his sermon, on the evening of the Festival. We regret that this year the night was so inclement that but few, comparatively, of our parishioners were present. For the benefit, therefore, especially of those who were not present, we repeat the substance of what was said.

After reading the annual report, the Rector noticed the following points in regard to it: The number of baptisms was four less than last year; three more were confirmed. The losses to the communicant list were three less, the gain one less, the total being forty-three gained, thirty-five lost by death, removal and neglect of duty. It is these losses which, in spite of our considerable gains, keep the Parish in about the same condition. There has been one more marriage and one more burial than last year. The number of scholars in the Sunday School and Bible classes has been about the same, though the attendance at the children's service and the general interest in the school have been much improved. There have been two more teachers and ten more scholars in the Saturday Industrial School. The Mothers' Meeting has been much larger, and more work has been done. In addition to the other Guilds of the Parish, a Guild of young ladies, to help in missionary work, and a cadet corps for the younger lads, were organized during the year by the Curate. These statistics show that the work of the Parish has been fully kept up to the former level, though all the progress that might be desired has not been made.

In considering the financial report, the Rector noticed that there is an apparent deficit of the receipts, compared with the expenditures, of some $200. The real deficit, however, is some $500, as in the receipts we included a considerable sum raised for the Mothers' Meeting, which, of course, can be used for no other purpose. The actual difference in the free will offerings between this and last year was $388.67, which is less than the amount of some special offerings made last year, showing that there has been no falling off in the free will contributions of the people. It is also to be noticed that we have given this year for benevolent purposes, over $1,200, a much larger sum than ever before. This may have had something to do with making our receipts for current expenses less. However, the fact remains that we have failed to meet our expenses for the year by about $500, and this amount has been paid out of the sum which had been set aside out of the legacy we received last year as a reserve fund. We have, therefore, used up so much of our endowment. This not only ought not to go on, but the amount already taken from that fund ought to be returned. The Rector urged the congregation to consider most carefully this question of our finances. He thanked the ladies most warmly for their work in getting up an entertainment by which over $500 had been made, but said that was not the way in which Churches ought to be supported. He did not see how our expenses could in any way be cut down and, therefore, urged that some means be adopted to increase our revenue. He pointed out the fact that in November of this year he will complete (if he lives until then) the twentieth year of his Rectorship in this Parish, and it would not only be a great gratification to him, but a most substantial gain to the Church if that event could be commemorated by the removal of the remaining indebtedness of $12,000 upon the property. But, if that cannot be done, let every one see, at least, how much more he or she can contribute regularly during the coming year. Every one who has an income, no matter how small it may be, ought to give something to the support of the Church, and that that may be given regularly or systematically it should be given through the envelope system. Let every one, therefore, attending the Church use the envelopes.

We are trying to carry on a Church here, not on the selfish principle of reserved seats, but so that it may reach all sorts of people. But, that it may be supported, something must be found to take the place of pew rents. We cannot depend upon mere desultory giving; it must be systematic. If the number of envelopes taken could be largely increased, the income would be proportionably increased.

While thanking God, therefore, for His blessing and what has been accomplished in the past year, let us see if we cannot make more progress still in the year to come. Let each member of the Parish be interested in and do his full share in working for, and in supporting it, and there will be no question but that that end will be gained.

Our Church is situated in a position where it is prominent and can reach the people, but it is out of the way of wealth, so each one belonging to it must do everything possible for it.

PARISH NOTES

Summer Services.—The usual changes in the services will be made, beginning with this month, except that the Sunday evening service will be at 7.30 P.M., instead of 7 o'clock. It is thought that this hour may be, on the whole, more convenient for most of the congregation. And the Wednesday evening service will be continued. The Curate expects to be in the city most of the summer, and he believes that those who have been attending this service will be as glad to do so in the summer as in the winter. The 4 P. M. service on Sunday will be discontinued, and the daily prayers. There will be, however: Morning prayer and the Litany every Wednesday and Friday at 10 A.M., and service on all Holy days at 7.30 and 10 A.M.

The Sunday School will be discontinued until October, but the children's service will be kept up throughout the summer, at 9.30 A.M., instead of in the afternoon.

Our Dedication Festival was duly observed. A goodly number were present at the early celebrations on Ascension Day, though the congregation at the mid-day service was very small, and the choir was composed only of some of the boys. Another year we shall hope to make the musical service of the mid-day service quite a feature, as we have done in years gone by. The music at the night service was all that could be desired, and we take this occasion of congratulating our new choir master on the progress he has made already with the choir. The attendance at this service, too, however, was very small, owing to its being a very rainy night. At the Guild service, on Sunday evening, the young men made a very good showing, but S. Mary's Guild of young women did not make the appearance that it should. The Parish Tea, on Monday, was largely attended. There was abundance of provision, even for the capacity of those usually attending this Tea. There was a short address of welcome by the Rector, in which he urged all present to feel that they were personally responsible for the support and welfare of the Church, making a special point of all working during the coming year, not only to enable the Church to meet its current expenses, but to make up the deficit of the year past. After this followed a little play by some members of S. Mary's Guild, and then a drill by the Ascension Cadet Corps. The boys looked very well in their new uniforms, and went through their drill quite creditably. They are much indebted to Mr. Basil Jones, their instructor, for the time and attention he has given to them. A little sale was also conducted at the Tea, by members of S. Mary's Guild, of some articles they had made and some articles that had been left over from the Fair held during the winter, the proceeds of which were to be used in the purchase of material for a new set of cottas that are needed for the choir. Altogether, the tea, which is the sixteenth of the kind we have had, may be said to have been a great success, and we trust it may be the means of increasing the interest and devotion of our parishioners to their Church.

An Offer.—One of our ladies, who is much interested in our Church, is distressed that we should be behindhand with our current expenses, has offered to be one of ten to give $50 each to make up the amount we fell behind this last year. Who will meet her? Two others have given $40 between them for this purpose.

The Clergy.—The Rector and his family have moved out of town, as usual, for the summer, his address being the same as last year, Meadowbrook, Montgomery county, Pa. He expects to be in town for at least one service nearly every Sunday, and occasionally during the week. The Curate will remain in town most of the summer and can be found at any time at his residence, 1416 Lombard street. He hopes to do a great deal of visiting among those who remain in the city during the summer.

A Children's Entertainment. The children of the Parish are to give an entertainment on Thursday evening, June 14th, at 7.30, in the Parish rooms. The beautiful cantata "The Little Gypsie" will be sung by boys and girls. The Ascension Cadets will give an exhibition drill, and there will be exercises by the children and others. Every effort is being made to make the entertainment a joyous occasion for young and old. The proceeds are for the Summer Outing Fund, in connection with the summer work among the children. Those who go away to the cool summer resorts should remember the children who remain in the city during the hot summer months. The price of tickets is 25 cents for reserved seats, children of the Parish, 10 cents. Tickets may be had from the teachers of the Sunday-school, or from the children's entertainment committee.

The News.—We are again behind in paying the expenses of this paper. This is because many of our subscribers have not paid their subscriptions. The total amount due for subscriptions the beginning of May was $40. The manager sent a personal letter to each subscriber asking for a remittance, but only $17 has so far been paid. "SOMEWHERE"

Somewhere the thing we long for Exists on earth's wide bound,
Somewhere the sun is shining
When Winter nips the ground.
Somewhere the flowers are springing,
Somewhere the corn is brown
And ready for the harvest,
To feed the hungry town.

Somewhere the twilight gathers,
And weary men lay by
The burden of the daytime,
And wrapped in slumber lie.
Somewhere the day is breaking,
And gloom and darkness flee;
Though storms our bark are tossing,
There's somewhere—placid sea.

And thus we find it ever,
In this mysterious life:—
There's always gladness somewhere,
In spite of pain and strife;
And somewhere sin and sorrow
Of earth are known no more,
Somewhere our weary spirits
Shall find a peaceful shore.

Somewhere the things that try us
Shall all have passed away,
And doubt and fear no longer
Impede the perfect day.
O brother, though the darkness
Around thy soul be cast,
The earth is rolling sunward
And light shall come at last.

SUMMER WORK.

Never in any age or in any country have the poor been so well provided for as in this city to-day. Our churches, hospitals, institutions, and charity organization societies are living monuments to the generosity of those who have some concern for the souls and bodies of their fellow men, women and children.

The great Gospel truth "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you" has touched the hearts of many and they have responded again and again.

In the face of this general statement it is important for us to ask if it is true of us in particular. What have I done as my share in the work that Christ asks me to do?

The parish is the unit of the Church's work in the community of souls. All who are members of a parish are like the leaves upon the branch that draws its life from the common trunk—the Church. "I am the vine, ye are the branches," said the Master. Then surely it is not only for us to ask "What am I doing?" but also, "What is my parish doing?"

When the mercury rises in the thermometer, many of our good people rise too, and seek a cooler place than the hot city, where they can live more comfortably. There are many who cannot go away; necessity keeps them home.

It should be of great interest to all of our people to know what our parish is doing for those who cannot go away during the summer months.

In the first place, the services of the Church have gone on much as usual. The Sunday and Wednesday evening services have been well attended, and the children have shown a great interest in their Sunday morning service and instruction.

The Parish picnic was held July 24th at Lake Grenlock. The Church of the Holy Comforter united with us. The young men and maidens of both parishes vied with each other in the sports, much to the interest and amusement of the mothers and children.

Thursday outings have enabled about 250 children with those interested in them to spend a day away from the hot streets, and enjoy the natural beauty of Bartram Garden. These outings have given much pleasure to those who are not able to go on the country week outings.

The boys' camp, "Camp Neilson," gave a week's outing to the choir boys, the Ascension Cadets, and some of the members of S. John's Guild. The camp was situated on one of the most beautiful spots on the upper Delaware, on the estate of Mr. Thomas Neilson. The boys declare they had a "Bully time" and felt most grateful to Mr. and Mrs. Neilson for the many kindnesses shown them.

The foregoing review does not show that we have done much this summer, but we have done something. What has been done is due to the children and their friends. The money necessary to meet the expenses has come from their own efforts—the delightful little entertainment given in July, under the management of Miss Charlotte Hare, and the sale of mounted "Perry Pictures." Several of the older girls have shown their interest in our work by mounting about 1,000 pictures in a tasteful way, and the children have sold a number of them.

Every parish ought to have a fund for children's summer outings, especially when it is situated as we are in a crowded district with many poor people close to the Church. Children have a wonderful faculty of becoming interested in those who are interested in them. Many of us never cease to be children in this respect at least. Why should we not make the most of this human trait, especially when it draws them to the side of the dear Master who rebuked those who would keep them away from Him?

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—Fifty prayer books from the Female Prayer Book Society, for use in the Church; a sign, painted by one of our boys, to protect the yard to the south of the Church from intrusion.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.—The experiment of keeping up the children's service during the summer at 9.30 A.M. has proved very successful, an average of about fifty children being present each Sunday. Owing to the continued absence of so many of the teachers during September, the same arrangement will be continued during this month, the regular Sunday School in the afternoon not beginning until the first Sunday in October, when we shall hope to see all the teachers in their places. And are there not others in the parish, both male and female, who will offer themselves for this good work during the coming winter?

THE CLERGY.—For the first time in nearly twenty years, the Rector was absent from the services of the Church for a whole month, having taken charge of the services of the Church of the Saviour, Jenkintown, during August, as he was spending the summer in that neighborhood. The Curate remained in town all summer and took charge of all the services during August. He will take a holiday during part of this month.

OUR DEFICIT.—Only one person has so far responded to the offer of a lady, which we mentioned in our last number, to be one of ten to give $50 each to make up the deficit in our expenses for our last financial year. Where are the other eight? We hope that a systematic effort may be made this autumn to get rid of all our indebtedness. There is nothing worse for a free Church than to be struggling on under a weight of debt.

IMPROVEMENTS. — Some very needed renovations will be made during this month to our parish building. The ceiling and walls in several of the rooms will be recolored, the wood work reoiled, etc. The doors of the Church will also be reoiled. Owing to the solid way in which the Church is built, this is the only renovation that it will scarcely ever need.

THE NEWS.—This little parish paper has been continued without intermission for nearly thirteen years, and has proved itself very useful in giving information to all interested in the parish as to what is going on in it. It is an organ of communication between the clergy and all the members of the parish, enabling the clergy to speak about and explain a great many things which they could not do from the chancel, and it reaches all, whether they happen to be in the Church or not. And the teachings given in it reach thus a great many more persons than they would if only given in the Church.

But it costs something to print this paper, and it requires some one to look after it, collect its subscriptions, etc. For a good many years some member of the congregation did this for the sake of the parish, and then it was comparatively easy to meet our expenses, but lately no one could be found to do it, so we had to engage some one to act as its business manager, giving him a commission on its receipts. After a trial, however, of several years, with two successive managers, we are convinced that the receipts of the paper are not sufficient to pay its way on that basis, as we find we are constantly running behindhand We have, therefore, been obliged to cancel our engagement with Mr. George V. Baird, who has acted as manager for the last two years, and who has done his best to make the paper a success financially, but has found it impossible.

We hope before our next issue to find some one in the parish who will undertake the work for love, and be able to make its ends meet. In the meantime, it will be issued as usual, and all subscriptions can be sent directly to the Church or handed to the verger.

FREE EXCURSIONS

Our Curate sent the following letter to the Ledger lately. We hope it may have some effect another season.

A CORPORATION WITH A SOUL.

Editor "Public Ledger."

Sir: I have just read with much interest your article in Saturday's Ledger on practical philanthropy in Boston. I would like to speak of another philanthropy practiced in Boston that is well worth being imitated by other cities. I refer to the summer outings that are provided by the city and the railway companies for the poor. The large Marine Park recently built by the State would not be enjoyed by the very poor if it were not for the generosity of the Boston Elevated Company, which controls almost all the surface lines in the city. This company, through churches and charitable societies, distributes about 100,000 free tickets, so that mothers and children and sick and aged persons who cannot pay may be carried to the woods or seashore.

While I was located in Boston as an assistant priest, I always received, without asking for them, 500 free tickets. I called upon the president of the company to thank him for the help his generosity gave to many of my poor people. He told me that he did not consider any thanks necessary, as the company realized that a large percentage of their patrons were poor people, and they were glad to be able to do something for the children of those who did so much for their company. As a result of this policy, the company has the masses on its side, and, although the employés every winter have a good reason for demanding better protection against the weather, they have not done it, nor are they likely to strike, and, if they did, would not have the sympathy of the masses, who know that the corporation has a soul.

During the past summer I have tried to do something to help the poor to enjoy some of the beautiful spots around Philadelphia, but have felt greatly discouraged by the fact that every child over 4 years, as a general thing, had to pay 16 cents for car fare. This means that those who need the outings most are debarred, unless some one can pay the car fare for them. The Sanitarium is a great institution, but how many children can pay the fare to Chestnut Street wharf?

The "Children's Country Week" does a great work in helping the poor, but how much greater would their help be if the great corporation that controls our railways exercised some of the philanthropy that is so willingly given by Boston's corporation!

Very sincerely yours,

WM. BERNARD GILPIN.

May hope to wear the glorious crown.

CHURCH SUPPORT.

In England the Church is called the Established Church. It is supported like our public schools by the State, and every man is entitled to the privileges of the Church because he is an Englishman, just as every citizen in this country has the right to send his children to the public school. In England the Church may be said to provide the State accommodations and the Church serves the people.

Many English families come over to this country and take it for granted that the Church here is provided for them and supported as at home, and they never think that it is their duty to support the Church themselves or else accept its service as a charity.

Who, we may ask, supports the Church in this country? Who keeps a clergyman on hand, pays for music and gives every one the opportunity to hear the gospel and enjoy the privileges of Christ's Sacraments? The answer is simple. The Church in this country is supported by those who pay for it out of their own pockets. The State does not support the Church in this country. The Church does not live on air and it is not fed by a miracle. It is provided by those who furnish the money to pay the bills. It is true that the Church and her clergy are always ready to serve everybody in need of spiritual help, the rich and poor, the little and great, and those who are just between. But it is also true that the clergy you see about the streets, those you call upon in case of sickness, trouble or death, the constant service with its sweet music, the guilds, picnics, concerts and other entertainments are provided and supported by those who put their hands in their own pockets for Christ's sake and pay the bills. These are the people who support the Church in this country and they are ones whom the others should thank for the privileges of the Church. To which class, reader, do you belong? Are you one of those who pay for what you get from the Church and for what your family get? Do you pay all it is worth, all that you could pay if you tried? Or are you one of those who pay nothing and take all you can get and then call yourself an honest Christian. There are some who pay one cent and talk of their rights as though they paid a dollar.

It is possible for every one to become one of those who support the Church and he or she will have a share in the work for Christ which the Church is trying to do and would do better if it were better supported.

GIVING.

We heard a man ask the other day, "When will this incessant begging for money (he meant for Church purposes) cease? It is call upon call, now for this, now for that, and I am sick and weary of it."

More ask the question than those who, like our frank friend, put it into words.

The answer is as easy as the question. It will never cease. It is part of the law of the situation. While their remains a heathen upon earth, an unfaithful Christian, a sick man—soul-sick or body-sick—an orphan child, a cripple, an outcast, a wretched creature anywhere with any wretchedness, the demands will still be made; and they will still be answered worse or better.

When all men on earth are blessed, when the sunlight of Heaven gilds the hills and valleys of the world, and wraps the blue seas in eternal calm, then may men rest from their work and their giving—not before.

Till then let the demands be made, and made boldly. The situation is plain. God owns a man, and all he has, and is, and will be. Ask him to give for one of God's purposes. You only ask him to accept the situation, to acknowledge the facts. There is no call for timidity. Let the applicant do his duty. It rests with him to whom he applies whether he will do his. He should at all events be furnished with frequent and favorable opportunities. The Church Standard.

BEAR ONE ANOTHER'S BURDENS.

A great Bishop of the Church once wrote, "Poverty is the load of some, and wealth is the load of others, perhaps the greater load of the two. It may weigh them to perdition. Bear the load of thy neighbour's poverty, and let him bear with thee the load of thy wealth. Thou lightenest thy load by lightening his." This is a noble Christian precept. There is nothing more Christ-like than the spirit which prompts us to bear one another's burdens.

THE BOYS' TEN COMMANDMENTS.

I. Say my prayers.
II. Go to Church regularly.
III. Quit swearing.
IV. Mind, quick and sure.
V. And be obliging.
VI. Don't quarrel.
VII. Don't be nasty.
VIII. Never steal.
IX. Tell no lies.
X. Never shirk any work.

A DREAM

It is pleasant sometimes to dream, even when our dreams may not be realized. Let us indulge in such a dream in regard to our Parish. In the first place, we should dream as we ought, that all our indebtedness of $13,000 was removed. For no one should rest content or spend money for anything else, so long as he is in debt, or, indeed, consider his property really his or safe so long as there was any debt upon it. Then, in our dreams we would see the shop at the corner of Broad and South Streets disappear, and in its place rise at the corner of the two streets a massive tower and beyond that a front to the Church on South Street, and beyond that, for the lot of the shop is longer on South Street than the front of the Church would be, a side chapel where early celebrations and daily services could be said. Then our ears would be greeted with the sound of sweet music from a belfry overhead, proclaiming throughout the neighborhood the call to daily prayers and Sunday services, and reminding our own parishioners—a reminder they very much need—of the duty of punctuality in attending the Church's services.

Then, as we enter the Church, we would see all the windows filled with handsome stained glass, and in place of our present wooden altar and reredos, which is not worthy of the Church, one of stone or marble, richly carved, and at the entrance of the choir a screen of wood or metal, surmounted by the Holy Rood. Then, at the lower end of the Church we would see our Parish building enlarged, extending out to Broad Street, giving space for gymnasium, rooms for schools and classes, the assistant clergy and sexton, and for Sisters or Deaconesses, who should work in the Parish.

Then we should like to be told not only that the debt of the Church was paid, but that an endowment fund had been provided, which would be sufficient to protect the Church from all danger arising from the shifting of the population or the loss of a few wealthy members, and which would enable it to pay its clergy reasonable salaries and provide suitable music and all those accessories which are necessary to enable a city Church successfully to do its work, and grapple with the irreligion and suffering with which it is surrounded.

We call this a dream, for our Church has none of these things as yet. Its building is incomplete and hidden by the shop which stands north of it, its decorations are imperfect, its Parish building is too small to provide the accommodation needed for its work, its revenue is insufficient properly to pay its officers or meet its necessary expenses, and so it cannot do the work it should; nor is its future as sure as we should like to see it. And if we cannot secure all these things for it, at least we can dream of what we should like to see it become.

Are there not some of our Parishioners or friends who have the means to do so, who would be glad to be the instruments by which some, at least, of the features of this dream might be realized? We read of benefactions and additions and decorations being made to other Parishes: why should not such be made to ours? And what Church needs or deserves this more than one in which the services are free to every one who enters it?

If our dream could be wholly, or even in part, realized we should feel as if the work of building up the Parish had been completed, and we would be ready to sing our Nunc Dimittis.

If there are those who cannot afford to provide any of these things for the Church during their lifetime, when they are making provision for the distribution of their earthly goods, which they cannot take away with them, will they not direct that some portion of theirs shall go to this purpose, than which they could find no better?

And we have faith to believe that our dream, even in all its features, will some day be a reality.

THE ENVELOPE SYSTEM

At the beginning of another season, the Rector wishes to urge upon all the members of the Parish, the duty of complying with the envelope system, which is the system which has been adopted by the Vestery for the support of the Church

Churches, like all other things, have to be supported. There are the salaries of the clergy and sexton. These three officers are expected to give all their time to the work of the Church, so they cannot do any other work, but must depend upon the salaries they receive. So, if the congregation wants good music there must be a choirmaster and organist and singers who must be remunerated for their services. Then there is the heating and lighting and necessary repairs to the Church, all of which require money. And where is it to come from? We have no pew rents. We do not think it is right to make a charge of the services of the Church. So we depend entirely upon free will offerings. But unless these are made systematically, they will not be sufficient for the support of the Church. The use of the envelope is necessary to insure this. Every one attending the Church should take an envelope for the same amount that he would give in another Church as pew rent, or if he could not afford to pay a pew rent, for whatever amount he can afford. But whatever amount he gives, if it is only five cents a week, he should give it through the envelopes. Then he will be sure of giving it, and the Church will have an income it can depend upon.

Every communicant especially, no matter how young he or she may be, should have their names on the list of those using the envelopes. Every one who has an income or an allowance should give a certain percentage of it to God's service, and this is the way to do it.

We want this winter to see the list of those taking the envelopes largely increased, for we need a large income. Our present receipts are not sufficient to meet even our very moderate expenses.

There are always large white envelopes addressed to the accounting warden in the rack inside the main door of the Church. In each of these there is the printed form of a pledge to give weekly or monthly, or as it may suit the convenience of the giver, a sum towards the support of the Church. Let each regular attendant take one of these and fill it up, with his name and address, with the amount he proposes to give, and return it by mail to the warden, who will send him in return a package of envelopes for each Sunday in the current quarter. These are to be filled with the amount pledged Sunday by Sunday.

PARISH NOTES

WINTER SERVICES.—We begin as usual with this month all our winter services. The Sunday afternoon choral service without any sermon at 4 P. M., with second evening service with sermon at 7.45 P. M. The daily services at 10 A. M. and 5 P. M. And the Sunday-School, followed by the children's service, is changed to 2.30 P. M. The male and female Bible Classes recommence at 3 P. M.

ST. MARY'S GUILD holds its first business meeting of the season on on the second Tuesday of this month the (9th) at 8 P. M. in the Parish Building. It is hoped that all the members may be present to arrange plans for the winter. And there are quite a number of young women in the Parish who have been confirmed who have not yet joined this Guild, whom we trust will do so at this meeting. Any girl belonging to the Parish who is confirmed is entitled to be a member of the Guid; others not confirmed may be elected as a probationers after due nomination.

ST. JOHN'S GUILD.—This Guild, that has done so much for the young men of our Parish, began its Winter work October 1st. In addition to the athletics, for which the Guild has gained quite a reputation, it was decided to devote one evening every month to literary and social enjoyment. The Guild had as their guest Mr. D. L. Witmer, who has shown much interest in all branches of parochial work. He gave a very interesting talk, holding up the example of Joshua as the type of man for young men to follow. As a result of his earnest words, the Guild decided to take up some active work in the Church. Some were appointed to act as ushers at the services, attend to arranging the prayer-books and hymnals, and to act as servers at the Holy Eucharist services. The following officers were elected :

President, Albert Chalman.
Secretary, James Atkinson.
Treasurer, Boyd Burleigh.
Banner Bearer, Arthur Chalman.

Executive Committee: Albert Chalman, James Atkinson, Boyd Burleigh, W. Banks, Chester Martz. Rev. W. B. Gilpin, CHAIRMAN.

THE PARISH BUILDING looks much improved by the painting that has been done to it, and we hope all who frequent it will try and see how nicely they can keep it. What made it look so shabby was the result of carelessness or deliberate injury done by the boys and young men to whom it is so freely opened, whereas they ought to regard it as under their protection. The cost of the improvements is about $150, which will be an additional tax on our receipts this winter, but our committee on the care of the buildings thought it was a necessary expense they had to incur.

THE BENEVOLENT ENVELOPES for the Poor and the Sunday and Industrial Schools which have not yet been returned, should be filled up and returned this month, which is the end of the quarter. And it is upon these offerings that we depend to meet the needs of the poor of the Parish and to carry on the Friendly and Industrial Schools.

ANNIVERSARY OF THE WOMEN'S GUILD.—As SS. Simon and Jude's day, which is the anniversary of the Women's Guild, occurs this year on Sunday, the business meeting of the Guild will be held on the following Monday immediately after the ten o'clock prayers All the women of Parish are urged to be present on this occasion, that they may know what is being done and should be done in the way of benevolent work in the Parish.

THE BROTHERHOOD OF ST. ANDREW.—There are dark days as well as bright days in all church work. Last year was a dark one for our chapter. But few men came forward to help in the work that a chapter is expected to do. We hope the coming year will be a bright one and the men of our congregation will come forward and offer themselves to do something to help along the good work that we propose to do.

At the first meeting of the chapter it was decided to undertake the publishing of THE ASCENSION NEWS. This is an important work, and its success will be assured if the members will help in the matter of getting advertisements and subscriptions.

It was also decided to have a Bible Class for Brotherhood men and their friends. This class will meet Sunday afternoons at 3 o'clock in one of the Parish rooms.

A hearty invitation is extended to all men of our Parish to attend the meetings of the Brotherhood, also to attend the Bible Class Sunday afternoons.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL. The first session of the Winter School, will begin October 7th at 2.30 P. M. in the school rooms.

We are looking forward to a bright and happy year with our children. What greater duty has the Church to preform than to brighten and instruct the lives of her children?

There is nothing in all the world that can make children happier and wiser, than to learn all that the Church has to tell them about the Loving Saviour. The old saying that a handful of good life is worth a whole bushel of learning is as true to-day as ever it was. There is the best authority in the world for the belief that although a child's head may be chock full of learning, it is of no value without a conscience behind it. Yet, what do we see about us but people insisting upon their children getting the best education, and not caring so much about the conscience being developed. The Sunday School is the Church's training school for the conscience, and all parents who love their children ought to be sure that they have the benefit of this training.

A year ago we asked our people to help us and help their children by sending them to our Sunday School. We repeat the wish now, for we feel sure that by coming the children will develop a deeper love for their Church and learn to value the help we try to give them.

We want our young men and women to realize the importance of this work and help us by taking classes in the School. The success of the School and its work depends in a great measure upon the teachers. Their personality plays an important part in the training of a child's mind. No one need shrink from the task because they do not think they know enough. If they have love for God in their hearts, the children will feel the power of their lives.

The system that has been adopted for the coming year makes the work of instruction very easy for the teacher. A teachers' meeting will be held Wednesday evenings at 8:30 to give help to any who may desire it.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PAPER.—There are few of the older people who look back upon their Sunday School days, do not remember the pleasure and help they once got from reading a paper that was given them from time to time. Many of us can recall some good stories we read, and have not forgotten some of the information we gained in regard to the work of the Church in the mission field. We would like our children to have the benefit of this information, and, therefore, suggest to some one who is interested in our children, and would like to see them take a greater interest in the work of the Church in distant lands as well as at home, that they help us to subscribe for the Sunday School papers.

The Shepherd's Arms is a very helpful little paper for children in the Primary class, and The Young Christian Soldier for the older children. We are sure these papers would make our children better and happier; and, therefore, we venture to suggest that some one who is interested in the children help us to subscribe for the papers. As a memorial to some one who has departed this life, nothing could be more fitting than a gift of this kind to the Sunday-School, especially to one has shown in his life one of the most beautiful of all human traits, a love for God's little ones, or some dear little one who has been taken away. About twenty-five dollars would be needed to meet this expense. The Curate will be glad to receive any contributions that may be devoted to this cause.

THE VALUE OF A CHURCH.

A great many people have very little appreciation of the real value of a church. They look upon it as if it was only a convenient place to hear preaching in. But that is a very small part of its use. In the first place, it is a Monument. That is, it answers the same purpose that is answered when men erect monuments to commemorate great events or persons. It is a witness to God of His existence and relation to us and our faith in Him. Every time we see a church we necessarily think of God and religion. So, though one never hears a sermon, the mere sight of a church preaches a sermon to him and keeps him mindful of the duties of religion.

Then, the church is a Temple, that is, a place where men go to worship God, to pay Him the reverence and honor which is His due. If there is a God, men certainly owe Him worship, and there should be fitting places where men can go to render it. This all men have felt, and all nations have had their temples. Then, the church is a Palace, a place where God holds His court, as it were. It sets forth the glory and dignity of God, and men go there with their petitions and wants, or to declare themselves His subjects and swear or renew their fidelity to Him.

Then, it is a Home, the one home of the universal Father, a place which every child of man should feel is his, no matter how poor, or lowly, or lonely he may be. Our religion teaches us that all who are baptized are the children of God and heirs of His kingdom. So His house is the home of all, where everyone has a right and a welcome—the one home that can never be taken from us. So all, and more than all, the sweet memories and associations which cling round our earthly homes should cluster round it, and no spot on earth be so dear to us.

Then, it is a School, a place all need to go to that they may learn the highest and most blessed truths we can learn anywhere, get the highest and most necessary education we can receive, the knowledge how to live that we may best enjoy this world and fit ourselves for the life that is to come. Far more needful than any secular education is the teaching of morals and virtue the church gives. And it is something we need to keep on learning all our life.

So, too, is the church a great Benevolent Agency. From it springs all the charitable and philanthropic associations and instrumentalities by which Christians try to ameliorate the sufferings and minister to the wants of their fellow beings. So every well-appointed church will have provision made for all such good works in every way it can.

Then, the Church is a great Missionary Power, to reach after and rescue those who else would never hear the Gospel, and who are lying in the darkness and wretchedness of ignorance of and alienation from God. Could any other work be so blessed and glorious, or more valuable to mankind?

These are some of the uses of a church beside simply that of a place where the Gospel is preached. And that a church may answer all these purposes, it should be as fully and properly appointed as possible. If a church is to be a monument, a temple and palace, it must not be mean and poor or hardly distinguishable from any other building. When men see it they should know at once that it is a church, and it should be of such proportions and beauty and richness as to be worthy of its purpose, and impress men with a sense of the majesty and greatness of Him to whose honor it is erected.

A greater effect can be produced upon the soul by the size and solemnity and richness of a church than by any words that could be uttered. So if it is to be the Home of all, no restrictions of any kind should be put upon anyone entering it or that would make one feel unwelcome or out of place in it. If it is to be an educational or benevolent or missionary centre, it should be fully furnished with all the necessary buildings and appliances that will enable it efficiently to carry on these works.

The great trouble with many of our churches, and the reason why they are so little effective, is because they are so poor and mean and ill appointed. We do not look in secular things to accomplish much if we have not efficient plants, nor can we expect it to be otherwise in spiritual things. So let us try to appreciate the value of a church. Compare it to any other institution, a school, a bank, a store, a manufactory, anything else, and who will dare say it is not far away the most valuable and necessary for a community? What good work can there be comparable with that of building or helping to build, or equipping, or supporting a church?

Let each see that he has some hand in it, and let us particularly see if we cannot make our own parish church just as perfect and well furnished and thoroughly provided for as it can be, in order that it may fully answer all its various purposes.

A HUMAN CALENDAR.

The calendar has become one of the necessary things of the day. There are all kinds of calendars. Some are beautiful art productions and useful ornaments. But what is a human calendar? It is both beautiful and useful, because it is made up of living persons. People want to do something to help their church meet its expenses without resorting to fairs or amateur theatricals to get money to carry on religious work. There are so many persons who dislike this worldly way of getting money that we are sure they will be glad to know something about the human calendar and the part they are to take in it. Everyone is familiar with the divisions of a year into months, weeks, days and hours.

One person becomes a year, and gets twelve persons to be the months.

Each month pays $1 for this privilege and gets four persons to be the weeks.

Each week pays 50 cents and gets seven persons to be the days.

Each day pays 25 cents and gets twenty-four persons to be the hours.

Each hour pays 10 cents.

Here the calendar ends for the year.

When each person has paid their share there is a goodly sum for the work of this parish.

It is not an endless chain, or, like the brook, something that goes on for ever. It stops with the hours.

Who is willing to be a month, pay one dollar and get four persons to give 50 cents each?

Who is willing to be a week, pay 50 cents and get seven persons to give 25 cents each?

Who is willing to be a day, pay 25 cents and get twenty-four persons to give 10 cents each?

Who is willing to be an hour and give 10 cents?

Let us set to work at once and have our calendar completed by the first of January, and we can call it the New Century Calendar.

We all want to be in it.

The Rev. W. Bernard Gilpin, has been appointed Secretary and Treasurer of the scheme.

A large calendar will be made and the name of every person will be placed upon the place they choose to take.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[This column will be devoted to answering questions. They may be placed in one of the boxes at the church door, or sent to the Assistant Editor.]

Was the Episcopal Church started by Henry VIII?

The Church of England is said, by some, to have first started at the time of Henry VIII. Cardinal Gibbon, in his work "The Faith of Our Fathers," makes this statement. The Roman Catholics and ultra-Protestants agree on this one point, if nothing else.

The facts are simply these. The Church of England was never closely united to the Church of Rome, and that attempts of the Popes to assume jurisdiction over the insular church met with protests and rebellion. As far back as 220 A. D., there were Christians in Britain, and S. Albans, the first British martyr, was executed by Diocletian. Three British Bishops attended the Council of Arles, A. D., 314. Wales and Cornwall remained Christian during the Saxon invasion.

The ancient British Church was almost, but not altogether extinct when, in 596, Augustine came to Britain as an apostle of Rome, and then the Roman influence began to show itself in the British Church, but Papal bulls were disregarded and appeals to the Pope were refused. The Synod of Cloveshoe, 747, asserted the complete independence of the British Church.

The highest point of supremacy attained by the Pope was when King John surrendered his kingdom to him and received it back to be held of the Pope on an annual rent. This was the act of a king and not the people.

The famous statute of Provisors, enacted in England in 1350, and the more famous statute of Praemunire, enacted 1389 and again in 1393, restricted the interference of the Pope in England. The Church of England was closely affiliated with the Roman Church at the time of Henry VIII, and it is a matter of opinion whether Henry separated from Rome or Rome separated from Henry. Certainly he did not found a Protestant church, he simply broke with the Pope and acted as his own pope, so to speak. The Church wiped off the corruptions that had come with the papal influence and continued, as we find it to-day, the pure branch of the Holy Catholic Church.

PRAYER FOR THE PARISH.

Almighty and Everlasting God, Who dost govern all things in heaven and earth, mercifully hear our prayers, and grant to this parish all things needful to its spiritual welfare. Strengthen and confirm the faithful; visit and relieve the sick; turn and soften the wicked; arouse the careless; recover the fallen; restore the penitent. Give to all our people the spirit of prayer, and send to us such help as Thou shalt see best for us in the carrying on the work which thou hast given us to do. Remove all hindrances to the advancement of Thy truth, and bring us all to be of one heart and mind within the fold of Thy holy Church, to the honor and glory of Thy name, through Jesus Christ our Lord.

ALL SAINTS' DAY.

One Feast, of Holy Days the crest,
I, though no Churchman, love to keep,
All Saints'—the unknown good that rest
In God's still memory folded deep,
The bravely dumb that did their deed
And scorned to blot it with a name,
Men of the plain, heroic breed
That loved Heaven's silence more than fame.

—Lowell.

PARISH NOTES.

The Benevolent Envelopes sent out this quarter with the regular envelopes for the support of this church are for "General Missions." This is the way in which the members of our parish are asked to contribute to the great work of extending our holy religion in this country and throughout the world. What is received through these envelopes is sent to the Board of Missions in New York, to be used at their discretion.

The Twentieth Anniversary of the Rev. G. Woolsey Hodge's entering on the rectorship of this church will occur on the last Sunday of this month. He will preach a sermon in the morning of that day commemorative of the event.

Holy Baptism administered at any week-day service, or on Sunday afternoons after the children's service, which is at 3 o'clock.

The Mothers' Meeting will begin November the Seventh. The Mothers, after the shortened Wednesday evening service, meet in the Parish Rooms. It is hoped that all the members will be present, and there will be some new members.

A choir is wanted for the Wednesday evening service. The Curate would be glad to receive the names of any of our young people, men or women, who would like to help with their voices at this service.

The ASCENSION NEWS is now published under the auspices of the Ascension Chapter of the Brotherhood. The NEWS comes forward in a new garment, so to speak, and wants to go into every home. Will you not show your appreciation of the NEWS and the Brotherhood's work by sending in your subscription?

You are asked to patronize those who advertise in our parish paper, and they who have anything to advertise are asked to try our paper. We will do all we can to help you, and hope you will try to help us.

TWENTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF THE RECTORSHIP.

On the 28th of November Mr. Hodge completed the twentieth year of his Rectorship of this Parish. On the following Sunday he preached a sermon commemorative of that event from the text: "Give account of thy stewardship."

He remarked that as all were responsible for the use they make of their time and talents in this world, so the conclusion of twenty years was a fitting time to review the work of our Parish. He then gave a brief sketch of it during that period. He pointed out in what a depleted condition it was in 1880 when he took charge of it, only thirty-two persons being reported in that year as on its communicant list and but $700 raised for all purposes. The property of the Parish consisted of the old two story church building on Lombard street above 11th street, which was very unattractive and in a very unfortunate neighborhood. In a little time, however, the building was considerably improved, a vested choir introduced with a weekly and holiday communion, daily service, etc. The seats were made free, and all the doors taken off the pews so as to do away with the pew idea. By May 1881, there were 140 communicants on the roll and $2766 had been raised during the year. From this time the improvement went on until, in May 1885, there were 240 communicants and $3379 was contributed. It was felt, however, that it would be impossible to do a large and permanent work among white people in that locality and in that building. Accordingly in the spring of 1885 an opportunity of selling the church to a colored congregation was embraced and the present lot on Broad street was purchased. Sufficient funds were procured to build the Parish Building and lay the foundations of the church. Services were held in the Parish Building a little over a year, during which time the main body of the church was erected, the chancel arch being boarded up and a temporary chancel arranged in the nave. During the winter of 1888 the chancel was built, at a cost of some $7000, and in 1890 the Roosevelt organ was put in and some other improvements made, costing over $5000. In addition to which various gifts have been made to the church from time to time as memorials, such as the stained glass windows, all of which were imported from England, the eagle lectern, the altar rail, chancel gates, stone pulpit, etc. The total cost of the land and buildings has been about $67,000, against which there still remains a debt of $13,000. The total amount raised during the twenty years as free will offerings has been $163,675.38. This sounds like a large sum, but when the amount paid for the building is taken out it leaves less than $5000 a year average income, which has supplied the entire services of two clergymen, the choir, sexton, etc., heating and lighting of the church and Parish Building, and all the charitable work of the Parish.

The spiritual work of the Parish during this period can be estimated by the following figures: 15,356 services have been held, 3374 celebrations of the Holy Communion, 4688 sermons, 604 baptisms, 509 persons confirmed, 135 marriages and 349 burials; 1029 names have been added to the list of communicants, of whom 535 are on to-day. From four to six services have been held every Sunday and two every day during most of the year, and sometimes three and four. A Sunday School and one Industrial School on Saturdays during the winter have been conducted, and various Guilds and other parish agencies. The new church has always been left open during each day for private devotions, and no seats or pews have ever been rented.

While, owing to the fact that there has been no improvement in the immediate neighborhood of the church since it was built, but on the contrary, a deterioration in the district south of it, there has not been as great a growth and as much financial strength secured as might have been desired, still a very substantial work has been done—a work which only a free church and one with frequent and bright services such as ours could have accomplished.

The Rector referred to the various changes in the membership of the vestry, of the congregation and in the Diocese which had occurred during his Rectorship. He expressed his obligations to the different assistant ministers he had had, and to those members of the congregation who had stood by him to support him during these years.

In conclusion, he urged the congregation to unite in the effort inaugurated by the vestry to signalize this anniversary by an effort to extinguish our debt. He pointed out that since 1885, we had paid out $18,314.74 in interest on our debt, and that if we could have had that whole sum at once we would not only have been free from debt all this time, but had $5000 over for our endowment fund from which we should have been receiving, instead of paying, interest. As long as a property is in debt it is not really owned; nor can a church be consecrated until it is entirely paid for, and until out of debt it will be always hard to support a free church; nor is its future secure, especially when we consider the constant fluctuations in the population and in the membership of the church itself. Let us see, therefore, if by the first of May next we cannot entirely remove this encumbrance; let all the members of the congregation do what they can themselves, and see what they can secure among their friends.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

The interest shown by the children in their Sunday School is very encouraging. The attendance is much larger than last year and the offerings have been doubled. Last year the children gave $100 as their offering to Mission work, and we expect it will be much larger next Easter.

It is proposed this Advent to devote the offerings of the children to help poor afflicted Texas Diocese. The following letter has been received from our Bishop:

PHILADELPHIA, PA., Oct. 22, 1900.

Dear Sunday School Officers, Teachers and Scholars:

You all know what a terrible disaster has come upon the people of Texas. Churches, parish buildings, schools and dwelling houses have been swept away and others injured by the awful flood. Many Sunday School scholars and teachers and parents have been drowned, and many others have lost their homes and everything they had in the world. Shall we not help to replace the churches which have been damaged, so that the Sunday Schools may go on and the Gospel be preached to the poor throughout that great Diocese? Let us send our Advent Offering this year to Bishop Kinsolving for this purpose, and let us all work together to make it as large as we can.

Your affectionate Bishop,
O. W. WHITAKER.

Our children have been taught that by their baptism they became missionaries. We propose to make our Sunday School a Missionary Sunday School. No better time than this to show what we can do for those less fortunate than ourselves. We would be glad to have all who can, help us.

Christmas is universally associated with the receiving and giving of gifts. Last year every child in the Sunday School was made happy by receiving from "Santa Claus" a small present. We would like to repeat this happy experience this year, and ask our people to remember the children. The teachers will be glad to receive money or gifts, so that all the children may have something to take away with them after the Christmas Festival, which will be held as usual on the night of the Festival of Holy Innocents.

PARISH NOTES.

Extra Communion.—Beginning with the first Thursday in Advent, there will be a celebration of the Holy Communion on every Thursday at 9 a. m.

S. Mary's Guild.—Mrs. Van Harlingen having resigned the position of Superior of S. Mary's Guild after two years of earnest work on its behalf, Miss Isabel Anable has been appointed in her place. Quite an attractive programme has been arranged for the Tuesday evenings on which the Guild meets, and five new members were taken in at the November meeting.

Christmas.—There will be the usual additional celebrations on Christmas Day at 6.30, 7.30, and 8.30 a. m, and special offerings are asked to meet the interest on our mortgage, which falls due this month. We must not let the extra gifts for the extinguishment of the debt take away from our ordinary contributions to meet our current expenses.

Gifts.—The Rector was the recipient of a beautiful surplice, elaborately embroidered around the bottom and sleeves, also twenty large crysanthemums, in commemoration of the twenty years of his Rectorship. Twelve yards of serge were also presented to the Altar Committee for cassocks, and ten yards of linen for cottas.

Christmas.—There will be the additional celebration of the Holy Communion on Christmas Day at 6.30, 7.30, and 8.30, in addition to the mid-day, at which service the choir will sing St. Cecilia's Mass. Special offerings are asked for as usual to meet the interest on our mortgage due this month, and we hope the donations made for the debt will not diminish the regular Christmas offering.

Foot Ball.—The members of the St. John's Guild met the Lakewood second eleven on the grid-iron and defeated them to the tune of 10 to 5.

Although the game was most exciting, and some sensational end runs were made, and the line proved to be a stone wall to the Lakewood warriors, no one was injured. The boys showed by their good fielding and defensive work the benefit of their training in the gymnasium. The line of the team was as follows: Left end, I. Banks; left tackle, F. Dawson; left guard, W. McCann; center, T. Newman; right guard, E. Filler; right tackle, R. Hamilton; right end, M. Nealy; half-backs, G. Trainer, Boyd Burleigh, V. Magee; full back, Andrew Lindsey. Touchdowns, Burleigh, 1; McCann, 1; Lakewood, 1. Umpire, H. Hindermyer, Referee, T. Shelton. Linesmen, A. Chalman and J. Atkinson. The champions will play Lakewood first eleven Saturday, December 8, at 3.30 p. m., at Belmont Park.

MISSIONS.

The season of the Epiphany upon which we enter this month should make all Christian people think of the missionary work of the Church. Christ commissioned His servants to go into all the world and make disciples of all creatures. It is to the fidelity of others in doing this that we owe the fact that we have been brought into the light and enjoy the blessings of the Christian religion. And if we appreciate it for ourselves and possess its spirit we will want to carry it to others.

The Church must always be missionary. She is not obeying our Lord's command if she is not. She must be always trying to reach and bless not only those about her, but stretching out her hands to those in heathen lands. And each Christian should have part in this work. All cannot personally be missionaries, though all should remember their responsibility to influence by word and example those about them. And all should contribute to the support and carrying on of missions, that thus they may have some share in this glorious work of trying to make the kingdoms of this world the kingdom of our God and of His Christ.

The Epiphany season is the usual time when the collections for missions are made in our churches. In this parish where we use the envelope system, a special envelope is sent out this quarter marked "General Missions." These envelopes may be put in the plate at any service, and their contents are sent to the Treasurer of the Board of Missions and are devoted to the carrying on of the general work of the Board.

In addition to this we have two representatives from this parish on each of the five committees of the Women's Auxiliary to the Board of Missions.

This society is intended to enable the women of the church to aid in the missionary work. Its special work is the making up of missionary boxes, which are so great a help to the poorly paid missionaries, paying the salaries of teachers in church schools, of nurses in hospitals, deaconesses, etc.

Different methods have been adopted by the delegates from this parish in making their collections. For some years each of them appealed either personally or by letter or postal card to all the female communicants of the parish for help in their special branch. Thus, for a couple of years, the treasurer of the parish branch sent out a printed letter from the rector setting forth the needs of the different missions, and asking each to state on an enclosed postal card the amount they were willing to contribute to each department of missions, sending the same to the Treasurer at their convenience. This plan did not seem to work very well, as the returns were less than formerly.

So this year the ladies of our parish branch have decided to adopt another plan, which is for the ten delegates to divide up the parish between them, and each apply to those members assigned to them, either personally or by letter as they may prefer, for contributions to the general work of the Society. Of course any persons desiring to do so can designate the particular branch of missionary work to which they wish their offerings to go. But if they are not designated they will be equally divided between the five branches, that is, the Foreign, Domestic, Freedmen, Indian and Diocesan Committees; or if any special appeals are presented at the regular monthly missionary meetings held on the first Friday of each month, the ladies present will vote appropriations to them as far as the money on hand will permit. This mode of collecting it is thought will bring in more money and be easier both for those collecting and for the people appealed to. But it will be necessary for all to remember that contributions are asked for all the departments of missionary work, not for only one. It will be one appeal for five missionary objects.

We hope very much that more of our ladies will attend the monthly missionary meetings. These are for the purpose of disseminating information and stirring up interest. The delegates from the parish attend the monthly meetings of the Diocesan committees held in the church house, where they learn the wants of the various missions, and then they come back to the parish and report and those present vote what money they have to give in response, or agree to make up missionary boxes, as the case may be. Let all try to take more interest in trying to do good. We are all too much absorbed in ourselves and our own interests and pleasure. The cases of need on the part of those trying to serve the Master's cause are often pitiful. And the least we, who stay at home, surrounded with every comfort and luxury, can do, is to try and soften the lot of those who at every sacrifice are carrying the standard of the Cross into heathen lands or into those parts of our own country where there is either not the ability or the disposition to support the Church. Believing that there is no other such source of peace and blessing and elevation for the world as in our holy religion, let each do all he can to hasten Christ's full Epiphany to all mankind.

A PRAYER FOR MISSIONS.

Father of mercies, who to Thine Apostle Saint Peter didst reveal in threefold vision Thy boundless compassion; forgive, we pray Thee, our unbelief, and so enlarge our hearts, and kindle our zeal, that we may fervently desire the salvation of all men, and, with more and more ready diligence labor in the extension of Thy kingdom for His sake who gave Himself for the life of the world, Thy Son, our Saviour Jesus Christ. Amen.

The very soul of our religion is missionary, progressive and world-embracing; it would cease to exist if it ceased to be missionary, if it disregarded the parting words of its Founder. That Church is dead that is not anxious to preach the Gospel to every creature.—Selected.

PRAYER-BOOK HABITS.

It is sometimes asked, Why do we have so many services during the week? Why does the church bell ring so often? The answer is that the Prayer-Book provides for Daily Morning and Evening Prayer. These are not Sunday Services only but Daily Services, to be said every day. At these Daily Services the Psalms are read through every month, and the Old and New Testaments every year, and on Wednesdays and Fridays, which are specially appointed Fast Days, the Litany must be added to the Morning Prayer. Again, there is a Collect, Epistle and Gospel, for every Sunday, which points to a weekly celebration of the Holy Communion, and there is a special provision for a Communion Service during the week. Moreover, each Holy Day has its Epistle and Gospel for the Celebration on that Holy Day. So that the Prayer-Book clearly provides not only for Daily Morning and Evening Prayer in the Church, but also for Weekly and Saints' Day Celebrations of the Holy Eucharist.

But an objection is often made. Suppose only one or two persons attend these Weekly Services, is it worth while to open the church, and take so much of a clergyman's time? It is indeed a pity, a great pity, that people should think of their church only on Sunday. We are to learn in this world to be prepared for the continual worship of God in the next, and these Daily Services should be part of our preparation for heaven. It is a pity that more of our people do not make the effort and come to one at least of these Daily Services. The attendance will surely bring its blessing. But it is part of the Priest's duty to intercede and pray for his people. What they will not or cannot do he must do for them. As the clergyman stands or kneels in the chancel it is not for himself alone, or for those who are present. He is there to pray and to plead for the absent, for the sick, and those at work who cannot come, and for the lazy and careless who will not come. The Daily

Services and the frequent Eucharists are part of the Priest's work for his people. They are as important as his preaching, his teaching and his visits. There he is asking God to soften the hearts to whom he ministers. There he is winning blessings for those who scorn or ignore his efforts.

PARISH NOTES.

Gifts to the Church.—Thirty copies of Hutchins Psalter for the choir. A linen baptismal napkin embroidered. The repairing and setting of the Christmas Rood screen. 6 Bottles Dexertive for Industrial School.

The Christmas Entertainment for the children was very successful in spite of the short time to make the necessary preparations. The tableaux were beautiful and impressive. The first tableaux illustrated the carol "Ring Out the Bells for Christmas," Misses May Moreland, Jennie Lindsey, Carrie Wagner and Edith Stevenson. II. The shepherds illustrating the carol "Noel, Noel!" Richard Stevenson, John Strong, Robert Lindsey and Clarence Martz. III. The three kings, illustrating the carol, "We, three kings from Orient are!" George Jack, Franklin Brunt and Irving Conger. IV. The stable scene illustrating the carol, "Sing, oh sing, this happy morn." In addition to the shepherds and wise men there was a chorus of angels around the "manger," Lizzie McCracken, Annie Kirkpatrick, Mamie Boggs, Katie McClay, Martha Smythe, Carrie Moore, Mabel Walker and Annie Carpenter, who were assisted by a number of the girls of the Sunday School and Mr. Redamayne, who accompanied the carols on the violin. The children were treated to a novelty in the way of a Christmas tree that seemed to light up of itself, as a little boy said. The tree was decorated with small red, white and blue electric lamps by Mr. Carroll Hodge and Mr. Richard Gilpin. Each child received a small present and a box of candies.

The Advent Offering of the Sunday School which is to be devoted this year to aid the Texas sufferers, amounted to $12.40, and this together with $7.60, the offering of Mrs. Hodge's Bible Class, makes a total of $20 contributed by our children to help the unfortunate diocese.

St. John's Guild.—The annual meeting of the Guild was held on St. John's day. The following officers were elected for the coming year: President, William Perry; Vice-President, Miss M. J. Gilpin: Secretary, James H. Atkinson; Treasurer, Boyd Burleigh; Banner Bearer, William McCann. The Executive Committee has not yet been appointed by the President.

The Human Calendar like most things that are human, is slow of growth. The undertaking to get an individual to represent some part of a year—a month, week, day or hour, is much larger than one would suppose. But when we remember that we have the whole year before us, and we are working to clear away the debt before the year is over, we should not feel discouraged at this stage of the proceedings.

It has been proposed that a card be printed for the different days with the twenty-four hours upon it, on the principle that if we take care of the hours the days, weeks and months will take care of themselves.

We feel sure that there will be many opportunities for people to fill up their cards, if not now, certainly during the summer months when people like to take up something of this kind to interest them and their friends.

Will you be one of the 365 persons who will be a day and during the year try to get twenty-four persons to give 10 cents? If you are willing to do this for your church you will be doing something that will help very materially to rid us of the debt. If you think this is too little to do and you would like to do more, we will give you another card with seven days upon it. Each day is to pay 25 cents.

These cards can be had from the clergy or the sexton, and will be sent to any address upon application to the treasurer.

REV. W. B. GILPIN,
Church of the Ascension.

The following letter has been received by the ladies in charge of the missionary box:

MY DEAR MRS. GILPIN:—The box was received and opened on Saturday afternoon, and each of the admirable gifts was examined and accepted as just exactly the thing. Every article of apparel was just right, only I have not yet tried on my share, as I am still suffering from the grippe, and we thought it best not to risk more cold and perhaps an interruption of my services, but the measures were all correct. But, my dear madame, there was one large addition to what you so kindly informed me would be sent, which addition touched my wife very much. "Oh," she said, "the clothing and the sheets and other things are worth more, of course, but that the ladies of the Church of the Ascension should have thought of all these little articles!—just the difference as they know between absolute need and enjoyment—they were so thoughtful!"

There was no need to say a word about the magazines, which were put in, for most of them I had not seen, which also contained many valuable articles. Shall I add our gratification for the beautiful pictures?

And now, my dear madam, this is a very poor and empty way of saying thanks, indeed, and many fervent prayers that you all may be blessed and prosperous for so thorough a fulfillment of the stewardship given to your branch of the Auxiliary. But how can I express it better? After long thought and delay till I was ashamed of myself, I can only send you this, and only wish I could speak it to you—the paper is so pale and the writing so thin and meagre.

But, indeed, we are most deeply thankful to you and to the Giver of all good gifts.

I am ever sincerely yours in the faith.

CONFIRMATION.

The time for the annual Confirmation is drawing near, and we hope that all those in the parish who are old enough to receive it and have not done so as yet will consider the duty of presenting themselves at this time.

All who have seen a Confirmation know that it consists in the laying on of the hands of the Bishop, and its purpose is to invoke on the head of the recipient the grace of God to enable that person to live a Christian life. And we believe that when it is received with the right disposition that grace is given so that the person is confirmed or strengthened to keep the vows of his baptism which he takes upon himself at that time. When one is a child he is of course guided and governed by his parents, guardians or teachers. But when he becomes old enough to understand for himself the difference between right and wrong, good and evil, and to direct and govern himself, then he ought solemnly to undertake to do what is right of his own accord, and Confirmation ought to be administered just at that time in order to settle and confirm him in the right way. Or if through neglect or wrongdoing one is not Confirmed just at the period of life the Church intends it should be received, then at any time or any age when one has the opportunity it should be received as a blessing and a help to enable one to do what he is obligated to do and which will be of the greatest advantage to him.

Some are deterred from receiving it from a fear that they cannot live up to the profession which it requires them to make. But they should remember that every Christian is morally bound to do all that he undertakes when he is Confirmed whether he is Confirmed or not. The difference between one who is Confirmed and one who is not, is that the one acknowledges his obligation and declares himself determined to try to fulfil it and seeks God's help to enable him to do so, and the other makes no effort to do what he knows he ought to do.

The preparation that is necessary for Confirmation is first an intellectual one, the candidate must understand thoroughly what are the principles and teachings of the Church and the requirements of the Christian life. And secondly, he must be spiritually prepared by seeing that his heart and life are in accordance with the teachings of our religion and that he honestly intends to lead a Christian life.

To asisst in this preparation those in this Parish who propose to present themselves this year, the Rector will give a series of instructions every Saturday evening at 8 o'clock in the Guild room in the Parish building beginning with Saturday, Feb. 9th, and continuing each Saturday until the Confirmation which is to take place on the evening of Wednesday, March 20th.

The Rector trusts that every one in the Parish, whether old or young, who has not yet been confirmed will at once serously consider his duty in the matter and attend these instructions. Those already Confirmed are invited to attend them as well if they would like to do so.

MR. CHARLES E. BONNET.

We have the sad duty of announcing the death of our Accounting Warden, Mr. Charles E. Bonnet which occurred at his residence, 606 North 11th St., on January 21st. Mr. Bonnet had been in delicate health for some time, and last October had an illness which necessitated his giving up all work except his duties as Warden, to which he held on to the last. For a time he seemed to improve but on Friday, January 19th he suffered a relapse from which he never regained consciousness until his death on the following Monday.

Mr. Bonnet was born April 1, 1840, at Nismes, in the south of France. He was brought to this country by his father when only ten years of age. His youth was passed in New York. He subsequently removed to this city and engaged in the manufacture of picture frames and mirrors. In early life he connected himself with the Methodist denomination, taking an active part in its work, teaching a Bible class of young men, etc. He was subsequently drawn to the Episcopal Church and became a member of our Parish, he and each member of his family being Confirmed in 1886. In the following year he was elected a Vestryman, and in 1896 the Accounting Church Warden, in which capacity he has served continuously ever since. He was so attached to the church that when he removed from Lombard street, above Broad, where he had been living, to the northern part of the city, he still continued his connection with it, attending the services as regularly as the state of his health permitted. He made a particular point of coming during the summer months and on Sunday afternoons during the winter when he thought he would be more needed. He was most faithful in the discharge of his duties, taking a pleasure in being of service to the church. He was a man of very gentle and retiring disposition, but his bright smile and cordial greeting were a benediction to all with whom he came in contact.

Immediately on his death the Rector called a special meeting of the Vestry when the following Preamble and Resolutions were adopted.

Whereas it has pleased Almighty God to take out of this world the soul of Charles E. Bonnet, for thirteen years a member of this Vestry and for almost five years Accounting Warden of the Parish, therefore,

Resolved, that we place on record our sense of the loss the Parish has sustained by his death. He was devotedly attached to it, continuing his connection with it many years after his removal from its neighborhood. He was most faithful in the discharge of his duties, being ready and willing to serve the church in any way in his power. He was a man of strict integrity, of an unassuming piety, and of a most gentle and amiable disposition.

Resolved, that we extend to the immediate members of his family our deep sympathy in their bereavment, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to them and printed in our Parish paper, and that we attend his funeral in a body.

The funeral was held in the church on Thursday the 24th, five members of the Vestry acting as pall bearers. The Rector went with the body to West Laurel Hill Cemetery where the interment took place.

May he rest in peace and may light perpetual shine upon him.

QUIET DAY AND CONFERENCE.

A Quiet Day for Churchwomen will be held on Thursday, February 28th, in St. James's Church, Walnut and Twenty-second Streets, to be conducted by the Very Rev. Wilford Lash Robbins, D. D, Dean of All Saints' Cathedral, Albany, services beginning with the celebration of the Holy Communion at 7.30 A. M., Matins at 9, second celebration at 9 30, followed by addresses and Meditations. 3 P. M, Afternoon Service, 5. P. M., Evensong.

A Conference of Churchwomen will be held in Holy Trinity Parish House, Twentieth Street, below Walnut, on the following day. Sessions at 10.30 A. M. and 3 P. M. Topics, "The Influence of Environment," Mrs. E. A. Bradley, of N. Y.; "Our Responsibility for the Use of Words," Miss Lucy Jarvis, of Conn.; "The Value of Time," Miss Mary W. Triplett, of Mo.; "What can Churchwomen do to Promote the Due Observance of the Lord's Day." Mrs. McIlvaine, of Delaware.

PARISH NOTES.

Our Curate.—The Rev. William B. Gilpin has gone on a trip abroad for some three months. The opportunity coming to him to do so, the Rector did not want to stand in the way of his going, knowing what an advantage it would be to him, though it is a considerable inconvenience to have him go away at so busy a time of the year. We have no doubt, however, that he will make up for it on his return, by his work, especially during the summer. While he is away the Rev. George W. Read formerly one of our Bible class teachers, will assist the Rector on Sundays, while Rev. Mr. de Gama is doing the same on the week days. All the services will be continued just the same as if Mr. Gilpin was here.

Accounting Warden.—Owing to the inability of Mr. Bonnet to discharge his duties as Warden, Mr. W. Moore Wharton was appointed at a special meeting of the Vestry held Thursday, January 20th, to act in his place, and at a subsequent meeting held after Mr. Bonnet's death he was duly elected Accounting Church Warden. Mr. D. L. Witmer was elected a member of the Vestry to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Bonnet's death.

Diocesan Missions.—The special benevolent envelope sent out with the regular envelopes this quarter is for diocesan missions, that is for the extension and strengthening of the church in the weaker parts of the diocese. For this purpose this parish is expected to contribute this year $156.87. This amount should be made up by the offerings received in these envelopes. The cause of these missions will be presented to the congregation by Mr. G. Harry Davis, of Germantown, on the morning of Sunday, February 10th, being especially sent here by the Board of Missions for the purpose. All the offerings on the following Sunday morning, outside of the regular envelopes for the support of the church, will be given to this fund.

Lent.—As always we shall have the boys of the choir at the daily afternoon service during Lent, and there will be a special lecture on Friday afternoons with a collection. We do trust our people will all make it a rule to attend one daily service during Lent and in their own parish church. Many people nowadays go to the brief noonday services held in St. Stephen's and St. Paul's churches and do not go to their own churches at all. But that is where they belong and where we think they will get the most good. Let those who can, too, come to the Thursday morning communions at 9 o'clock.

St. John's Guild will hold their regular winter sports exhibition in the Parish Building on the evening of February 11th, at 8 o'clock. The events will include high jump, potato race, Indian club race, three legged race, bag punching exhibition, pie eating contest ,sack race, etc. Admission ten cents. For the benefit of the Guild.

Gift to the Church.—A pair of handsome glass altar cruets has been presented to the church to take the place of a pair which has been in use for some years, one of which was recently broken.

The human calendar for the payment of our debt has been hung up in the vestibule of the church. Every vacant space in it should be filled up with a name. Send the name with the money to Miss Elizabeth Gilpin, 1416 Lombard street, or give it to the sexton. This is a way in which every one can contribute to the reduction of the debt, 10 cents, 25 cents, 50 cents or $1, and if all the spaces are taken nearly $1000 will be received.

A FEW REMINDERS.

Some of our people seem to have rather peculiar clocks in their homes on Sundays. They apparently run slower on these days than during the rest of the week, and their owners are apt to arrive behind time at the Church services. This careless habit appears to be growing, and sometimes it displays itself among fully one half of our attendants. Might not an effort to correct this undesirable custom be included among the resolves of the new year?

When people enter the Church during the Prayers, and especially while the Priest is announcing the Absolution, will they not endeavor to remember that the Prayer Book directs that the people should kneel at such times, and that, during the saying of the latter, the Priest alone is to be standing? A little thought on this subject will prevent persons entering the church and going up the aisles while the clergyman is repeating this solemn declaration of God's merciful pardon to "those who truly repent and unfeignedly believe his Holy Gospel."

Sometimes there is an unseemly haste to put on outside wraps manifested by members of the congregation during the singing of the Retrocessional Hymn, and before the last collect in the choir room.

This is something that should not be indulged in. It is certainly done through thoughtlessness. The extra time that is thus gained is certainly not equalized by the unnecessary confusion caused by such actions, and the apparent irreverence with which the concluding portion of God's worship is thus treated. The concluding Prayer with the Choir, after the last hymn, should find the members of the congregation upon their knees.

LETTER FROM THE CURATE.

We are sure our readers will be interested in the following letter recently received by the Rector from the Curate, giving an account of his travels:

"ALGIERS, 5th Feb., 1901.

"My Dear Mr. Hodge: I have been living for the past two weeks in a state that is difficult to describe. Two weeks ago we landed at Gibraltar, and since then we have been going from place to place seeing what we could in Spain. The beauty of Grenada, that splendid mosque at Cordova, the grand cathedral at Seville, then leaving Cadiz, arriving at Tangier and finding ourselves in a place that has not moved for hundreds of years, where a wagon is something that has never been seen by the natives—possibly the most primitive and Oriental place in the world. Now we are in Algiers. That is a miniature Paris, with the Arab town hidden away somewhere inside. The place has everything in the way of natural scenery and climate to make it attractive, but it lacks what we hoped to find—the native life.

"I suppose you wonder what all this has to do with the state referred to; but it has a good deal, because I do not suppose for a moment that I forget you and your work, and wonder what you are all doing, and whether my being here does make much difference. I have not heard a word from home, and do not expect to before the middle of the month, when we expect to be in Naples. I can see now that this trip is going to be of great advantage to me personally, as I have already seen so much that I had hardly dreamt of. The religious extravagancies in the cathedrals and churches of Spain; the decadence of the Mohamedan religion as shown in the life of the Moors and Arabs of to-day.

"Yesterday we visited the Trappist monastry near here, where the monks spend all their time iu trying to save their own souls and making wine for the purpose of making money, if not to send the souls of others to pertition.

"We leave here Saturday for Constantine, and then go to Tunis, Malta, Sicilly and Naples. We expect to be in Rome by Ash Wednesday, if not before.

"Last Sunday reminded me of home more than anything else. It was a beautiful day—nearly like our Easter days, only flowers were blooming in the gardens and the soft wind and blue sky made a bright Sunday. I went to the celebration at 8, and felt in the Divine Presence a closeness to all I knew were offering the same sacrifice far away. I assisted the Canon at the 10.30 service, which was much like ours, only that the Communion service was a distinct service after morning prayers, another collection being taken. I think it would be well if we could teach all our people that the alms offered at the Communion are different from those at the other services. I assisted at the celebration. In the afternoon at 3 there was the evensong, which was well attended. The Litany was sung in addition to evening prayer. I preached a short sermon, tried to say something nice about the Queen, etc.

"Yesterday I visited the Trappist monastery, and to-day we go to Notre Dame d'Afrique, where there is a black Virgin. I think there are more than one, but the people here think this is the only one.

"There is so much I want to ask about the Ascension that I hardly know where to begin, and you might feel called upon to answer a multitude of questions that if left to themselves would doubtless solve themselves.

"I want to write a letter to the children of the Sunday School, so that they can have it the Sunday before Lent. I want to urge them to make a fine offertory for the service.

"I hope and pray that all is going well, that you are not finding that the work comes too heavy upon you, and that the assistance you have so far exceeds any that I was able to give, and that all goes well.

"With my kindest regards to Mrs. Hodge and your daughters, and best love to all the children in the Sunday School, believe me, as ever,

"Faithfully yours,

"WM. BERNARD GILPIN."

LENT.

We are passing through the great annual season of spiritual revival the church regularly provides for the improvement and cultivation of our spiritual life. Shall it be a profitable thing for us, or shall it be a mere form, or shall we neglect it altogether?

There can be no doubt that we all need it. We are all apt to become careless, forgetful, neglectful of our religious duties. We are all apt to become cold, and luke warm and indifferent, to allow the interests and pleasures of life to get a too absorbing hold upon our thoughts and affections and so sacrifice our higher interests to them, or to contract habits of sloth and indolence or perhaps indulge more and more in what we know to be wrong and injurious. So we all need a special call to arouse us out of this state and incite us to make a new start and put ourselves under some definite discipline to correct what has become amiss in us. If we use Lent for this purpose it will prove most beneficial to us.

So too its call to attend special services, to more frequent church going, week days as well as Sundays, will have a softening and solemnizing influence on us. The fact of making a practice of going to church and the sweet and tender associations which are connected with it cannot but affect us, making us realize that there is something else for us to think about and attend to than merely the pleasures and occupations of life. Oh, that we might all learn therefrom to connect our religion more with our daily life than we do, to try to bring those holy influences more and more to bear upon us at all times.

But at least let us all resolve to be strict in the observance of Lent. It is something the church requires of us. Knowing from her vast experience in dealing with human nature what is best for all, she appoints this season to be observed for prayer and fasting and doing of good deeds, for more frequent and earnest religious exercises, for the infliction of some kind of self discipline as each may need it and can adapt it to his own condition, and to the performance of such charitable acts or alms deeds as we may be moved to make. Our discipline may well largely take this form that what we save from indulgence and extravagant expenditures we may have to give to the maintenance of the church, the extension of its work on earth or the aleviation of human want or suffering. The field for the performance of such work is boundless. The cry goes up everywhere that the church cannot do the work it might for lack of funds. Let us see if by some self denial we may not be able to have more to give away. It is the best use to which we can put our money, and if it requires sacrifice on our part to give, we ourselves will be blessed by the act as well as the recipients of our bounty.

Remember these purposes of Lent, discipline, prayer, charity. Try to fulfil each of them as far as we can and we shall find it a blessed season, full of the highest good to us, something that may benefit all our future lives and make us as well a blessing unto others.

PARISH NOTES.

Diocesan Missions were ably advocated by Mr. G. Harry Davis in the Church on the morning of February 10th, and the offerings on the Sunday following, outside the regular envelopes for the support of the Church, were devoted to this object. Not half, however, of the $156.87 asked from this Parish for this purpose has been so far received. Will not each one in the Parish contribute something through the envelope marked Diocesan Missions, which all using the envelopes have received and which can be found in the rack near the door of the Church. It is sad to hear of the work of the Church being crippled through lack of funds, when if all our Church people should give proportionately to their means so much more could be done.

Lenten work. The Ladies Aid are engaged during Lent in making up garments for the Day nursery on Lombard St., above 15th St., in this city. Children are brought to these nurseries in a very dirty condition frequently, and without sufficient clothing, and it is very necessary that there should be a supply of simple and clean garments to put on them. The Aid meets every Thursday at 3 P. M. in the Parish building and will be glad to have any ladies join with them. The members of S. Mary's Guild are also working for the same object.

The Human Calendar. The Rector called the attention of the congregation at the beginning of Lent to the chart of this calendar, which has been hung up in the vestibule, expressing the hope that every space in it would be filled with a name and the accompanying contribution handed in before Easter that we may be able to reduce our debt by at least $1000. By this means contributions of any amount may be made towards the debt and it is much better way of contributing to church purposes than by buying tickets for an entertainment, which we hope to avoid this year. Names and contributions may be given to Miss S. E. Gilpin, Treasurer, or handed to the Rector or Verger.

Holy Week. As the next issue of the News will not be out before Easter Eve we announce now that our services during Holy Week will be the same as in former years, daily Holy Communion at 7½ A. M. and at 10 A. M. except on Good Friday when the mid-day service will begin at 11. A. M. and consist of Morning Prayer and the Litany followed by the singing of the Reproaches and preaching of the Cross from 12 to 3 P. M. There will be also daily Evening Prayer at 5 P. M. and a sermon on the Passion each night at 8 P. M.

On Easter day there will be celebrations of the Holy Communion at 6.30, 7.30, 8.30 and 11.30 A. M.

THE PARISH

WE cannot too often or too earnestly urge upon all Christian people to have a definite parochial connection. That is, to feel that they belong to some particular church, which is their Parish, their spiritual home; where they know personally the clergyman and he knows them; where they have their interest and their duties and to which they are attached.

The clergy are constantly coming across people who are baptized and confirmed members of the Episcopal Church, but who do not belong to any particular Church, who go about from one to another occasionally, and who do not know, and are not known or visited by, any clergyman. And worse still, there are those who do not belong to any denomination of Christians, but attend the service of one or another as fancy may take them. But that state of things is very bad for the persons concerned, for they do not have any home feeling or affection for any Church; they do not realize that they have any duties towards the Church; they do little or nothing for its support or the carrying on of its charities; they have no one to look after them and their families and follow them up if they are careless or neglectful of their duties, or minister to them if they are sick or in trouble or affliction. And it is very bad for the Church. It does not have the support and interest of those whom it has a right to count on for its maintenance. It is weakened and discouraged and its work hindered by this lukewarmness and indifference on the part of those who ought to be its very bone and sinew. And multitudes of communicants of the Church are thus constantly lost to it altogether, become unknown to the clergy, and themselves entirely neglectful of all their religious duties, simply from this failing to keep up a definite Church connection with some Parish.

The original idea of a Parish is that of a definite territory or district lying around a Church, of which a Rector is in charge. Just as all the territory of a nation is divided up into districts called Dioceses, over each of which a Bishop has jurisdiction, so the whole of each Diocese should be divided up into districts called Parishes, over which Priests have charge, and all the people living in them should attend and support their own Parish Church. The Priest who is in charge of it, who is called the Rector, because he rules or directs every thing in it, should, with the aid of his assistants or Curates, visit every house, and, if possible, know every person in his Parish.

This idea of a Parish is, however, very difficult to carry out nowadays, owing first to the divisions among Christians, there being so many sects or denominations, each insisting upon keeping up churches or meetings of their own peculiar forms or ideas. So in all our Parishes there are persons living who are all sorts and kinds of Christians and non-Christians as well, whom our clergy cannot get to know and whom they could do but little with if they did. Then, secondly, owing to our modern modes of rapid locomotion, people prefer often, and find it possible, to attend Churches at great distances from their homes. So the clergy must visit not only in the immediate neighborhood of their churches, but all over the city or the country as the case may be. This consumes a great deal of time. In our own parish this is the case to such an extent that the whole time of our Rector and Curate is taken up in visiting those whom they know to be connected with the Parish, and they have no time left in which to go after those living in the neighborhood of the Church who are going nowhere and who might be brought into the Church if they could be visited.

This is not an ideal state of things. It is much better for people to attend the Church in the district in which they live. Otherwise, if they try to go to one at a distance they are apt to become very irregular and careless about their attendance, and they cannot take part in the work of the Church as they should.

But, at least, let every one see that he is definitely connected with some Church which he looks upon as his spiritual home. When one is confirmed and makes his first communion in a Parish, his name is then entered on the parochial register as a communicant there, and it there remains until he takes a letter of transfer to some other Parish, or until either from neglect of duty or from his moving to a distance so that the Rector loses sight of him and does not know whether he is alive or dead or still a communicant of the Church or not, his name is stricken off and he is not registered as a communicant anywhere.

Let every Christian be able to say of some particular Church: this is my Parish; here I belong; I know the Rector or Curate, he is my personal friend and spiritual guide; here I go to receive the sacraments and perform my duties as a Christian, and I do all I can to support this Church and to make it as effective as possible to carry on its beneficent work.

PARISH NOTES

EASTER SERVICES. — On Easterday there will be Celebrations of the Holy Communion at 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, and 11.30 A.M. The Celebrant in the middle of the day will be the Rev. Dr. Robins, late Head Master of the Episcopal Academy. At the children's Easter service at 3 P.M., all their Lenten missionary offerings through the mite boxes will be presented. The music at the mid-day service on Easterday will be the whole of Gounod's S. Cecelia Mass. This will be repeated on Low Sunday. The preacher on this occasion will be the Rev. A. G. P. McClure, agent for the General Relief Fund for the Clergy, our Rector on that day being the preacher in Calvary Monumental Church in West Philadelphia, of which he formerly had charge, when it was situated on North Front Street, it being the fiftieth anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of that Church.

THE EASTER ELECTION for four vestrymen to serve for three years will be held on Easter Monday, between the close of divine service in the morning to 1 P.M. All who have been registered as communicant members of the Parish, and have been contributing to its support through the envelope system for one year are entitled to vote. We regret to say that Mr. Samuel Wetherill, our oldest vestryman, owing to his loss of eyesight and general ill health, declines to allow his name to be used for re-election. This will leave one vacancy to be filled.

EASTER OFFERINGS.—As the Rector announced on Passion and Palm Sundays, an Easter offering of fully $1,000 will be needed to enable us to meet our current expenses up to the first of May, which is the beginning of a new financial year. Last year the Easter Offering was $700, and we have had one as high as $1,200. Let all give as liberally as each one can, in order that we may receive the $1,000 absolutely required to meet the very moderate expenses of this entirely free Church.

CONFIRMATION.—The following were confirmed in the Church by the Rt. Rev.

the Bishop of Delaware, on the evening of March 20th:

George Lawrence Knowlton
Guillermo Spottswood Machado
Joseph Watson
Andrew Lindsay
Robert Johnson Strong
Eric Christian Killgren
John Britton
John West Rulon Cooper
Arthur Challman
William McIlvaine
William Moffit
Charles Sherwood Cameron
James Jones
Mrs. Elizabeth Engle French
Mrs. Elizabeth Brown
Mrs. Mary Murray
Mrs. Guliaema Hyndman Machado
Emma Louisa Caroline Schubert
Carrie Anna Wagner
Ann Wilson Kirkpatrick
Jane Neilson Lindsay
Mary Florence Brodie

Three or four others who could not be prepared in time, or were otherwise prevented, may be presented by the Rector later in some other Church where the Bishop is Confirming.

LENTEN WORK.—The Ladies' Aid and S. Mary's Guild made during Lent over 125 garments for the Lombard Street Day Nursery and the City Mission, a very creditable showing.

ENVELOPES.—It is particularly requested that all who are behind hand in returning their envelopes for the support of the Church will make a point of settling them up in full before the end of this month, as that not only closes the quarter, but also our financial year.

THE LADIES' MISSIONARY MEETING this month will be held on the second Friday, after morning prayers, as the first Friday is Good Friday.

GIFTS.—We gladly acknowledge the receipt of a piece of muslin from John Wanamaker and a piece of Canton flannel from Strawbridge & Clothier for the work of the Mother's Meeting; also a quantity of gingham and some made up garments from Miss Menah for the Lenten work of the Ladies' Aid. Orders for two half tons of coal were received from a former member of the Parish. Seven volumes were presented to the Sunday School Library. Also a brass Baptismal Ewer for the Font.

THE S. JOHN GUILD SPORTS held in February afforded an agreeable evening's entertainment. Quite a large audience was present, and the receipts, including some donations, amounted to about $35. This it is proposed to use in fitting up a room beneath the Guild room in the Parish building as a gymnasium and providing it with some new apparatus.

The Guild proposes to give a Minstrel entertainment on Thursday evening, April 25th. Some special scenery is being painted for the purpose. The tickets will be 25 and 50 cents.

The Guild will also tender a reception to our Curate, the Rev. Mr. Gilpin on his return from Europe, the date to be announced.

LETTER FROM THE CURATE

"FLORENCE, ITALY, March 15th.

My Dear Mr. Knodle:

"Somehow the name of this place recalled you to my mind. I think, possibly, the reason I have the recollection is because I associate with you and Florence some very happy days with "our" boys last summer. * * * * *

"I regret that I cannot be with you all at the time of Confirmation. This thought of not taking an active personal part in the Confirmation class is the greatest trial to me, and the fact that I am enjoying myself as much as one possibly can does not alter my feelings in the least, except to make me feel it more keenly.

"I wish I had time to write about the wonderful things I have seen in Italy. Unfortunately, I have not heard any music. This is not the time; but if I am in Paris at Easter-tide I will probably hear some fine music there. I have simply been devouring all the art that the world has produced—ancient, mediæval and modern. Florence, as you know, is the mother of art; here are the great storehouses, so to speak, of all those wonderful works that have supplied the world with inspiration and enjoyment.

"We go to Venice to-morrow, and expect to be in Paris by Easter. We have the interim to give to Milan, Mentone and the Riviera, where we can get nature in all her beauty.

"I hope to be back by May 1st, and it will be just in time to start in upon the summer work. I want to do a good deal for our boys and girls and people generally this summer. I fancy you want to do something for your boys or our boys. Whatever we do for them we shall want some money. I am thinking how it is to be got. I have a plan which I am sure will work O. K. if you think it can be done. It is something that has not been tried before. It is a choir concert. The choir gives a concert, a little Cantata, with some professional pieces—or, if we can get good amateur talent, so much the better. The music will be good. If we can give it before the 15th of May we will have the people before they go off. When I was in Boston the choir got up a concert of this kind and it was a great success. It did much towards developing the voices of the boys and it made a good sum for the vacation fund. Will you think over this, and if you feel the choir could get up such an entertainment, go ahead with it.

"Please give my love to the boys, and tell them that although I have seen some Spanish boys and Arab boys and Maltese boys and Sicilian boys and Italian or Dago boys, none of them are in it with our boys—the Ascension boys. Tell them I wish they were all here with me. I should like to have had them on the top of Vesuvius with me, and, as they are fond of swimming and fishing, I wish they could be with me in Venice to-morrow where the streets are not streets, but canals, and the carriages are not carriages, but boats. We would have a good time; but, as that cannot be done, we must wait until next July.

Very sincerely your friend,
WM. BERNARD GILPIN."

The choir-master thinks the concert plan feasible and will try and carry it out.

THE OPEN CHURCH

IN addition to the principle involved in maintaining the freedom of seats in the Church, which this parish stands for, there is another principle we try to carry out here, too, which we want our people to appreciate, that is, its being an open Church.

We think a Church ought to be used to its fullest extent. We consider it very poor business, in an economical point of view, to have such a plant as we have in our Churches, and only use them for two or three services during a whole week. No business man would ever think of investing so much capital in a building which was to be kept closed every day in the week but one, and only opened for two or three hours on that day. We think the Church ought to be always open so as to make the fullest use of it possible. We think that on Sundays there ought to be services at a great many different hours, continuous services if possible, not that it is necessary that everyone should attend so many different services or stay in Church all day on Sunday, but in order that the Church may reach and be of service to a great many different people. Some persons can go at one hour and not at another. Some, from the nature of their avocations or duties at home, can never go at the ordinary hours of worship, but could go at other times. And in many households it is impossible for all the adults or children to be away at one time, but if there are services at different hours, then some members can go at one service and some at another, and thus make it possible for every one to fulfil the bounden obligation of going to God's House at least once of a Sunday. How many persons have become entirely forgetful of that obligation and have come to live utterly irreligious or sinful lives simply because the Church has not made provisions of services at hours when it was possible for them to attend them.

Of course it requires several clergymen and additional expenses to provide a choir, etc., for so many services, but every Church, situated as ours is, amid a dense population, should be provided with means for these purposes. And while we have as yet but little wealth in our parish, and but a modest establishment, still we try to do the best with it we can, and have really six services a Sunday in the winter, and five in the summer. Thus we try to reach and minister to more and more people.

So, too, we have services twice every day, and sometimes more, in order to teach the duty of, and give the opportunity for, the constant worship of God. Unless our religion is brought into our daily life, it will be of little advantage to us. Unless a man lifts up his heart to God every day and seeks His guidance and protection, he will not live as a Christian man should. And if the Church is to teach men to pray daily, she must do so herself and give the opportunity for it. This is the great use of the daily service. Even though few attend, it is the Church's witness to the necessity of daily prayer, the constant honoring of God, and discharge of the duty of corporate supplication and intercession, and her teaching, and provision for, the fullest and most perfect prayer.

And so, too, we keep our Church open at all hours, even when there is no service, so that the open Church door may invite in strangers and passers by; may make them familiar with their Heavenly Father's House; make them feel that it is the house and home of all; that each has a place and welcome there; that it is a place where all can and should go at any time, to bring their wants and woes, and seek for grace and help. Who can estimate how much teaching might be conveyed by our Churches being thus left open for anyone to enter and examine and think about what they mean and what they are for, and how much good might be done and comfort given to souls who may be thus permitted and invited to enter the Church's holy precincts, and lift up their hearts, even though only for a few moments, in converse with God?

A closed Church is to us a most inhospitable and wasted thing. It is like a closed house or an idle factory. It is money unused, bringing no interest. And we must always remember that it is no answer to this, as some people think it is, to say that not many people would thus use the Church, for if only one soul was reached or comforted, it would be fully worth the doing. The work before the Church, of winning all men to God and making them true sons of God, is altogether too great and too difficult for any means or instrumentality which might possibly advance that end to be neglected.

Let all appreciate and try to profit as much as they can by our open Church and frequent services.

Open the great church door,
'Till falls the night,
Wayfarer's beck'ning!
'Tis meet and right;
Should not the Father's gate
Stand open wide,
Calling the wand'rers to The Father's side?

The Father's House! It stands
A peaceful home,
Bidding from noonday heat
Tired souls to come,
Though from its grateful shade
To go again,
And bear a manful part
In life's campaign.

PARISH NOTES

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—A valuable gift was made to the parish last month of another lot in Mt. Moriah Cemetery, in which to inter the poor of the parish. We often have those connected with the parish who have made no provision for the burial of themselves or members of their families, and few things are more expensive than burials. One or two such coming together would drain away all the funds available for the benefit of the poor. It is of great use, therefore, to have a place belonging to the Church where our poor can be buried. We have had one such lot presented to the Church some fourteen or fifteen years ago, which is now nearly full, and we were wondering what we should do in the future, when this gift came, for which we are most grateful.

A friend of the Sunday School presented each child on Palm Sunday with several small photographs of the great events of the Holy Week and Eastertide; also with an envelope containing dye for Easter eggs.

There has been presented also a number of magazines and papers for the parish library.

EASTER.—In spite of the unseasonable weather we had large congregations at the different services on Easter day. The Church looked very beautiful, and the choir rendered the beautiful S. Cecilia Mass very well.

The children enjoyed their festival in the afternoon, each child receiving a large potted flower. The Missionary offerings collected through the mite chests amounted to $65.95.

The Industrial School Festival took place on the Saturday after Easter. Seventy-five children were present. Each received an Easter egg and card and a toy from a "fish pond," and those who had been most regular during the winter a special prize. All were regaled with ice cream and cake.

The offerings of the congregation amounted to $850, part of which, however, was intended for the Church debt, and there were only three offerings which were over $10. We would suppose that there were more than three persons in the congregation who could give over $10 as an offering on Easter day. We know our people have many calls upon them, but we fear that there are many who do not realize that in a Church where the seats were not free they would not only have the same calls for charitable purposes, but would have to pay a large pew rent in addition.

VESTRY ELECTION.—At the annual election on Easter Monday, the following gentlemen were duly elected to serve as vestrymen for three years: Mr. J. Edward Carpenter, Mr. Wm. Moore Wharton, Mr. Harry B. French, Mr. John Hazlehurst Mason. At a meeting of the Vestry held in Easter week, Mr. J. Edward Carpenter was reappointed as Rector's Warden, Mr. Wm. Moore Wharton was elected Accounting Warden, and Mr. John D. Henderson, Secretary. Messrs. Carpenter, Keese and Tingley were elected delegates to the Diocesan Convention.

ASCENSIONTIDE.—The feast of the Ascension, our special parish festival, occurs on the sixteenth of this month. There will be early Communion at 7.30 A.M. A second Celebration with the full choir at 10.30 A.M. Evening Prayer at 5 P.M., and Special Choral Service and the Anniversary Sermon by the Rector in the evening at 8 P.M. At this service the Rector always reviews the history of the Church for the past year, and calls attention to anything noteworthy about it. We hope all our people will make a point of being present at it. The Annual Guild Service will take place on Sunday, the 19th, when a special sermon will be preached to the members of the Parish Guilds. The Annual Parish Tea, which we hope all our people will attend, will take place on Monday evening, May 20th.

AN ENTERTAINMENT consisting of a play by some members of the congregation and a few of their friends, together with music furnished by our choir master and some of his friends, will be given on the evening of May 17th in the parish building for the benefit of the fund to provide a summer outing for the members of the choir and the children of the parish. Tickets will be 50 cts. each.

THE CURATE was to sail for home from Liverpool on April 27th, so he may be with us on the first Sunday of this month, or, if not, a day or two later.

MISSIONARY COLLECTIONS. — The method adopted this year by the members of our parish branch of the Woman's Auxiliary, of dividing up the members of the congregation between them, each taking a certain number to whom they would make personal application, has been more successful than any other method we have ever tried. The amounts collected have been as follows:

For Domestic Missions	.	$44 90
" Foreign "	.	20 40
" Freedmen "	.	21 90
" Indian "	.	23 40
" Diocesan "	.	27 40

This is in addition to what was contributed for missionary boxes or through the envelopes for missions used in the Church collection.

THE LADIES' AID and S. Mary's Guild, during Lent, sent boxes containing over 200 garments to the W. U. Day Nursery and that on Lombard Street above Fifteenth Street. Warm letters of thanks were received from each. One of them says: "We were not only glad to get everything that was in the box, but it is such a pleasure to find that the Nursery has such good friends. We do try to take care of the children and do a good work for them, and it is the greatest encouragement to persevere in spite of obstacles when somebody helps us as your societies have done. The things were just what we most need, and some have gone into use already."

ENVELOPES.—With the beginning of this month the envelopes for the ensuing six months are sent out. As so many people are out of town in August, the beginning of the second quarter, it would not be wise to send any out then. We trust that all who are going away will fill up and return all the envelopes for the time they expect to be away before they go, that the Church may have the money to carry on its work during the summer. We are thankful to say more envelopes are now in use than ever before, but there are still a great many of the congregation who do not take them. Surely each communicant of the parish should do so, even if they can only give five cents a Sunday. The special envelopes for the six months are for the poor and the schools. We depend on these entirely to meet these necessary expenses.

PAYMENT OF DEBT.—On the third of last month the Warden was able to pay $500 on account of the mortgage debt of the parish, $235 of this being part of the receipts from the Human Calendar.

OUR PARISH YEAR

WE print, as usual, in this number of the NEWS the annual report of the Parish as made to the Bishop, May 1st, the end of our Conventional year. We hope that especially those who were not present at the anniversary service on the evening of Ascension Day, when the report was read and commented on by the Rector, will study it for themselves, and for their benefit we call attention to the following points in regard to it. The members baptized, confirmed, etc., during the past year were just about the same as the year before. The number of communicants added to the parish roll was fifty-eight, a very good showing, but no less than fifty-two were removed, making the actual gain very small. This loss is chiefly due to so many families removing to the suburbs or newer parts of the city, though, of course, it includes some deaths and some suspensions. Our greatest loss by death during the past year was Mr. Chas. E. Bonnet, our late accounting warden.

More services have been held during the past year, and the attendance at some of them, notably the Sunday and Wednesday night service, has decidedly improved, though the church is far from being as full as it ought to be. Many of our communicants are very negligent and inappreciative of the duty and privilege of church attendance even on Sunday.

The Sunday School has increased by nearly a third, and a new parish agency has been inaugurated in the Boys' Brigade which has maintained a regular weekly drill during the winter, and went into camp for a week or so last summer.

The Mothers' Meeting has done a very effective work, bringing into the church, and benefiting a number of new families. And the Embroidery Committee of the Altar Guild has been larger and done more work.

On the whole, we can say that the Parish has continued the good, steady work which it has been doing for a number of years, in spite of many difficulties with which it has to contend.

As to our finances, the report shows that our expenditures have been some $780 in excess of our receipts. But it must be noted that $330 of this amount was of funds collected during the previous year and on hand at the beginning of May, 1900. So the actual deficit is about $450. And against this we have about $300 due from envelope pledges, a good portion of which, at least, will be paid. And it must also be noted that we have paid during the year $500, on account of our mortgage debt. So, taking these things into consideration, we can say that we have about met our expenses for the year, and that too, without resorting, as we have had to for some years past, to a large entertainment of some kind, to meet our current expenses, which is certainly not an ideal way of supporting a church. And we have not only done this, but have given away a large proportion of our income to charitable and benevolent purposes, over $1200.

We regret that the effort inaugurated in the autumn to reduce our permanent debt was not more successful, but we rejoice that at least $500 was paid off, and we should be glad if that could be kept up every year in addition to meeting our expenses. A considerable part of this came from the Human Calendar, and we trust that the effort to carry out that scheme will continue until every space in it has been filled and the full $1,000 proposed by it realized. We are glad to note the increase of names as they are written in the spaces allotted for them.

We are glad also to say that more persons are using the envelopes for the support of the church now than ever before, 44 new ones having been taken since last October, and over 190 being in actual use. But a great many more ought to be taken. Surely all the communicant members of the church, at least, should use them.

And we are confident that this income of the church would be largely increased if they did, as the great object of the system is to insure regularity in giving. Without it, even those intending to give a regular sum will lose account of it and be forgetful and negligent in making their contributions and the church consequently suffers. We hope that every one attending the church, even though he can contribute only five or ten cents a week, will do it through the envelope system. The Verger will give any one who asks him one of the forms of pledge for it.

We wish very much that the vicinity of the church would improve so that we could have a larger and wealthier congregation, or that in some way our financial resources could be increased so that we might do a larger work. But we are thankful that we can hold our own so well, and shall look forward to, and still pray for, further progress in the future.

SUMMER OUTING

A YEAR ago we called the attention of our readers to a scheme for giving the children of the Parish outings during the hot summer days. The outing parties proved to be more successful than was anticipated. A large number of children were taken to Bartram's Garden on weekly visits, and some were sent to the country through the Country Week Association. The boys of the choir and the Cadets were given a week's experience in camp life, and some of the members of S. John's Guild were enabled to spend a week in the country.

But we believe that these outings did much more than give enjoyment and recreation to the children and their parents. The clergy were brought into closer touch with the members of the Parish and many who are not members. The church has gained much by the feeling of love and interest that the people of the neighborhood have towards it. If there is any such idea as the one often expressed, that our church does not reach the people who are poor, we have done much to change it. But this idea must be rooted out of the minds of the people altogether; they must be taught that the church in general, and our Parish church in particular, is a home as well as a temple where rich and poor can come to worship Almighty God; where they can come and bring their trials and sorrows and lay them at the feet of Jesus. Whatever keeps people away is a barrier to the spreading of Christ's Kingdom; whatever draws them is a tool in the hand of the missionary whose work is to draw people to learn to know and love the blessings of the Gospel message.

Through the efforts of some members of the Parish, a summer outing fund has been provided, and we will be able to continue the work this summer among the children. But we would like to remind those who go away for the summer and pass the hot season in the country or at the seashore, that there are many mothers whom we would like to send away for a week into the country with their babies. Let us hope that some day we will be able to have a cottage in the country where we can take the mothers, the babies and some of the hardworking daughters when they have their week's vacation.

PARISH NOTES

OUR DEDICATION FESTIVAL.—There was a goodly number at the early Communion on Ascension Day, but we think the smallest congregation we have ever seen at the mid-day service. How is it that so many are so negligent of this great Feast, which has such glorious promises connected with it, to say nothing of its association with our parish Church? There was a fair attendance on the evening of Ascension Day, and a very good turnout at the Annual Guild Meeting, the parish guilds of young people making a very good showing in the procession. The Parish Tea was, as usual, well attended, and thoroughly enjoyed by all present. S. Mary's Guild contributed to the entertainment by some shadow pictures, and two of our choir boys, Masters Congar and Brown and Mr. Harvey Hindermeyer, one of our old guild boys, sang. We trust these annual parish feasts will contribute toward making our members more friendly towards each other and more attached to their Church.

SUMMER SERVICES.—The Sunday School and Children's Service and the 4 P. M. Choral Evensong on Sunday will be discontinued until October, and the Sunday night service will begin hereafter at 7.30 P. M. The other Sunday services will continue the same. The daily service is also stopped, but Prayers will be said every Wednesday and Friday, and on all Holy Days, at 10 A. M., with Celebrations of the Holy Communion on the latter days at 7.30 and 10.30 A. M.

SUMMER OUTINGS.—In response to the suggestions of the Curate that some entertainment be given towards raising a fund to provide summer outings for the choir and boys' brigade and children of the Sunday School, some of the young ladies of the parish, with some of their friends, gave a dramatic entertainment in the parish building on the evening of May 17th, aided by the Choir Master, who provided some music. It proved very successful, the room was well filled and the net proceeds amounted to $100. In addition to this, the Rector's youngest daughter, assisted by some of her friends, got up a little sale, which was held in her father's house, by which $42.64 was realized for the same purpose.

OTHER ENTERTAINMENTS.—On the evening of May 9th, S. John's Guild gave the Curate a reception on his return from Europe, and on May 28th, S. Mary's Guild gave a reception in honor of their Superior, Miss Anable. So, altogether, this month has been very full.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.—On Trinity Sunday there will be a special Sunday School Festival in place of the ordinary Sunday night service, when prizes will be given out to those children who have been perfect in their attendance, behavior and lessons during the year.

During the rest of the summer, there will be a children's service every Sunday at 9.30 A.M., in place of the Sunday School and service in the afternoon.

MAJOR J. EDWARD CARPENTER

OUR parish has sustained a great loss in the death of our Senior Warden, Major J. Edward Carpenter, which took place on August 16th.

Major Carpenter was born in Maryland in 1841. His ancestors, both on his father's and his mother's side, being distinguished both in Colonial and Revolutionary times. He was educated in this city, and in 1862 enlisted as a private in the Eighth Pennsylvania Cavalry during the Civil War. He was soon made a Lieutenant, then Captain, and finally brevetted Major for gallant and meritorious conduct in several battles, in one of which his horse was shot under him and in another he was severely wounded in the arm, from which wound he suffered more or less all the rest of his life. He was honorably discharged from the service in October, 1864, and returned to the study of law, being admitted to the bar in October, 1865. He was afterwards a Lieutenant in the First City Troop, a member of the Loyal Legion, member, and for a long time Treasurer, of the Historical Society, one of the organizers of the Society of Sons of the Revolution and President of its Board of Managers from its inception.

He married a daughter of the late Dr. Dorr, for over thirty years Rector of Christ Church. This circumstance, together with his interest in historical matters, greatly attached him to that parish, of which he was an attendant and Vestryman. It was there that the Rector of this parish first became intimate with him, and he was his chief supporter in the effort to build a chapel for Christ Church in the western part of the city. He conducted all the business arrangements connected with it, and was a member of its Board of Managers and its Treasurer.

In the effort to make that chapel an independent parish, Mr. Carpenter took a leading part. And when the courts finally decided that the property belonged to Christ Church, Mr. Carpenter followed the Rector to this parish and at once became one of its Vestrymen. This was in November, 1880. In 1885 he was made Rector's Warden, which position he has held ever since. He conducted the very difficult legal transaction by which the property on which the church stands was purchased, giving his services. He has always been most regular in his attendance, both at services and at the meetings of the Vestry, and both Rector and Vestry relied most implicitly on his judgment.

He was a man of many most excellent qualities—a shrewd, tactful business man; a sound, well-informed lawyer; patriotic, public-spirited; interested in and taking an active part, so far as he was able, in all enterprises or efforts having a charitable or beneficent character. Personally he was most genial and amiable in his disposition, a most agreeable companion and a warm and firm friend. Above all, he was an eminently devout man. A firm believer in the verities of the Christian faith and an intelligent churchman, he not only found in his religion the unfailing guide and support of his own life, but he was ever ready to aid and further the cause of the Church in any way that he could. Such men are by no means too common among us, and he will be greatly missed in his profession, in society and in the Church.

Major Carpenter's health had been failing steadily for some years, owing to a heart trouble, the result, many think, of the shock he received in the very sudden death of his wife, to whom he was most devotedly attached, which occurred some six years ago. In June, he left the city to visit his daughter, Mrs. Frederick S. Moseley, at Newburyport, Mass. Those who saw him before he left feared that he would never return. In that beautiful home, surrounded with every comfort and luxury, he gradually grew weaker and weaker, until he gradually slept away. A fitting ending for such a gentle, beautiful character.

The Rector went on to his funeral and laid him away beside his wife in the cemetery at Salisbury Point, near Newburyport, which had been the ancestral home of the Dorr family.

We regret that he should have died away from this city, as there were so many, especially the members of the various societies to which he belonged, who would have liked to attend his funeral. It is hoped, however, that a memorial service can be held later, when an opportunity can be given to those who would wish to express their admiration and affection for him, and it is hoped also that some permanent memorial of him may be erected in the church.

May he rest in peace, and may light perpetual shine upon him.

PARISH NOTES

SUMMER OUTINGS.—THE CHOIR BOYS, in charge of Mr. Knodle, went into camp at Florence Heights, Monday, July 22d. The boys had been looking forward to this camp for some time. They had vivid recollections of the jolly time they had last year, and they were not disappointed. Mr. Neilson, on whose place they camped, again extended his kindness to the boys and made it pleasant for them. The weather was also good, only the sun gave some of the boys a rather hot time. But the beautiful Delaware rose to meet every requirement the boys desired in the way of swimming, boating and fishing. Mr. Knodle returned on the 27th with all his boys enthusiastic over their nights and days in the camp.

THE ASCENSION CADETS, 20 strong, under the command of Captain Alexander Smith, marched from the church at 6.30, August 12th. It was raining at the time, but the boys were too well disciplined to complain. They took the 7.12 train for Chadd's Ford on the Brandywine.

The camp was situated in the heart of one of the most beautiful parts of our country, far away from the village. It was a new experience for some of the boys to get out into the open country, and they soon grew to like it. They found much sport in bathing and rowing on the Brandywine.

The camp was not all play this year. Captain Smith had planned the camp after the regular militia camp, and the boys answered the demands for drills, police duty and dress parades in good form.

Several marches were made to historic places, and the boys seemed to relish the idea of tramping over the very spot where our forefathers fought and died for freedom's cause.

The weather was against the boys, but if the days were cloudy the nights were bright with the glowing logs of a large camp fire.

The Curate was with the Cadets and acted as chaplain, holding a service every night around the camp fire.

Messrs. John Gill and William Hawkins were in charge of the Commissary department, and deserve much credit for the way they did their work.

The camp was struck Saturday morning the 17th, and the boys marched to the station to return to their homes.

In many respects, this was the most successful camp we have had. In spite of the damp weather and the good discipline, the boys declare they had a good time and wanted another week of it.

CHILDRENS' OUTINGS.—These outings were given to the children of the Sunday-school and neighborhood. Mrs. Wagner was placed in charge of the girls, and it is to her interest in the children much of the success of the picnics was due. She was assisted by several young ladies of the parish. The Curate, assisted by some of the young men, took charge of the boys.

Five outings have been given the children. They were on the order of picnics to Bartram's Garden, Chamounix, and the Wissahickon. The last three picnics were most enjoyable. The children were placed in a large "barge," the largest in Philadelphia, and driven through the park to the "log cabin" on the Wissahickon. Here they spent a happy day in the cool shade, playing games and being rowed up and down the stream by the young men.

It is estimated that about 350 children have been given a day's pleasure, and we believe that it means more than merely fun for a child to spend a day out of the hot streets of the city. We regret it was not possible to take the mothers on these picnics, as we know they would have enjoyed being with their children. We hope, another year, some arrangement can be made so as not to leave them out.

A LAWN PARTY was given by some of the children of the Sunday-school on the evening of August 17th, in the church yard. One of the larger tents was put up and tables arranged in the tent and about the yard. The Japanese lanterns gave a bright appearance to the scene, and the girls worked hard in the interest of all who came to taste of their ice cream, cake and lemonade.

The party was gotten up by Misses Jennie Lindsay, Elizabeth Diehl and Jennie Stewart, assisted by Lilly Gill, Lizzie McCracken and many other of their friends.

The party was the first of its kind that has been held in the yard, and was a great success in the way it was managed and the pleasure it gave. The children presented $12 to the Curate to be used for the Outing Fund.

A ROBBERY.—Again some miscreant has taken advantage of our ever open church to steal the handsome Litany book which is always on the desk at the head of the aisle. This is the second time in the course of fifteen years that this has been done. What disposition could be made of such a book we are at a loss to understand, as the name of the church was stamped in large letters upon it, and one would not suppose it would be stolen for anyone's private use. If it was taken for that purpose, its devout use would certainly lead to its being returned. But if that does not occur, is there anyone who will supply its place with another?

THE PARISH PICNIC.—On Saturday, July 27, 1901, the annual picnic of the Church of the Ascension was held at National Park on the Delaware. The weather was fair and over a hundred people went on the excursion. The first boat left Race Street wharf at 8.30 A. M., and the second at 10.30 A. M. A few of the parish took the 12 M. boat.

A series of contests were held during the day. The first event was a potato race for boys under fifteen. The winners of one round were Messrs. Martz, Lindsey, Stevanson. The winner of the second round was Clarence Martz. Then followed the potato race for girls under fifteen. Miss Lizzie McCracken was the winner.

Adjourning to the race track, the races were held. John Stevanson and William Wallace won the first rounds of the boys' race; William Wallace the second round. The girls' race was won by Miss Mabel Walker. Prizes were given for these potato and foot races.

Next were held the five events for the St. John's Guild Silk Pennant. The winner of each event received a medal. In the contest for the silk pennant the winner of each event received five points; the second best man three points, and the third best one point. Whoever had the highest number of points was rewarded with the pennant.

The events were as follows: 100 yards dash—1st place, Mr. Isaac Banks; 2d place, Mr. Boyd Burleigh; 3d place, Mr. William McCann.

220 yards dash—1st, Mr. Banks; 2d, Mr. McCann; 3d, Mr. Burleigh.

Running High Jump—1st, Mr. Burleigh; 2d, Mr. Atkinson; 3d, Mr. Banks.

Running Broad Jump—1st, Mr. Burleigh; 2d, Mr. Atkinson; 3d, Mr. Banks.

Shot Put—1st, Mr. Burleigh; 2d, Mr. Schall; 3d, Mr. McCann.

The contestants received the following number of points respectively: Mr. Burleigh, 19; Mr. Banks, 12; Mr. Atkinson, 6; Mr. McCann, 5; Mr. Schall, 3.

Mr. Boyd Burleigh received the St. John's Guild Silk Pennant.

Ice cream was then served to every member of the picnic. After this refreshment the boat race was held. Mr. Faught was the winner.

The officials of the contests were as follows: General Committee consisted of Rev. Mr. Gilpin, Mr. Atkinson, Mr. Schall, Mr. McCann and Mr. Martz. Field Committee, Mr. Gilpin, Mr. Burleigh and Mr. Faught. Starter, Mr. Gilpin. Judges, Mr. Newman, Mr. Hindemire and Mr. Faught. Treasurer, Mr. Morgan.

After the boat race the members of the parish picnic returned by the excursion boat to the Arch Street wharf.

We regret that more of our people did not take advantage of the pleasant time that all seemed to enjoy. It is on occasions of this kind that people get to know each other, and this is an important part of the life of a parish, and is much needed in our parish, not only among the young people, but the older members.

THE JUNIOR CHAPTER BROTHERHOOD OF ST. ANDREW

One of the interesting features of our parish work is the large number of boys connected with the Church. The organization known as the Ascension Cadets has been the means of helping the boys to come together and spend an evening in healthful exercise, and learning what boys often need, the importance of discipline. The boys themselves feel that this is not all they have to do. In response to a call they came forward and enlisted themselves in the cause of parish work under the name of the Junior Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew. This is a department of the Brotherhood that has become so important a part of the work in most of the parishes in the whole country. It has for its object the speeding of Christ's Kingdom among boys. And just as the Brotherhood of St. Andrew has brought to the front many earnest men who try to help their Rector in his work among men, so we expect the Junior Brotherhood to bring forward many boys who will try to help in our work among the boys. This is a work that is greatly needed in our parish. The neighborhood abounds in boys who need a helping hand before the influences that blight young lives take hold of them. A secondary object of the Chapter is to prepare youths to take up the work of the Senior Brotherhood when they are old enough to become members.

At the end of this month the Junior Chapter will hold a meeting to prepare their work for the winter. We do not doubt but that the boys will do much to bring children to the Sunday School and Bible Classes, and in many ways help the Clergy. We ask the parents of boys to do all they can to interest them in their work. This is a request not only to those who have boys in the "Cadets," but whose boys are in anyway connected with the Church. There is no reason for the feeling that there is nothing for a boy to do in the Church.

Again, we ask that some older members of the Church who are interested in the work among boys to help them. They can do this by becoming members of the Senior Chapter and attending the meetings of the Junior Chapter, and in many ways show interest in the work.

ROMAN CATHOLICS AND PROTESTANTS

THESE two names stand for two great divisions of Christians. This division has existed for three hundred and fifty years. It was occasioned, first, by the gradual usurpations of one Bishop, the Bishop of Rome, over his fellow Bishops, until finally he claimed universal jurisdiction and the autocratic government of the whole Christian Church. It was caused, secondly, by certain corruptions in doctrine and practice which had grown up in the course of the centuries. And, thirdly, and we believe chiefly, it was caused by the evil living of large numbers of the clergy and rulers of the Church at the time of the Reformation. In the course of fifteen hundred years the Church had become rich, and this tempted bad men to enter it and seek its offices simply for their emoluments and the life of ease and luxury they afforded. These men performed the sacred offices of the Church without a thought or feeling of what they meant and often without any belief even in the fundamental teachings of the faith, or, worse still, they neglected their sacred duties altogether and gave themselves up to worldly or wicked indulgences.

It was this more than anything else which led to the Reformation, made men come to hate and despise the Church and think that it was all an hypocrisy and a sham. All the doctrinal and practical differences in regard to religion could have been solved, or at least would never have led to such a wide and lasting cleavage among Christians, if it had not been for this.

But as that cleavage has existed so long it has produced the effect of making people think that Roman Catholicism and Protestantism are two different religions. Men often speak of them as such and think that there can be no harmony or agreement between them. There are Protestants who would no more think of going into a Roman Catholic Church than they would into a heathen temple, and who look upon all the forms of worship of that Church just as if they were heathen rites in which no Christian could take part; and the Roman Catholic looks upon the Protestant as if he were a heathen and an outcast beyond the pale of mercy. And yet look how much they have in common. They worship the same God; they revere the same Scriptures; they profess the same creed; they acknowledge the necessity and the efficacy of at least the two great sacraments of Baptism and the Holy Communion, and they practice many of the same forms and ceremonies.

What divides them now is the difference of view in regard to the authority and infallibility of the Pope, as to the position of the Blessed Virgin Mary and the question as to her immaculate conception, the honor to be ascribed to the Saints and Angels, the veneration of relics, the administration of the Sacrament in one kind, the enforcement of private confession, and the celibacy of the clergy, etc. These are all very important things undoubtedly, and as long as the Church of Rome insists upon these peculiar doctrines and practices as necessary terms of communion, there can be no union between Roman Catholics and Protestants, i.e., those who protest against these things. But at the same time we ought not to think that these are two different religions, and that there is so great a difference between them that there can be no community or fellowship whatever. Nor ought we to think, as so many do, that the differences between these two bodies consist in forms and ceremonies. Those are unimportant things comparatively, matters to be regulated by taste or preference or expediency. The real differences are those we have mentioned, and while they are great enough to interefere with unity, they should not destroy charity or the feeling that after all Roman Catholics and Protestants are one in the great essentials of the Faith; members of the one body of Christ's Church. The things in which they agree are the great things; those in which they differ are of less importance. If this was always borne in mind it would not be possible that there should be the bitterness of feeling and the alienation and opposition that there often is between these two great divisions of the Christian host.

John Wesley said, a hundred years ago, when it was told him that some one who had left the Church of England and become a Roman Catholic, "had changed his religion": "No, he has changed his opinions and modes of worship, but has not changed his religion. That is quite another thing."

If Roman Catholics and Protestants would think this of one another it would do a great deal towards hastening the day when this sad division shall at length be healed and they shall all be one in the unity of the Holy Catholic Church to which they each equally claim to belong.

THE GENERAL CONVENTION

THE Great National Council of our Church, which meets every three years, assembles this month in San Francisco, California. All our church people should follow its deliberations not only with interest, but with their earnest prayers that they may be directed aright. Several very important matters come before this convention, and it to be hoped that they will be wisely dealt with. Reports of the proceedings of the Convention, will be found in the daily papers, but more fully in the weekly Church papers. All should read them.

PARISH NOTES

CHANGE OF SERVICES.—With the beginning of this month we resume our full round of winter services. The children's service is changed to the afternoon, and this winter will begin at 2.30 P. M. to be followed by the Sunday-school. There will be Choral Evensong each Sunday at 4 P. M., and Evening Service and Sermon at 7.45 P. M. Daily service at 10 A. M. and 5 P. M. Holy Communion on Thursdays at 9 A. M.

With the commencement of another season we again urge our people to avail themselves more than they have done in the past of the Daily Services. We can think of nothing which will so tend to soothe and comfort the heart and strengthen the character and give a sense of rest and refreshment amid the hurry of life than even an occasional attendance at the Daily offices. Our people are depriving themselves of a great privilege by neglecting them as they do. Surely in a parish of the size of ours there ought to be a number of persons who have enough leisure to attend these services regularly, and many more who could drop in at them from time to time.

MEMORIAL SERVICE.—Though there was no opportunity of announcing it except through the public press, a very good congregation assembled at the time appointed by the Bishop of the Diocese for Memorial Services in our Churches for our late and deeply lamented President. The full choir was present. The form of service set forth by the Bishop, copies of which were distributed in the pews, was used, together with a Celebration of the Holy Communion, the Rector officiating and also making an address. A casket furnished by Mr. George Jones, undertaker, formerly a member of our parish, was placed at the head of the middle aisle covered by a violet pall, the vestments used also were violet.

On the Sundays succeeding both the assassination and death of the President, the Rector spoke in his sermons of those events and tried to draw out the moral lessons they should teach.

LITANY BOOK.—In response to our suggestion in our last issue we are glad to say a friend of the parish has kindly replaced our Litany book, which was stolen, with another equally handsome.

OUR GUILDS.—St. John's and St. Mary's Guilds, both the Junior and Senior branches of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, and the Ascension Cadets, all resume their meetings this month on their regular nights. The male and female Bible Classes also resume their sessions, except Miss Neilson's class, which will not begin until November.

The annual meeting of the Woman's Guild of the parish, will take place as usual on SS. Simon and Jude's day after the Church service at 10 A. M. All the women of the parish are urged to attend this meeting that they may acquaint themselves with the work that is being carried on and in which they should take an interest.

WANTED.—Helpers wanted in the Sunday-school, which meets Sunday afternoons at 2.30, and in the Industrial School, which meets Saturday mornings at 10 A.M.

ATHLETICS.—The members of St. John's Guild have always taken much interest in athletics. In addition to the regular gymnastics, basket ball is to be a feature of this winter's work. It is expected the Guild will have a good team and take a high place among the basket-ball teams of the different churches. A shuffle-board team will be organized among the older members, and a series of tournaments arranged with the teams of other churches.

A FOUNTAIN

A fountain giving forth filtered water has been placed on the side of the Church so that people passing along Broad street may stop and take a drink. The tablet suggests two ideas to the one who stops—the water is "For the public good," and he is to "Praise God from whom all blessings flow." The placing of this fountain in front of the Church is the outcome of an idea of one of our young women. She knew how much the people, who march down Broad street every evening, need something like this, especially during the hot days of summer; and what a blessing it would be to the children of the neighborhood to get a pure drink of water now and then. Although it seemed to be the right thing for the Church to do, yet it was out of the question for a poor Church barely able to meet its expenses to go to this extra expense, so an appeal was made to some persons who rejoice in an opportunity to do unto others as if they were the others, with the result that we have been able to place the fountain where it will do the most good. It is a pity that there was so much delay in getting the tablet and making the necessary connections, as the time when the water is most needed has passed for this year, but it will be in readiness for next summer. We believe it will do much to cheer the weary ones who toil all day in stores and factories and have a long walk before they get home. Many a young man, and old man, too, will not have the excuse so often urged when he steps into the saloon to satisfy his thirst.

Let us hope, as the children come to the fountain for a drink, they will learn that they should come to the church and receive that living water which the dear Lord will give to all who come to Him—"Come unto me and I will refresh you." It is our plan to have a large iron basin at the curb for horses to drink from, with a small one at the base for the dogs, but this is delayed on account of some difficulty in getting the approval of the authorities. When the asphalt was laid on Broad street all fountains were banished and we can only hope that the president of the Philadelphia Fountain Association will be able to get permission from the city to have the fountain for horses and dogs, for it is greatly needed.

COLORED VESTMENTS

SPECIAL vestments in performing the offices of the Christian Church have been in use from the very earliest times. As soon as the Church passed through the ages of persecution and was able to erect buildings and conduct its worship openly, the use of special vestments for the ministers of divine worship came in. That had been the use of the Jews and of ministers of other religions. We read in the Old Testament how God directed certain vestments to be made for the different orders of Priests and Levites. They were to be of the finest and richest materials and of all colors "for beauty and for glory."

This precedent was naturally followed in the Christian Church. The same instinct which led to the building of the most beautiful churches and filling them with everything that wealth and art could contribute, led to making the services conducted in them equally beautiful and effective.

This continued everywhere down to the Reformation. But then in those countries which revolted from Rome owing to the many corruptions in doctrine and practice which had grown up in the course of time, there was the natural tendency in trying to reform the Church of running to the extreme of throwing over everything which had belonged to the old Church and reducing its buildings and its worship to baldness and simplicity. Among some of the Lutherans, however, especially in Scandinavia, a great many of the modes of worship and the vestments were retained and are used to this day. In England the first prayer book set forth after the Reformation, prescribed that the minister in celebrating the Holy Communion should wear a linen alb and a vestment—that is, the chasuble, which had been the special Eucharistic vestment for centuries—or a cope. And at all the other offices of the Church he should wear a surplice. Owing, however, to the opposition of the Puritans, it was difficult even to retain the use of the latter, which they called "the rag of Popery." The prayer book, of the time of Queen Elizabeth (1559) and that of Charles II (1662), both prescribed the use of the ancient vestments, in what is known as the Ornaments rubric. And in one or two of the cathedrals the use of the cope was continued down to the end of the eighteenth century. They have also always been used in Westminster Abbey at coronations and on other state occasions.

During the last fifty years the use of vestments, other than the surplice, has been very largely revived in the Church of England and the other branches of the Church in communion with it. The use of different colored altar cloths and hangings came in first, then colored stoles, and lastly the Eucharistic vestments. These have all been used in this parish for twenty years, though for the Eucharistic vestment only white has been used. As long ago, however, as April, 1896, the following resolution was adopted by the Vestry:

"Resolved, That the Vestry thank the Rector for the changes in the ritual introduced on Easter day—which was the use of additional lights on the altar—and express the hope that he will introduce the colored vestments."

The Rector has not hitherto done this because he feared it might be offensive to some of the parishioners, but he now feels that the time has come when it should be done. He has received many requests to do so, and he believes that it would not only be acceptable to the vast majority of our people, but that consistency requires it. There is no more reason why the altar should have its different colored vestments which bring out the meaning of the different seasons in the church year, than that the clergy should. It seems incongruous to have all the hangings of the church purple, for instance in a penitential season, and the clergy robed in white.

Beginning, therefore, with the first Sunday in Advent, the use of colored vestments will be introduced, and we mention it now that the congregation may understand the reason for it. The ladies of our embroidery class have for some time been engaged in making them, and with two sets given us some time ago, we have the chief vestments of the different colors for the various festivals and fasts of the Church year. Their use will certainly add to the beauty and completeness of our services and bring out more strongly the character of the day or season of the year.

THE GENERAL CONVENTION

THOSE of our people who have not followed closely the doings of the General Convention of the Church lately held in San Francisco, may be glad to learn what was accomplished by it. The following were the chief things in regard to which action was taken: First, the extension of the Church by erecting new Bishoprics in China, Cuba, Hawaii, Porto Rico and the Philippines, beside dividing the Dioceses of Massachusetts and Kansas. A revision of the Constitution was completed, which is chiefly useful in that it opens the way for the erection of Provinces; that is, for the grouping together of our Dioceses in different sections of the country, each with its own Synod, instead of having only one General Convention as we have now for the whole Church. The use of the marginal readings, both of the old and revised versions of the Bible, was allowed in reading the Lessons in Church. Another important thing was the appointing of a commission to report at the next Convention in regard to the change of the name of the Church, the term Protestant Episcopal being so largely misleading, not bringing out the Catholic, historical character of the Church, but tending to confound it with the different Protestant sects. Again, a resolution was adopted recognizing the right of the Bishops to set forth special services for congregations not prepared for one reason or another to adopt the full use of the prayer book. The Convention also, by a large vote, refused to adopt the rigorous canon proposed, prohibiting the clergy from remarrying any divorced person, even the innocent party in case of a divorce for adultery.

The meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary in connection with the General Convention was very successful, and the offering on the occasion, the united offering of the women throughout the Church, for three years past, was over $100,000, the largest ever yet made.

PARISH NOTES

WOMAN'S GUILD.—The anniversary of the Guild took place on SS. Simon and Jude's day, when the reports of the different committees were read. These will be printed in the annual year book of the Parish, which is issued the first of Advent.

All the different departments of the Guild recommence their winter's work with this month. The Mothers' Meeting on Wednesday evenings, the Embroidery Class on Thursday mornings, the Ladies' Aid on Thursday afternoons and the Industrial School on Saturday mornings. The old and new workers will be welcomed in all of these departments. Donations of money or materials will also be very acceptable. A piece of linen is especially needed for new cottas for the choir. Any kind of second-hand clothing can be used in the missionary and benevolent work of the Parish. Such things can be sent to the church any time during the week, as it is always open.

ADDRESSES.—The Rector would like very much to have the present addresses of the following communicant members of the parish who have moved without notifying him:

Miss E. A. Davis
Mrs. Dusenburg
Mrs. Elizabeth Hobson and son
Mrs. E. A. Hendry
Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lafquist
Miss Annie Montgomery
Miss Annie M. Montgomery
Miss Margaret Terwilliger
Mrs. L. W. Webster
Miss Emma Schubert
Miss Julia E. Massey

MEMORIAL TO MAJOR CARPENTER.—The project for the erection of a memorial to our late Senior Warden in the church is taking shape. Several hundred dollars have been already subscribed for the purpose. When all the subscriptions are in, the form of the memorial will be determined on and orders given for its execution.

The Society of Sons of the Revolution, of which Major Carpenter was one of the founders, have resolved to hold a memorial service in the church when the memorial is unveiled. This will probably not be before towards the end of the winter.

Mr. Richard M. Cadwalader, whose office is in the Franklin Building, 133 South Twelfth street, is acting as treasurer for the memorial fund.

BOOKS NEEDED.—The attention of our congregation is very earnestly directed to our needs. For our Sunday-school library we require quite a number of books suitable for our little children, as well as to add to those for our older ones; also for our parish library. This is intended to replenish and enlarge the library for the benefit of those particularly who are members of our "Mothers' Meeting." Prayer books and hymnals are also needed for our church. It would also be an excellent thing to have Bibles to place, two in each pew in the middle aisle, and one in each pew in the side aisles. It would be both instructive as well as interesting for the members of our own congregation, as well as strangers, to follow our clergy in the reading of the lessons of the day.

THE PURPOSE OF THE EUCHARIST

The purpose of the Eucharist is twofold:

I. To plead before God the Father the death and passion of Christ. This is called "The Oblation:"

"We, Thy humble servants, do celebrate and make here before Thy divine majesty, with these Thy holy gifts, which we now offer unto Thee, the memorial Thy Son hath commanded us to make."

(a) As a sacrifice of praise and thanksgiving, like the Jewish thank-offering:

"And we earnestly desire Thy fatherly goodness mercifully to accept this our sacrifice of praise and thanksgiving."

(b) As a sacrifice for sin, like the Jewish sin and trespass offering:

"Humbly beseeching The to grant that by the merits and death of Thy Son, Jesus Christ, and through faith in His blood, we, and all Thy whole Church, may obtain remission of our sins."

(c) As a sacrifice of worship and adoration, like the whole burnt offering giving the whole to God:

"And here we offer and present unto Thee, O Lord, ourselves, our souls and bodies, to be a reasonable, holy and living sacrifice unto Thee."

(d) As a sacrifice of intercession, like the peace offering:

"Humbly beseeching Thee that we, and all others who shall be partakers of this Holy Communion, may worthily receive the most precious Body and Blood of Thy Son Jesus Christ," etc.

(e) As a vicarious atonement:

"And although we are unworthy, through our manifold sins, to offer Thee any sacrifice, yet we beseech Thee to accept this, our bounden duty and service; not weighing our merits, but pardoning our offenses, through Jesus Christ our Lord."

II. To receive Christ's Body and Blood for the strengthening and refreshening of our souls. This is called the Communion.

CATHOLIC AND ROMAN CATHOLIC

IS there any difference between these two terms? Do they refer to the same body? One would suppose so from the way in which some people always speak of Roman Catholics as Catholics, and never apply the latter word to any one else. Yet those same people, when they say their creed, say they believe in the "Holy Catholic Church." Do they mean that they believe in the Roman Catholic Church? Certainly not. Then they ought not to speak of Roman Catholics simply as Catholics, as if there were no others. They should call them always just what they call themselves, and what rightly describes them, Roman Catholics.

What, then, is the difference between these two terms? The word Catholic means universal. The Catholic Church is the universal Church. It embraces, so far as membership is concerned, all who are baptized, for baptism is the mode by which one becomes a member of the Church. Unfortunately all the members of this one universal Church are not united together as they should be, but have from time to time associated themselves together in different organizations. First, there are certain great branches of the historical organization of the Catholic Church, the Greek, the Roman and the English. The Greek Catholic Church includes all the Christians in the East, in Russia, Asia Minor, Syria and Greece. These have nothing whatever to do with the Bishop of Rome. They repudiate his authority just as much as we do, and they never were under his dominion.

The Roman Catholic Church includes chiefly the members of the Latin race, the inhabitants of Italy, Austria, France, Spain, Portugal and some English-speaking people in Ireland and in this country. The distinctive feature of this branch of the Catholic Church is that it is in subjection to the Pope or Bishop of Rome. He is acknowledged in it as the supreme Head of the Church, that he is the Vicar of Christ, and infallible in what he teaches. But it is comparatively only of late years that this claim was advanced. The early Bishops of Rome made no such pretensions, and for a thousand years there was really no great division in the Catholic Church. So that organization now known as the Roman Catholic Church is really a modern thing, of recent growth.

The English Catholic Church includes the larger part of the members of the English-speaking race. It was the Church of England before the Reformation, so spoken of in the Magna Charta of King John. It was only for a short time subject to the Bishop of Rome. At the Reformation it threw off his usurped authority and certain other corruptions which had grown up in the course of time, but remained the same Church still. It has the same organization of Bishops, Priests and Deacons; it teaches the same great truths, and practices the same essential rites which have always been used in the Catholic Church.

Then there are some minor divisions of the Catholic Church, and beyond these what are known as the Protestant bodies. They are at one with the English Church in protesting against the claims of the Pope, but they have abandoned the historical organization of the Church and formed new bodies, some governed by Presbyters, some independent congregations. Some of these bodies arose only recently, some like the Methodists about a hundred years ago, others at the time of the Reformation. As far as their membership is concerned, they are all individually members of the Catholic Church, but the organizations themselves are not parts of that historic body.

It is very sad that Christians should be so divided, especially as many of the divisions are about comparatively small and unimportant matters, and the hope is that more and more all English-speaking people will become united in the historic English Church, and that eventually the other branches of the Catholic Church may be united as well, so that our Lord's prayer may be answered that all His disciples might be one. And only so can His kingdom come on earth.

And let every one remember that to be a Catholic is not to be necessarily a Roman Catholic. That is only one branch, and we believe a corrupt branch, of the Catholic Church. To be a Catholic is to belong to that one Church which our Lord Himself founded, of which we become members by baptism, and which, as an organization, has been handed down to us by a regular succession of Bishops, each one of whom has received his office from those who were Bishops before them, which professes the one faith contained in the great creeds which have been universally received, and which practices the essential rites which Christ Himself ordained in His Church. Because the English Church threw off the usurped authority of the Bishop of Rome it did not cease to be a part of the Catholic Church, the one Church Christ founded.

CHRISTMAS

THE blessed joyous Christmas season is coming around again. It is fitting that the world should rejoice at the annual commemoration of the birth of Christ. Oh that all men could realize what we owe to that birth, what unspeakable blessings it has brought into the world. It is right that we should be glad ourselves when we remember it and try to make others rejoice, too. No season of the year is rightly a more joyous one than the Christmas tide.

But do not let any make it simply a time of merry-making. Let us always think of its religious significance, without which its joys are meaningless. And that we may really enter into that, let each Christian make his solemn communion at that time. Let him cleanse his heart and renew his life, that as a good and loyal Christian he may renew his vow of fealty to that Divine Lord, who came down from Heaven to reveal God's love for man. Only so can we really keep this feast and enter into the joy which it brings. The heart that is clean in the sight of God and is filled with His love is the only heart that can have a really merry Christmas.

And if we have that joy ourselves we will want to do all we can to make others happy by our gifts to God's Church, to His poor and to His children.

THE COMMUNICANTS' GUILD

The spiritual work of a parish is not complete unless there is a Communicants' Guild or League in which the communicants are brought together in closer union with each other in the greatest of all privileges the Church gives to her children, the Sacrament of the Holy Communion. All confirmed persons who are communicants are members of this Guild.

The chief object of the Guild is to hold at different times devotional meetings and conferences for the purpose of helping the members to make a good preparation for the Holy Communion.

Some devout persons make their Communions as often as they can, others once a month, while many wait for the greater festivals. One thing is very important for us to remember, and that is, "to come to the heavenly feast in the marriage garment required by God in Holy Scripture, and be received as worthy partakers of that holy table."

The first devotional meeting and Conference will be held Wednesday evening, December 18th, at 8 o'clock, in the church.

We ask that all communicants will remember the Guild in their prayers, and use their personal influence to bring as many as they can to the meeting, that we may all come to the altar and receive the most precious gift, that came to us on Christmas Day, the Body and Blood of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

PARISH NOTES

CHRISTMAS.—The celebrations of the Holy Communion on Christmas Day will be at 6.30, 7.30, 8.30 and 11.30 A.M.; Morning Prayer and Sermon at 10.30 A.M., and Evening Prayer at 5 P. M. Thus everyone, no matter what his occupation, will have the chance to get to church and to make his Communion on that great festival.

CHRISTMAS OFFERINGS.—As usual, we ask for special and large offerings on Christmas Day. We depend on these to meet the interest of over $250 on our debt, which becomes due this month. In addition to this, we had to borrow money during the summer to carry us through that part of the year when so many are out of town. This should be paid off, too. So we need fully $1,000. Will not our people see that we have it? Let each give according to his ability. Let those whom God has blessed give largely, and the smaller offerings of those in moderate circumstances will count up too.

CHILDREN'S FESTIVAL.—We shall try to make the children of the parish glad by a festival on the evening of Holy Innocents' Day, which occurs this year on Saturday. The children will sing their carols in the church and then have their Christmas tree, a Punch and Judy show, etc., in the Parish Building. There being now so many children in the Infant School, there will be a special festival for them in the afternoon at 3 o'clock. We trust the members of the congregation will see that we have funds for the purpose. Any contributions may be handed to the Clergy or any of the teachers in the Sunday-school.

MEMORIALS.—The committee in regard to the memorial to Major Carpenter have met and decided that it shall take the form of a marble tablet to be placed in the church. The design is being prepared and we shall hope to see it in place early in the new year.

Since this was started, some members of the congregation have felt that a tablet should also be put up to Mr. Charles E. Bonnet, our late Accounting Warden. The money has been subscribed and it will be in place probably about the same time as that to Major Carpenter. These memorials to departed members and benefactors of our parish add to the sacredness and solemnity of the church and testify to the appreciation in which they were held.

THE VESTRY.—At the semi-annual meeting of the Vestry held last month, the Rector announced that he had appointed Mr. Francis S. Keese, Rector's Warden, in place of Major Carpenter, deceased. Mr. Keese is now the oldest member of the Vestry, and has been, since his first connection with the parish, one of its warmest friends and most liberal supporters.

OUR CHURCH WORK.—Our various organizations for church work are now in full operation. We are very glad to welcome back again after an absence of more than a year, Mrs. John Mason, who so long had charge of the Mothers' Meeting. She has also taken this year the headship of the girls' department of the Saturday Industrial School, and under her efficient management it bids fair to exceed in usefulness its record in any previous year. We are happy to have a number of new teachers in it, but there is need for more still, and we should be glad to hear of volunteers both in this and in the Sunday-school.

The Ladies' Aid Society, and the Embroidery Class, meet as formerly, on Thursday of each week, and will gladly welcome new workers.

And will not our ladies this year come in larger numbers to the Missionary meetings on the first Friday of each month after morning prayers? We think they would find them interesting and a means by which they might do a great deal of good. As God has blessed us, let us try to bless others, especially by carrying the Church and its ordinances to those who otherwise might never know its precious influences.

The members of our congregation are cordially invited to visit the Sunday-school services, 2.30 P. M. every Sunday, and our Mothers' Meeting, after the Wednesday evening services, in the Parish Building. Also come and see our St. John's Guild, Gymnasium and Basket Ball on Monday evenings, and our Cadets on Thursday evenings.

WORSHIP AND PREACHING

THERE are two great purposes for which we go to church—to worship and to hear sermons. Both of these are very important. If there is an infinite and good God it is natural and proper, and necessary for the cultivation of our spiritual life, that we should worship that God. To worship is to adore, contemplate, admire, praise and pray to, and hold communion with, God. No act which the human being is capable of performing is higher or more important than that. Not to worship is simply to ignore God, to forget that He is and what He is, and to fail to derive the great benefits which flow from intercourse and communion with Him.

And while it is true that we can worship God anywhere, in our homes, in the country, on the sea, amid one's business, even, still there are certain places and surroundings and acts which are more suitable for it, and which are of immense assistance to any one in trying to perform this act. The church is for this purpose. It is made beautiful and solemn, and filled with objects calculated to impress each one who enters it with a sense of the greatness and beauty and holiness of that Being in whose presence we stand. And the services conducted there are the fullest and best expression of the worshipper's feelings, afford him the most perfect means of approach to God.

The highest and most perfect of all means of worship and communion with God is that service which our Blessed Lord Himself ordained to be His memorial, by which the merits of His life and sacrifice may be pleaded before God and set forth to men. And this (except only in cases of illness) cannot be celebrated but in church. And it should be our constant act of worship. It is not something only for great and specially solemn occasions. Christ meant it for the distinctive rite of His religion. It is that which teaches what the Christian religion is better than anything else, and affords the closest possible intercourse with God. So the universal Christian habit has been to make it the great service for every Sunday and holy day, at the least. We are told in the New Testament that the first disciples celebrated it daily, and many Christians do the same still, especially in large churches where there are a number of clergymen. And the liturgies of all the branches of the historic Church provide for its daily celebration, and certainly expect it to be celebrated every Sunday and holy day, at the least. Our own prayer book provides a special Collect, Epistle and Gospel, which are parts of the service for the Holy Communion, for each of those days and for certain other occasions. And everyone who appreciates what the Holy Communion is will regard it as a great privilege to attend a church where it is celebrated so frequently and thus enjoy the fullest and most perfect means of worship.

The other great object of going to church is to hear sermons. These are needed to teach people the truths of the Christian religion and its practical duties, to keep them mindful of these things, to exhort to men to resist evil and strive after what is good, and to bring to their minds and hearts the comforts and consolations of religion. It was the means which our Lord Himself ordained for the propagation of the Faith. He commanded His disciples to go into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature. And the apostle St. Paul speaks of God's saving men by "the foolishness" or simple means "of preaching." So our service for the baptism of infants tells the sponsors that they are to see that those for whom they stand hear sermons. It is part, therefore, of the duty of the clergy to be constantly preaching and the people should come to church and hear their sermons.

These two purposes of going to church are often combined, so that the attendants can worship and hear a sermon at the same time, though there are often services, as early communions and daily services, when there is no sermon, and, on the other hand, sometimes sermons are preached without there being any services.

But we want to bear in mind the relative importance of these two acts. We think the Protestant bodies generally have made a great mistake in making the chief object of church-going to hear preaching, and attaching too little importance to worship. We ought to regard the worship as the first purpose of going to church and the preaching as secondary. The one we can always take part profitably in, the other will depend upon the personal qualifications of the preacher. The place of the latter may be in a measure supplied by reading a sermon or good book at home, the former can only be fulfilled in church. Hence the moral obligation and great benefit of regular church attendance that one may engage in this highest, most important and most beneficial act of the lowly, devout worship of Almighty God. At the same time we should not neglect to hear sermons. There are some of our people nowadays who seem to think they do not need to hear sermons at all, and so come only for the worship. But all need to hear them to be aroused and enthused. Make worship the great object of church-going, but do not neglect to hear sermons as well.

PARISH NOTES

CHRISTMAS.—Our Christmas festival was well kept. The number of communicants was slightly larger than last year, and the amount of our offerings greater, though not all we needed to meet our accrued obligations. We must try to work them all off by Easter.

The Christmas music was very good. The choirmaster deserves the thanks of the congregation for the labor he has bestowed on the choir and the success he has attained.

Christmas is naturally a time for children to enjoy themselves. On Holy Innocents' Day the festival for the Infant Class was held at 3 o'clock. The tree was brilliant with electric lights provided by Messrs. Carroll Hodge and Richard Gilpin. Two young men gave a "Punch and Judy" show, which was enjoyed greatly by the little ones. Master William Platt Pepper, Jr., delighted the children with musical selections on a phonograph. The entertainment closed with the appearance of old Kris Kingle, who came gliding into the room in a sleigh that looked like a step ladder and drawn by reindeer that looked like ordinary two-legged boys. Old Kris handed out presents and candy to every child.

In the evening the children of the Main School met at 7.30 in the church, and after the singing of carols went to the parish rooms to enjoy the beautiful tree with its bright lights of red, white and blue. Mr. Hoy entertained the children for an hour with magic and tricks of various kinds, and a "Punch and Judy" show. The latter was particularly enjoyable, as Punch seemed to be well acquainted with some of our boys and girls, and took them into his confidence. The children received gifts and candies, and went home to dream about the good time they had.

GIFTS.—The Rector had a very handsome new cassock presented to him at Christmas, and the church received a most needed donation of 90 new prayer books and 60 new hymnals from the Bishop White Prayer Book Society, obtained by our vestryman, Mr. Wm. Platt Pepper.

COMMUNICANTS' GUILD.—The service for preparation of the Christmas Communion, conducted by the Rev. M. Nelson, Rector of St. Peter's Church, on the Saturday before Christmas, was well attended and all present felt it was most profitable. We shall hope to have it repeated at least before the other great festivals.

CONFIRMATION.—Owing to the illness of the Bishop of the Diocese no appointment has yet been made for the annual Confirmation in our parish, but doubtless will be before our next issue, when we will announce the date, and also when the preparatory instructions will be given. In the meantime we trust that all in the parish who have not yet been confirmed and are of sufficient age will be looking forward to it and make up their minds to be confirmed this year. It is a duty and privilege no one should defer. Only those who are confirmed can receive the Church's choicest blessings.

OUR RECORD of the baptisms, etc., performed in the church month by month we have added to in this and our last issue by inserting the names of the persons baptized, married, etc. We have done this as a matter of interest to the parish at large, and also for the sake of accuracy. If any of the names are incorrect in any way the clergy will be glad to be informed, as accurate church records are of great importance, always being taken as evidence in any legal proceedings of the fact recorded. They are of importance, too, in regard to genealogical matters, questions of inheritance, pensions, etc.

THE HUMAN KALENDAR.—In sending out his report the Treasurer calls the attention of parishioners that about 6,000 hours are needed to complete the kalendar. A number of persons have answered the call for subscriptions. The names of contributors will be placed on the chart in the vestibule. A contribution of ten cents means one of the hours paid for. We would like to see the name of every member of the parish on the chart.

BASKET BALL.—Among the young men and boys of the church there is fast developing great interest for the game of basket ball. It was first introduced two months ago, when an exhibition game was given by two teams from neighboring parishes. At the last meeting of St. John's Guild it was decided to organize a team to win honors for the Guild. Mr. Zintel was elected manager.

The Cadets have three teams, two for the older boys and one for the younger.

In the short time the boys have had to practice they have produced strong teams, and have won some good victories from more experienced teams.

The "Ascension" team, which has played many games in the early part of the season, has lost a valuable member in Boyd Burleigh, who has gone West. The members of St. John's Guild who played on this team will probably play with the St. John's team in the future.

PAROCHIALISM

How do we know a selfish man? Every man must make and he must spend money. His private cash-book reveals his character. There we can read about him as in a novel. There one can mark his aims, his ambitions, his hopes and his disappointments. The diary may be full of self-deceit and ring false. The diary only tells what a man thinks of himself. But the cash-book, with its little daily detail of money earned and money spent and money given away, tells a true story. There we read his character in action.

In the same way we can tell the character of a family by means of the family cash-book. The income of the family is seen on one side and how that income is spent tells its story on the other. There we can see how the family is brought up; what sort of an example is set by the parents—and how they teach their children to use money. The family cash-book will tell the family character as well as its history.

So it is in the parish life. The income appears on one side of the cash-book. There is the story of what is given Sunday by Sunday and how much is raised outside or contributed by a few. On the other side we can read what is done with the income. There is, of course, the regular expenses of salaries, light and heat and music. But also in a well organized parish there are guild expenses and entertainments to raise money and occasional gifts to various objects which tell the character of the parish. The sin of parochialism has taken possession of a parish when it seeks its own support and entertainment and gives no effort in money to outside objects. Woe to a parish when it seeks only to pay its debts. These debts are sure to increase and the spiritual life to decrease. That is the law of ecclesiastical finance. We live and work in a parish on faith, but it is not the selfish faith which seeks its own success or support. It is rather the unselfish faith which gives away and prospers in the blessing promised to those who give generously.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION.

MOST men are made by their education. Of course there are exceptions. Some men who have had no educational advantages manage to educate themselves. There are occasional self-made men. And on the other hand, there are those who have had every possible advantage and opportunity for education and have not profited by them, have been unable or unwilling to use them. But the generality of men have their lives and characters determined by their education. They know and they think and they do what they were taught when they were young. This is true of religion as it is of secular knowledge. Most men believe what they were taught when they were children to believe, and they are good or bad according to the influences which were brought to bear upon them then. Hence the great importance of the religious education of the young. And we are perfectly astonished at the indifference of many professedly Christian parents to the religious teaching of their children. Parents who are most particular about the secular education of their children, making often great sacrifices in order to give them the best that can be had, will yet utterly neglect their religious education. Many argue that it may make religion distasteful and tiresome to young people if it is regularly and systematically taught them. But they have no such fear in regard to secular knowledge, forcing their children to go to school for the best part of at least five days in each week for many years of their lives, beside additional hard study, passing rigorous examinations, etc. If that does not make them hate all learning, why should a moderate amount of religious instruction make them hate all religion?

The truth is parents do not appreciate the importance of it themselves. Let them feel, and let them make their children feel, that there is a great good and advantage to be gained by acquiring religious knowledge, and the children will be quite ready to learn and be interested in learning.

Then there are some persons who think that religion is a very simple thing, that it does not require any time or attention to be paid to it. They do not believe in any dogmas or doctrines, creeds or catechisms. They think it consists simply in trying to live an upright life and in doing to others as we would have others do to us, and anyone can learn that. But the whole history of mankind has proved that religion is the most difficult of all kinds of learning, both to acquire and to put into practice. But as it is the most important and produces the most beneficial results, so is worth all the time and attention that can be bestowed upon it. It is worth far more than any secular learning we can acquire.

And education is, as we have said, the best way of acquiring religion. Some have naturally religious instincts and impulses, some gain them through emotional processes, or as the results of great trials and hard experiences, but most men are religious because they have been trained up to be so. Hence the great care and provision that the Church has made for the religious education of her children. As soon as they are born she directs that they be baptized and be thus taught from the very opening of their intelligence that they are Christians and bound to live as such. It requires god-parents to be provided for them in addition to their natural parents, in case these should be taken away from them or fail to do their duty. And she solemnly instructs these god-parents to see that their wards "be taught so soon as they shall be able to learn . . . all things which a Christian ought to know and believe." And that they may have the means of thus instructing them she provides a religious catechism for the children to learn. Then she has her Sunday-schools and Bible classes, and Confirmation instructions and preparations, etc. And everyone who has any responsibility in regard to the bringing up of children will see that these directions and prescriptions of the Church are complied with. But beyond that they must remember that the eye must be taught as well as the ear, and that it is of the first importance that religious habits be cultivated. Hence the value of bringing children up to regular church going. The Church itself, its services, its associations, will do more to impress religious truth and affect the heart and sensibilities than any amount of oral instruction. Above all, it is essential that those having the care of children should impress upon them by their own lives and conduct their appreciation and sense of the value of religious things. If we have not that ourselves it is vain for us to try to give it to others. The whole secret of our success as religious teachers hangs upon it. Let everyone to whom God has intrusted children feel that the most important thing they have to do is to bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord; their whole happiness and well being for time and for eternity will hang upon it. It should, therefore, be given the first thought, concern and attention, not neglected or left to chance. Of all departments of education it is the most important, the most vital in its effects upon the character of the individual and its influence on society.

MR. SAMUEL WETHERILL.

THE parish has again been called upon to part with one of its oldest members and Vestrymen, Mr. Samuel Wetherill, who died at his residence in this city on January 22d. He had been in failing health for a long time. It is more than a year since he was in the Church, and he has been confined to his room since last July. He was in his seventy-sixth year.

Mr. Wetherill belonged to the old Quaker family of that name in this city, but entered the Church in his early manhood, and remained an interested and devoted member of it until his death. He formerly belonged to Old Christ Church, on Second street, and was at one time secretary of its Vestry. For a while he attended St. Clement's Church; but on the establishment of Christ Church Chapel at Nineteenth and Pine streets, he attached himself to it, and when the minister in charge of it became Rector of this parish he was transferred here, and continued a regular attendant as long as his health permitted. Eleven years ago he became almost totally blind, but he never allowed that to interfere with his going to church. His attendant brought him regularly to the door of the church and the Verger led him to a seat.

Mr. Wetherill was a Vestryman of the parish from April, 1881, until April, 1901, when he resigned, feeling that he could no longer discharge the duties of his position. And, though he always advocated the most conservative and cautious policy, his unfailing interest in the Church and his professional and business experience were of great service. He was a liberal contributor to the building of the church and chancel. His gift of $1,500, indeed, made the erection of the latter possible. He frequently assisted the church also by loans in times of need. We are glad also to say that he remembered the parish in his will by a gift of $1,000 towards the payment of the principal of the mortgage on the property. He left also a small personal remembrance to the Rector.

Mr. Wetherill was buried January 25th in the church yard of St. Paul's Church, Upper Providence, which is near a farm which had been in his family many years, and where he always spent his summers, our Rector, together with the Rector of that church, officiating. May he rest in peace.

PARISH NOTES

LENT begins very early this year. Ash Wednesday is the 12th of this month. We hope our people will resolve to keep it as the Church teaches us that we should. If properly kept it can be a most important influence in our lives. The way to keep it is by acts of special self-discipline and sacrifice, by extra religious exercises, reading, meditation, etc. We hope especially that our people will attend regularly our daily service. The boys of the Choir will be present each afternoon at the five o'clock service, which adds very much to its attractiveness. There will be a lecture on Friday afternoons.

A children's Lenten Service will be held Saturday afternoons at 4 o'clock. The talk to the children will be illustrated. It is hoped all the children of the parish will come to these services and bring their friends.

CONFIRMATION will be administered in this parish on the evening of March 19th, by the Rt. Rev. the Bishop of Easton, in the absence of the Bishop of the Diocese. Instructions preparatory to confirmation will be given by the Rector on Mondays, beginning with Monday, February 10th, at 4 P. M. and on Saturday evenings at 8 P. M., and by the Curate at the Wednesday evening service.

All in the parish not yet confirmed are earnestly invited to attend one of these courses, beginning with the first lecture, as it is very important they should all be attended.

DIOCESAN MISSIONS.—The special benevolent envelope this quarter, sent out with those for the support of the Church, is for Diocesan Missions. This parish is asked to contribute $90 for this purpose. This is considerably less than we were asked to give last year, as it was represented to the Convocation that we could not give as much as was expected of us. We trust, therefore, that the amount now asked will be readily contributed. The envelopes marked for Diocesan Missions may be placed on the plate at any offertory.

THE MEMORIAL SERVICE for Major Carpenter will probably be held on the afternoon of the last Sunday in this month, taking the place of the usual four o'clock service, as it is expected the memorial tablet to his memory will be in place by that time.

The service will be modeled on that held in St. Mark's Church on the day of the funeral of Queen Victoria. It will follow the general order of Evening Prayer; the sentences, psalms, lesson, and collects from the Burial office being substituted for those of the day.

The service will be under the auspices of the Society of Sons of the Revolution, of which Major Carpenter was one of the founders, which will attend in a body. Invitations will also be extended to other societies and the First City Troop, of which he was a member. All the pews in the Church will be reserved for these guests, the chairs being open for the general congregation.

THE GUILD OF THE GOOD SHEPHERD branch of the Junior Auxiliary, will hold a Tea Party, Saturday afternoon, February 8th. Girls between ages of 12 and 16 are invited to attend.

The following Saturday the girls begin their usual Lenten work, making garments and things to be sent to help missionary work. We hope all who are interested in this important work will help the Guild to send a larger box than usual. Anything in the way of material to be worked into garments for children will be most welcome, and may be sent to Miss A. M. Pepper, in care of the Sexton, at the church.

SPECIAL SERMON.—On the morning of February 23d the Rt. Rev. Dr. Brown, Bishop of Arkansas, will preach in the Church, presenting the needs of his very interesting Diocese.

A PIANO is very much needed for the practicing of the Choir. It is the best instrument for the purpose, and the one now belonging to the Church was obtained many years ago in exchange for a small pipe organ we had, and is utterly worn out and beyond repair. Is there anyone in the congregation who has a piano they could loan or donate for the purpose? Or will anyone present one to the Church? It would be impossible to get even a second-hand one under $100.

HIGH, LOW AND BROAD CHURCH

WE have been asked to explain what is meant by these terms, and we gladly do so.

By High Church we understand those who have high views as to the divine authority and importance of the Church, ministry and sacraments. That is, they believe that these things are of divine, not human, appointment. They are what our blessed Lord Himself saw to be necessary for the carrying on of His work on earth. And He ordained them and promised His special presence in them, and so uses them as means by which He gives His grace and blessing to His people. They are things, therefore, not to be neglected or treated as if they were of little importance. So the High Church thinks that churches should be made as beautiful and impressive as possible, and that the services conducted in them should be solemn and effective; that everything that art and music and ritual can do to teach and inspire people with devotional feelings should be employed in the worship of God.

The Low Church, on the contrary, looks upon religion as entirely a spiritual thing, and that what is outward and material has very little to do with it. So while they think, of course, there must be some church organization and church services, they do not attach so much importance to them. They think one form of church government as good as another; do not believe in Apostolical succession, or that the sacraments are anything more than mere signs and figures. And they prefer as little form as possible in worship, and do not regard church buildings or anything connected with them as having any special sanctity, so they are opposed to all outward marks or signs of reverence.

The Broad Church are those who are indifferent to all these things. They look upon them simply as matters of taste. What is pretty or pleasing they will use, but they do not value outward things any more than the Low Church do, though they do not oppose their use by those who like them. With them religion is a matter of philosophy. They think they cannot believe in anything they do not understand, and so try to explain away all that is mysterious or supernatural in Christianity. They recognize its spiritual value, but find it difficult to reconcile all that has been supposed to go with it with modern views as to science, etc. So they have very loose views as to the Bible, attributing a great deal in it to myth, superstition and ignorance. They accept the creeds even in a non-natural sense, and have very hazy views as to the divinity of Christ, future punishment, and even the immortality of the soul.

These are the different schools of thought in the Church, due to the different tempers or altitudes of human minds. And, of course, there is every variety in these schools. Some carry one or the other of these tendencies to great extremes; others are more moderate, and some even combine one tendency with another. And the existence of these different schools in the Church is no reproach to the Church, but rather its glory, for it shows its true Catholicity. It is the recognition of the fact that all minds and all tastes cannot be the same, and that so long as men can agree on the essentials of the faith and practice of the Christian Church, they should dwell together in one communion and fellowship, even though they cannot all think alike or feel alike in everything. Of course, some are more loyal to the teachings of the Church than others. Still, as long as a man professes himself loyal and says he can accept what the Church requires of her members, he should be regarded as within her comprehension.

The great mistake that Protestants have made has been not only to break away from the historic church, but to divide up among themselves about every trifling matter, so that in every little village we have seven or eight churches, all weak and struggling, wasting their resources in keeping up separate establishments, differing from one another in only some small particular; whereas the claim of the Episcopal Church is that it is part of the same historic organization Christ Himself formed, and that it requires as necessary to communion only what is absolutely essential to the faith, the integrity or practice of the Church, and outside those things she allows liberty. This liberty is sometimes abused, but the kindly, fatherly government of our Bishops is generally sufficient to restrain excesses and maintain peace and loyalty among her members.

PARISH NOTES

HOLY WEEK AND EASTER.—As heretofore, we try to offer our people everything that can assist them in the proper keeping of these most sacred seasons of the year. There will be four services every day during Holy Week: 7.30 A. M., Holy Communion; 10 A. M., Morning Prayer and Holy Communion, with short address; 5 P. M., Evening Prayer, and 8 P. M., a sermon each night, except Thursday, when an illustrated devotional lecture in the parish building on the Passion Play will be given. This is not intended for children under fourteen.

On Good Friday there will be a children's service at 9 A. M., conducted by the Curate, and at 11 A. M. Morning Prayer and Litany, followed by the singing of the Reproaches and the preaching of the Cross from 12 to 3 P. M. by the Rector.

On Easter Day there will be Celebrations at 6.30, 7.30, 8.30 and 11.30 A. M.

EASTER OFFERING.—Every year we have to depend on the Easter offering to make up the amount needed for our current expenses for the year. This year we require about $1,000 to meet all our expenses up to May 1st over and above what we shall probably receive from the general offerings. That we may receive that amount, all our people must be generous and self-sacrificing. Let each, according to his ability, give as he can. Our current expenses must be met before anything else, and before we give for other objects we must give for this. Do not let us have a deficit to carry on to another year.

THE CARPENTER MEMORIAL.—The mural tablet to the memory of our late lamented Senior Warden has at length been erected, and every one agrees that it is a very handsome monument, worthy of its purpose and an ornament to the church. As this paper is not issued until after the first Sunday in March, when the memorial service took place, we are able to say of it that it was very satisfactory. A large number of the members of the Society of Sons of the Revolution and of other societies to which Major Carpenter belonged attended in a body, together with the First City Troop, in uniform, over fifty strong. The front seats on one side of the middle aisle were occupied by the Carpenter family, all of whom expressed much satisfaction both with the tablet and the service.

THE TABLET TO MR. BONNET has also been put in place, and is a deserved recognition of the worth of a faithful servant of the Church.

SONG RECITAL.—Through the kindness of Mrs. Spencer Ervin, a song recital was given in her house, on February 10th, for the benefit of this parish. It was very successful, the rooms being crowded to their fullest capacity, and the total proceeds amounted to something over $300—a very acceptable contribution towards meeting our expenses this year.

A NEW PIANO, which was very much needed for the practice of the choir, has been purchased and put in the Guild room, through the exertion of one of the ladies of the parish, supplemented by a portion of the proceeds of the song recital.

CONFIRMATION will be administered on the evening of the 19th instant, and we are glad to say that we have a very large class in preparation—one of the largest ever presented of late years. The instructions are given on Wednesday and Saturday evenings, and the Rector will meet any who cannot come on either of those evenings on Monday afternoons at 4 o'clock.

THE LADIES' AID are working this Lent for a poor church in the northern part of the city, and for an Indian school. They have the material cut out, but they want more hands to help in making it up. Who will volunteer and come on Thursday afternoons? Those who do not care to sit and sew there can take the work home.

DIOCESAN MISSIONS.—This parish is asked this year to contribute $90 towards the Diocesan Mission fund, a sum considerably smaller than we were asked to give last year, as the Rector represented to the Convocation that we could not contribute so much as we had been doing. We hope, therefore, it will all be raised by the envelopes marked for that purpose which were sent out this quarter. The Rev. Edgar Cope, the Rector of St. Simeon's Church in this city, who is very familiar with the missionary work of the Diocese, and who has been very successful in raising money himself, will speak to the congregation on this subject on Sunday morning, March 9th.

LENTEN PREACHERS.—Friday, March 7th, the Rev. E. L. Ogilby, Rector of St. Barnabas' Church, Kensington, will preach at the 5 o'clock service; March 14th, the Rev. A. H. Hord, Rector of St. Michael's Church, Germantown, and March 21st, the Rev. L. P. Powell, Rector of St. John's Church, Lansdowne.

In addition to his services in his own parish, the Rector is preaching this Lent in St. Michael's Church, Germantown; St. Philip's Church, West Philadelphia; St. James', Hestonville; Trinity Church, Southwark; Trinity, Collingdale; St. Barnabas', Kensington; St. John's, Lansdowne, and St. David's, Manayunk.

The Curate is to conduct the Three Hours' Service on Good Friday, in the Church of the Annunciation, Twelfth and Diamond streets.

HYMN FOR CANDIDATES FOR CONFIRMATION

Take my life, and let it be Consecrated, Lord, to Thee.
Take my moments and my days,
Let them flow in ceaseless praise.

Take my hands, and let them move
At the impulse of Thy love.
Take my feet, and let them be
Swift and beautiful for Thee.

Take my voice, and let me sing
Always, only, for my King.
Take my lips, and let them be Filled with messages from Thee.

Take my silver and my gold;
Not a mite would I withhold.
Take my intellect, and use
Every power as Thou shalt choose.

Take my heart, it is Thine own;
It shall be Thy royal throne.
Take my will, and make it Thine;
It shall be no longer mine.

Take my love; my Lord, I pour
At Thy feet its treasure-store.
Take myself, and I will be
Ever, only, all for Thee. Amen.

—Frances Ridley Havergal.

OUR NEIGHBORHOOD

WE want our people to understand something of the conditions under which the work of our parish is carried on.

Our church is situated on one of the largest streets in the city, and in the central part of the city, and it might be supposed from those circumstances that its conditions for work were very favorable. But while Broad street is handsomely improved down to South street, it is not so below. From South to Ellsworth, Broad street is taken up with vacant lots, stone yards, places of business or very small houses. And there is nothing below South street to attract persons living north of it so much as to walk down that way. There are no places of amusement, no shops, no park, nothing to make it an attractive walk. So few persons living north of the church ever see it, many do not even so much as know of its existence. And the apothecary shop between the church and South street hides it even from those who come down as far as Lombard street. We are out of the way, therefore, and out of sight and mind of the wealthier classes living in the section of the city north of the church.

And the section south of the church is not much better for work among the people living there. For South street itself is entirely a street of shops, and the people who live over the shops are almost entirely Jews, whom we cannot reach; then the small streets below are largely filled with colored people who have their own churches. Then we are surrounded by other churches. St. Luke's Church, with its $300,000 endowment, is three blocks north of us, All Saints' three blocks east of us, St. Mark's Chapel three blocks west, and the Church of the Messiah not much further to the south of us, to say nothing of three Presbyterian, two Methodist and two Roman Catholic Churches in the same area. Is it not evident that, as far as religious facilities are concerned, the neighborhood is overstocked, and that it must be rather difficult for a church to sustain itself there, especially one that is dependent entirely upon free-will offerings and has no endowment? And how can such a church do the missionary and eleemosynary work which every church ought to do? The way it is sustained is by persons coming to it from every quarter of the city. They are people, generally, who have lived near to it, but having moved to a distance are so attached to it that they will not give it up, and our trolley system nowadays makes it possible for persons to attend churches at great distances from their homes. Still we have not the support we ought to have to do a work which we are convinced could be done in our immediate neighborhood. There are many white people living near the church who do not go to, or are not regularly connected with, any church. But they must be sought out or attracted in some way to the church. To do this we ought to have a parish visitor, a sister or deaconess, or another assistant minister. And we ought to have a larger parish building, where more classes could be held and more attractions furnished to reach the young people of both sexes. But these things cannot be had without money. We think we are doing a good work in the neighborhood as it is (witness our large Confirmation class of 41 this year) with the resources we have. But if some one would only extend our plant, or provide us with an endowment, or even remove our debt, it would be easier for us to get on and our work could be largely extended.

We refer to these things that our people may understand the conditions which confront us, and in the hope that some may be moved, either by gifts during their lifetime, or by making provision for it in their wills, to give us the means to strengthen and extend the good work we are doing, and to put it upon a basis beyond peradventure of disaster or diminution.

PARISH NOTES

GIFTS.—We have to acknowledge with thanks the gift of a piece of muslin from John Wanamaker and a piece of flannel from Strawbridge & Clothier for the use of the Mothers' Meeting. Also some materials donated to the Ladies' Aid for their Lenten work, a number of flowers for the Easter decorations and two new silk stoles, a green and a white one, from the Embroidery Class.

THE CONFIRMATION CLASS this year is the largest but one ever confirmed in this parish, 41 in all. Once during the present rectorship we had 47 confirmed in the old church on Lombard street, the class including some of the girls of the Indian School which then attended the church. But our classes of late years have generally been between 20 and 30. This is certainly indicative of progress. And we trust that all those confirmed will become faithful and devoted members of the parish.

OUR EASTER.—We were fortunate in having a most beautiful Easter day and it was well kept in the parish. The church looked very beautiful and the music was very good, some competent critics pronounced it most creditable. The number of communicants at the early Celebration was, we think, the largest we have ever had, there being 355 in all during the day, of whom only 46 were at the mid-day celebration. We had not as large a crowd at the latter service as we have had sometimes, but that was largely due to attractions offered in other churches and to the great exodus of people to the seashore and country on such a beautiful day. The offerings on Easter day amounted to $650; this was $350 short of the amount asked for, but the gratifying thing about it was that only $250 was in large offerings, the rest being made up of small sums.

THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL.—Easter day was a bright day for the Sunday-school. The Children's Vesper Service was largely attended, showing how much the school has grown in the past year. While those interested in this work have reason to be greatly encouraged, the prospect of increasing the school is not so bright, owing to the fact that our present accommodations are so limited. If the Sunday-school is to increase in size and influence, an addition to the parish building will become a necessity. The Primary Class, which is the great "feeder" to a school, is cramped up in a dingy room. Has not the time come for an annex or another story to our parish building? Under the management of Mr. Charles Walker the school has been well organized.

The Easter offering through the mite boxes was larger than it has ever been. About $90 was contributed by the children and the members of the Bible Classes to the Church's missionary work.

Each child received a large flowering plant to take with them to brighten their homes.

VESTRY ELECTION.—On Easter Monday, March 31st, the following gentlemen were duly elected to serve for the ensuing three years: Thomas R. Neilson, M.D., William Platt Pepper, David L. Witmer, William C. Lloyd. William H. King, M.D., was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Senior Warden, Major Carpenter.

A CLERE-STORY WINDOW.—The members of Miss Neilson's Men's Bible Class propose putting in another painted window in the clere-story, which will contain the figure of St. Andrew, very appropriately, as we consider this class as the Brotherhood of St. Andrew's Bible Class.

We should be very glad if some one else would, at the same time, put in another of these windows, which would complete another of the triplets in which the clere-story windows are grouped. Is there not some one in the congregation who would like to put it in as a memorial of some loved one? The cost of each window is about $65. And there are still three windows to be put in the chancel, if some one would like a larger memorial.

THE REREDOS OF OUR ALTAR has been very much improved by a painting, which has been placed in the central panel, representing two adoring angels below and two cherubs' heads in the upper part. It is not only more beautiful and appropriate than the geometrical figures which were there before, but being light in color it throws out the altar cross in much greater relief. It was the work of our Curate.

THE BRASS ORNAMENTS in the church have been much improved of late by the constant polishing given them recently by a number of the ladies in the parish who have organized themselves for the purpose. They have expended much labor upon it.

SPRING SPORTS of St. John's Guild will be held Monday evening, April 28th, in the parish building. The sports have always been an interesting feature of the Guild's work. Mr. Hindemeyer has been in charge of the training of our athletes, and an exhibition of special interest is promised. The price of admission is 10 cents; reserved seats, 15 cents. Tickets for sale by Mr. Morgan, the Sexton, and by the members of the Guild.

THE LADIES' AID made up two very creditable boxes as the result of their Lenten work, one for an Indian school in the West, and another for St. George's Church, Kensington. In the latter they were very materially aided by a contribution of clothes made by the members of St. Mary's Guild.

THE ASCENSION CADETS.—The organization for boys of the parish has about 30 active members, 10 of whom made their first Communion on Easter day. The boys are in need of new uniforms, and an appeal is made to all who would like to see this work succeed, to meet the expense.

The Curate would be glad to receive donations of any amount to help provide the uniforms for the boys who are not able to get them. The cadets have done much to interest boys in the Church, besides giving them some training in the way of discipline, and it would be a shame to give this work up at the time when it is doing so much good.

A CHURCHMAN WITH A CAPITAL "C"

BY THE REV. R. W. LOWRIE

A Churchman is one who believes fully in the Church; a churchman believes in it a little. A Churchman belongs to her, out of principle; a churchman out of mere choice. A Churchman stands by his parish, no matter who the rector is; a mere churchman, if he likes the rector. The Churchman is in his place at worship, stern circumstances alone preventing; a churchman, if weather, and convenience, and inclination, or any one of a half a dozen other things be favorable. A Churchman kneels; a churchman only leans over. When we kneel, let us kneel. To shrug the shoulders and crook the spine over the pew-top in front of us, is not kneeling according to Webster. Kneeling is being on the knees!

We don't read that "Daniel shrugged his shoulders and crooked his spine three times a day, towards Jerusalem," but "kneeled," etc. Hunch-back kneeling is a compromise, mostly on one side. All Church-folk kneel; church-folk bend over.

In the name of good taste, never stare. This anywhere, particularly at church, is vulgar. To stretch the neck around and gaze back at the door to see who is coming in, is bad taste. Never mind other folk; attend to the service.

A Churchman gives of his means, as a privilege; he who is only a churchman, as a kind of tax. And in a great many other ways is there a great difference between Churchman with a capital "C," and those without.

No intelligent informed Churchman, will ever commit the historic falsehood of saying that the Church began with Henry VIII. "What agency, then, had Henry VIII in the Reformation of the Church of England?" Very little. About as much as the United States had in the placing of Maximilian on the throne of Mexico. The Government of the United States and that of the Confederate States were engaged in a bitter contest. This gave France a most excellent opportunity to carry out a favorite policy. Henry VIII and the Roman Bishop were engaged in a controversy. The Church saw her chance; and she—the Church; not he—the 8th Henry—began and carried grandly on, the work of Reformation. Henry lived and died a Romanist.

A BAZAAR

SOME of our ladies have suggested that we should have a bazaar in the autumn, for the benefit of the church, and that we should begin now to prepare for it, so as to do something on a large scale. We would like to say a few words on this subject. In the first place, we must do something to meet our expenses. Our ordinary income is not sufficient to meet even the very moderate expenses of this parish. We have two clergymen and we are expected to have music that will compare favorably with that which is heard in churches in the neighborhood, and yet we do not pay for all as much as those churches spend on their music alone. This is not because our church is a free church. We believe that on the whole our people contribute more liberally than those do who go to pewed churches. It is because we have so little wealth in the parish. We have very few persons who can afford to give largely. So each year we fail to meet fully our current expenses. We have had to borrow money and those loans must be paid off. How are we to do it? It is suggested that we have a bazaar. Of course, bazaars, theatricals or entertainments of any kind are certainly not the ideal way of supporting churches. People ought to give as a free-will offering a due proportion of their income for the support of the church. And those who are really wealthy ought to endow their churches, especially those in poor districts, that they may be able to do their blessed work without being cramped and hindered by lack of means.

But in a case like ours, where we have no endowment and our people are not rich enough to support the church as it should be, what are we to do? We must meet our expenses in some way. And there is this to be said about bazaars: When people have not money to give they can do some work by which money can be made, and so they can contribute in that way when they could not in any other. That is our position. So from time to time we have to resort to these means of raising money, which are not ideal.

And we need to raise a considerable sum. First, we are between five and six hundred dollars short in meeting our current expenses this year. Then we have used up a legacy of $1,000, which we had put aside as a reserve fund to be drawn on during the summer months, when our receipts are very small. This ought to be replaced. We have also need of money to carry on the benevolent work of the parish. Two years ago one of our ladies held a fair in her parlor for the benefit of the Mothers' Meeting, and raised a considerable sum by it, which has carried on the work of the Meeting ever since. Now, that is exhausted and the fund must be replenished. Then we need money for our work among the young men. We have a cadet corps of over 20 young men, which has been the means of reaching and bringing many under the influence of the church. They need uniforms and funds for their summer camp, etc. Our plan, therefore, would be to divide pro rata between these different objects the amount that is raised.

In order to make this attempt successful, it is essential that all the ladies in the parish should interest themselves and take part in it. The Rector proposes to call a meeting of all the ladies on the first Monday of this month, the time when we arrange for the parish tea, and we trust that all who can possibly do so will attend. Let each think the matter over and come prepared to make suggestions how such a bazaar can be successfully carried out, what new and attractive features could be introduced, and map out the work for it which each is willing to undertake during the summer.

We have heard of some such bazaars lately which have been very successful, and though we are sorry to resort to such means of raising money for church support, still, as we have to do so, let us do it well and make a success of it.

SUMMER OUTING

Everyone looks forward to summer and the opportunity to enjoy God's great green earth. Some people spend the whole summer away in the country or at the seaside; but the vast majority of people must content themselves with only an occasional visit to the country or look at the sea, and of all people these need it most, because they are compelled to spend most of their time in the narrow streets, where the scorching rays of the summer sun beats down with unrelenting fierceness. The sad part of our modern city is that the children are the ones who suffer the most during the summer, especially those who live in the crowded sections of the city. As our parish stands in one of these sections we should not close our eyes to the need of the people about us during the summer.

The plan followed last summer of giving outings to the children, proved most satisfactory and was one of the most beneficent charities that has been undertaken by the church.

The true way of doing this work is to have a cottage in the country, a "mothers' rest," where mothers can go with their little ones and spend a week free from household cares, a place where the older children can go and spend a day at least.

In order to do this we must call upon the generosity of our parishioners. The church has no funds for this purpose, so we must depend upon the kind-hearted people who are not unmindful of the needs of those less fortunate than themselves to create a fund.

If we cannot have our "mothers' rest" this year, we can do as we did last year, make weekly trips to the parks, but even to do this money is required.

We urge upon all who are planning for the summer life of recreation and enjoyment, not to forget us in our work among the poor of our neighborhood. In addition to the work mentioned, it has been our custom to take the boys of the choir and Cadets to a camp for a week. The boys are eagerly looking forward to this outing, and we would not like to disappoint them.

PARISH NOTES

MR. SAMUEL WETHERILL.—At a meeting of the Vestry of the church, held on the Thursday after Easter, the first since the death of Mr. Wetherill, the following minute in reference to him was adopted and placed on record.

The Rector having announced the death of Mr. Samuel Wetherill, late a Vestryman of this parish, which had occurred since the last meeting of the Vestry, and the fact that in his last will he had left the church a legacy of $1,000, on motion it was

Resolved, That this Vestry has heard with great regret of the death of Mr. Samuel Wetherill, for twenty years a Vestryman of this parish, and that the Vestry places on record its sense of its appreciation of his life and character. Although brought up in the Society of Friends he entered the church in his early manhood and remained devotedly attached to it till his death. He served many years continuously as a Vestryman, first of old Christ Church and then of this parish. He was always regular in his attendance at its services, even when after losing his eyesight he had to be led to the church and to his seat or to the altar. He was always punctual in his attendance at the meetings of the Vestry and gave its affairs his best consideration. He contributed handsomely towards the erection of the church and chancel, and the Vestry is grateful for his remembrance of the parish in his last will.

He was a man of strict integrity and high principle, kindly and affable. A gentleman of the old school, whose presence will be greatly missed by us.

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be printed in our parish paper, THE ASCENSION NEWS.

THE VESTRY.—At the meeting of the Vestry, held after Easter, the Rector reappointed Mr. Francis S. Keese as Rector's Warden, and Mr. Wm. Moore Wharton was re-elected Accounting Warden. Mr. Francis S. Keese, Mr. Wm. Platt Pepper and Mr. David L. Witmer were elected delegates to the Diocesan Convention. We regret to say that Mr. Keese has removed his residence to Bala, which we fear will make his attendance at our services very irregular. Mr. Thomas Robb, who was kept away from church for many weeks by illness, we are glad to say, is better and was able to be in church again on Easter day.

ASCENSION DAY.—Our special parish festival occurs very early this year, which we trust will enable more of our people to be present at its services. Our choir will make a special effort to give us good music, both at the morning and night services on Ascension Day. At the latter service the Rector will preach his anniversary sermon, giving a review of the past year. We hope all our people will be present. The annual Guild service will be held on the Sunday evening after Ascension Day, when the different Guilds will enter the church in procession. The preacher will be the Rev. George W. Lamb, assistant priest at St. Timothy's Church, Roxborough.

THE ANNUAL PARISH TEA will take place on Monday evening, May 12th, when we hope to see all our members and any friends they may choose to bring with them. Tickets, 25 cents each. Only adults are expected. A treat for the choir boys will be provided on the following evening.

ENTERTAINMENTS.—A very successful entertainment was given on Tuesday evening, April 15th, in the parish building, for the benefit of St. Barnabas Guild for Nurses. It consisted of a play by members of the Girls' Friendly Society of the Church of the Advocate, with some recitals and instrumental and vocal music.

THE members of St. Mary's Guild are preparing for a play they propose to give and also for some entertainment at the parish tea.

THE ENTERTAINMENT to be given by the members of St. Mary's Guild, the latter part of May, is to include a play by the boys of the Ascension Cadets—a mock trial—"A Black Breach of Promise." The boys are working hard to make their part of the entertainment a "howling success."

The younger girls of the parish who are members of the Guild of the Good Shepherd, expect to give a Strawberry Festival for the benefit of the Outing Fund. This will probably take place early in June, and will be a delightful occasion. The one given last year in tents erected on the church lot was a great success, and gave material help to the summer work among the poor of the parish.

ST. JOHN'S GUILD'S Annual Spring Sports took place Monday evening, April 28th, before a large and enthusiastic audience.

The athletic work of the Guild has been under the direction of Mr. Harvey W. Hindermeyer. Although not so many members as usual entered into this work, the entertainment was a creditable showing of the skill of our young men.

John McCracken carried off most of the prizes, and is this year's champion, which entitles him to have his name engraved on the "Spencer Ervin Championship Cup." The clown, impersonated by E. J. Adams, was an amusing feature of the occasion.

The Summer Sports will take place at the parish picnic given in July, and it is hoped all the members of the Guild will take part in them.

THE MISSIONARY BOX for Indian Missions for which money and materials were collected by the ladies representing Indian Missions in our parish, was valued at $97.71.

AN ORGAN RECITAL was given in the church on Tuesday evening, April 29th, by our Organist and Choirmaster, assisted by Mr. Harvey W. Hindermeyer, tenor soloist of S. Mark's Church, was well attended in spite of a stormy night.

WHEN consolation is taken from thee, do not immediately despair; but with humility and patience wait for the heavenly visitation, for God is able to give thee back again more ample consolation.

So also do thou learn to part even with a near and dear friend for the love of God. Thomas a Kempis.

THE PARISH YEAR

AS usual on the evening of Ascension Day, the Rector preached an anniversary sermon, giving an account of the work of the parish for the past year. We give a summary of it here for the benefit of those who were not present on that occasion.

He began by pointing out that it was the twenty-first annual Dedication Festival that he had kept since he entered upon the Rectorship of the parish, and wished that it might be a real coming of age to the parish in the sense of its entering upon the maturity of its powers or coming into an inheritance which would enable it to do a large work in the field in which it is placed. In reviewing the statistics of the past year it is to be noticed that there has been a large increase in the number of baptisms and of those confirmed. The former were almost double those in the previous year, and the latter constituted the largest class (42 in all) ever confirmed in this church. There were also five more marriages and seven more burials, all showing more parochial activity. The addition to the list of communicants was 66, a very good showing, but the loss by death and removals was 61, making but a small increase in all. This is what has been going on in our parish for some time, and is a very discouraging feature of our work. It is owing to the constant migration which is going on to the newer parts of the city, and to the lack of any improvement in our immediate neighborhood. The communicants lost by death during the past year were Miss Mary H. White, for twenty years a devoted communicant, though of late unable to attend the church through physical infirmity; Mrs. Janet Love, as regular an attendant as her occupation of a nurse would allow; Mr. J. Edward Carpenter, for fifteen years the Rector's warden, for whom a special memorial service was held in March; Mr. David Martin, a member of the choir as a boy and a man, and at one time leader of the music in the Sunday-school; Mrs. Horace Swayne, who was admitted to the communion of the church on her death bed; Mrs. Frances Cox, one of the few communicants of the church prior to the present Rectorship; Mrs. Catharine Stockton, an aged and attached member, though lately unable to attend the services through weakness and the distance from the church to which she had removed; Mrs. Jane Steffins, formerly a member of the mothers' meeting, who died in the Widow's asylum, where she had been for some years; Mr. Samuel Wetherill, for twenty years a vestryman and a regular attendant of the Church, even after the almost total loss of his eyesight, and Mr. Henry C. Kerr, a veteran of the Civil War, who had served at Chancellorsville and Antietam, his health being permanently impaired thereby. This is an unusually long list of deaths for a year and containing the names of some who were of great use to the parish. May they rest in peace.

The Sunday-school has increased in numbers, really outgrowing the accommodation of our parish building. Several of the classes have to be held in the same room and some in the church. The Industrial school was about the same in numbers as in previous years but did better work. Some of the drawings and paintings of the boys were very creditable and the girls made two patchwork quilts, one of which was given to the Home of the Merciful Saviour for crippled children. The work of the Guilds, which was equal to the past standard, will be given in detail in the Year Book. The Ascension Cadets numbered over 20 young men, who have been drilled regularly every week and had a week's camping out in the summer. The weakest point in the parish organization during the past year has been the Senior Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew. Are there not some of the younger men of the parish who are willing to make themselves of use in this way?

The financial statistics for the year show about the same amount of receipts and expenditures. The Sunday-school raised $61 more than the year before, and there has been a slight increase in the collections of the Woman's Auxiliary. In addition, four Missionary boxes were made up for the Domestic and Diocesan fields. It is to be noted, however, that our ordinary receipts are not sufficient to meet our very modest scale of expenditures. The two previous years we were obliged to encroach upon a legacy which had been left us, and we find ourselves at the end of this year with a debt of some $550, which will have to be met in some way. During the year the church has been adorned with two mural tablets in memory of the late Accounting Warden and the Rector's Warden of the parish, who died within eight months of each other.

As we study the whole work of the year we have to note a good steady maintenance along the line and a decided increase in certain directions. The attendance at the Sunday and Wednesday night services was particularly good. But this is not the realization among all our people of the duty and privilege of church attendance that there ought to be, and we have to lament the inadequacy of our financial support. Let each attendant of the church try to realize the importance of the principle of maintaining an absolutely free church as we have in this parish, and let each do his full share towards making that church as strong and prosperous as it can be.

PARISH NOTES

OUR DEDICATION FESTIVAL was observed with a fair amount of interest on the part of our parishioners, the best turn-out being, as usual, at the Parish Tea, which is always popular. A goodly number were present at the early communion and at mid-day on the Feast itself. The Rev. Alden Welling, rector of Calvary Church, West Philadelphia, was the preacher in the morning. The attendance at night was better than in some years past when the Rector preached the anniversary sermon. The Guilds made a good showing at their service, a new feature being the appearance of the Ascension Cadets in their uniforms, their flag taking its place among the banners of the Church. At the Parish Tea, after a poem recited by Miss Louise Carmen and illustrated by tableaux by some members of S. Mary's Guild, addresses were made by the Rector, telling those present about the proposed bazaar in the autumn, and asking the aid of all in it; by Mr. Witmer, on behalf of the summer outing fund, and by Mrs. John Mason calling upon, not only the ladies, but every man, woman and child to take a part in the bazaar and make it a success. The choir boys were given a supper on Tuesday evening, after the Ascension. The choir master was present and was loudly cheered and several speeches were made.

SUMMER SERVICES.— The usual changes are made in our services for the summer, beginning with this month. The Sunday school and children's service and the 4 o'clock Evensong in the afternoon are discontinued. The children's service will be held until October at 9.30 A. M., the other services remain the same. During the week prayers will be said on Wednesdays and Fridays at 11 A.M., and Wednesday evening service at 8 P.M.

THE BAZAAR.—The ladies' committee having the bazaar in charge, have so far perfected their arrangements that they have elected Mrs. William Platt Pepper, chairman; Mrs. Ashley Faught, secretary; and Mrs. Arthur Van Harlingen, treasurer. They have secured the Natatorium Hall, on Broad street, below Walnut, for all day Thursday, Friday and Saturday, December 4th, 5th and 6th, and they propose having entertainments in the evenings. A letter has been sent to every female member of the parish, asking for contributions either of money, material or work. It is hoped that each attendant or friend of the parish will employ himself or herself during the summer in making or collecting things which could be sold or would be of use in the bazaar. Already a goodly number have been promised. Let all work hard and success is certain. And we want to make it a big success.

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL PICNIC.—Saturday morning, May 24th, Mrs. John H. Mason, who has been in charge of the girls' department of the Industrial School, took fifty girls for a picnic to the Zoo and Park. Mrs. Mason was assisted by Mrs. Gaiser, Miss Henry, Miss Jennings, Miss Johnson and Miss Paterson. Two special cars provided by the Traction Co. carried the happy, joyous children to the Zoo. This ever delightful place for children afforded many hours of amusement to the girls. The animals, too, must have enjoyed the day as they came in for their share of the lunch which the children brought with them.

After feeding themselves and the animals, Mrs. Mason gathered the children and took them to the Park, where they indulged in games on the soft green grass and beneath the shade of the trees. After the romping and swinging, the children were given a treat to ice cream and cake and then were placed on the cars that brought them back to the church. In this way ended one of the most enjoyable outings the children have ever experienced and a most suitable ending to one of the most successful season's work in the Industrial School. Mrs. Mason has also helped to provide for an outing for the boys who will soon have their treat to the Zoo and games in the Park.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.—It has been the custom of late years to close the Sunday Schools' winter session on Trinity Sunday and begin the summer session with school in the morning at 9.30, on the first Sunday after Trinity Sunday. The children gathered in good numbers at 7.30 in spite of the severe storm, and marched with banners headed by the choir, into the church. After a shortened service and an address by the Curate, the prizes were given to the children. These prizes were medals, intended for those who had received perfect marks during the year. The gold medals for those who had perfect marks for three years; silver bars for those who had received a medal for perfect marks during the two years, and a silver medal for those receiving perfect marks for one year. The prizes were awarded as follows:

3d year, gold medal: Mabel Fox, Edith Stevenson, Rachel Smith, Edith Kelly and David Rea.

2d year, silver bar: Jennie Lindsay, Richard Stevenson, Robert Lindsay, Elizabeth Diehl.

1st year, silver medal: Lydie Carpenter, Katie McClay, Wm. McIlvaine, Elmer Conger, Lillie Gill, John Stevenson, Harry Hirst, Andrew McCann, Clarence Martz, William Eddy and Charles Kille.

ENTERTAINMENT.—A dramatic entertainment was given Tuesday night, May 27th, by S. Mary's Guild and the Ascension Cadets for the benefit of the Summer Outing Fund.

The entertainment was opened by Mr. HarveyW. Hindermeyer, with two beautiful songs and Mr. Clarence Fogg, who played selections on the violin.

A three-act play was given by S. Mary's Guild, entitled "The Oxford Affair." It was an amusing farce and well acted by the young ladies who were prepared by Miss Anable and Miss Carmen

Those who took part in the play were Miss Gertrude Miller, Miss Clara Hill, Miss Essie Shelton, Miss Edith Stevenson, Miss Carrie Zimmer, Miss Jennie Lindsay and Miss Cecile Evrard.

The second part of the programme was very amusing. Mr. Marcus Meek gave a recitation in costume; then followed "The Black Breach of Promise Case," which was very amusing. The following members of the cadets took part: Robert Strong, William Linton, Robert McNeil, George Jack, John Strong, Irwin Conger, George Fairchild, George Phipps, William Moffitt, Richard Stevenson, Clarence Martz, Robert Lindsay, John Kille and George Hancock.

The proceeds of the entertainment was about $30, which will help in carrying out the plans for summer outings. In order to give the boys of the choir and the Ascension Cadets their holiday in the country where they enjoy the delights of camp life, and to take the children on occasional outings to the Park, about $150 is required. The boys and girls of the parish together with their friends, are doing all they can to help raise the amount. On the 24th of June the children will give a Strawberry Festival in the church yard, where tents will be erected for the purpose.

S. John's Guild will give an entertainment in the parish rooms the same night, making the evening an enjoyable one and we trust also a profitable one.

Contributions to the Outing Fund will be thankfully received by the Curate, the Rev. Mr. Gilpin.

SUMMER WORK

THE summer has passed into history as one of the most remarkable summers for coolness, and absence of the hot days and nights that generally make it hard for the stay-at-homes. The previous summer was one of this kind, and we did all we could to relieve the distress occasioned by the heat; but this summer the necessity has not been so great, and yet we have done a great deal to help our people enjoy the summer. Through the Country Nursery many of our mothers and children have spent happy days away from the crowded streets.

The Children's Country Week has done much to help the growing boys and girls to spend a week or two in the country. But their greatest help was in contributing towards getting our boys to the camp at Sea Side Park.

This camp was very successful. The choir boys, in charge of Mr. Knodle, went to Sea Side Park July 14th, and encamped close to the edge of Barnegat Bay, with the sea beating on the shore not far away.

The place is an ideal spot for a camp, with plenty of water for the boys to play in—the only drawback being the mosquitoes that lie low in the grass for the wind to die down and then, under cover of the night, to make their attacks upon those who cannot fly away from them unless it is to seek the beach and wrap themselves in blankets. Fortunately the nights were generally cool and pleasant, so that the mosquitoes were not as bad as they might have been, and the pleasures of the day in and on the water quite made up for the nightly attacks. It was the first time many of the boys had ever been to the seashore and were not prepared for the sunburn, and the result was blistered arms, but even these did not interfere with the enjoyment they had. On Saturday, the 19th of July, the Ascension Cadets, in charge of Lieutenant George Jack, acting for Captain Smith, joined the choir boys at the camp, making a total of about 40 at the camp over Sunday.

All the boys attended a celebration of the Holy Communion in the hotel parlor, Rev. W. B. Gilpin celebrant, and in the evening attended the Episcopal service at the "Union Chapel." Beginning with Monday the Cadets' Camp was organized on strict military lines. The boys took much interest in the drills and attended to their duties in a way that won them much praise from the Captain and the Curate, who were anxious that the boys should do credit to the name they bear in the matter of behavior as well as military tactics.

The camp ended July 26th, and we feel sure that the boys returned to their homes and their work much improved in mind and body, ready to do more than they have ever done for the Church that takes so great an interest in them.

The Children's Outings were greatly interfered with by the rainy days of July—it seemed impossible to get a clear day to take the children to the Park. A large picnic, in charge of Mrs. Wagner, went to Chamounix. Mrs. Gill took a large number of mothers and children down the river to Augustine Pier, and Mrs. Stevenson took about 60 children up the Wissahickon. It may seem to the hasty reader that our idea of summer work is to give pleasure to our people. It is true that we aim to make the every-day lives of our people as happy as we can in our small way, but beyond this we feel that it is necessary to keep in touch with the people during the summer as well as the winter. The old idea of closing up churches in the summer is passing away, because as the Church gets more in touch with the people she realizes the fact that there are a great many people who remain in town during the summer and need the Church. The services during the summer have been well attended, especially Sunday and Wednesday evenings. We believe this is due to our summer work among the children, and the more of this work that is done, the greater will be the interest of those who expect of a church that which the Master taught so beautifully—a love for the children.

THE BAZAAR.

WE trust all our people have kept the coming bazaar in mind, and have been working hard for it all summer. We want just as many things for it as we can get, and it is only by each one doing all that is possible that it can be made a success.

One lady has prepared a good deal of work, and started it so that any one can take it up and finish it. She will be at the church after the Wednesday evening service during this month to give it out to any who would like to take it up.

There has also been sent to the church a quantity of silk and other materials, which can be used for fancy work. If any would like to have them, they will be given out at the same time, or any morning after the 10 o'clock service. It is still not too late to make preserves, which will certainly meet with a ready sale.

If all who have pieces of old India rubber, including old shoes, would collect them and send them to the church, they can be sold, we are told, for some $6.00 or $7.00 a barrel.

Ask all your friends to come to the bazaar, and tell them they must buy all their Christmas presents there.

PARISH NOTES.

WINTER SERVICES AND WORK.—The order of services for the winter begins this month, the 4 o'clock service on Sundays re-commencing and the daily service at 10 A. M. and 5 P. M. The other services were continued all through the summer, except two of the weekday services for three weeks in September, when the Curate was absent on his holiday.

The Sunday-School will be held in the afternoon, at 2.30 P. M., followed by the service in church. We hope all the teachers and children will be in their places, and we shall be very glad to see both new teachers and children.

The first business meeting of S. John's Guild will be held on the evening of October 6th; of S. Mary's Guild, October 7th, and of the Brotherhood of S. Andrew, October 13th.

The annual meeting of all the Chapters of the Woman's Guild of the parish will be held on S. Simon and S. Jude's Day, October 28th. All the women of the parish are asked to be present, that they may learn something of the work being done and see if they cannot take part in or aid it in some way. It will be a very good opportunity, too, for the ladies to talk over the coming bazaar.

MISSIONARY COUNCIL.—The annual Missionary Council of the whole church is to be held in this city during the third week of this month. The opening service will be held in S. James' Church on Tuesday, October 21st, at 11 A. M. The afternoon and evening sessions on that day, and those of the succeeding days, will be in the hall of the Young Men's Christian Association, at Fifteenth and Chestnut streets, and the grand closing service in the Academy of Music, on Thursday evening, the 23d. Tickets of admission to this meeting will be distributed among the various parishes, and can be had here from the Verger.

The committee having charge of the arrangements for the Council have sent a letter to each of the parochial clergy, asking if there are any persons in their congregations who will entertain delegates during the session of the Council or who would like to take such as boarders. If there are any in this parish who would be willing to do so, will they kindly notify the Rector at once, that he may send in their names and addresses to the secretary of the committee. We should think there would be many who would esteem it a privilege to have a Bishop or other clergyman thus staying with them for a few days. As there is to be a meeting of the House of Bishops directly after the Council, a large number of the members of that House doubtless will be present. The Rector of the parish expects to have the Rt. Rev. the Bishop Quincy stopping with him, and he will preach in the church on Sunday morning, October 26th.

S. Barnabas Guild for Nurses will hold its annual convention in this city during the first week in November. Its opening service will be held in this church, on Wednesday, November 5th, and a service in the Church of the Holy Trinity the same evening, with sermon by the Bishop-Coadjutor of the diocese. If there are any who will entertain delegates to this Council, the Rector would be glad to be informed. He expects the Chaplain-General, the Rt. Rev. the Bishop of Pittsburg to stay with him.

The Junior Chapter of the Brotherhood of S. Andrew held its first meeting after the vacation season Friday evening, September 26th.

A short devotional service was conducted by the Curate before the altar. Following the service, an interesting meeting was held. Mr. Charles T. Walker, the Director, presided.

Ten of the fifteen members were present. Plans for the winter's work were discussed. It was decided that the boys have charge of one Sunday evening each month, and it be made a special service for boys and young men. The first of these services to be held Sunday, September 28th. The boys agreed to deliver circulars announcing the service and in other ways use their influence to bring young people to the service.

A committee of five was appointed by the Director to make arrangements for entertaining the Junior Council of the Brotherhood, which is to meet in our church, Friday evening, October 24th. At this meeting all the Chapters of the Philadelphia Local Assembly will be represented, which will bring about 200 boys together. The meeting begins at 5.30. Reports will be read and plans discussed until 6.30, then supper will be served, and a service of song and praise, with stirring addresses, will follow.

It will be the first time that such a meeting has been held in our parish. We appeal to each member of this parish to help us make it a great success by showing their interest in the boys' work. This can be done by attending the service and by contributing towards the expenses of feeding 200 hungry boys.

The Chapter attended the Holy Communion Sunday morning, September 28th, in a body, and prayers were offered for Divine help in the work the boys propose to do during the coming winter.

In the evening a service for boys was held, and it was largely attended, and was very encouraging to the boys in their efforts to spread Christ's kingdom among boys, which is the main object of the Brotherhood.

The officers of the Junior Brotherhood are: Charles T. Walker, Director; George Fairchild, Secretary; William Moffitt, Treasurer.

The Curate has received an invitation from S. Ambrose Guild, of S. Timothy's Church, Roxborough, to attend their twenty-fourth annual meeting. The invitation is extended to the members of S. John's Guild, and they are promised a good time by the young men of S. Timothy's Church.

The Choir is greatly in need of new hymn books. Anyone desiring to contribute towards the purchase of same may hand their contribution to the Choirmaster or to the Sexton.

The News.—We did not issue a number of the News in September, as it is such a dead month; none of the work of the parish is resumed then, and so many of our people are out of town that they seldom get their papers when they are issued. We find, too, so much difficulty in making the paper pay that we were glad to save the cost of a month's issue. We now owe the printer a considerable amount, so we would be thankful if all whose subscriptions are due will pay them, and we should be most pleased to receive new ones. The paper is so useful an organ of communication with our people that we should be very sorry to give it up.

A blue mark opposite to this notice is a reminder that your subscription to the News is now due, and a renewal will be gratefully acknowledged by the assistant editor.

The following subscriptions have been received:

THE BAZAAR.

AS this is the last issue of the NEWS before the Bazaar, which our ladies are getting up, takes place, we want again to call attention to it, and urge all to work with redoubled energy to make it a great success. It is to be held in the Natatorium Hall, on Broad street, below Walnut, on December 4th, 5th and 6th, all of each day and evening. In addition, entertainments will be given at night.

One or two private entertainments have been already given in order to provide a fund for the necessary expenses, and from this source, together with some subscriptions, over $350 have been raised, but at least $500 are required to pay for the hall, decorations, printing, etc. It is proposed to make the hall very attractive, and the entertainments will be well worth the money charged for admission to them. The Ladies' Committee gave a sociable at the church on Saturday evening, October 18th, to which over 200 invitations were sent out. About 50 ladies were present. The Rector and Mrs. John Mason spoke about the plans for the Bazaar, and those present subscribed a considerable amount towards the expense fund, and manifested a great deal of interest. But to make the Bazaar the success we desire, all our members must take part in it in some way. Many, we know, are working for it at home, but it will require a great many things to keep up a sale for three days, and there is only one more month left to work in. Fancy and useful articles of all descriptions will be acceptable. They can be sent to any of the following persons: Mr. W. P. Pepper, 1730 Chestnut street; Mr. Ashley Faught, 1430 Spruce street; Miss Anable, 1350 Pine street; Mrs. Hodge, 334 South Thirteenth street; Mrs. Gilpin, 905 Pine street; Miss Graham, 2103 Pine street, and Mrs. W. M. Wharton, 1616 Pine street.

Get all your friends interested, as well as yourselves, and beg all you know to buy all their Christmas presents at the Bazaar. Nothing but work, and hard work, will carry it through. We have a very energetic Executive Committee, but they must be backed up by every one else in the parish doing his or her share.

A meeting will be held every Saturday during this month in the parish building, to sew for this purpose. Every one who is willing to do so is invited to come and help.

All persons sending articles for the Bazaar are requested to mark the prices they think proper on each article. Donations of home-made candy and cake can be sent to the Natatorium on the days of the Bazaar, directed to Miss Hodge.

As the enterprise has been undertaken, let us make it a big affair. The ladies aim not only at wiping out the floating debt of the parish, but in making a considerable reduction, at least, in the mortgage debt, which has been a burden to us so long, and on which we have still to pay out over $500 each year in interest.

We ask, therefore, every one connected with or interested in the church to remember and work for the Bazaar in every way he or she possibly can.

THE CURATE.

IT is with very great regret that we announce the resignation of our Curate, the Rev. Mr. Gilpin. Having been with us for three years, and having served in a similar capacity in two other parishes, Mr. Gilpin feels that it is time that he should have an independent work of his own, and so has accepted the charge of Christ Church, Franklinville, in the northern part of this city, which has been offered him.

We are sure all our people will be sorry to have him leave, as he has been very active and zealous in his work here and endeared himself very much to those with whom he has especially come in contact. He has been particularly active in his work in the Sunday-school, which he has built up very much, and also among the young people.

He leaves permanent memorials of his stay among us in the painting he placed over the altar, and in the drinking fountains on the street, which he was instrumental in obtaining.

We wish him every prosperity and success in his future work.

We are very glad to say that the Rector has secured in Mr. Gilpin's place the services of the Rev. H. Page Dyer, whom many will remember as having been with us for a month once, during the absence of Mr. Lanpher. He was formerly assistant to the Rev. Stewart Stone, at the Church of the Holy Comforter, and more recently Rector of St. James' Church, Hestonville. We extend him a hearty welcome into this parish. He enters on his duties with us the beginning of this month.

The Creators' Hand is the creature's home.—F. W. Faber.

PARISH NOTES.

THE GUILDS.—The annual meeting of the Woman's Guild took place on S. Simon's and S. Jude's day, and was attended by about 20 ladies. Many more should have been present. The reports of the work of the various Chapters for the past year were read and work arranged for the coming winter. Mrs. John Mason spoke to those present about the arrangements for the coming Bazaar. The Mothers' Meeting, the Ladies' Aid, the Embroidery Class, and the Industrial School recommence their sessions this month. The Ladies' Aid will meet this winter on Wednesdays, at 3 P. M., instead of Thursdays, as formerly. The members of this Chapter have purchased a sewing machine, which was very much needed in their work. They still require some $10 to complete the payment for it, and would be glad to receive contributions towards that amount.

PRESENTATION.—The young men of S. John's Guild presented the Rev. Mr. Gilpin, on his leaving the parish, with a handsome gilt altar cross for his house or chapel. Speeches were made and an entertainment provided on the occasion.

BROTHERHOOD OF S. ANDREW.—A meeting of the local Council of the Junior Brotherhood of S. Andrew took place in our church on Friday afternoon, October 24th. About 160 young men and several clergymen were present. Evening prayer was said in the church, the boys of the Choir being present, singing the canticles and hymns. Addresses were made by Mr. McGarvey, a former member of the Brotherhood, now doing missionary work in the West, and by the Bishop of Maine, who was in the city, attending a meeting of the House of Bishops. A supper, consisting of sandwiches, fried oysters and coffee, ice cream and cake was provided for all present, in the parish building, after which the business meeting of the Council was held.

SPECIAL PREACHERS.—The Rector availed himself of the presence of the attendants at the Missionary Council, to secure several of the Bishops as preachers, viz., the Bishops of Indianapolis, Delaware and Quincy.

The sessions of the annual convention of the Guild of S. Barnabas for Nurses will be held in our church the first week in this month. They will be presided over by the chaplain-general, the Bishop of Pittsburg.

ENTERTAINMENTS.—Two entertainments, to provide money to bear the expenses of the Bazaar, were held last month, one at Miss Anable's house, and another at the Clinton, under the auspices of Mrs. John Mason. Others will be held in connection with the Bazaar itself.

S. MARY'S GUILD for young women will meet this winter on Thursday evenings, instead of Tuesdays, as heretofore. All the meetings, with the exception of the business and devotional meeting, will be devoted to working for the Bazaar until that is over.

MARRIAGE.—The eldest son of our Rector, Mr. Carroll Hodge, was married on October 30th, in S. James' Church, to Miss Natalie P. Brinton. Though a member of S. James' parish, Miss Brinton has done a good deal of work here in the Sunday and Industrial Schools, and in playing the organ during Lent and on other occasions. Mr. and Mrs. Hodge will reside for the present at Wayne, Delaware County.

DONATIONS.—Three bundles of pieces of silk and other materials for the Bazaar. Contributions towards the new hymnals, asked for by the choirmaster, $6.

THE REMEDY FOR SMALL CONGREGATIONS.

We shall have full churches on Sunday mornings as soon as we fulfill the conditions that relate to public worship. The principal service, at the hour which is most convenient for the majority of people, must be the celebration of the Holy Eucharist. This is the one service of divine appointment, the one service of apostolic usage, the one service of catholic tradition. Matins, as a people's service, was appointed by the English reformers as auxiliary to the Eucharist. The Eucharist is of Christ's appointment. Matins is of man's creation and ordering. As long as we cling to the novel usage of the seventeenth century we must expect the prevalent neglect of worship to continue.

There will be plenty of worshippers when people understand and believe that in the Holy Eucharist there is a memorial made in word and action of Christ crucified for humanity, and that this memorial is presented to God the Father to set forth the sacrifice of His Son for the sins of the world; that in that service we plead the merits of Christ crucified; that the pleading is efficacious for the forgiveness of sins; that by virtue of the consecration of the bread and wine those elements become the spiritual Body and Blood of Christ, and hence that Christ Himself, in His Human and Divine Natures, is actually and sacramentally, albeit invisibly, present; that by faith we are brought face to face with Him to present to Him our adoration and our prayers; that by receiving the Holy Communion we receive Christ, so that He enters into us, and cleanses and purifies and strengthens and sanctifies us. Let people once believe this doctrine, and nothing but insurmountable necessity will keep them away from the Eucharist.

PARISH VISITORS.

FOR years we have been wanting, in our parish, visitors, that is, persons who will go from house to house inquiring who lives in them, whether they go to church, inviting them to come to the Ascension, looking up children for the Sunday-school, etc. This, we are convinced, is the only way in which the church can do its full work. It is our Lord's method, what He told His disciples to do, to go into the highways and byways and compel men to come in. It is not sufficient to build a church or maintain beautiful services, or even to advertise them in the newspapers. There are multitudes who will never think of going to church or connecting themselves with a church unless some one goes after them and invites them personally, shows a personal interest in them and explains to them the great advantage a church can be to them and their families.

This is what is done in the old country. There all the territory of a city or the county is divided up into districts called parishes, and the Rector, or his Curates, or visitors, male or female, appointed by him, go regularly from house to house, so that every one in the parish is known, and all possible personal influence is brought to bear upon them to bring them under religious influences. But in this country generally the clergy are content to minister only to those who voluntarily come to and connect themselves with their churches. And so there has come to be a vast mass of people who are not connected with, or go regularly to, any church. And these people the church ought to reach, and the only way in which it can be done is by going after them and visiting them in their homes. We have come across families who have been living within a stone's throw of our church three, four and five years before we found them out and got them into the church, or their children to the Sunday-school. And we are convinced that there are many more living in our immediate neighborhood who could be brought in if we only knew them.

And we have parochial limits for which we are responsible. The Convocation to which our church belongs has assigned the district lying between Lombard street and Washington avenue, and between Broad street and Sixteenth street, as the parish of this church. Of course, that does not mean that persons living outside of those limits cannot come to the church. It would not be desirable, even if it were possible, to prevent any one from going to any church he or she may prefer. But it means that that is the district for which this church is responsible, in which it is to do this work of searching out and going after those who do not come to church of their own accord.

But how is this work to be done? Our Rector and Curate, as we shall show in another article, have as much as they can possibly do to visit those who professedly belong to the church, in addition to conducting all the services and attending the various meetings of the Guilds and Societies connected with the church. So they cannot do this work of hunting up the non-churchgoers. It needs a special person or persons to attend to it. If we could have another assistant clergyman the work might be so divided that the two Curates, between them, might do this. But as we cannot afford that, the next best thing would be a paid parish visitor, a sister or Deaconness if possible, or a godly and discreet woman who could be especially fitted for the work, and could give her whole time to it. But as we have not the money for even that the only other thing we can think of is to get volunteers to do it. And as these could only give a limited amount of time to it, the parish might be divided up into smaller districts and each agreeing to take one of these, say one entire block, and look after it. This would involve visiting, or finding out who lives in, each house in that block, and when it was found that the occupants did not go regularly to any church, inviting and urging them to come and send their children to our church and Sunday-school, and then following them up, seeing that they did it, or noting their moving away from the district, and finding out and treating in the same way those who came in their place.

Certainly it would be possible even for our busy people to do a work like this. And are there not those in our congregation who for the love of Christ and His church will undertake it? It would be distinctly Christ-like work, and might do untold good.

There are twelve entire blocks in our parish which are inhabited. Are there not twelve persons in the congregation who would each agree to take one of these to look after in this way during the coming winter, or perhaps some might agree to take more than one block? If there are such the clergy would be very glad to hear from them and assign each one his district. And we believe that if the work is fully and earnestly done it would result in bringing many persons into our church and many young people into our schools and Guilds, and thereby be a means not only of filling up and benefiting the church, but of uplifting and helping both temporally and spiritually many who, though living in the midst, and within the reach, of church privileges, would otherwise have entirely neglected them.

If this appeal is responded to the Rector will organize a regular department of Parish Visitors.

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS.—The stained glass clere-story window, representing the figure of S. Andrew, presented by Miss M. A. L. Neilson's men's Bible class, has arrived from England and been put in position. The church is much indebted to the class for this permanent adornment. We wish very much that other windows there and in the chancel might be likewise filled.

The choirmaster received $8 in response to his appeal for new hymnals. This has provided some. He needs still more. Some fowl and other provisions for members of the Mother's Meeting were sent at Thanksgiving, and some fruit for the altar, which was given afterwards to the choir boys and to the sick. Two books were received for the Sunday-school library, and a large number of donations for the Bazaar, which will be acknowledged later.

ERROR.—In sending out the envelopes at the beginning of November an error was made in one of the numbers, 173 being sent to the wrong person. The Rector would thank whoever has received it to let him know.

MISSIONARY MEETING.—As the regular monthly missionary meeting of the ladies would occur this month in the midst of the Bazaar, the ladies resolved at their last meeting to adjourn until the second Friday in December.

THE BOYS' BRIGADE has recommenced its drill on Tuesday evenings, the Captain of the Brigade having returned from the coal regions, where he was serving with his regiment. The business meeting of the Junior Chapter of the Brotherhood of S. Andrew, whose members constitute the Brigade, will be held regularly on the fourth Tuesday of each month.

THE BAZAAR is in full blast as this issue comes out, so we cannot give an account of it until next month. But we are sure it will be a great success, as our ladies are working very hard for it, and many very handsome donations have been received. The tickets for admission and for the evening entertainments are going off very rapidly.

CHRISTMAS.—As in other years, there will be celebrations of the Holy Communion on Christmas day at 6.30, 7.30, 8.30 and 11.30 A. M., with morning service at 10.30 A. M. and evening prayer at 5 P. M. The choir list shows the music which will be sung, and which will be repeated on the Sunday within the octave.

The Children's Christmas Festival will take place on Monday evening after Christmas, Holy Innocents' day being on Sunday. They will sing their carols in the church, and afterwards have an entertainment in the parish building.

We trust the members of the congregation will remember our children at this season. And we should also like to do something for the Mothers' Meeting, as we did not do a great deal for them at Thanksgiving, and have had no coal orders to give out this year at all, owing to the scarcity and high price of coal.

We look also for the usual Christmas offerings for the church, and hope that what our people have given towards the Bazaar will not be taken out of their ordinary Christmas offering, as we depend on that to meet the interest on our mortgage, which comes due this month.

A CHORUS CHOIR.—Our new Curate has started a singing class for the practice of hymns, etc., after the service on Wednesday evenings. He would like to have an auxiliary choir to assist in the singing at that service and on Sunday evenings and other occasions, as well as increasing the heartiness of the music generally.

A number of persons have given their names as members of this choir, to sing on Sunday and Wednesday nights in connection with the Vested Choir. They sit in the front pews of the church, and have already proved helpful in leading the congregation's singing of the familiar hymns and chants at those two services.

We would be glad to have any adults or young people join the choir, provided they intend to come every Wednesday and Sunday evening.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.—Mr. Wm. E. Linton has been appointed Secretary of the Sunday school and is faithfully fulfilling the duties of the office.

Miss Louisa B. Hodge very kindly accompanied upon the piano the practice of the carols on Sunday, November 23d, and greatly helped us. Mr. Thayer, our efficient Sunday-school organist, was necessarily absent on that occasion.

The Sunday-school teachers will meet on Sunday, December 7th, after the session of the school to confer as to the children's entertainment for Christmas. Of course, we should have every teacher present.

THE MEMORIAL SERMON on our late Warden, Mr. J. Edward Carpenter, preached by the Rector last March, has been printed by the Society of Sons of the Revolution, and the Rector has some copies he will give to any who would like to have one.

THE RESULTS OF THE BAZAAR.

THE Bazaar is over, and it was a great success. Those who took part in and worked so hard to benefit the church thereby can feel that they have accomplished what they took in hand to do.

The Natatorium Hall in which it was held was beautifully decorated, the Japanese garden made it especially attractive. People seemed to like to linger there, and as a most excellent luncheon was provided at a very moderate cost, many stayed there all day, others returned again and again. The tables were abundantly supplied with articles for sale, and made a very handsome display. Many who had not attended, or were connected with our parish for many years, either sent things, or came and made purchases. Some very liberal donations were made, and the spirit manifested on all sides was excellent. The young men of S. John's Guild provided a very successful minstrel show, and one of our young men, assisted by a friend, furnished mandolin music all through the evenings and on Saturday morning. For the vaudeville and dance, enough tickets were sold to fill the hall on each occasion, and we are under great obligation to our friends who furnished the talent for the former occasion. These entertainments added very materially to our receipts.

And now for the results. The treasurer, Mrs. Van Harlingen, to whom our special thanks are due for the work her office involved, reports that the total receipts, after paying all expenses, were $2,352.28, of this $512 were donations, made to cover the expenses, and the rest the receipts from sales of articles, tickets, etc.

Some of our ladies had fixed their hearts on raising more than this, but we are very well satisfied with the result, and think our people did nobly, and the amount received answers the purposes for which the Bazaar was held. If any have copies of the ASCENSION NEWS for May last, they will see in it an article setting forth the necessity of doing something, and the precise needs of such an effort. They were, first, to pay off the floating debt, which, by the beginning of last month had amounted to $1,300. Second, to put back the reserve fund of our capital of $1,000, which we had used up in previous years, and which is very important as a fund on which to draw during the summer months, when our receipts are small. Third, to provide some means to carry on our Mothers' Meeting and other benevolent work, which is a very important part of our work, and for which we find it very difficult to get the necessary funds. Now all those ends are covered by our receipts. The ladies voted at a general meeting of all the workers and contributors called on the evening of December 23d, to pay the floating debt of $1,300 in full, to restore the $1,000 reserve fund, and devote the remainder to the work of the Mothers' Meeting. We should like to have had a little more for this latter purpose, but in addition to the $52 on hand, there are some other small receipts still to come in, and a number of things left over from the Bazaar have been donated by the ladies to be sold as opportunity may offer for this purpose. A supplementary sale was held in the Parish building on December 19th and 20th, at which something over $40 was realized.

All, therefore, who worked for the Bazaar, can feel that their labors have been rewarded; they have not only relieved the church of a debt which was embarrassing it, but have put back the reserve fund, which, even if it should be used up again, would keep the church out of debt for a couple of years at least. But we must make strenuous efforts to keep this fund intact in the future. And the way to do this is for every one attending the church to make regular contributions towards its support. Every one, old and young, should use the envelopes and give through them as largely as they can. If all our people would do this there would be no need of resorting to Bazaars or other methods for the increase of our income.

The hearty thanks of the authorities of the Parish are due to all those who in any way took part in this effort which has been so successful in meeting our present needs, and we trust it will be a long time before we shall have to call upon them again for any similar work.

CONTRIBUTORS TO THE BAZAAR.

WE promised to acknowledge in this paper all contributions made towards the Bazaar, but the number of articles given was so great and their character so various that it would simply be impossible to render a list of every article. We print, however, the names of those who sent contributions either of articles or money, as far as we have been able to obtain them. Many things were sent without names, or the cards or papers on which the names were written were mislaid in the confusion, so we do not doubt that there were others to whom we were under equal obligations, whose names do not appear in the list, which we much regret. The list, as far as we could get it, is as follows:

PARISH NOTES.

GIFTS, innumerable articles for the Bazaar: Five tons of coal for the poor, piece of Brazilian lace for fair linen cloth for the altar, number of articles for the missionary box and for the poor, donations for tea for Mothers' Meeting, six Christmas dinners for poor families, and a clock for the sanctuary. The choir master received a very handsome folio copy of the church hymnal with flexible binding for use on the organ.

THE REV. MR. GILPIN.—All the members of our Parish, as well as all his friends, have been much distressed to hear of the illness of our former Curate, the Rev. Wm. Bernard Gilpin. He has been ill with typhoid fever in the Pennsylvania Hospital since December 15th. Our constant and fervent prayers are offered for his complete recovery.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENTS.—On Monday afternoon and evening, December 29th, the annual Christmas service and entertainments of the Sunday School occurred. The snow and rain and hail had been falling all the afternoon, and by 3 P. M. the pavements were covered with slush.

But at that hour, about 45 little ones, with Miss Miller, the head of the Primary School, together with some other friends, met in the Parish Building and the fun began.

Mr. Charles Walker most wonderfully entertained the audience with Punch and Judy, and later on the same versatile gentleman arrived on a sled drawn by human reindeer, and Santa Claus distributed candy and cards and presents. Two carols were sung and some remarks made by the Curate of the Parish, and everybody had a happy time.

At 7.30 P. M. the main school had its meeting.

First a service in the church, preceded by a procession. Then a shortened evensong with carols and an address to the congregation by the Curate and Rector.

After this all repaired to the Parish Building, and the Christmas entertainment followed. Recitations by Mr. John McIlvaine and Miss Amelia Klofach, cornet solos by Mr. Samuel Scott, accompanied by Miss Louisa B. Hodge, sketches by Mr. Percy Remington and "Mr. Volunteer" and "Welcome to Santa Claus" by Messrs. Jos. Aimes, Clarence Martz, Christian Hawkes and Russell Eberling.

We are especially indebted to Mr. Scott and Mr. Remington for so kindly and efficiently helping us.

Then presents were distributed to the scholars with a box of candy and a Christmas card by Mr. Albert Zitele, a most welcome Santa Claus. The members of her Bible class presented Miss Maria Gilpin, who richly deserved this token of love from her "boys," with a handsome vase.

About 175 persons were present and they had to brave a trying night in order to come.

To Mr. Carroll Hodge we are greatly indebted for the electric lighting of the Christmas tree, and our efficient sexton and teachers worked hard in order to make the affair so great a success.

After an afternoon and evening of much joy, we, at a reasonable hour, departed for our homes and rest.

CONFIRMATION INSTRUCTIONS.—It is proposed to begin the instructions for Confirmation before long, and it would be a great convenience to the clergy of the parish if names of those who are at all thinking of Confirmation were given to one of the clergy as soon as possible.

The date of the first instruction will soon be announced.

Please give us names of possible candidates at once.

PARISH VISITING

IN a late issue we spoke of the necessity of having some person or persons who would look up those in the neighborhood of the church who were not attending any church. But there is another kind of visiting which is of equal importance; that is, the visiting of those who regularly belong to the parish. Of course, the clergy want to do this themselves, they naturally want to know personally the people attending their church. It is only so that they can be real pastors, friends and leaders and sympathizers with their people in sorrow and in joy. It is only by becoming personally acquainted with them that they can learn their characters, their capacities and their wants, and bring to bear upon them the influences and consolations of religion, and enlist their sympathy and interest in the various departments of the Church's work. For the clergy to know their parishioners therefore is an absolute necessity to any real relationship between them.

But though this is so necessary, few people imagine how difficult a thing it is to accomplish in our modern city life. Formerly people naturally and necessarily attended the churches in the immediate neighborhood of their homes. Forty-five years ago there was not a street car in the city of Philadelphia, only a few omnibus lines, and they did not run on Sundays. So that people had to go to churches near to them, unless they were willing to walk a great distance. But now when there is a trolley in every street and people can go for miles for five cents, there are naturally many who prefer to attend churches to which they are particularly attracted or attached. This is especially the case in this parish, situated as it is in the central portion of the city from which such a stream of emigration is going on all the time to the newer sections or the suburbs, where such pretty, attractive and cheap houses are constantly springing up. People thus removing often find it easier to go by trolley to their own church than it would be to walk to one in their more immediate neighborhood. But it makes it vastly more difficult for the clergy to visit them.

To give our readers some idea of what this visiting means, we would say that, according to the Rector's visiting list, made out last autumn, the homes of the persons belonging to the church were situated as follows:

Below Washington ave., east of Broad st.	32
" " " west " "	52
Between Washington ave. and Pine st., east of Broad st.	29
Between Washington ave. and Pine st., west of Broad st.	44
Bet. Pine and Market sts., east of Broad st.	43

And of those living to the south, some were as far as 2500 south; those to the north, some as far as 3400 and 3800 north, one 4800 north. And they extended in the other direction from Second street to Fifty-sixth st. Now anyone can compute how many days would be consumed in paying 300 visits over such an area, even if all of one's time was given up to it. But it is manifest that the clergy have many other things to do, services to conduct, sermons to prepare, guild meetings and the Church work to superintend, special sick calls to answer, funerals to attend, etc. So only a part of each day can be given to visiting, and when at a distance only two or three visits can be made the same day.

In addition to this people are frequently not at home when the clergy call, and the visit must be repeated. Then many are at home only at certain hours, many only in the evenings, and as there is something going on at the church nearly every evening at which one of the clergy has to be present, to say nothing of other engagements, there are only a few evenings that can be used for visiting. Then when a visit is paid perhaps only one member of the family is present, or there is company, which makes any talk about the church or spiritual things out of place.

The consequence of all this is that it takes the Rector the whole winter to get around to the houses of all the people in the parish even once, and even then he does not always succeed in seeing each member of the family. This is very unsatisfactory. How can a clergyman really come to know a person whom he only sees to talk to once a year, perhaps not that often?

We say this that our people may understand some of the difficulties with which the clergy have to contend, and to explain why they do not call oftener upon each one in the parish. It is their earnest desire to see and know and become as intimate as possible with the people connected with their parishes, but under our modern conditions in large city parishes this is a physical impossibility. They can simply do the best they can, and hope their people will excuse their not being more attentive to them than they are, or being of as much use to them as otherwise they might be.

And may we add that there is another way in which the people could see more of their clergy and much more satisfactorily, and that is by coming to see them. The Rector can be seen every day in the week after the 10 o'clock morning prayers in the church, and on Wednesdays after the 5 o'clock prayers, and the Curate every day at 5 o'clock and on Wednesdays after the 8 o'clock service in the evening, or they will be glad to make appointments at other times, when desired.

PARISH NOTES

CONFIRMATION.—The Bishop of the Diocese has appointed the evening of Wednesday, April 1st, for the annual administration of confirmation in this parish.

The Curate has already begun a class of preparatory instruction on Thursday evenings at 8 P. M. in the Guild Room, and the Rector will have a class on Monday afternoons, beginning February 9th, at 4 P. M. The instruction given in each of these classes will be a systematic course, so it is important that they should be attended regularly. It would be well for those looking forward to confirmation to attend both of these courses. But they are arranged so as to suit those who can only attend at one or other of those times.

Any persons who have been confirmed or who want to be better instructed in Church principles are invited to attend, as well as those looking forward to confirmation.

SPECIAL PREACHERS.—The Rt. Rev. the Bishop of Pittsburg, Dr. Courtlandt Whitehead, will preach in this church on the morning of February 8th, and the Rev. Dr. Duhring, now Dean of the Southwest Convocation, will present the cause of Diocesan Missions on the morning of March 8th. There will be some other special preachers on Friday afternoons during Lent.

THE REV. MR. GILPIN.—All our people will be rejoiced to know that our former Curate, the Rev. Mr. Gilpin, has so far recovered from his recent illness to have been able to leave the hospital. It now requires only rest and care to restore him to his former health.

MISSIONARY BOX.—The following is the acknowledgment of the missionary box our ladies sent out in December. It was not as good a box as we usually send and yet it was much appreciated. This shows how much good can be done and joy given by a little exertion or self-denial on our part:

January 5, 1903.

DEAR MRS. GILPIN:—The box arrived last Saturday. It was a splendid box and needed no apologies. We were more than delighted with the contents. I personally feel richer than I ever did. So many nice things for me, and then such beautiful articles for my wife and daughter, and such a variety of good things for the family. Surely you must have taken a great interest in our welfare. I wish to thank you personally for the trouble you have taken even in the midst of the anxiety for your son's health. It was, indeed, very kind, and I most thoroughly appreciate it. I want also to thank the ladies of your church. I am sorry that owing to the loss of your first letter I do not know the name of the church whose ladies have been so kind. Please thank them most heartily for me, and tell them how much I appreciate their generosity. May they be blessed in proportion to the blessing they have bestowed on me.

The clothes that you sent fitted me nicely, and I can make good use of them. The overcoats are splendid and were a great surprise, as were the gloves. I am fitted out now for all sorts of weather. You can be sure that I appreciated them yesterday when I had to walk five and a half miles in a cold northwest wind to my mission at Jonesville. Thanking you and your ladies once more for your very great kindness, I am Very gratefully yours.

MOTHERS' MEETING TEA.—On Wednesday, New Year's eve, a pleasant entertainment was provided for the Mothers' Meeting. The Misses Sargent and Dr. Walter F. Brown kindly sang and played several selections, which were most heartily enjoyed. The Guild Room was well filled and a charming evening spent. After the music had ceased, we found a feast awaiting us, of which we heartily partook. The evening with its enjoyments was entirely due to the efforts and thoughtfulness of Miss Thompson and her efficient assistant, Miss King, under whom the Mothers' Meeting is greatly prospering.

ST. JOHN'S GUILD RECEPTION.—On Wednesday, January 26th, a reception was tendered by the St. John's Guild to St. Mary's Guild, of this parish, and to the Guild of St. Timothy's, Roxborough. The evening was most pleasantly spent and refreshments abundantly provided.

THE CHORUS CHOIR.—We still have our meetings after the Wednesday night evensong and average between 20 and 30 weekly. It is said the heartiness of the congregational singing has increased, for which, no doubt, the Chorus Choir is in part responsible.

We would be glad to have others come and sing with us on Wednesday nights in the Parish Building after service.

THOMAS ROBB.

THIS parish has again met with a great loss in the death of Mr. Thomas Robb, which took place on February 11th. Mr. Robb began to attend the services of this church when the present Rector took charge in November, 1880, in the old church on Lombard street. In 1885 he became a Vestryman, and has served as such ever since, most of the time acting as chairman of the Finance and Building Committees. His experience and ability as a business man made his services of special value in these ways. He was a man of great energy and enterprise in business projects, always ready to push ahead in order to insure success. It was to his leadership, and the manifestation of these qualities, that we largely owe our present beautiful building and its equipment. Besides contributing to the original building, it was a donation of $3,000 from him that secured contributions from others of an equal amount and made possible the erection of the chancel. Later on another gift from him of $1,000 secured the sum sufficient for the purchase of our fine organ. At one time he and another of our Vestrymen paid the entire salary of the Assistant Minister. And he has always been one of our largest regular contributors. In a parish like this, in which there are so few persons of means, such a contributor was of the greatest importance. In addition to which the soundness of his judgment on all business matters and his invariable willingness to be of service to the parish and to the Rector were simply invaluable. The Rector feels that he has lost in him one of his warmest friends and chief supporters. Heartily in accord with all the aims and teachings of the parish, the place of one who has so supported it for over twenty years will not be readily supplied. In addition to his work in this parish he was a member of, and much interested in, and a large contributor towards the work of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, which greatly appealed to him.

To within a year ago Mr. Robb was remarkably strong and active for a man of his years, but since then he has declined very rapidly, hardly consciously to himself. And the end came very suddenly as he was sitting in his office overlooking a building plan. His funeral took place from the church on Saturday afternoon, February 14th. May he rest in peace and may he be rewarded for the good works he has done.

Previous to the funeral the Vestry met and adopted the following minute:

Resolved, That the members of this Vestry have heard with profound regret of the death of their late fellow-member, Mr. Thomas Robb, and that they put on record their sense of the great loss this parish has sustained thereby.

For twenty-two years a regular attendant, and for eighteen years a Vestryman of this parish, he has been unswerving in his interest in it. It was due to his energy, enterprise and liberality that it was enabled to move from its old position on Lombard street and erect and furnish its present edifice. And it has been largely owing to his unfailing annual contributoins that the work of the parish has been carried on.

A man of unblemished character, and deeply interested in charitable and benevolent works, he was most regular in his attendance upon the services of the church and at the meetings of the Vestry.

And his great experience and remarkable acumen as a business man made his advice in the management of the temporal affairs of the parish of the utmost importance. We shall mourn his loss from our midst and feel that an irreparable gap has been created in our number.

Resolved, That a copy of this minute be sent to his family and printed in the parish paper, and that we attend his funeral in a body.

PARISH NOTES

LENT.—A special card has been printed this Lent and distributed to the members of the congregation, giving a list of the Lenten services. The additional services will be a celebration of the Holy Communion on Tuesdays at 7 A. M. and a lecture after prayers on Friday at 5 P. M. The boys of the choir will be present as usual during Lent at the 5 P. M. service daily.

The Ladies' Aid will sew every Wednesday at 3 P. M. for the House of the Holy Child in West Philadelphia, and will be glad to have any ladies join with them.

CONFIRMATION INSTRUCTIONS.—The Rector's instructions will be given on Saturdays at 8 P. M. during this month, instead of Monday afternoons, as announced, as that time did not seem convenient to those who were expected to attend. The Curate's instructions will continue on Thursdays at 8 P. M. We trust all thinking of being Confirmed will attend one of these courses of instruction.

SAD EVENTS.—In addition to the death of Mr. Robb the parish lost during last month another of its communicants, Mr. Julius Annibaldi, who died in the Pennsylvania Hospital after undergoing a severe surgical operation. Signor Annibaldi was of an old Roman family, a graduate of the University of Rome, a man of culture and refinement. Though brought up in the Roman Catholic Church he entered the English Church many years ago and remained a consistent and devoted member of it to his death. He has belonged to this parish since 1892, and been regular in the performance of his religious duties. Fully conscious of what was before him he came to the church and made his communion at the early service on the Sunday before his operation, perfectly prepared for whatever might be the result. He was buried from the church on February 19th. May he rest in peace.

Mrs. Barrett, our choir mother, one of our most earnest workers, was knocked down in the street by something falling from a building she was passing, and had a leg broken, her shoulder dislocated and her head cut and bruised. She was taken to the Medico-Chirurgical Hospital and was there when the boiler exploded, causing great damage to the building, a part of the ceiling of the room in which she was falling. In spite of these two terrible experiences she is progressing favorably.

In addition to the above there have been three or four cases of severe illness in the parish.

THE SUNDAY AFTERNOON SERVICE.—We regret to notice a great falling off in the attendance at this service. We do not see why this should be, as it is one of the most attractive services we have and at an hour when most persons are at leisure. It is short, entirely choral and with no sermon.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENT.—Preparations are in progress for an entertainment to be given in Easter week by the Sunday-school. It is hoped to have a large portion of the school take part, and to make the evening bright and attractive. The present intention is to charge nothing for admission, but to issue tickets, which will have to be presented at the door.

Miss Hodge has kindly consented to superintend the affair, and almost every teacher has promised her assistance.

A SPECIAL MUSICAL SERVICE.—On Quinquagesima Sunday, February 22d, at 7.45 P. M., our efficient and faithful choirmaster had provided a rich musical service. Mr. Myers, Mr. McCarrick and Mr. Hindermyer all sang solos. The last being a beautiful setting of the words, "The Love of the Father," etc. (I St. John 3:1, 2), by Mr. Knodle himself.

The service had been somewhat advertised and a large congregation was present.

ANOTHER MUSICAL SERVICE.—Encouraged by the last of such services we hope to have another one about the middle of Lent, perhaps on Mid-Lent Sunday, March 22d, at 7.45 P. M.

ST. MARY'S GUILD RECEPTION.—St. Mary's Guild of Young Ladies kindly invited St. John's Guild of Young Men to meet them at a reception at the parish building on the evening of Monday, February 23d. About 35 persons were present, a small orchestra furnished good dance music, bounteous refreshments were provided and a really pleasant evening spent.

SOME SURPRISES IN STORE.—St. John's Guild is contemplating a surprise to the young people of the parish, and it is understood that the choirmaster has a little secret which he and the choir boys may in due time reveal.

PERRY PICTURES FOR THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL.—To every scholar who recites accurately a little Catechism (which is temporarily being used in the school) as far as the answers for the day, there is given a Perry picture. The pictures are copies of masterpieces and not only are a reward for learning the Catechism, but must be artistically educative to the children.

OUR DRILL MASTER.—The Boys' Brigade have unfortunately lost their drill master, Mr. Smith, who has been training them most acceptably and faithfully. His business now prevents his meeting with them on Tuesday evenings, and they greatly miss him. We give him our sincere thanks for his kind and unselfish labors. Can anyone help us to find another military leader for our hosts?

THE CONGREGATIONAL REHEARSAL.—Every Wednesday after the 8 P. M. service we have met to sing hymns with accompaniment of piano and violin. Apparently everyone present has enjoyed it, and we hope it has somewhat improved the congregational singing.

Perhaps, now that Lent has come, there may be still others, old or young, who will linger after the Wednesday night service and join us in our gathering.

DIOCESAN MISSIONS.—The special benevolent envelope sent out this quarter is for Diocesan Missions. This church is asked this year to contribute $100 for this purpose. We trust, therefore, that each one in the congregation will make an offering through the envelopes. In addition to which all the offerings, outside of the envelopes for the support of the church, put in the plates at the morning service on March 8th will be devoted to this object, on which occasion the Rev. Dr. Duhring, Dean of the Southeast Convocation, will speak to the congregation on the subject.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.—The following are the officers of the school at present: Director, the Rev. H. Page Dyer; superintendent, Mr. Charles W. Walker; secretary, Mr. William Linton; librarian, Mr. David T. Witmer; organist, Mr. Thayer; cross bearer, George Diehl; ticket distributers, John McIlvaine, George Diehl, George Morgan, Earl Partridge.

EASTER.

The great feast of Easter, with the preceding solemnities of the Holy Week, occurs this month. If Lent is a solemn time, Holy Week, telling of the sufferings and death of our adorable Redeemer, is still more so. It should be strictly observed as a time most fraught with spiritual blessings. In this parish we have services four times each day in this week, so that everyone, no matter what his engagements, can attend in some part of the day. Let each parishioner resolve that he or she will be present at least at one service each day, preferably at one of the celebrations of the Holy Communion. We have in this parish a celebration on Good Friday as on the other days, because there is no church in Christendom which is without the sacramental presence on this day. In the Roman and Greek Churches they have what is called the Mass of the Presanctified, that is the oblation, and communion by the priest at least, of the elements consecrated on the preceding day. But our prayer book makes no such provision, but appoints a special collect, epistle and gospel for a celebration as on all other Holy Days. We think, therefore, the Anglican custom of a celebration on Good Friday should be followed, though we omit the more joyful sung service in the middle of the day, substituting for it the three-hours preaching of the cross. We have found this, and the sermons on the Passion on the nights of the Holy Week, very profitable in past years, and we hope they will be well attended this year. Everyone has to bear, and should voluntarily bear, a cross in his life, some have very heavy ones to bear, and the only way to learn to do it profitably is by studying the way in which Christ bore his cross.

And then comes Easter Day, telling of the greatest victory ever wrought, that over death, and bringing life and hope to humanity. We keep the day commemorating Christ's resurrection as the greatest of all festivals because that is the event upon which the whole of our religion rests. "If Christ be not raised," says S. Paul, "then your faith is vain," and they who have taught us our religion are found "false witnesses" and so unworthy of any credence. Christ's resurrection is the event which declares Him the Son of God, and gives us the promise not only of a life after death, but of a resurrection in glory and immortality of our bodies, which we find so necessary as organs of the soul. It is meet, indeed, that the world should keep festival over such a revelation and such a promise.

So the Feast of Easter has always been the day for a general Communion, the day above all others in the year when every Christian is expected to make his Communion. In that solemn way he renews, and plights again, his oath of allegiance to his Divine Lord. So it ought to be the literal beginning of a new life. If any Christian in the stress and fierceness of life's conflict with sin has at times fallen, let him now rise again. In the Holy Week, which reminds him of how Christ shed His blood to atone for him, let him seek to have that precious blood applied to his soul to wash away his guilt. And then on Easter morning coming again in purity to Communion with his loving and forgiving Lord, let him seek for the grace to strengthen him to fight more manfully, and resist more completely temptation in the time to come.

If men would only come to use these sacred times and ordinances with this earnestness and devotion we would have more strong, manly characters among us, and less vice and crime, more beautiful, saintly lives, more real happiness.

May this coming Easter be such a time of spiritual renewal and blessing to every person in this parish.

PARISH NOTES

HOLY WEEK AND EASTER.—The services during Holy Week will be as follows:

Daily, 7.30 A. M., Holy Communion; 10.30 A. M. (except Good Friday), morning prayer and Holy Communion; 5 P. M., evening prayer; 8 P. M., sermon on the Passion.

Good Friday, 9.30 A. M., children's service; 11 A. M., morning prayer and Litany; 12.00-3.00 P. M., preaching of the cross.

Easter Day, 6.30 A. M., Holy Communion, celebrant, the Curate; 7.30 A. M., Holy Communion, celebrant, the Rector; 8.30 A. M., Holy Communion, celebrant, the Rev. H. G. Meigs; 10.30 A. M., morning prayer and sermon; 11.30 A. M., Holy Communion, celebrant, the Rector; 3.30 P. M., children's Easter service; 7.45 P. M., evening prayer and sermon.

The Rector will preach on Monday, Tuesday and Friday evenings in Holy Week, and on Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday in the morning. The Curate will preach on Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings, and on Monday, and Tuesday at 10 A. M., and on Good Friday take the three-hours' service.

The Rector will take the children's service at 9.30 A. M. on Good Friday. The children's festival will take the place of the ordinary 4 o'clock service on Easter Day.

EASTER OFFERINGS.—All our people will be expected as usual to make a special offering for the church on Easter. It is only by large special offerings at Christmas and Easter that we can hope to at all meet our current expenses for the year. Especially those who do not use the envelopes must remember how many rainy Sundays they have been kept away from church, especially this winter, and how they will be away many Sundays during the summer, when they are not contributing anything, and make up for it by a large special offering at Easter. The Accounting Warden estimates that we shall require at least $650 in addition to our ordinary receipts to meet all our expenses for the current financial year. Special offerings for the Easter flowers may be placed in the alms box in the vestibule of the church marked for this purpose. Let everyone in the congregation feel that he or she is putting some flowers in the church on this great day by contributing to this purpose. Those who prefer to do so can send flowers, either cut or in pots.

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL.—The Easter festival of this school, which closes its work for the winter, will take place on the Saturday after Easter at 10 A. M. Members of the congregation are invited to be present and see the work which has been done by the children during its sessions.

THE REV. DR. BATTERSON.—The parish has lost another good friend in the death of the Rev. H. G. Batterson, D. D., which occurred last month. Though he had been living for the last few years in New York, Dr. Batterson always attended this church when he came on to Philadelphia, which he usually did twice a year. He and his wife put in one of the handsome stained-glass windows we have in the chancel, and also placed the brass rail around the font in memory of friends who were dear to them.

FUNERAL LIGHTS.—The Rector was lately given a sum of money to use for the benefit of the church in recognition of some services he had rendered to one lately deceased, and he has taken it to purchase six large iron candle sticks to place round the bier at funerals. There is no place in which the symbol of light is so beautiful and effective as in connection with death, and we have long felt the need of such lights in our parish, a need which is now happily supplied.

THE ITALIAN MISSION.—The Rector has received a letter from the Bishop Coadjutor of the Diocese asking if there are not some persons in this congregation who would be willing to act as Sunday-school teachers in the Italian Mission on Christian street, below Eleventh. As a number of our people live not far from there it would seem as if we might supply this need, which is a very great one, as naturally the Mission cannot supply its own teachers. A knowledge of Italian is not requisite, as the teaching is in English. The clergy will be glad to receive the names of any who will volunteer for this work.

PRAYER FOR MISSIONS.—The Board of Missions of our Church has asked all our people to join with Christians of all names in praying during Holy Week this year for the success of Missions throughout the world. It has issued a little scheme for prayer for different objects to be used on each day of this week. Copies will be found in the rack near the door of the church and in the vestibule, and we will be glad if our people will use them.

DIOCESAN MISSIONS.—The response to Dr. Duhring's appeal for Diocesan Missions was about one-half of the $100 required. Those who have not yet returned their envelopes for this purpose are requested to do so this month.

CHILDREN'S EASTER SERVICE.—On Easter Day at 3.30 P. M., there will be sung in the church the Children's Easter Service. Reports by the superintendent and secretary, addresses by the Rector and Curate, a procession of the school through the church, the collection of Easter offerings of the children and the gifts to them of some Easter token, with the singing of their carols, will compose the exercises.

The school will meet in the parish building and enter the church in a body.

CHILDREN'S EASTER ENTERTAINMENT.—On Tuesday, April 21st, at 8 P. M., will be held the Children's Entertainment. Each child in the Sunday-school who asks for them, will be given tickets, without any charge; but these tickets must be presented at the door of the parish building, in order to gain admittance. Tickets can be obtained, also, from the teachers and officers of the school, and of the sexton and clergy.

Plays, dialogues, choruses, etc., etc., will fill the evening. We advise all who care to attend, to come early in order to obtain a seat. The doors will be open at 7.30 P. M.

A CORRECTION.—In our obituary last month of Mr. Thomas Robb, we stated that he had contributed $1,500 towards the building of the chancel of our church. It should have been $3,000. He at first subscribed $1,500, but afterwards doubled the amount on condition that other subscriptions to an equal amount were obtained. We had only the original subscription book before us when writing, but recalled afterwards that he had given $3,000 at one time, and so wish to correct our mistake.

THE RESURRECTION BODY.

There are some persons who have never grasped the fact that Jesus Christ, when He ascended into heaven, went up in the only condition in which He since the incarnation has existed, namely, with His Body of Flesh and Blood; and that He is now in heaven, not as a spirit, nor in a disembodied state, but with Flesh, Blood and all things which belong to man's nature. This, of course, must be so, otherwise the Incarnation has ceased; and probably no one believes that to be true.

And this is simply stated to us in the 4th Article of Religion, printed at the end of our prayer books. The words are these:

"Christ did truly rise again from death, and took again His Body, with Flesh, Bones and all things appertaining to the perfection of man's nature; wherewith He ascended into heaven, and there sitteth, until He return to judge all men, at the last day."

Now this fact of the ascended Body involves many other facts, which concern not only our Lord's mode of existence now and His methods of working with souls, but also ourselves here before we die and hereafter in heaven.

(1.) If Christ has now no Body, no Flesh, nor Blood, but is only a spirit, then, of course, there can be no Holy Communion. If there be no Body and Blood of Christ now in existence, there can be none in the Blessed Sacrament, and His words, "this is My Body, this is My Blood" are meaningless; and the catechism untruthfully speaks of His Body and Blood being the inward part of the Blessed Sacrament; and the Communion Office vainly thanks God for vouchsafing "to feed us who have duly received these holy mysteries, with the spiritual food of the most precious Body and Blood of thy Son our Saviour Jesus Christ."

(2.) And not only could the real presence of Christ in the Holy Communion not be a fact; but we could in heaven, never, as men and women, be with Him and reign with Him. If the Captain of our Salvation, if the First Fruits of the dead, if the Pattern Man could not take

His Body to heaven with Him, neither, of course, could we; and the Article of the Creed, which declares our belief in the resurrection of the body is another vain imagination and is impossible.

(3.) But this revealed fact of the Ascended Body of Christ involves the previous fact of the resurrected Body. For, of course, if our Lord took His Body to heaven, He must previously have raised it from the tomb.

(4.) And this resurrection Body of Christ exists now under different conditions from those which He allowed to acompany it before His Resurrection. Before that Resurrection, He permitted Himself to need sleep and food, He walked and stood and moved as other men; but after His resurrection He delivered Himself from those limitations, and His Body did not need sleep nor food, His Body moved through granite blocks and walls of rooms, it became visible or invisible, was now here and in another instant there, and He even said that at the same moment the Son of Man was on earth and in heaven.

So, in thinking of the presence of our Lord, whether as to the Holy Communion or heaven, let us remember that His resurrection Body is supernatural, unfettered, unhindered by earthly laws.

(5.) As to our condition in heaven—because Christ has His real Body of Flesh and Blood there, we also shall have ours; just as it is true, that if He had not now His real Body there, we could not have ours.

(6.) And do not let us forget the identity of His Body after and before His Resurrection. It was so actually the same, that He showed His disciples the very prints of the nails in His Hands and of the spear in His Side. And it was so real that He Himself warned them that "a spirit hath not flesh and bones as ye see Me have;" as also He ate a "broiled fish and a honey-comb."

The collect for the first Sunday after Easter, therefore, rightly states that the Son of God died for our sins, and also rose again for our justification.

PARISH NOTES.

EASTER.—In spite of the unusual occurrence of a bad day on Easter, we had a very successful celebration of that great festival, the congregations were large, the number of communions made nearly the same as last year, when we had a fine day, and the offerings reached the full amount asked for, $700. The church was beautifully decorated and the music good. May all this prove a good start for renewed life in the parish.

VESTRY ELECTION.—On Easter Monday the following gentlemen were duly elected to serve for the ensuing three years: Mr. Francis S. Keese, Mr. John D. Henderson, Mr. J. Gibson McCall, Mr. Richard Gilpin. At the subsequent meeting of the vestry, Mr. Keese was re-appointed Rector's Warden, Mr. W. M. Wharton was re-elected Accounting Warden, Mr. John D. Henderson, secretary, and Messrs. Keese, Pepper and Witmer, delegates to the Diocesan Convention.

This being the first meeting of the vestry since the holding of the bazaar for the benefit of the church, the following minute was adopted:

WHEREAS, The Rector having announced that the ladies of the congregation had held a bazaar early in December, for the benefit of the church, which had raised some $2,300, by which the entire floating debt of the parish had been paid, and the reserved fund of

$1,000, which had been exhausted, was restored, it was

Resolved, That the hearty thanks, and warm appreciation, of this vestry be expressed to the ladies of the congregation for their efforts on behalf of the parish by which this result was attained, and the Church placed in this sound financial condition, and the vestry feels that earnest efforts should be made to avoid having any deficits in the future.

EASTER SERVICE OF THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL.—One of the many services on Easter Day was that of the school. Mr. Thayer, our kind and efficient organist, played a march while the school entered in silence. In the midst of the service, the procession around the church took place, the length being sufficient to encircle the building. Reports were made by the Superintendent and Secretary, and the Rector and Curate and Librarian, made addresses. The carols were sung and the contents of the mite boxes collected. The sum gathered from them, with some additions since, amounts to $51.62. A flower was given to each child, and a happy afternoon of praise was spent.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENT.—On Tuesday, April 21st, at 8 P. M., a successful entertainment was given by the children of the Sunday-school. It consisted of plays, recitations, music and drills, and without exception the young performers acquitted themselves well.

At the conclusion, ice cream and cake were served to those taking part. The whole school had been invited to participate, and it was considered that those who had undertaken and faithfully undergone the labor of preparation deserved this recognition.

Prizes were awarded to the scholars bringing the largest amounts of money in the mite boxes. The winners of these prizes were Miss Hattie Greer, Miss Helena Wilson and Harry Boggs. It was through the kindness of Mr. Walker, the Superintendent, that these prizes were awarded. The room was crowded and everyone seemed to enjoy the evening.

THE INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL FESTIVAL was held on the Saturday after Easter. About 100 scholars were present, all of whom were entertained with ice cream and cake, and each received an Easter egg and card, and a present from a "fish pond." Prizes were also given to those who had been regular in attendance and done good work. Specimens of work done were exhibited and a special prize awarded, by vote, for the best painting.

SCRAPS FOR INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL.—The Industrial School will be grateful to any one who will send to the Parish Building, for their use, scraps of any kind of material, which can be cut into strips. Woolens, calico, muslin or any kind of stuff will do. It is preferred that the pieces should be new. During the past season 24 yards of carpeting were woven from such material, sewed together by the little girls of the school. This carpeting will be put upon the floor of one of the rooms in the Parish Building.

ASCENSION TIDE.—As in former years we shall observe the feast of the Ascension, our dedication festival, by celebrations of the Holy Communion as on Sundays at 7.30 and 10.30 A. M., and have a special choral Evensong with the Anniversary Sermon by the Rector at 8 P. M. We hope all our people will be present at one of the celebrations of the Holy Communion on this day, and at the service in the evening, when a review is made of the year's work of the parish. On the Sunday evening after the Ascension, there will be the annual Guild service, when all the Parish Guilds will enter and leave the church in procession. The sermon to the Guilds will be preached this year by the Rector. On Monday, May 25th, will be the Parish Tea, when we shall hope to see all the members of the parish brought together, socially. Tickets for this can be obtained from the verger.

ENVELOPES.—With this month begins a new quarter of our financial year, and we hope that every one attending the church who has not already got them, will send in an application for a set of envelopes, as that is the way by which the parish is supported, and that those going away for the summer will, if possible, return the envelopes for the number of Sundays they expect to be away, before they go.

AN ENTERTAINMENT for the benefit of the summer outing fund will be given in the Parish Building on Tuesday evening, May 12th. It will consist of musical selections by members of the choir and others, a play by members of the Boys' Brigade, and some of the best features of the Sunday-school entertainment will be repeated. Admission tickets, 25 cents; reserved seats, 35 cents; may be obtained from the verger or at the door.

GIFTS.—Large prayer-book for the sanctuary, linen baptismal napkin, flowers for Easter, quantity of cake for entertainments.

THE MEMBERS OF S. JOHN'S GUILD propose to give their annual spring sports on the evening of June 1st. Admission, 10 cents; reserved seats, 15 cents.

ANNIVERSARY SERMON

We give a short synopsis of the Rector's Anniversary Sermon on the morning of Ascension Day, for the benefit of those who were not present.

He began by remarking that it was the twenty-second such occasion he had observed in the parish, and that there were now only about ten clergymen in the Diocese who had been longer in their parishes. He then read the report of the parish for the past conventional year, which we print in this issue, noting that the number of baptisms, etc., during the past year had not been quite as large as the year before. But these statistics must naturally vary from year to year, and the change of Curates during the year had doubtless something to do with it. Fewer new communicants had also been added, as not so many had been confirmed as the year before; but one more had been added by transfer from other parishes. The communicants lost by death during the year were James Patchell, Mrs. Martha E. Hurlbrink, Henrietta M. Hopkins, Edward Cox, Mrs. Mary A. Robbins, John Medhurst, Mrs. Willins, Mrs. Rose Fairchild, Mrs. Matilda Montgomery, Thomas Robb and Julius Annibaldi. The Rector made some personal reference to each of them, and prayed that they might rest in peace.

He noted that the Sunday-school was in numbers just the same as last year. The Industrial School had more names on the list, but not as good an attendance as the previous year. Both of these schools need teachers. The young people's guilds had kept up very well during the year, though the attendance should be larger. New members are especially wanted in the Brotherhood of S. Andrew.

The attendance at the services had been up to the average, and the number of communions had increased, owing to an additional celebration on Tuesday mornings, started by Mr. Dyer. This service, together with the Thursday service, will be kept up all summer, except for one month, when the Curate is away on his holiday.

In considering the financial report for the year, the Rector expressed his great satisfaction at the good showing it made, owing chiefly to the efforts made by the ladies in getting up the bazaar which was held in the autumn. As already reported, the receipts from this source were some $2,300, which enabled the parish to pay off all its floating debt, and to restore the reserve fund of $1,000, which was intended for use during summer months and to be replaced during the winter. This, however, was not done, and a considerable deficit had occurred. Now it is again intact, and we hope the most strenuous efforts will be made to preserve it in the future. In addition to these receipts from the ladies' work, the parish also received the legacy of $1,000 from the late Mr. Wetherill, which had been announced on Ascension Day. This was used by the Vestry at once to reduce by that amount our permanent indebtedness—the mortgage on the property. But beyond these receipts, the ordinary offerings of the people for the year had increased some $250 over the previous year. This is especially gratifying, as it is on these offerings that the church must depend for its support. So we find that the result of the past year has been to free the church from all indebtedness whatever, except the mortgage, which has been reduced $1,000, while the endowment fund has been increased by $1,000.

It is hoped that every member of the congregation will do their utmost to keep up this good financial position in which we now find ourselves, either by using the envelopes for the support of the church, or by making a regular subscription for the purpose.

The only permanent improvement made in the church during the year was a stained glass clere-story window, representing the figure of S. Andrew, put in by the members of Miss Neilson's Bible Class. This class proposes making another present to the church, and there is a prospect of a new memorial window being placed in the sanctuary during the coming year.

In conclusion, the Rector urged each member of the congregation to take a personal interest in the parish and work for its upbuilding in every way in his power. There are many extensions and improvements that we would like to see made, and its usefulness could be largely increased if it could command greater resources.

PARISH NOTES

OUR DEDICATION FESTIVAL.—There was a goodly number at the early Communion on Ascension Day, but not as many as should have been present at the other services. One would suppose that both the teaching of this great festival and interest in their own parish would bring more out on this day.

The Rector preached the sermon this year at the Annual Guild Meeting from the text Ps. cxliv; 12.

The Parish Tea was, as usual, well attended, and thoroughly enjoyed by all present. Some of the girls of Miss Hare's class in the Sunday-school gave a short play, entitled "The Sweet Family." There was a candy sale by the members of S. Mary's Guild, and a sale of things left over from the Bazaar, for the benefit of the Mothers' Meeting. This netted some $22.

SUMMER SERVICES—The Sunday-school and the 4 P. M. Choral Evensong on Sunday will be discontinued until October, and the children's service will be transferred to 9.30 A. M. The other Sunday services will continue the same. The daily service is also stopped, but Morning Prayers will be said every Wednesday and Friday, and on all Holy Days, at 10 A. M., with Celebrations of the Holy Communion on the latter days at 7.30 and 10.30 A. M., and on Tuesdays at 7 A. M. and Thursdays at 9 A. M.

SUMMER OUTINGS—An entertainment was given towards raising a fund to provide summer outings for the choir and boys' brigade and children of the Sunday-school in the parish building, on the evening of May 12th, by the Choir Master, who provided the music. It proved very successful, the room was well filled, and the net proceeds amounted to $80.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL.—On Trinity Sunday there will be a special Sunday-school Festival in place of the ordinary Sunday night service, when prizes will be given out to those children who have been perfect in their attendance, behavior and lessons during the year.

During the rest of the summer, there will be a children's service every Sunday at 9.30 A. M., in place of the Sunday-school, and service in the afternoon.

THE LADIES' AID made up during Lent a box, consisting of 44 garments, 15 wash cloths, 8 cakes of soap, which was sent to the House of the Holy Child, in West Philadelphia. The following letter of acknowledgment was received:

1514 Pine street, April 26, 1903.

MY DEAR MISS CARMAN:—Will you thank the members of the Ladies' Aid Society, of the Church of the Ascension, for the box of clothing, etc., which they so kindly sent to the House of the Holy Child. The articles are all most acceptable, and we appreciate their kindness in working for the home very highly. I hope the members will visit the home some day.

Very truly yours,
EDITH WHARTON DALLAS, Manager.

THE MOTHERS' MEETING.—Although the meetings are held until June, the giving out of sewing is discontinued at Easter, and the yearly report made up to that time. The Easter Entertainment was held on the evening of Wednesday in Easter week. It consisted of a concert given by some most kind friends, whose programme was highly appreciated and enjoyed. Refreshments of tea, buns, ice cream, cake and oranges, followed. There are 45 names on the roll, and there has been a good average attendance through the year. Some of the members were very faithful and regular in their attendance. Sewing has been done for the Episcopal, Polyclinic, Orthopædic and Howard Hospitals, also for two "Homes," and some orders have been filled out. Gifts of money, clothing, dainties for the sick, tracts, cards and other much-needed donations have been sent, and those who have been so kind are thanked very warmly. It is hoped their interest will not only continue, but that it will be a continually-growing interest.

THE MARGINAL BIBLE.

The last General Convention of the Church, held in San Francisco, October, 1901, appointed a committee to prepare a copy of the authorized English Bible, together with marginal readings, which may be substituted for the text itself. This committee has completed its work, and the Bible as prepared by it has been printed and is now the standard Bible authorized to be read in our churches. The text is the same as that of the King James Bible, which we have always used. The marginal readings are some of those given in the King James Bible, and others those adopted in the Revised Version, which was published in England some years ago by the authority of the committee of Convocation, appointed to make a new translation of the Scriptures. This translation did not commend itself generally to the Christian world, but many of its retranslations are very valuable, making the sense clearer or removing archaic expressions. These the committee have adopted, and they can now be used as alternatives in reading the Scriptures. In order to make it easier to recognize these readings, all the words for which an alternative is provided are underscored with a black line and numbered, the word or sentence in the margin which may be substituted, having the same number. This enables the reader to substitute at a glance that which is in the margin for the text, if he chooses to do so.

While personally we should have been much opposed to the allowance of the reading of the Revised Version in our churches, we think this course which has been adopted by our General Convention a very happy compromise. There are undoubtedly many passages in the King James version which are very obscure, some which are actual mistranslations, giving the reverse of the real meaning, and in other cases there are expressions which are so seldom used now, or whose sense has become so altered, that the majority of readers no longer understand them. It is certainly very desirous that these things should be corrected, and it can safely be said that the marginal readings now set forth do cover all the important cases referred to, yet the text, with its majestic English and familiar sound, is not materially altered.

It is surprising in looking over this Bible, and owing to the underscored words one can see it at once, how few, after all, are the alternatives which are allowed, and yet some of those few are very important in making clear the sense of the passage. In the Holy Gospels, the most important part of all the Scripture there are the fewest marginal readings. They are most numerous in the Epistles and in the Prophecies and other parts of the Old Testament where there was the greatest obscurity.

We could give illustrations of the importance of many of these changes, but we should recommend the members of our Parish to get copies of these Bibles for themselves and use them in their daily reading. Especially should the teachers of our Bible Classes and in the Sunday-school use them, as it will enable them to answer many questions which may be asked them or to understand things of which they themselves were ignorant. The small edition can be had in cloth binding for $1.75. A large lectern edition has also been issued, and we hope some one will present the Church with a copy of it that the lessons in the Church service may be read from it. This is now the standard Bible as set forth by the General Convention of the Church. It would be well if the Epistles and Gospels in the Prayer Book could be made to conform to it.

PARISH NOTES.

CHILDREN'S FESTIVAL SERVICE.—The children of the Sunday-school took part in a reverent and beautiful service on the evening of Trinity Sunday, June 7th, at 7.45 o'clock.

It marked the closing of the afternoon sessions of the school until the autumn. A floral arch, 10 feet high, had been constructed across the head of the center aisle, and beneath this was placed a floral cross, 6 feet in height.

Before the addresses the entire school and choir marched in procession around the Church, singing "Onward, Christian Soldiers." Three addresses were made. So many persons were in the procession that it almost encircled the Church.

Electric lights had been hidden among the flowers on the inner side of the floral arch, and made a pretty sight as they shone out among the leaves and blossoms.

A violin and cornet added to the beauty and richness of the music, and the hearty singing of over 250 people in the congregation was pleasing to one who is fond of congregational music.

As to prizes, honorable mention was made of 11 members of the Sunday-school, who had only been absent three times during the school year; third prizes were awarded to 12 persons who had been absent only twice; second prizes to 17 who had been absent once; and first prizes to 17 who had been absent not at all.

THE GUILD OF THE GOOD SHEPHERD had its annual spring picnic on Decoration Day. Owing to the kindness of a friend, a large covered wagon was secured in which 21 children were driven up the Wissahickon to Valley Green, where they spent the day. A lunch of sandwiches and ice cream and cake was prepared by Miss Pepper, and all had a very jolly day in spite of the showers.

A box was sent on June 11th, by the Guild of the Good Shepherd to a missionary in North Carolina. It was valued at $15, and contained 32 children's garments of all kinds, 24 scrap-books and 8 pounds of candy.

The garments and scrap-books were made by the children of the Guild, and the candy was bought with their pennies from the mite box.

The attendance of the Guild has not been as regular as is desired, but we hope for better luck next year.

CLASS PICNICS.—During the summer some of the teachers took their scholars on a trip to the country or park, and many happy hours were spent.

SPRING SPORTS OF S. JOHN'S GUILD.—On Monday in Whitsun week, S. John's Guild had its annual spring sports in the parish building. An elaborate programme had been arranged and was carried through with enthusiasm.

A number of guests were present from other men's guilds, who competed earnestly; but only good will and courtesy prevailed, and a pleasant evening was spent.

After the sports the S. John's Guild invited their guests to another room in the parish building, where bountiful refreshments were served. Altogether the evening passed off pleasantly, greatly to the credit of our Guild.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL PICNIC.—Many happy children and some grown people gathered at the parish building early on Saturday morning, July 11th, with lunch baskets well filled and expectations high for a good day in the park. At the appointed time we boarded various South street cars, and after a merry ride were soon at Belmont avenue, Fairmount Park.

Before long we had found a suitable spot in Belmont Glen, and there we took up our abode. What a busy day it was—games, romps, lunch, swings, etc., until about 3 P. M., and then, alas! an interruption. Black clouds gathered, thunder began to peal and we precipitately broke camp and ingloriously stampeded to the nearest shelter, which was Memorial Hall. But Providence was kind to us and just as we had reached the hall the rain began to pour in torrents. The lightning flashed, strange snapping sounds came from the telephone in the building, but we were all too happy and too thankful for our good shelter to be easily disturbed.

After an hour or more of the storm it ceased, the sun shone beautifully, all nature seemed refreshed and we returned to our picnic. But it was too late and too wet for our contests, for which we had provided various prizes, so we decided to postpone them until the following Monday night.

But our ice-cream friend, Mr. Detwiler, did not disappoint us, and so we feasted upon cream and cake, which was systematically distributed by means of tickets; the children in regimental line as though in dress parade.

After doing justice to these good things, we reluctantly gathered up our baggage and carward wended our way. A merry party we were and songs sung with vigor proved to the continuous audience along our route that we had had a happy, refreshing day.

Sunday-school Sports.—True to our arrangements a goodly number of the members of the Sunday-school met at the parish building on Monday, July 13th, at 8 P. M., for our various contests which the rain had prevented at the picnic. Peanut hunt, running race, three-legged race, potato race, peanut race, donkey party and one-legged race comprised the events of the evening; and when it is stated that this programme was carried through in large part, once for the boys and once for the girls, it can be understood that we lingered long, and the excitement ran high.

We did really spend a pleasant evening, and lemonade and cake at its close completed our happiness. Sixteen prizes were provided and fairly won.

The Camp.—On Saturday, August 1st, an advance guard moved upon the peaceful region of Perkiomen, followed on Monday by the main body of our Ascension Army, our Choir and Brigade Boys.

It must not be supposed that we suffered in any way during our campaign, for numerous tents, cots, commissary stores and a professional cook, either preceded or accompanied us.

At quite an elevation above a beautiful creek our tents were pitched, and the days passed as is only possible "in camp." Boating, fishing, ball-playing, athletics and (not least) the feasting of hungry men and boys upon really good food filled the time. Various neighbors were good to us, and when the camp broke there were yet kind plans of theirs, for us, unfulfilled. Our stay was about a week, reaching home on Saturday August 8th.

Winter Services.—With this month we recommence the 4 P. M. Choral Evensong on Sundays, the 2.30 P. M. Sunday-school followed by the Children's Service, and the 10 A. M. and 5 P. M. daily service. We trust our people will avail themselves of these privileges. As we have two evening services on Sunday all have the opportunity of going to church at least twice on the Lord's Day. And we are sure that if the daily services were better attended it would bring a blessing to those who used them. All the children of the Sunday-school have been notified of its recommencement on the first Sunday of this month.

The Bible Class called heretofore that of the Boys and Ascension Cadets, will be known hereafter as the Junior Brotherhood Class, and will be held on Sundays at 3 P. M., instead of 2.30 P. M., as formerly.

Anniversary of Women's Guild.—We want to remind all the female members of the congregation of the annual meeting of the General Women's Guild on SS. Simon and Jude's day, the 28th, after the morning service. Every woman in the parish who can possibly do so, ought to be present on this occasion to learn what has been done and what can and ought to be done by the women. Let each one see if she cannot in some way aid in the work the parish is trying to do, both among its own members and in its neighborhood and by missionary efforts abroad.

CHANGE OF THE NAME OF THE CHURCH.

For the last six months there has been a great deal of discussion in the Church of the question as to whether the name Protestant Episcopal should be changed to something else. A committee was appointed at the last General Convention to ascertain and report to the next Convention, which is to be held in Boston in October, 1904, what the general feeling in the Church was in regard to it. In order to do this the committee sent a request to each of the Diocesan Conventions, to express the feeling of their respective dioceses in regard to it. Debates on the subject, therefore, generally took place, and votes were taken as to its desirability. The general result of the voting was against any change at present. So important a matter as the change of the name by which a great national Church has been known for over a century, naturally cannot be, and should not be, done hastily. It will take a great deal of consideration and preparation of the minds of our people before it can be done. We are very glad, however, that the discussion of the subject has begun, even though the decision is against it for the present.

We are sure it will be done some day, for the dissatisfaction with the present name is already wide-spread. The great reason for this dissatisfaction is that the name Protestant Episcopal is not a proper and fitting title for a national Church. It conveys the idea that the body it designates is simple, one of a large number of Christian bodies, all of which may be equally Churches of God, and that the distinguishing characteristics of this particular Church are that it is Protestant, against what it regards as the errors of Rome, and that it is Episcopal in its constitution, i. e., governed by Bishops. But while both these things are true, the claims and general position of the Church are of far more importance, and ought to be set forth by its name, rather than these two special characteristics which its present name denotes and which at the same time implies that it is only one of a large number of Protestant sects.

FREE ORGAN RECITAL—On Saturday afternoon, November 28th, at 4 o'clock, a recital will be given under the auspices of the American Organ Players' Club, and played by Mr. Walter St. Clare Knodle, assisted by Mr. Chester F. Myers, baritone.

The Episcopal Church claims that is a part of the historic Catholic Church, which was formed by our Lord and His Apostles. Our Bishops have all received their consecration from those who received it from Bishops of the Church of England, and they in turn received theirs from those who had been consecrated in direct succession from the first Apostles, so that the historical continuity of the Church has never been broken. So the Church has never held or taught any other faith than that of the Catholic creeds, and its worship has always been in accord with that followed in the universal Church. It is unnecessary, therefore, to call it "Episcopal," because she does not consider any organization a Church unless it is governed by Bishops. And while it is "Protestant" against Rome, still to call it by that name conveys the impression that it is one of the differing Protestant sects. The sects, i. e., bodies which have been cut off from the great body of the Church, have all arisen since the time of the Reformation. They have each had some human founder and are merely bodies of Christians associated together under some human device, holding and practicing some peculiar doctrines or rites which these founders have taught them.

Now, we hold that it is wrong for Christians to be divided in this way, that there is no greater hindrance to the general advancement of the Kingdom of God than these divisions among Christians, many of which are about most trivial matters. The Churches of the Anglican Communion have never cut themselves off from any other body of Christians. They did not separate from Rome. It was the Church of Rome that separated itself from England, because it would not acknowledge the novel doctrine of the supremacy of the Pope. And the Church of England never cut off any of the Protestant bodies. They went out of it, or arose, on account of some peculiarity they wanted to enforce on others. So this great characteristic of the Church that it is a part of the universal historic Church should be expressed by her name, rather that that it should have, as it has now, a name which conveys the impression that it is one of the many sects, which by her principles she could not be.

That name was adopted rather thoughtlessly at the time of the American Revolution, when she could no longer be known, as she had been previously, as the Church of England, as this country had ceased to be a part of the British Empire. It was thought then that it would be presumptuous to call it, as it should have been by all analogy, the Church of the United States, because, owing to the fact that no Bishops were ever sent to America before the Revolution, it was then a very small and feeble body. But that does not apply now, and the Church ought to be known as the different branches of the Catholic Church have always been known, simply by the name of the country to which it belongs. Only so can the true character of our Church be set before the people of this land, and they taught the evils and wrong of schism, and be won back to the bosom and unity of that Church from which they each have at one time or another gone out.

When our own people come to appreciate the true character of this Church, they will all be ready and anxious that it should have a name which will fitly describe her character and mission, rather than one which misrepresents it.

PARISH NOTES

WINTER WORK.—All our departments of winter work recommence with this month. The Ladies' Aid will meet every Wednesday at 3 P. M. The Mothers' Meeting, Wednesdays, after the 8 P. M. service in the church. The Embroidery Class every Thursday, after the 10 A. M. prayers. The Industrial School every Saturday at the same hour. The Ladies' Missionary Meeting on the first Friday in each month, after morning prayers. We invite workers in all these different departments, as well as in the Sunday-school and Young People's Guilds.

ANNIVERSARY.—The anniversary of the Woman's Guild took place on SS. Simon and Jude's day, some 16 ladies were present. The reports of the different branches of work for the past year were read. The heads of the various chapters made statements of their needs for the coming winter. Teachers are wanted for the Industrial School, which begins its sessions on the first Saturday of this month. The treasurer of the Altar Chapter is very anxious to get regular weekly contributions to the fund, to provide flowers for the altar, and to pay for the washing of the church linen. A piece of linen and a piece of serge are very much needed to make new cassocks and cottas for the choir. If the material is provided the members of the Ladies' Aid will cut it out and make it up.

The lady in charge of the Mothers' Meeting is in need of contributions to pay the members of the meeting for the work which is given out to them on Wednesday evenings.

Volunteers are asked for to meet in the church every three or four weeks to polish the brass ornaments, altar rail, etc.

DEATH OF CHOIRMAN.—Last month we lost by death the oldest member of our choir, Mr. William John Jones. He entered the choir as a boy in January, 1881, and has been in the choir almost continuously ever since. His health had been failing for some months, and he has not been able to sing since last spring. The Clergy ministered to him assiduously, taking the Blessed Sacrament to him at his home. He was buried from the church, the full choir being present, on October 10th.

A CHORAL SOCIETY.—It is proposed to form a choral society in the parish, composed of both male and female voices. Any adults connected with the parish can join it, and bring with them any of their friends who would like to come. A competent teacher will be employed, and it is hoped that sufficient progress will be made to enable the society to give a cantata or concert in the near future. It will meet every Thursday evening, beginning November 12th. A small charge will be made to defray the expenses.

THE JUNIOR BROTHERHOOD OF S. ANDREW.—Mr. Charles L. Walker will again this winter be the lay director of the Junior Brotherhood. He attended the great convention in Denver, Colo., in October, and we feel that there is every prospect of new life and activity in this organization for the elevation of the spiritual life of the boys.

At the evening service on Sunday, October 25th, Mr. Walker gave an interesting account of some of the things heard and seen and done at the Denver Convention. It surely was a remarkable gathering of Church men and boys.

BOYS' BRIGADE.—Mr. Thayer will begin the meetings of the Boys' Brigade on the first Tuesday in November at 8 P. M. It is hoped to have a strong company this winter, and Mr. Thayer has some plans in his mind which will add much to the life and interest of the meetings.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL.—The school began its winter afternoon sessions on the first Sunday in October with 106 present, which was, for our school, an unusually large number. After diligent search we have found six additional teachers, which, after deducting some losses from the teaching force, leaves us better off in that respect than we were last year.

S. JOHN'S GUILD.—A large and enthusiastic meeting took place on October 5th, after a devotional service in the church at 8 P. M. A number of donations were made to the Guild, partly in the way of repairing gymnastic apparatus, gift of a bulletin board, etc.

MOTHERS' MEETING.—In speaking of the excursions during the summer in our last number, we should have mentioned two given to the members of the Mothers' Meeting, one consisted of a sail up the Delaware River to Burlington Park, and the other to Willow Grove. Both were thoroughly enjoyed by all who took part in them.

CATHOLIC AND ROMAN CATHOLIC

These are two distinct and different things. The Holy Catholic Church consists, as far as its membership is concerned, of all who are baptized, and, as to its organization, of all those national churches, which are governed by Bishops who have received their Orders in unbroken succession from the Apostles. The Roman Catholic Church is only that portion of the Catholic Church which is in subjection to the Bishop of Rome. Originally the Bishop of Rome had no more pre-eminence or authority than the Bishop of any other diocese. But, owing to political influences, little by little, that Bishop obtained recognition, first as Primate of the West, and later, by some, as the Universal Bishop, or "Rector of the World," as he is called, having supreme government of the whole Church, and infallible in what he decrees.

But this claim was never acknowledged by the whole Church. The Eastern or Greek Church, which is almost as large as the Roman Church, never did, nor does it to-day, recognize it. That Church is no more Roman Catholic than are the churches of the Anglican Communion. In the Church of England the claims of the Pope were acknowledged for only a comparatively short period—from the reign of King John to that of Henry VIII. During the latter reign the claim was repudiated and the Church purified from that and other corruptions which had grown up in the course of centuries; but no new Church was set up, as some think. The Church of England was part of the Catholic Church after the Reformation, as she had been before. She only ceased to be Roman Catholic; that is, subject to the Bishop of Rome.

So the great differences to-day between Catholic and Roman Catholic are that the former consists of those branches of the one Church our Lord and his Apostles founded, whose historical descent can be traced as can the lineage of any dynasty of kings, which have preserved the Catholic or Universal Faith and require only what has been universally regarded as necessary in the discipline or worship of the Church. The latter consists only of that Communion which recognizes the Bishop of Rome as the Supreme Head and Governor of the Church and accepts whatsoever He decrees. In the Catholic Church nothing is required as necessary in doctrine, discipline or worship but what has universal authority: that is, has been generally received by the whole Church always and everywhere. Whereas members of the Roman Catholic Church are required to receive all that the Popes of Rome have, or may hereafter, decree and require. The Eastern and Anglican Churches reject that claim because it has not universal authority. And so they reject many other things which are taught and practiced in the Roman Church on the same ground, such as the adoration of the Blessed Virgin Mary, the worship of relics and images, the doctrine of indulgences, the compulsory celibacy of the clergy and private confession, communion in one kind, the cult of the Sacred Heart, etc. These and such like things are the distinctive characteristics of Roman Catholicism, and which separate it from the rest of the Catholic Church. The Eastern and Anglican Churches were never cut off from the Catholic Church. It is Rome that has cut itself off from communion with the rest of Christendom by setting up un-Catholic terms of Communion. So to-day no one can be received into the Roman Catholic Church without accepting all it teaches and requires. Whereas any Roman Catholic could be received into any Eastern or Anglican Church by simply professing the universal Christian faith and acknowledging the jurisdiction of its Bishops.

Ignorant people think that Roman Catholicism consists in forms and ceremonies, the use of vestments, lights and incense in worship, the sign of the cross, any private confession, etc., but these are things which are common to the whole Church, and were used by the Jews as well as Christians, and are largely matters of taste and expediency. The Eastern and many Anglican Churches have as an elaborate a ritual as there is in the Roman Church, and yet they are not part of it nor hold to its distinctive teachings.

There is no reason why they cannot have what is beautiful and dignified and impressive in their worship, without accepting principles and practices for which they do not think there is adequate authority.

People ought to understand these things and be able to discriminate between what they mean when they say in the Creed that they believe in the Holy Catholic Church, and what is meant by Roman Catholicism. The one is the great Church founded by God, to which all should belong. The latter is a device of man, which only some Christians receive, and thereby separate themselves from the rest of Christendom.

PARISH NOTES

THE CHORAL SOCIETY, of which we spoke in our last issue, has been formed and begun its work. Mr. Knodle, our choirmaster, has been appointed director, and about 20 persons have so far joined it. The charge, to cover the expenses, is $1 for twelve lessons, which makes the charge per lesson very small. It meets every Tuesday at 8 P. M. We hope many more will join it, so that a strong chorus can be organized which can give a concert after a while.

THE ALTAR COMMITTEE of our Women's Guild thankfully acknowledges a donation of $15 towards the purchase of linen for new cottars for the choir, for which we made an appeal last month. This will provide about half a set. Will not some one else give the linen for the rest? We need an entire new set.

The Committee proposes to have an exhibition of the work they have done. It will be held in Room 20 in the Church House, Twelfth and Walnut streets, on December 14, 15, 16. We are sure many of our people will be glad to see it.

MOTHERS' MEETING.—We thankfully acknowledge several Thanksgiving dinners, which were furnished for some of our more needy members of the meeting. We are in need of donations of money to pay for the work done at this meeting. It is the best way to help those who are in need.

CHRISTMAS DAY.—There will be celebrations of the Holy Communion at 6.30, 7.30, 8.30 A. M., as well as in the middle of the day. We ask, as usual, for special offerings on that day. We depend on them to pay the half-yearly interest on our debt, due this month, and also to put back part, at least, of the amount we had to borrow during the summer from the Reserve Fund. Let all give liberally, that we may prove that a church can be supported without charging pew rents.

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL.—We are glad to say that, after a number of appeals from the chancel, and also privately, the Rector has been able to secure several new teachers for our Saturday Industrial School. And several new features have been introduced into it this winter, such as basket weaving and bead-chain making. We should like very much to have a wood-carving class, if there is any one who understands that and would volunteer his or her services.

THE SUNDAY-NIGHT SERVICE.—As the attendance at this service is now larger than in the afternoon, it is proposed hereafter to have our best music at this service, there being always an anthem, and some instrumental music occasionally.

CONGREGATIONAL REHEARSALS.—On every Wednesday night since their beginning, November 12, 1902, with no exception, save during a portion of the summer and early autumn, there have met after the Wednesday evening service, a number of people, who have spent fifteen or twenty minutes singing hymns in the Parish Building, accompanied by a violin and piano.

It has certainly been a pleasant experience, and has helped to improve the congregational singing on Wednesday and Sunday nights.

We would welcome others who do not come. We stop our singing at 9.10 P. M., usually, with promptness. Will you not join us in our meeting for sacred song?

THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL.—We are glad to welcome as new teachers, this season, Mr. Shaw, Miss Pearson, Mrs. Klofach, Miss Elizabeth Hawkins, Miss Alice Hawkins, Miss Trice, Miss Lindsay; in addition to which Mr. Walker, our superintendent, has also taken a class of boys. Three others are considering the matter of teaching, and so our prospects for the winter are bright.

On every Sunday since the summer the Secretary has reported an increase over the previous Sunday, and so we have much for which to be thankful.

On November 22d, we began arranging for the Christmas festivities, and we hope to have a bright and joyous time. It is hoped every child in the school will take some part in the affair. The children's Christmas service will take place in the church on the Sunday after Christmas at 7.45 P. M., being the eve of Holy Innocent's day.

THE ASCENSION CADETS.—On Tuesday, November 17th, at 8 P. M., the Brigade had its first meeting this season. Mr. N. B. Thayer met 27 boys and young men, officers were elected, the times of meeting and various other matters determined. An encouraging beginning was made, and we look for enthusiastic work this winter.

THE NEW YEAR BOOK of the Parish has been printed. Copies can be had from the Verger.

CATHOLIC AND PROTESTANT.

We explained in our last issue the difference between Catholic and Roman Catholic. Let us consider now what is the difference between Catholic and Protestant.

We said that Catholic means what is universal, the faith which has been universally held, or the form of Church government or discipline which has universally prevailed. The term Protestant meant originally and properly those who protested against the errors and usurpations of the Bishop of Rome. And in that sense the Episcopal Church is Protestant, and so it was made part of its name. But many of those who began by simply protesting against the errors of Rome went on to adopt and choose anything that seemed best to them in doctrine, discipline or worship.

Instead of holding to the Catholic faith, they selected such doctrines as they preferred, and rejected others. Instead of maintaining the Episcopal form of government, which had prevailed everywhere, and from the earliest time, they set up in some places Presbyterianism; in others Independency; in others Superintendency, etc. Instead of the universal form of worship by means of the Holy Communion and a liturgy, they substituted the preaching of sermons and extemporaneous prayers. And beyond these all sorts of differences and varieties came to prevail. Some would baptize infants; others only adults. Some would use effusion; others only immersion. Some would keep festivals; others would not. Some would have music in their worship; some would not, or some would have organs and others only psalms. some have instrumental music; others only vocal.

And so it has come to pass that there is the greatest variety both in doctrines and practice among Protestants, and that they are divided up into a large number of different denominations. And this is owing to the principle on which they have proceeded—that of each acting on his own individual judgment, instead of being guided by the authority of the whole Church.

So the difference between Catholic and Protestant is that the one holds and follows what has been taught or practiced by the whole Church, while the other acts on his own individual judgment and accepts and rejects what seems best to him. And as the Church of England and the Episcopal Church in this country proceed upon the former principle, those Churches ought not to be classed, as they often are, among the Protestant denominations, although, in common with those denominations, they protest against the errors of Rome. This is the reason for the present movement for the change of the name of the Church, because, however true it is that the Church is Protestant in this sense, it is not true in that sense that she acts on the ordinary Protestant principle of rejection of all authority in religion and acting on individual choice or opinion.

This principle, on which Protestantism as a system is founded, is manifestly suicidal, for if anyone can act as he sees best, there will be as many organizations as there are individuals who have the skill to form them, and as much variety of teaching as there are those who will undertake the office. And it deprives the Church of all divine authority and character. It makes it practically only a human device, which may be adapted to certain classes of people for a time, for only a divine power could have constituted that which should be suited to all persons of all nations and all ages. Thus we find the different denominations, even in this country, confined to specific localities, as the Congregationalists to New England, the Dutch Reformed to New York, the Presbyterians and Quakers to Pennsylvania, the Methodists are strongest in the South and the Christians in the Middle West, etc. And none of these are much over three hundred years old; some, like the Methodists, not much more than a hundred.

The Catholic Church is something different from all these. It is that which Christ Himself formed, which has lasted ever since and extended into all lands. And we want the world to know and recognize that our Church is part of that universal Church; its organization is that which has prevailed always and everywhere among all Christians, except of late years among some Protestants; that it requires faith only in the œcumenical creeds which have been always accepted, and its worship and discipline is the same in all essentials with that always used in the Catholic Church.

Not until men come to distinguish between Catholic and Protestant will they recognize the authority and power which belongs to the Church and be delivered from the sins of heresy and schism, which have been the greatest hindrance to the influence and spread of Christianity wherever they have prevailed.

May all come to understand what they mean when they say "the Holy Catholic Church."

PARISH NOTES.

CHRISTMAS.—We had good congregations at the early celebrations on Christmas, with about the same number of communicants as last year. In the middle of the day the attendance was slight, owing to the inclement weather. The church looked very beautiful, and the music was very good. We think the choirmaster should be congratulated on the decided improvement in the singing of the choir this year.

The offerings on Christmas Day amounted to $333, and on the Sunday following to $107. Part of this was the regular weekly offering, but it included a good many special Christmas gifts. This amount will pay the interest on our mortgage, due this month, and meet our usual expenses, but it will not do anything towards making up the reserve fund we had to draw on during the summer, and which must be put back before April 30th.

THE MOTHERS' MEETING.—Donations of money, amounting to $15.70, together with contributions of potatoes, meat, rolls, buns, candy, etc., were received, which provided a dinner or some Christmas remembrance for some 21 families. In addition to this orders for 8½ tons of coal were received and given to the most needy in the congregation. Our hearty thanks are due to those who thus remembered this most important work in our parish.

CONFIRMATION.—The Bishop of the diocese has appointed the evening of March 22d for the administration of Confirmation in this parish. We trust that all adults attending the church, not yet confirmed, will consider the duty and privilege of being presented at that time.

S. MARY'S GUILD.—Miss Anable, after three years' faithful service as Superior of S. Mary's Guild, has resigned, and Miss Thompson has been appointed by the Rector in her place. As many of the members of the guild already know Miss Thompson, we have no doubt they will heartily welcome her to that position.

THE CHORAL SOCIETY continues its rehearsals on Tuesday evenings, and any desiring to learn how to sing are invited to join it.

A MISSIONARY BOX, valued at $85, was made up and sent to the South by our ladies before Christmas.

THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL CHRISTMAS SERVICE.—On the Sunday after Christmas, at 8 P. M., a festival service was sung by the children. Christmas carols, an address by the Rector and Curate, a Festal Procession (with cross and five banners) by the school and full choir and a gift of a Christmas card to everyone in the church made bright the shortened evensong.

There were present in the church and choir about 207 persons, which was about 10 more than last year, notwithstanding the fact that last year the festival, with its candy, gifts and entertainment, immediately followed the service; whereas this year there was nothing but the service to attract. The behavior was good, the singing hearty and the whole service reverent and beautiful.

CONVOCATION MEETING. — On the fourth Monday evening of this month the quarterly meeting of the Southwest Convocation, to which this parish belongs, will be held in our church. Full choir will render a shortened Evensong. The Bishop Coadjutor of the Diocese is expected to be present, and an address will be delivered by some prominent clergyman. We trust the members of the congregation will show their interest by turning out in force on this occasion.

THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL FESTIVAL.—On the Tuesday after Christmas the school had its Christmas festival. The programme included a well-rendered play, called "Wanted—a Servant," six tableaux by the little folks, instrumental pieces on the zither and violin, a quartette by four choir boys, a song and three choruses and an opening address. Mr. Chas. T. Walker most kindly brought a magic lantern, with a large collection of comic slides, but, for some deep reason, the lantern positively declined to work, and so we had to defer the pleasure of seeing them until some future occasion.

We are greatly indebted to Mr. Samuel Hazard for being our Santa Claus, and the excited enthusiasm which his efforts produced was wonderful and delightful to behold. To Messrs. Richard Gilpin and Carroll Hodge we are again indebted for the beautiful illumination of the tree. At the close of the evening Santa Claus gave to each child in the school a Christmas gift and a box of candy.

About 275 persons were present, which was about 100 more than last year.

AN HONOR ROLL.—The following members of the Sunday-School have been present on the last nine successive Sundays, and their names are recorded here as a recognition of their faithfulness:

James Adams	Earl Partridge
George Anderson	David Rea
James Boggs	John Stevenson
Alexander Boggs	Richard Stevenson
Joseph Caldwell	Anna Anderson
Elmer Conger	Elizabeth Diehl

REMOVAL OF CHURCHES.

We learn from the papers that our neighbor, the Presbyterian church on the corner of Broad and Lombard streets, is to be removed to some other part of the city. When this is done, it will leave only four Presbyterian churches for white people in the district between Arch and Catharine streets, east of Broad street. In the same district thirty years ago there were fifteen churches of that denomination, whereas at the same time there were eleven Episcopal churches, and only one of them has been removed. And of the Protestant denominations other than Presbyterians, there are now in that district only one Methodist, one Baptist church and two Quaker meeting houses. It looks as if the Episcopal Church would have some sections of the city at least all to itself after a while.

THE CHOIR

The choir will render the following music during the month:

THE PASTOR

To be a pastor to the people is one of the most important of the functions of the clergy. It is one of the names which has been applied to them from the earliest times. It is taken from that very common office prevalent among all sheep-raising people. The shepherd or pastor of the flock is absolutely necessary to take care of and protect the sheep from harm. He goes before the flock; they follow him as men follow a leader. He watches over them by day and by night to defend them from the wild beasts which would devour them or guard them from wandering away or falling into pits. He guides them to places where they will find rich pastures and good water, and he carries and cares for the young or the sick or injured. And it is because the clergy should perform such offices as these in spiritual things for Christian people that they are called pastors.

As they are persons who have been especially educated and trained for the purpose, and whose whole time and thoughts are given to spiritual things, they ought to be able to act as spiritual leaders to the people, to teach what is the true Christian doctrine and manner of life, to be able to warn them of dangers which beset them, to minister to them the rich food provided in the written Word and teachings of the Church and in the blessed Sacraments, to watch over and instruct the young, to go after and try to win back the erring, and to minister to those who are sick in body and soul. These are the very much needed and blessed offices which the Christian pastor should perform.

And every true clergyman is anxious to discharge these duties of his office; he wants to be a true pastor to his people, to be of real use and benefit to them. But there are many difficulties in the way of his doing so. First, there is the carelessness and indifference among people about religious matters, their unwillingness even to speak about them. Many do not even think about them. They are so taken up with the occupations and pursuits of life that they have no time or inclination for other things. They will not go to church. They do not care to hear sermons, or to meet or talk to a clergyman. How are such people to be approached? A clergyman cannot force himself on those who do not want to have anything to do with him. In such cases all he can do is to wait until sickness or sorrow or some other contingency in life forces such people to turn to him and seek, or be glad to receive, his ministrations.

But, secondly, even among those who appreciate spiritual things and feel their need of help, there is so much reticency and fear to speak openly and fully of religious things that it is very difficult for a clergyman to approach them. It is like breaking ice to do so.

Then, thirdly, it is so difficult for a pastor to see and really get to know his people, especially in a large city parish. It is so difficult to find them at home or alone, and to see each member of the family when he calls. And as he has so many people to see it is generally not more than once a year that he can call on each, and how can he really come to know people and what their characters or their special needs are when he sees them so seldom? And this is true, above all, in regard to business or working men and young people. They are rarely at home at the times a clergyman can call, and he cannot follow them to where they are working or to school.

Fourthly, there are those who, though they go to church, the clergy never get to know at all, because they never give in their names or connect themselves with any particular church. How, then, is a clergyman really to be a pastor to his people, to be their leader, their friend and helper? The clergy do the best they can by going to see the members of their congregations as often as they can, but if those persons would only come to the clergy, it would be very much easier and far better. Our clergy can be seen at any time in the church after any service on Sunday or week days. There is a definite time and place when you can be sure of seeing one of the clergy, and that privately, and they will be delighted to see and talk to you there at any time. In this way a clergyman could see a great many more people and much more frequently and satisfactorily than he can by going to see them at their homes, which consumes so much time and which is often ineffectual then. Of course the clergy do this and will continue to do it. But if you really want to know a priest and be helped by him—and who does not need his help sometimes at least?—do not wait for the rare visit he can pay you, but go yourself to see him, and in this parish you know exactly when and where you can see him.

This office of the Christian pastor is one of the most important in the Church and is not generally exercised as it ought to be. Let all see that there is some clergyman whom they look upon as their particular pastor and whose offices they make use of.

PARISH NOTES.

LENT begins the middle of this month. We trust all our people will resolve to keep it, as it is intended by the Church to be, as a solemn time when one should give up the pleasures and indulgences we allow ourselves at other times and devote oneself to special acts of prayer and self-denial and charity and the cultivation of our spiritual life. A Lent so kept will be a very profitable and sweet season to us. There will be celebrations of the Holy Communion on Tuesdays and Fridays at 7 A. M., and on Thursdays, at 9 A. M. As in other years the boys of the choir will be present at the daily 5 P. M. prayers during Lent, and there will be a lecture after prayers on Friday afternoons.

CONFIRMATION INSTRUCTIONS are given every Tuesday, by the Curate, at 8 P. M., and every Friday by the Rector. It is of the utmost importance that those expecting to be confirmed should attend one, at least, of these courses of instruction.

ACTORS' CHURCH ALLIANCE.—We had the pleasure of having the Rev. Walter E. Bentley, the General Secretary of this body, preach in our church on Sunday, January 24th, morning and evening, on "The Relationship of the Church and the Stage." The stage is a great power, which should be used for good, and not evil, purposes. And there is no class of persons who are so slightly reached by church influence as actors and actresses. It is to elevate the stage and to bring religious influences to bear on members of the dramatic profession that the Alliance aims. We should be glad if members of our congregation would join it. The dues are $1 a year, and the Rev. Mr. Dyer is the treasurer.

CONVOCATION.—We had the winter meeting of the Southwest Convocation in our church on the evening of January 25th. It is many years since it met here before. In spite of the full choir being present, and the Rev. W. C. Richardson, the Rector of S. James' Church, being the preacher, and the Rector's appealing on the Sunday before to the people to be present, there were not more than 60 persons there. Why is it that so little interest is taken in the great work of spreading the Church in our very midst? There was very important action taken at the business meeting looking towards the establishment of a new mission in the extreme southern limits of the built-up portion of the Convocation.

DIOCESAN MISSIONS.—The benevolent envelope sent out this month is for this object. Our parish is asked to contribute $100. Unless every one in the parish gives a fair proportion of this sum it will not be raised and will have to come out of our ordinary offerings. Let each one return some time during the quarter the envelope he or she has received for this purpose with an offering in it.

THE MOTHERS' MEETING.—We are very much in need of means to carry on the admirable work of this agency for helping the more needy members of our congregation. We had some money left over from the Bazaar which has met its expenses so far this winter. But that is now exhausted and unless we get contributions for it we cannot carry it on. The money is needed to pay the members of the meeting for work which they do. Donations put in an envelope marked "Mothers' Meeting," can be put on the plate at any service, or dropped in the alms box in the vestibule.

THE MISSIONARY BOX the ladies sent off before Christmas was duly received. The clergyman writes: "We found many serviceable things in it. The coats and vests and pair of pants fit me beautifully and will doubtless be sufficient outer suits for my few remaining years. I put on the shoes at once, as I was wearing an old pair, both thin and cold, and I shall sleep between the blankets until the very cold weather is over. We have also enjoyed the soup, pickles, rennet, etc., and, indeed, are very grateful for your unmerited kindness."

S. AGNES' GUILD.—A new Guild was organized on Friday, January 8th, with S. Agnes for its name-saint. It will consist of little girls, will meet at 7.45 P. M. every Saturday, and close promptly at 9 P. M. The meeting hour will be spent in saying a brief Office together, in receiving an instruction from their Chaplain, and the balance of the time in playing games and otherwise.

Miss Laura Virginia Hoover is the Superior, Miss Emelia Palmgren, Mrs. William J. Morgan, Miss Allibone, Miss Ashcomb and Miss Trice, her assistants. The dues will be 1 cent a week. The officers of the Guild, selected from among the children, will be announced next month.

The prayers of the congregation are asked that this Guild may promote the glory of God and the good of the souls of His little ones.

S. JOHN'S GUILD.—The members of the Guild have been enjoying their gymnastic work every Monday evening. They have the guidance and assistance of a professional trainer, and are making good progress in their athletic work.

On the first Monday of each month they say an office in the church and hold their monthly business meeting, and their Chaplain gives them a brief exhortation.

MEETINGS FOR WOMEN.

A QUIET DAY FOR CHURCH WOMEN, to be conducted by the Rev. J. Charles Roper, D. D., will be held in the Church of the Ascension, Broad, below South street, on Thursday, February 25th. Hours of service, 9 A. M., beginning with the Holy Communion, and 3 P. M. There will be a celebration of the Holy Communion also at 7.30 A. M.

A CONFERENCE OF CHURCH WOMEN will be held in Holy Trinity Parish House, Twentieth street below Walnut, on Friday, February 26th, at 10.30 A. M. and at 3 P. M. Papers will be read and discussion invited on the following topics: "The Girls' Friendly Society—Its Influence as a Church Organization;" "Religion and Philanthropy;" "Wisdom in Charity;" "Our Responsibility for the Training of the Christian Child."

KEEPING OF LENT.

The observance of Lent is as much a duty as the keeping of Sunday or saying one's prayers or going to church. It is "required" by the Church, and just as the State has the right to pass laws for the regulation of the conduct of the people, so has the Church.

Many persons may think it of small importance, but experience has taught that some such season is necessary to arouse people up to new efforts in regard to spiritual things and to give opportunity for special exercises and acts of devotion.

So every one should keep Lent by fasting, either from food or from luxuries or amusements, or something which will involve real self-denial on our part, not as a thing which is virtuous in itself, but which is most useful in giving the power and habit of self-control. Then, too, we should be more frequent in prayers and services and religious reading, in order to quicken our devotion and cultivate our spiritual life.

So Lent is a time for special acts of charity or almsgiving. Our self-denials may well furnish us with the means for these, and the number of claims on Christian charity is boundless. All about us there is spiritual and temporal need of all descriptions. And beyond is the vast heathen world to be converted unto God. To what better purpose could we devote our substance?

Let no one say he has not time to keep Lent. It does not take any time to fast from food or amusements. It will save time which otherwise would be frittered away. And to say one has not time to pray or go to church is like saying one has not time to eat or sleep. There are some things we must take time to do, no matter how busy we may be.

ASCENSION CADETS.—The members of the brigade have been meeting regularly every Thursday night, and have had an attendance of 20 boys as an average. They are doing well in their drilling under the instruction of Mr. Thayer, and make a really good showing in their manœuvres upon the floor.

Persons may, indeed, and often do, go without food or sleep for a long time, or get them only irregularly. But if they do, they will suffer in consequence. So, if one neglects his religious duties he will, inevitably, lose thereby, though he may not be conscious of it.

The wise and thoughtful person will try to discharge, as far as he can, all the duties that have a claim on him, and he will make a point of using such an opportunity as Lent presents for the development and cultivation of his spiritual life.

A well-kept Lent may have an immense influence on one's whole future.

EASTER OFFERING.

As the next number of the NEWS will not come out until after Easter, we want now to call the attention of the congregation to the necessity of our having a large Easter offering this year. It will be remembered that a year ago the ladies of the congregation were very active in getting up a bazaar, by which they made something over $2,000. This paid off all the floating debt of the church at that time and enabled us to pay back $1,000 to the reserve fund, which it is necessary for us always to have on hand.

This fund we have to have for use during the summer months when so many of our people go out of town, and the offerings Sunday by Sunday are very small. We used up the whole of this $1,000 during the last year, and now we ought to put it back, and we depend on the Easter offering to do it.

Will not everyone attending the church or interested in it in any way give a large special offering at that time?

Our church is free. We do not fix for anyone the amount he must contribute to its support. We leave it to each one's conscience to give as largely as he or she can. And we hope in that way to make men more liberal than they would be if they were charged pew rents.

But people must be conscientious and careful about it, otherwise they will fail or forget to give what they should.

It is every year becoming more difficult to keep up our city churches, owing to the removal of so many to the country and suburbs and the length of time so many are away during the summer. Yet there is work for the city churches to do, and ours was never more active than it is now. But it needs money. Will you let it lack for it? Give this coming Easter as largely as you can, and do not force us again to resort to bazaars and entertainments to earn money to meet our current expenses.

In this connection we would urge every one who can do so, to remember the church in their wills, so that it may not only be freed from debt, but endowed, and thus its usefulness secured for all time. There may be in the congregation those who cannot give largely in their lifetime, who could help the church in this way, and secure to it the continuance of the support they gave it in their lives.

PARISH NOTES.

THE LADIES' AID, which meets every Wednesday at 3 P. M., will sew this Lent for the Maternity Hospital, a most worthy charity. It invites any ladies of the congregation to meet with them. It would be glad of any donations of money and material which would be suitable for simple garments for children.

SPECIAL PREACHERS.—There will be a special preacher each Friday during Lent at the 5 P. M. service, among whom will be the Rev. Mr. Fuller, Rector of the Old Oxford Church; Rev. H. P. Roche, Rector of the Church of the Transfiguration, and the Rev. Mr. Gunnell, Rector of St. Andrew's Church. Our Rector preaches this Lent in the evenings at Trinity, Oxford, St. Michael's, Germantown, All Saints', S. Asaph's, Bala; Christ Church, Franklinville; S. Philip's, West Philadelphia, and S. David's, Manayunk.

The Curate has been asked to preach at Hackettstown, N. J., to take the Three-Hour Service at House of Prayer, Branchtown; preach at Good Shepherd, Cumberland street; St. James' Church, Perkiomen, Pa.; House of Prayer, Branchtown; Women's Club, of West Philadelphia.

HOLY WEEK.—The services will be as in former years—daily Celebrations at 7.30 A. M.; at 10 A. M., prayers, and second Celebration (except on Good Friday), 5 P. M., Prayers; 8 P. M., Sermon. On Good Friday, Stations of the Cross for the children, 9 A. M., and morning prayer and Litany at 11 A. M., followed by preaching of the Cross from 12 to 3 P. M.

EASTER DAY—Celebrations at 6.30, 7.30, 8.30 A. M.; service and Celebration at 10.30 A. M.; children's service at 3 P. M., and service and sermon at 7.45 P. M.

THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL.—The Children's Service on Sunday afternoons, at 3 P. M., consists, during Lent, of a Litany for Lent, prayers, hymns and the Story of the Cross, together with an instruction by the Curate.

An Honor Roll has been provided for the School, upon which are inscribed the names of all officers, teachers and scholars who have not been absent once during the preceding month. The names are announced to the School on the first Sunday in each month, and then the framed Roll is hung up in the Parish Building during the rest of that month.

Perry Pictures are given every Sunday to all who at that time have earned five stamps since receiving their last picture.

Mite Boxes have been given to the School, in which to collect money during Lent for missions. The boxes will be returned at the end of Lent, and the amount sent to S. Saviour's Associate Mission, Wuchang, China. The clergy in this Mission live in community and are doing work which is real. They are teaching the Chinese the truths and practice of Christ's religion.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENT.—On February 13th the children of the School, with some of their friends, enjoyed a treat. Mr. Charles T. Walker, our Superintendent, brought his lantern and gave us part of an evening's pleasure with pictures, chiefly amusing. A number of little girls recited various cunning pieces, and at the end Mr. Samuel Smith and Mr. Hugh Rice entertained us with a large number of comic and pathetic songs and speeches, bugle calls, etc., upon a fine graphophone. With the addition of several humorous recitations by Mr. Walker and some piano pieces, by Miss Ashcomb, interspersed, we all decided that we had spent a pleasant evening.

A RECEPTION.—St. John's Guild and St. Mary's Guild held a joint reception on the night of February 11th, which was a great success. The evening was spent in dancing to the music of a small but efficient orchestra. After many waltzes and the old Virginia reel, we were invited to feast upon the good things provided by our hosts and hostesses, and thus a charming evening closed. It is secretly hoped by many that other invitations of the same kind may again be wafted thitherward.

ST. JOHN'S GUILD.—The regular monthly meeting of this Guild took place on February 1st, with an attendance of 14 members. After the saying of their Office in the Church, with an instruction by their Chaplain, the Guild repaired to the Parish Building for their business meeting. Three members received the beautiful medal of the Society and a number were proposed for membership. The gymnastic work continues under the same professional guidance, and good progress is being made.

DIOCESAN MISSIONS.—All who have received the envelope for Diocesan Missions are requested to return it well filled this month, as the parish is asked to contribute $100 towards this purpose, and not half that amount has yet been received. The payment ought to be made before Easter.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL EASTER ENTERTAINMENT.—Preparations are in progress for this event, which will take place probably in Easter week.

THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL.—We have very much for which to be thankful in the school. We have almost a full corps of teachers, all of whom are regular in their attendance. The attendance this autumn has averaged more than at the same time last year, and our Children's Service, at 3 P. M. every Sunday, is really enjoyable. We wish more of the congregation would join us in the children's worship. At each session a tiny stamp is given to every child who is present, to be attached to a green certificate, and when five stamps have been received a Perry picture is given to the child. We welcome as new teachers Mrs. Hurst in the primary school and Miss Laura Hoover in the main school.

The Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis will be sung in Anthem form and a Solo or Anthem will be rendered.

HE LOVED ME AND GAVE HIMSELF FOR ME.

"Is it nothing to you all ye that pass by? Behold and see if there be any sorrow like unto my sorrow."

O blessed Feet of Jesus,
Weary with seeking me!
Stand at God's bar of judgment,
And intercede for me.

O Knees which bent in anguish
In dark Gethsemane!
Kneel at the throne of glory
And intercede for me.

O Hands that were extended
Upon the awful Tree
Hold up those precious Nail-Prints
Which intercede for me.

O Side, from which the spear-point
Brought Blood and Water free
For healing and for cleansing!
Still intercede for me.

O Head so deeply pierced
With thorns which sharpest be!
Bend low before Thy Father
And intercede for me.

O Sacred Heart! such sorrows
The world may never see,
As that which gave Thee warrant
To intercede for me.

O risen, ascended Saviour,
From death and sorrow free!
Present Thy perfect Offering:
Still intercede for me.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION.

While England has been convulsed for more than a year in discussing the question of the religious education of the young, we in this country seem to be utterly indifferent to the matter. Yet it is certainly of as vital importance here as it is there.

Look how it stands with us. We have no religious instruction in our public schools. The most that can be said of them is that there is nothing in them inimical to religion. And the reading of a few verses of Scripture, the saying of a prayer, or occasional singing of a hymn, when that takes place, is a recognition of, and tends to excite reverence for, religion. But there is no regular, systematic inculcation of religious, or even moral, principles.

In our universities the attendance at all religious services is almost universally now made entirely voluntary; the teaching of moral philosophy is most meagre, and the tendency of much of the philosophical, scientific and critical teaching is decidedly hostile to revealed religion. There are, of course, a number of denominational schools and colleges in which the teaching and exercises of religion occupy a very prominent place, but they reach only a very small proportion of our population.

Of our churches, the Roman Catholic is really the only one which makes any large and adequate effort to grapple with this question. And is not the hold which it has upon its people, as shown by their attendance at public worship, due to the way in which they are taught when they are young?

The Protestant churches rely almost entirely for the religious teaching of their youth upon Sunday-schools. But what does that amount to? At the best it is only one hour's instruction in the week, and that intermitted for from two to four months in the summer. It is given mostly by young persons who have no qualifications whatever for teaching, and the methods employed are far from being systematic or thorough. And attendance at these schools is not compulsory. Children attend when and as long as they choose. Many parents do not send their children at all, and their place is very imperfectly supplied by religious training at home. Hence, the growing indifference to and neglect of all religious duties, and inappreciation of religious truth, as shown in all classes by their giving up so largely any connection with the church, their absorption in worldly pleasures and pursuits, the frequency of divorce, avoidance of parental obligations, etc., and the fearful increase in crime. At the beginning of the last century statistics showed that there was an average of one criminal in every 3000 of the population; now there is one in every 800. And one cannot pick up a single newspaper without seeing a long list of murders, suicides and every other crime committed daily.

To what can all this be due, except the neglect of the religious education of the young? Is there any subject, therefore, which calls for more earnest and thoughtful consideration by the members of all religious denominations, and by all intelligent and thoughtful men, who have the welfare of their country and the happiness and safety of their own homes at heart?

PARISH NOTES.

EASTER.—As this number of the NEWS does not come out until after Easter, we are enabled to say something of it. In spite of the unfortunate illness of our Curate from an attack of Grippe, which kept him away from the church for over two weeks, including Holy Week, the Rector was able to get through all the services with the help of one or two clergymen. By Easter Even the Curate was out again and took his share of the duty on Easter Day. It was a beautiful day and the services all well attended. There were more Communions made at all the services than last year. The offerings were a little over $700, about the same as last year. Can we not make up the $1000 asked for, before May 1st?

THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL EASTER SERVICE.—On the afternoon of Easter Day at 3.30 o'clock, the children of the Sunday-school took part in their Easter school service. Mr. Thayer, our kind organist, played a march and the school marched silently to their seats. Then a carol was sung, a brief Office said and another carol sung. The Superintendent, Mr. Walker, then made some earnest remarks to the children, who have learned to value very highly their kind friend and leader, and then came another carol. At its close, the Processional Versicle and Response were sung, and the entire school, scholars, teachers, choir and clergy, made the circuit of the church, singing the carol, "The world itself keeps Easter Day."

After the procession, the Rector spoke some loving words to his children, as did also the Curate; and then it was that a gift from the school was made to the Rector. After the collection of the money gathered since the autumn for St. Saviour's Mission in China, and some remarks by Mr. Witmer, another carol was sung, the closing prayers said and the choir retired, they and the school singing, "Jesus Christ is risen to-day."

After the close of the service, there were given to the children and teachers a pot of living flowers, the result of the kind efforts of Mr. Witmer in behalf of the children.

The attendance at this service was larger than usual and the occasion was happy and bright. About 130 children were present, with 40 or 50 grown people; the day was beautiful, the flowers were fragrant and we have happy memories of our Easter afternoon.

A GIFT TO THE CHURCH.—On Palm Sunday, the St. Agnes' Guild of little girls experienced a great pleasure. They meet once a week for devotions, instruction and play, and at each meeting they pay a very small sum to the Guild treasury as their offering. For many weeks they have been much interested in the growth of these collections, for out of them they wanted to buy something for the church.

So after anxious discussion, it was decided that we would order from Geissler in New York, a piece of brass work. The Chaplain, therefore, asked Mr. Geissler to send us some photographs of various things and from them we selected the best lighter and extinguisher for the altar candles that he had. In due time it arrived, and a committee, with the whole Guild, visited the Rector in his sacristy on Palm Sunday, and presented the lighter to him.

It is an improvement upon the two articles which were in use before and which seemed to have almost outlived their beauty, if not their usefulness.

A GIFT TO THE RECTOR.—At the Children's Sunday-school service a pleasant feature was the presentation to the Rector of a token of love from the school. As a result of a single suggestion to the school, on one Sunday, on the next Sunday offerings were made and a handsome silk umbrella was presented to him at the service. The cordial acceptance of the suggestion by the school made the gift a token of real and reverent affection for their Pastor by his children.

AN EASTER ENTERTAINMENT OF THE SCHOOL.—On Thursday, April 21st at 8 p. m., it is proposed to give in the Parish building, an entertainment for the school and largely by the school. If all goes well, there may be expected such things as a Maypole Dance, a Fan Drill, Boys' Minstrel Show, some concerted pieces by young men, banjos and other instruments, something by the little tots, and last, but by no means least, some account of the "Troubles of Saturday" by seven young ladies from West Philadelphia, who have very kindly consented to help us.

It is suggested that each teacher and scholar in the school be given a complimentary ticket and that other persons be charged five cents for admission. We think we can promise a varied and pleasant evening to those who care to be with us at that time.

LECTURE—A lecture was given in the Parish House on the evening of March 16, by Miss Banfield, Superintendent of the Polyclinic Hospital. It was well attended.

The lecture treated of the care to be taken in avoiding contagious diseases, boiling and filtering the drinking water, the great necessity of vaccination, and some important suggestions on the care of the little children. We thank Miss Banfield warmly.

COLLECTION FOR MISSIONS.—The mite boxes of the school have so far contained $45.00, and no doubt a number more boxes will yet be returned. This amount is about $6.00 more than last year and we hope it will be increased to $10.00 additional.

The money, as announced at the beginning of Lent, will be sent to St. Saviour's Mission, Wuchang, China, where thorough work is being done by a body of clergy living in community under the direction of the Bishop.

S. MARY'S GUILD is manifesting new life. Eight new members have recently been received, and the weekly attendance is much larger than it had been for some time. The Guild made a number of garments during Lent to be used in the Mission work of the Parish. It provided the flowers for the Altar on the Feast of the Annunciation, the anniversary day of the Guild, and gave five dollars toward the Easter offering. It is now rehearsing a short play to be given at the Parish Tea.

THE MEN'S BIBLE CLASS, taught by Miss M. A. L. Neilson, has been discontinued for the season, Miss Neilson has not been able to continue it, and no person being found to take her place. Miss Neilson, although not a member of the Parish, has kindly taught this class for several years and we are sure her labors have been much appreciated.

The members of the class have placed in the hands of the Rector some $90, their collections for the past two winters, to be used for the benefit of the church. He will apply it toward the payment of our mortgage debt. In addition to this the class placed the window with the figure of S. Andrew in the clerestory of the church a year ago.

HOW TO USE THE ENVELOPES.

1. Let each one fix upon a sum to be set apart each Sunday for the support of the Church.

2. Let this sum be a just and conscientious measure of your ability, not too large so that you will not keep it up during the whole year, and not so small that it will not come up to the standard of what in justice you ought to give.

3. When Sunday comes put this amount in your envelope whether you can go to Church or not. Let no Sunday pass without the setting apart of this offering to Almighty God.

4. If you cannot make your offering in person send it by some one else, or keep it until you can take it yourself.

5. Never let your envelopes accumulate at home without being filled each Sunday with the regular offering. It is in this way that people get so far behind that they become discouraged and give up the system, and so fail in a plain practical duty.

We are convinced that the large majority of those who use the envelopes esteem it a privilege to give in this way, and that it draws them nearer to the Church. At any rate the system has the divine warrant of Holy Scripture, for one of the Apostolic injunctions to the first Christians had reference to this very thing, "upon the first day of the week let every one of you lay by him in store as God hath prospered him."

—St. Mary's Chimes.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION.

In our last issue we called attention to the very serious neglect of the religious education of the young in this country. We make now the following suggestions for the remedy of that evil.

First, in regard to our public schools. It is, of course, impossible, owing to the unhappy divisions which exist among Christians, for any instruction to be given in them which would be in any way peculiar to any one denomination. But there are many things upon which not only all Christian denominations, but those of different religions are agreed. The great principles of morality are the same for all. Take the Ten Commandments, they are accepted by Jew and Christian alike. Even the fourth Commandment, enjoining a weekly day of rest, is accepted and enforced by the laws of the country. Why should not this code then be taught in our public schools? So with the Lord's Prayer, though it owes its authorship to the Founder of Christianity, there is not an expression in it which could not be used by the Jew, or the professor of even natural religion. So it would be perfectly possible to frame a collection of moral aphorisms, selected, say, from the Sermon on the Mount, to which every one believing in morality and virtue at all, could give assent. And it would be of immense advantage to our youth if they were made to commit such things to memory as part of their educational curriculum.

And as this is professedly a Christian nation, our courts have declared it to be such, why should not the Apostles' Creed, which we believe is accepted by every Christian denomination, Catholic and Protestant alike, be added to that curriculum?

Of course all Jewish children and those whose parents are atheists or agnostic would have to be excused from learning it, if their parents had conscientious scruples as to their doing so, but that would be perfectly reasonable and practicable. This is always done in English public schools where there is professedly religious teaching.

If it is said that giving this definite religious teaching would be contrary to the provision of the Constitution against the recognition of any particular religion, the answer is, it would not be more so than the present practice of reading the Scriptures, reciting the Lord's Prayer and singing hymns. But it would be vastly more effective and practically useful.

As to how the Churches shall teach the young other than they do, we would suggest that the clergy should personally discharge this duty, and not leave it as so many do to such Sunday-school teachers as they can get, most of whom are very ill-fitted for the task. Personal teaching and catechising by the clergy ought to be, as it was formerly, not occasional, but part of every Sunday's duty of the clergy. If, in addition, men of culture and intelligence could be gotten to give themselves to Sunday-school work, and not leave it to untaught boys and girls, it would be so much the better. Then, all parents should be impressed more with their duty and responsibility of seeing that their children receive religious training, either from themselves personally or those whom they know to be competent to give it. Let them see that their children go to church with them, teaching them thus in the most effective way by object lessons, and that they cultivate in them habits of devotion. The present widespread neglect of religion is due more than anything else to the supineness and weakness of parents in not bringing their children up with the habit of going to church. Some fear giving them a distaste of religion thereby, but the danger of their growing up in ignorance of the principles of religion or coming to consider it a matter of little or no importance, is far greater.

Youth is the seed-time of life. "Train up a child in the way in which he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it."

PARISH NOTES.

THE SUNDAY AFTERNOON SERVICE at 4 o'clock has been discontinued owing to the great falling off of late in the attendance. This service has been maintained for many years during the winter months in order to accommodate those who did not care to go out to church at night. But as there seem to be now so few who care for it, it is not worth while to keep it up.

ASCENSIONTIDE.—We shall observe the Feast of the Ascension, our special parochial festival, as in former years, with celebrations of the Holy Communion in the morning at 7 o'clock and after Prayers at 10.30 A. M., and with a special choral service in the evening at 8 P. M., at which time the Rector will preach the anniversary sermon, which, it is hoped, every one in the parish will attend. On the following Sunday will be the anniversary of all the parish guilds, when a special sermon will be preached to them by the Rev. Dr. Mortimer, Rector of S. Mark's Church.

On Tuesday, May 17th, our Annual Parish Tea will take place, at which we hope to see all our adult parishioners or any of their friends they care to bring with them. The boys of the Choir will be given a supper on the following evening at 7 P. M.

VESTRY ELECTION.—At the annual election held on Easter Monday, the following gentlemen were duly elected to serve for the ensuing three years: Mr. Harry B. French, Mr. John H. Mason, Mr. John S. Newbold and Mr. George B. Warder.

At the subsequent meeting of the Vestry, Mr. Francis S. Keese was re-appointed Rector's Warden, Mr. William C. Lloyd was re-elected Accounting Warden, and Mr. David L. Witmer, Dr. Thomas R. Neilson and Mr. John S. Newbold were elected delegates to the Diocesan Convention.

THE CHORAL SOCIETY, which has been held on Tuesday evenings during the winter, has completed its second quarter and will be discontinued during the summer. Its members will give an exhibition of their proficiency at the Parish Tea.

GIFTS TO THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL.—An effort is being made to make the Sunday-school room a little more attractive. Mr. Walker has procured two long strips of carpeting for the floor, and Mrs. Hirst has presented us with two handsome framed pictures for the walls. We are very grateful to both kind friends.

THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL.—We are sorry to have lost from among our officers Mr. Wm. E. Linton, who has been for months our faithful Secretary. His business duties will hereafter prevent his regular attendance at the sessions of the School. Mr. Irwin Conger, the former Assistant Secretary, takes the post of Secretary, and Mr. Wm. Holmes becomes Assistant Secretary.

We have lost from the rank of our teachers Mr. A. E. Shaw, who has been called to Springfield, Mass., the home office of his insurance company, and we greatly regret his going; we are, however, glad to welcome Miss Walshe, as his successor. Our staff of teachers is now full, and it is a fact that everyone of them attends regularly on Sunday afternoons. This cannot be said of every Sunday-school.

THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENT.—On Thursday, April 21st, at 8 P. M., in the Parish Building, we had one of the most successful School merry-makings within our memory. The night was all that could be desired, every one was in a happy mood and nothing occurred to mar the pleasure of the affair.

There was a programme too long to be inserted in detail here, but consisting of recitations, songs, May-pole, fan drill, banjo, etc., etc.

We must especially thank those who came from outside of the Parish for the pleasure they gave us. Seven young ladies from different parishes in West Philadelphia presented the stirring little comedy, "Troubles at Satterlee's," while the Wagner Club provided a novel and amusing minstrel show. Both of these features were greatly enjoyed by the crowded audience.

SPRING SPORTS.—At the last meeting of S. John's Guild, a committee was appointed to arrange for the annual spring sports, on Monday, May 23d, at 8 P. M.

Active preparations are in progress and a band of young men are training every week, under the guidance of a professional trainer. Tickets have been distributed among the members of the Guild for sale. The price of admission and of reserved seats will be small, and we think the congregation ought to show their interest in this department of the parochial work, by thus encouraging the young men's efforts to energize the parish life.

ORGAN RECITAL.—On Tuesday evening, May 24th, by organist of the church. An offering will be taken for the benefit of the Choir Boys' Summer Outing.

PLEASURE SEEKINGS.—On Tuesday, April 12th, our little Choir on Wednesday nights was taken by the Curate to Keith's New Theatre, and had fun watching the wonderful things to be seen there. Acrobats, funny men, midgets, Chinese, bicycle man, etc., etc.

On Tuesday, April 26th, the St. Agnes' Guild repaired to Bostock's Animal Show. Thirteen little girls and four grown people formed the party, and if those animals have any sense of appreciation at all, they must have valued our enthusiastic presence. We had to go and return in a heavy rain, which kept several other members of the Guild at home. Peanuts on the first occasion and Mr. Goodridge's candy on the second added their charms.

TWO EARLY WEEKDAY CELEBRATIONS.—We now have a Celebration of the Holy Communion on every Tuesday and Friday at 7 A. M., and we have reason to be thankful for the attendance. The average attendance for one year (omitting the summer) at the Tuesday Celebration has been eight, and this included all the severe days of this past stormy winter. The average attendance at the Friday Celebration, which only began in Lent, has been nine.

Are there not others in the congregation, who would be willing to come on one of these mornings to make an act of praise and worship to their Divine Redeemer?

THE PAROCHIAL YEAR

We held our parish anniversary service as usual on the evening of Ascension Day, and the Rector gave a review of the history of the parish for the past year. We publish in this number the full report to the Bishop of the Diocese of the spiritual and financial statistics for the year, which the Rector read, and we repeat here the chief comments which he made upon them, for the benefit of those who were not present, and we are sorry to say that the congregation was not large, though it was a beautiful service and an interesting occasion.

The number of baptisms, confirmations, etc., for the year was just about the same as those for the year before. The number of additions to the Communicant list about equal the losses through deaths and removal, though the number of deaths was exceedingly small, only three. These were Mrs. Rebecca McAfee, long a member of the Mothers' Meeting; Mr. William Jones, who had been in the choir as boy and man almost continuously since 1881, and Miss Blanche Dodson, at one time a teacher in our Industrial School. The numbers in the Sunday-school have been about the same as the previous year, though the attendance of both teachers and scholars has been more regular. The interest in the Guilds has been well kept up, and a new one formed of little girls, for their instruction in Church principles and amusement. The number of services has been increased by the addition of a number of celebrations of the Holy Communion on some week days at an hour (7 A. M.) which has been found more convenient for many to attend. The Mothers' Meeting and other charitable organizations have been well kept up and been of service to quite a number of people.

In regard to the financial report for the year about the same thing can be said, that it is up to the average of late years. The total receipts for all parochial purposes were curiously just 65 cents more than those for the year before. The total receipts from offerings for all purposes were about $50 less.

It will be noticed, however, that the total expenses exceeded the total receipts from all sources by about $600. This was met by the amount we had on hand at the beginning of the year, which was realized from the Bazaar held in the previous autumn and which we had put by to be used as a reserve fund. Having been used we had hoped that it might have been put back again, but as a matter of fact, we have only about $400 of it left, which will hardly take us through the coming year.

The fact we have to face is, that our income does not equal our expenses, and we ought to make strenuous efforts to increase it. The best way to do this is for every one in the parish to contribute towards its support through the envelope system, which has been adopted by the Vestry for the purpose. Out of our 500 and more Communicants only about 200 use the envelopes. Of course, there are a few others who conscientiously and regularly contribute as much as they would if they did use them. But we are afraid that the remaining members of the parish give very little towards its support, nothing like what they would if they were renting pews. We call upon every one who has an income to give regularly a proportion of that income towards the support and carrying on of the work of the church, and to give it as regularly and largely as they would if they received the equivalent of a reserved seat. If all would do this we would not be obliged to resort, as we are compelled to from time to time, to entertainments and sales to make our ends meet.

Another thing needed is that our people should be more regular in their attendance at the church services. Though we have enough Communicants to fill the church if they were all present, we seldom get half of them out at one time. Some are as regular as clockwork, never miss a Sunday. Others come only occasionally. This is to their own loss, and to the injury of the parish, for nothing leads more to the increase of a church than for strangers to come to it and see it already well attended. Will not our people think of their duty in this matter, what they owe to Almighty God, the spiritual benefit they might gain for themselves and good they can do to others by setting an example in their own appreciation of spiritual privileges?

In reviewing the year as a whole, it is evident that we have held our own very well, which we suppose is doing as much as could be expected considering the losses we have sustained of late by deaths and removals, and that there is still no improvement in the immediate neighborhood of the church.

In the belief that that improvement must some day come, when the church will be able to do a much larger work than it has as yet, and that in the meantime it is doing a steady and good work and is reaching and benefiting a goodly number of people, shall we not all hold together and be as faithful and work as hard as we can for, and take as much interest as we should in this our parish church?

PARISH NOTES

THE ASCENSION.—We cannot say that our parochial festival is observed with as much enthusiasm as we should like to see. The festival, generally, is not kept in the church, as, from the importance of its teaching, it deserves to be. And the time of the year in which it occurs is one in which our churches have already begun to thin out, owing to removals to the country. But as it is the name day of our parish our people ought to turn out better than they do. Not more than 75 people, outside of the choir, were in the church on Ascension night when the Rector preached the anniversary sermon. We give the substance of what he said, that more of our people may familiarize themselves with the condition of their parish.

The Rev. Dr. Mortimer preached an excellent sermon at the Annual Guild Service. The Girls' Guilds made a good showing in numbers, we cannot say as much of the boys.

The Parish Tea was well attended, as it always is, and passed off very pleasantly with music from the Choral Society and a very pretty Japanese fan drill. We are glad to see so many of our people and their friends turn out on these occasions and hope it will tend to attach them to their parish.

THE SUMMER SERVICES.—There will be no changes in the Sunday services during the summer, they will keep up just as they have been, except that the Litany will not be said on Sunday mornings.

The daily services will be discontinued, prayers being said only on Wednesdays and Fridays at 10 A. M., and the Holy Communion as usual on all holy days, and on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays. The Rector expects to be away from the parish for two months, July and August, this year, the first time he has been absent so long for the nearly twenty-four years he has been Rector. While he is away the parish will be in charge of the Curate. He can be communicated with at any time at the church, which will be open, as usual, all day throughout the summer.

SUMMER OUTING FOR THE CHOIR.—The choirmaster is anxious to give the choir boys a treat in the country sometime during the summer. The organ recital he gave for this purpose realized $14. But this sum will not be sufficient for the purpose. He will be glad to receive any donations from those disposed to reward the boys in this way for their good work during the winter.

S. Agnes' Guild Pictures. — The young people of this Guild have had their pictures taken in a group. It is difficult to get a considerable number of people together and we are sorry there were four children absent. As it was, there were 17 present, together with seven of their friends and their director.

The Guild has been faithful in attendance at their weekly meetings, and it has been a comfort to their pastors to have so many of them present every Sunday to meet their Saviour at His Altar-throne.

If any of the congregation care to have a copy of the group, it can be had at a cost of 50 cents.

The Sunday-school's Closing Service.—The regular sessions of the school will close on Sunday, June 5th, when the closing service will take place. We hope to have a bright, joyous service and ask the congregation to join us in this Children's Evensong. Why do so few of the older people come to meet the young people at their meetings for worship or fun?

A number of teachers and others have undertaken to gather and procure flowers, we hope to have a floral arch, prizes will be awarded for attendance, the honor roll for the month will be read, a report of the school for the past year will be made, and we hope to have a visiting priest to speak to the school. We have much for which to be thankful for the school's past season. The prizes have been ordered from New York, are handsomely enameled in red and white on silver, and nearly 50 will be distributed.

The Summer Sunday-school.—This summer we are to try the experiment of having the school meet in the afternoon at the usual hour, 2.30 P. M. The session will begin at 2.30 P. M. and only last half an hour, closing at 3 P. M. Several of the teachers have promised to attend and we hope the children will come.

The Sunday-school Picnic.—We shall have our Sunday-school picnic during the summer, but the exact date cannot be stated at present. The children, and those of their friends who care to attend, may count upon its taking place.

Choir Boys' Tea.—On Wednesday, May 18th, the choir boys had their annual Tea in the Parish Building. Twenty-five of them were seated at the table and enjoyed the ice cream and strawberries and cake. Some speeches were made by the boys and a pleasant time was spent.

The Spring Sports.—The seventeenth annual sports of S. John's Guild took place on Monday, May 23d, at 8 P. M. About 75 people were present, which was more than twice as many as last year, and 14 young men were on the floor, which was about twice as many as last year. The prizes were awarded to Mr. Robert Lindsay for the largest number of points made during the evening, and his name will be engraved upon the Cup. To Mr. Lindsay was also awarded a medal for the best jumping and running; to Mr. James Adams a medal for the best all around athletics, and to Mr. John McCracken a sweater for the best high jumping.

Sunday Afternoon Services

For many years we have had in this parish two evening services on Sunday, one at 4 P.M. and one at 7.45 P.M. excepting during the summer months, when the one in the afternoon was omitted. The object of having the two services was because there are some people in the parish who preferred to go to church in the afternoon and some who preferred the evening. And for a long time these services were equally well attended; sometimes there would be more present in the afternoon and sometimes more at night. But for the last few years the attendance at the afternoon service has been steadily falling off. This has been due, first, to the fact that a number of persons who attended this service regularly have died or removed from the parish; secondly, because of the removal of so many of our people from the immediate neighborhood of the church, and who, though they still retain their connection with it, find it impossible to attend its services more than once a day; thirdly, owing to the change in the habits of church people, so many now-a-days using Sunday afternoon for going into the country, visiting or other occupations.

Certain it is that from these or other causes the Sunday afternoon attendance not only in our church, but in almost every other in the city, has greatly fallen off in late years. In our church it became last year so small that it was manifestly absurd to keep it up; requiring the attendance of a large choir when perhaps there was not more than a half dozen people in the congregation. So the Rector discontinued it after April, and it is not proposed to revive it this winter.

This service is less necessary in our parish than it is in others, because we have always in the afternoon a service for children. The time allowed for this service was hardly sufficent when we had the four o'clock service, it being sometimes not over before it was time for the latter service to begin. The giving up therefore of the four o'clock service will afford more time for the children's service and allow it to begin a little later, which will be a great comfort to the teachers who have found it hard to get home after the morning service and be back again for the Sunday-school at half past two o'clock. It is proposed therefore, hereafter to have the Sunday-school begin at 2.45 P. M. and the Children's Service in church at 3.30 P. M., which will give the teachers more time with their scholars, which they have wanted, and yet the service in the church will be over about the same time it usually has been.

In addition to this it is proposed to make that service more such an one as those adults who prefer to go to church in the afternoon might like to attend, and one we think which will be more profitable for the children themselves. Heretofore for some years the children's service has consisted simply of the singing of hymns, a metrical Litany, which they had printed on a card, the recitation of the Creed, a few versicals and collects sung by the Priest. Now, this service is not in the Prayer Book and does not in the least familiarize the children with the Prayer Book or teach them how to use it. And yet this is the only service the majority of the children in our Sunday-school now attend. They do not come and their parents do not bring them to any other, and so they grow up without learning or understanding the distinctive principles of worship in the Episcopal Church. And such a service is a very unsatisfying one for an adult.

It is proposed, therefore, this winter to have the children's service consist of a shortened form of the regular evening prayer of the Prayer Book. It will consist of, first, a sentenee, then the Lord's Prayer and regular versicles, one Psalm from the Psalter, one Lesson, one of the evening Canticles, the Creed, versicles and three Collects. This will accustom the children to the regular worship of the church and teach them how to handle the Prayer Book, there being plenty of Prayer Books in the seats, and the teachers will show them how to find the places. It will make also a service which many adults may be glad to attend, and the instruction will be adapted to them as well as to children. We shall hope to see many there. As there will not be both an afternoon and evening service, one of which has been taken by the Rector and the other by the Curate. Both the Rector and Curate will be ordinarily present at the evening service, and they will share the preaching between them.

PARISH NOTES

SUMMER OUTINGS.—On June 4th the Industrial School was invited, by its kind Principal, to a day in the Park. About sixty-five children attended, under the guidance of some of their teachers, and spent a pleasant day. Games, romps and refreshments caused the time to fly only too quickly.

CHOIR BOYS' CAMP.—The Choir Master and seventeen of his choir went to camp, at Florence, N. J., on Monday, July 25th, and returned on Tuesday, August 2d. Happy days were spent and a night or so of rain did not in the least dampen the enthusiasm of the merry jaunt. Fishing, boating, ball playing, country strolling, filled the days, and left pleasant memories behind.

Two nights it rained so that cots had to be stood on edge, and adjournment made to a Palm House; but this only added fun to the experiences.

BRIGADE TO CAMP.—The Boys' Brigade also had their summer outing. They pitched their tents at Perkiomen. This year they joined forces with the boys of Christ Church, Franklinville, all under the direction of the Rev. W. B. Gilpin. Thirty Christ Church boys and fifteen Ascension boys, with several adults formed the party. Their return was made during the following week, not all in one party. The two sets of boys made friends, and remember their camp with pleasure.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL PICNIC.—On Saturday, July 16th, the Sunday-school went for their annual picnic to Belmont in the Park.

The picnic was larger than last year and the storm of the previous time was not repeated. The weather was charming and every one had a good time.

Eight prizes for success in sports were given to the little boys, 6 to the young men (of whom we were glad to see such an unusual number present), 4 prizes to the little girls and one prize to the young ladies for a running match. Ice cream to the extent of twenty quarts was a welcome visitor in the afternoon, and two trolley cars brought us home tired and happy.

THERE have been two picnics given to the members of "The Mothers' Meeting," both of which were enjoyed by the mothers and children. Quite a number of children, whose mothers belong to the Meeting, and others, have been to the couutry, on visits of two weeks each.

A basket of flowers was received August 25th from "The Flower Mission of Haddonfield, New Jersey. Bouquets numbering forty, were distributed.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL.—The closing service of the school took place on Sunday, June 5th, at 8 P. M. It poured rain before the service and so hard after service that many of the congregation had to delay leaving the church. Notwithstanding this there were 120 people in the church and a bright festal service was offered to God.

The Rev. W. A. McClellan spoke most interestingly to the children and they will not soon forget the story of the guilds and the lesson the speaker taught them.

ST. AGNES' GUILD feast, July 9th, was the time when the St. Agnes' Guild formally closed its meetings for the summer, and the event was marked by a feast.

Seven adults and 37 children took part. The Guild's treasury provided the ice cream and the children brought the cakes. They were so generous in the latter that we sent several bundles of uncut ones to the House of the Holy Child the next day. So the children themselves paid the cost of their own entertainment. This is true with the exception that the Superior added enough to the treasury to enable it to pay for the cream. We are very grateful to her for this kindness.

A brief office, an instruction by their Director and their recitations, songs and games, occupied the evening. It was not entirely an old ladies' party, for the girls invited some boys, who added to our pleasure.

ST. JOHN'S GUILD PICTURES.—At the beginning of the summer the Guild met in the yard of the church and the group was photographed.

The picture proved to be good and forms a pleasant memorial of the winter's meetings. Some of us will keep and prize it as a souvenir of pleasant evenings spent together.

WOMEN'S GUILD.—We hope to see all the ladies of the congregation at the annual meeting of the Women's Guild on the morning of SS. Simon and Jude's day, October 28th. The work of the different chapters for the coming year will be arranged.

THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL re-opens this month. We trust all the teachers and scholars will be in their places on the first Sunday at 2.45 P. M.

NEW HYMNALS are very much needed for the choir. Is there not some one in the congregation who would like to present some, as there are no funds in hand to purchase any?

ENVELOPES.—Will not all who are back in their envelopes kindly make them up as soon as possible, as the Warden has not funds sufficient in hand to meet the salaries, etc., now due?

Over $300 are due on account of unpaid envelopes. If this and some other money due the Church were paid, all our obligations could be met

FOR THE CHURCH DEBT.—Where the Rector was this summer a dramatic entertainment was given and the proceeds handed to him for his Church, in recognition of the services he redered there on Sundays. It amounted to $67.

A SCHEME TO GET RID OF OUR CHURCH DEBT

We think the time has come to make a determined effort to get rid of the mortgage debt upon our church property. The finances of an individual or of a corporation are not in a healthy condition while they are burdened with debt. This is especially true of a church and above all a free church which depends for its support entirely upon voluntary offerings. When we began the building of this church there was a mortgage of $25.000 on the property. This has been gradually reduced by gifts and legacies to $10,500. But even this amount of debt necessitates our payment every year of over $500 in interest, which is not only so much money thrown away as it were, but it is just about that sum that we come short every year in failing to meet our current expenses, and so necessitates our resorting constantly to fairs and entertainments to make up the deficit. If we could get rid of our debt, we might consider ourselves as fairly self-supporting.

Moreover, by November, 1905, if he lives so long and remains in the parish, our Rector will have completed the twenty-fifth year of his rectorship, and it would be particularly appropriate and a great gratification to him if by that time the church could be entirely freed from debt. Can we not if we make a determined and united effort accomplish that result in the year intervening, so that the church which he has been the instrument of building might be solemly consecrated on the twenty-fifth anniversary of his entering upon its rectorship to the worship of Almighty God forever, which cannot be done until the property is free from any indebtedness.

In thinking over how this might be accomplished it has occurred to some members of the parish that some such scheme as the following might be practicable.

We ought to raise about $12.000. This would pay off the $10.500 mortgage, replace our reserve fund, which we have again used up since our bazaar, and leave $500 to make some needed repairs to our parish building. Now if this amount were divided up in some such way as the following the whole would be raised: If forty persons would agree to give or raise within one year from this November $100 each that would be $4,000. If eighty more would give $50 each that would be another $4,000. If eighty would give $25 each that would be $2,000. If one hundred would give $10 each that would be $1,000, and if two hundred would give $5 each that would be $1,000, and the total would make the required $12,000. We capitulate:

Total,			$12,000

It would require five hundred persons to make up this number of contributions and we have over that number of registered communicants, and there are others who are attendants or interested in the parish who might be willing to join in this movement. Some who could not afford to give the larger sums themselves might obtain them by soliciting from their friends or by giving small entertainments of their own, or by working in various ways and selling what they make. Some might prefer to make their gifts in weekly instalments. This would mean—

		Per week
$100	in the year would be in round numbers	$2.00

Are there not five hundred persons sufficiently interested in our church and good work it has been doing for these twenty-five years among all classes of people, and who want to see it relieved of the burden of debt and put on a permanent foundation, who will be willing to fill up these figures?

Perhaps some would give more than $100, and thus take the place of several of those who cannot afford to give as much.

We think this scheme ought to be tried, that now is a good time to put it into operation, and we believe it will be successful. Of course all persons contributing in this way must remember that what they give must not be taken away from what they are now giving weekly to the support of the church, or what they are in the habit of giving at Christmas and Easter, for the current expenses of the church are going on all the time just the same and have to be met.

A circular setting forth this scheme will be sent to all the present and former members of the parish who can be reached, and any responding to it can send their contributions directly to the rector or accounting warden. Envelopes marked for "the church debt" will also be sent out hereafter with every set of envelopes and can be filled and placed in the plate at any service. Those desiring to have envelopes for weekly contributions will be supplied with them on application to one of the clergy As these contributions come in they will be immediately paid on account of the mortgage, which can be done by agreement at any time in sums of $500, thus relieving the church at once of paying interest on that amount.

Let every one in the parish take part in this scheme and the result desired will be accomplished.

PARISH NOTES

DONATIONS.—Five dollars were received last month in response to our appeal for new hymnals, and fifteen dollars were given for new linen for the altar, which was much needed, and five dollars were given to be used at the Rector's discretion. Offerings of this kind which are given without solicitation are most acceptable.

ENVELOPES for the new quarter are sent out the beginning of this month. They include three specials, one for the church debt, one for the Christmas offering, and one for general missions. Will not every one attending the church take and use these envelopes? It is the only way in which a free church can receive a regular, systematic income, and the benevolent objects for which contributions should be made receive due attention. There are always blank forms in the rack just inside the main door of the church which any one can take and fill up and mail to the warden, or put in the alms-box in the vestibule, when the envelopes will be sent in return.

WOMEN'S GUILD.—The anniversary of the Guild took place on SS. Simon and Jude's day. The reports of the various chapters for the past year were read and work arranged for the coming winter. All the different committees begin work with this month: the Ladies' Aid to sew for the church on Wednesdays at 2 P. M.; the Mothers' Meeting after service on Wednesday evenings; the Embroidery Class on Thursdays after morning prayer; the Missionary Society on the first Friday of each month at the same hour, and the Industrial School on Saturdays at 10 A. M. Workers and donations of money or materials are needed for all these departments of church work. Each member of the parish is asked to take part in or help them in some way. The chief needs of contributions are for the missionary work and the Mothers' Meeting, and for the altar fund, which provides for the care and washing of all the linen of the church, and flowers each Sunday for the altar. The ladies attending the meeting of the Guild also took up with much enthusiasm the plan we propound in this number of the NEWS for getting rid of our church debt and resolve to push it. $250 were subscribed to it on the spot. Only by every one in the parish interesting themselves and seeing what they can give personally and what they can induce others to give can this end be accomplished. We have a year to do it in; let us see if it cannot be successfully carried through in that time, and the church made absolutely free from debt and saved from an annual deficit in its receipts.

THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL.—The sessions of the Sunday-school were resumed on the first Sunday in October. The hour of beginning has been changed to 2 45 P.M., the service in the church to 3.30 P.M. This year we are using a series of cards containing each Sunday a portion of the Church Catechism, together with a picture of some sacred subject and a description of it. After the class instruction in the parish building the school marches into the church for a brief service, and an instruction is given to the school upon the portion of the Catechism printed on that Sunday's card. We hope thus to teach the children the words and some of the meanings of the church's official Catechism.

OFFICERS NEEDED FOR THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL.—We are in need of two or three men to help us in the management of the sessions of the school. There is a large amount of work required in the way of supervision, record of attendance, distribution of books, cards, maintaining of order, arranging of classes, seeing that they are provided with teachers, and all the other details involved in the conduct of a school. Will not some one in the congregation offer himself for this labor for God's children?

NEW TEACHERS.—We welcome as new teachers in the school Miss Eppecht, Miss Barker, and Miss Wagner.

BOYS GUILDS.—The Junior Branch of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew.—Our choirmaster, Mr. Walter St. Clare Knodle, has been appointed its Superior. The intention of the society is to do spiritual work among the youths of the parish in inspiring them with a zeal for their own growth in grace and the spread of Christ's kingdom among other boys. It is designed to be a spiritual organization and to prepare boys and young men for membership in the Senior Branch of the Brotherhood.

A Junior St. John's Guild has been formed. This is composed of young men and boys who are too young for the Senior St. John's Guild. The chief feature is gymnastic and athletic work, and has as its instructor Mr. James Adams.

S. Alban's Guild of Servers held its first meeting for this winter October 26th. Nine were present and their duties were arranged for some weeks ahead. It will meet again before Christmas.

The scheme of guilds in the parish seems now complete. We have the Junior and the Senior St. John's Guild for the boys and men; the St. Agnes and the St. Mary's Guilds for the younger and older girls; the Junior and Senior Brotherhood of St. Andrew for the spiritual training and work of the male portion of the parish, and there is the St. Alban's Guild for servers.

AN EVENING OF MAGIC.—St. Agnes' Guild has secured the services of Professor Razarf, one of the best professional magicians of the city, to give them and their friends an evening of tricks in magic and sleight-of-hand on Monday, November 14th, at 8 P. M.

The little girls of the Guild will assist in the entertainment, and Mr. Chester F. Myers and the Messrs. Conger have kindly consented to help. So we shall have an unusually attractive affair. The cost of tickets will be only ten (10) cents and can be obtained from any member of the Guild or at the door on the night of the entertainment.

Come and encourage the children and pass a pleasant evening.

REDUCTION OF OUR DEBT

The Vestry of parish at its regular meeting on the first Thursday in November formally adopted the scheme for the payment of our church debt, which we suggested in our last issue, and authorized the Rector to appoint a committee of gentlemen and ladies of the parish to carry it into effect.

The Rector accordingly appointed as such committee—

Mr. William C. Lloyd,
Mr. John S. Newbold,
Mr. George B. Warder,
Mr. Richard Gilpin,
Mrs. John Mason,
Miss Maria L. Goodman,
Mrs. James Lafourcade.
Miss Charlotte W. Hare.

And these will be glad to associate with them any in the parish who may be willing to aid in the good work.

The committee met at the house of the Rector and organized by electing Mrs. John Mason as chairman and Mr. Wm. C. Lloyd as treasurer. They resolved that all moneys collected should be at once deposited in bank to the credit of the Church of the Ascension and paid on order of the chairman; also that the first and last $500 collected before November 30, 1905, should be placed to the credit of the reserve fund. unless specifically designated otherwise by the donors, and that the remainder should be paid on account of the mortgage as soon as it was received in sums making $500.

The committee also authorized the printing of the following circular in the name of the Vestry and mailing it, with an enclosed card of subscription and return envelope, to all the present and former members of the church and those in any way interested in it whose addresses could be obtained.

We print this circular here, as it may thus reach some eyes which otherwise might not see it :

To the Members, former Members, those who contributed towards the erection of, and all in any way interested in, the Free Church of the Ascension, Broad and South streets, Philadelphia:

The Vestry of the Church of the Ascension, Philadelphia, feels that the time has come when a determined effort should be made to free it from encumbrance. Nineteen years ago, when the property at Broad and South Sts. was purchased, a mortgage of $25,000 was placed upon it. This has gradually been reduced by gifts and legacies to $10,500. But even this sum is a burden upon a free church, which has few wealthy parishioners and prevents its being solemnly consecrated to its holy purposes. In November, 1905, our Rector, the Rev. G. Woolsey Hodge, will have completed, if he is alive and remains in the parish so long, the twenty-fifth year of his Rectorship. It would be singularly appropriate and a great gratification to him, if the church could be fully free from debt and consecrated by that time.

The Vestry therefore appeals to all those who are now, or who have at any time been connected with, the church, or any who are willing to aid in this worthy object, to contribute towards obtaining that result.

We need $12,000; of this $10,500 is the mortgage and the rest would replace a reserve fund which has been used for current expenses. To secure this sum, the Vestry propose the following plan. They ask :

40	persons to give	within a year	each	$100—$4,000
80	"	"	"	50— 4,000
80	"	"	"	25— 2,000
100	"	"	"	10— 1,000
200	"	"	"	5— 1,000
Total,				$12,000

This would enable every one interested in the parish to take part in this work according to their means, and no large sum would be asked from any one. Some might be willing to give more than the largest amount asked, thus taking the place of others who could not give so much. And others who could not give what they would like, might raise the amount by making and selling things or having little entertainments for the purpose. Those who cannot give what they desire at once, can do so in monthly or weekly installments, envelopes for which will be furnished on application to the Accounting Warden.

Contributions should be sent to the church to the care of Wm. C. Lloyd, Accounting Warden ; who will make due acknowlegement of them, or they may be placed on the plate at any service in an envelope marked "Church Debt".

Persons belonging to the parish contributing to this object must remember that what they give should be IN ADDITION to their ordinary contributions, as the current expenses of the church are going on all the time and have to be met in the usual way.

It is hoped that every one to whom this appeal is addressed will make some response to it, that so the plan may be accomplished and the parish relieved from its debt and enabled to continue unabated the good work it has been doing for the last twenty-four years.

By order of the Vestry,

FRANCIS L. KEESE,
Rector's Warden.
WILLIAM C. LLOYD,
Accounting Warden.
JOHN D. HENDERSON,
Secretary.

November, 1904.

On the third Sunday morning in November the Rector laid the whole matter before the congregation in a sermon in which he gave an historical review of the parish and stated its needs and prospects, urging every one to help in this effort to free it from all indebtedness.

During the following week the circular was sent out by mail, and the following responses have been so far received :

We propose each month to report the subscriptions thus received that the congregation may be kept informed of the progress which is being made.

PARISH NOTES

SAFEGUARDING THE FINANCES OF THE CHURCH.—At the last annual convention of the Diocese the Bishop Coadjutor called the attention of the delegates to the necessity of better safeguarding the finances of the parishes, as had been shown by some recent defalcations. In accordance with this suggestion our Vestry at its last regular meeting resolved to put the Accounting Warden under bonds, as is done with all treasurers of financial institutions, and requiring all checks drawn by him to be countersigned by the Rector.

The church should exercise the greatest care in all its business concerns to insure against loss, and to render those who give or leave money to churches certain that their donations will be used as they intend.

CHRISTMAS.—There will be celebrations of the Holy Communion on Christmas day at 6.30, 7.30 and 8.30 A. M., in addition to the services in the middle of the day.

The children's Christmas festival will take place on Holy Innocents day, December 28th, at 7.30 o'clock, after a short service in the church.

Special Christmas offerings are asked as usual from each member of the congregation. Those who are contributing for the reduction of the debt must not let that interfere with the usual special offering they give at Christmas to meet our current expenses, as they go on all the time just the same and must be met.

ST. JOHN'S GUILD.—An unusually interesting and enthusiastic meeting took place on November 7th. Among other business accomplished it was determined that the Guild would give a minstrel show during the winter for the benefit of the church debt fund. A competent committee was appointed and the prospects are bright for a really good entertainment.

Another action taken was the formation of a basket-ball team. Mr. W. E. Linton was appointed captain, and already systematic and hard work is being done in practice.

Several offers of money were made to defray the cost of the work of the Guild at the meeting.

ST. JOHN'S JUNIOR GUILD.—This Guild has already proved the wisdom of its formation. It has been meeting regularly every Thursday, and has had an average attendance of twelve boys On the first Thursday in the month the members said their office together and heard an address from their Director, after which they held their business meeting. On the other Thursdays gymnastic work has occupied their time.

ST. AGNES' GUILD ENTERTAINMENT.—On November 14th, at 8 P. M., sharp, the Guild gave an entertainment. We are not unduly boastful when we say that we feel sure everyone present did enjoy the evening. Prof. Razarf was most satisfactory in his wonderful feats of magic, and we shall hope some time to have him with us again. To Mr. Myers and Mr. Coates we are indebted for a very enjoyable sketch of school life. But the larger portion of the evening was occupied by the little girls themselves. The recitations and songs were really well done, and the performance of the bright comedy, "No Cure, No Pay," would have done credit to older actors. About 250 persons were present.

ST. AGNES' GUILD.—This society for the little girls of the parish is active and prospering. Some new members have been admitted this winter and almost all the old members are with us again. The saying of their office, which most of them now know by heart, and instruction by their Director, and more than half an hour of fun fill their evenings.

ST. AGNES' GUILD'S GIFT TO THE DEBT.—The little people of the Guild feel very proud that they are the first of the parish organizations to make a contribution to the Debt Fund.

They handed to the Rector on the Monday morning after their entertainment the sum of ten dollars, which was the larger portion of their profits from their show. So those who bought tickets encouraged the little performers, gave pleasure to the children, and in a tiny way helped the Debt Fund.

THE WEDNESDAY EVENING SERVICE AND SINGING.—The attendance at this service is increasing An instruction is given upon the Sunday-school Picture of the previous Sunday, and there is always a plenty to think about. At the last Singing meeting, after the service, we had nineteen present and the singing was hearty. We wish more of the congregation would come to the service, instruction and singing on Wednesday nights.

THE "Ascension Chapter" of the Junior Brotherhood of S. Andrew, which has been lately re-organized by Mr. Knodle, held two meetings in November and will continue to meet on the first and third Sunday evenings in each month at seven o'clock. A cordial invitation is extended to all the young men in the parish to become members of the chapter.

ON Sunday, November 20th, the members of the choir with the choirmaster rendered a musical service at the Eastern Penitentiary, which was greatly appreciated by those in charge and must have given much pleasure to the eleven hundred convicts imprisoned there.

WHAT IS CHRISTIANITY?

If some one from another country who had never heard of the Christian religion should suddenly come among us to go to our different churches what would he think the Christian religion was? He would go into one church and see an Altar handsomely vested and decorated with Cross and candles, and the service conducted with the use of vestments, incense, etc., and in a language perhaps the people did not understand. And if he learned the doctrines taught there he would be told that there is one supreme govenor of the whole church, who is able to teach infallibly what is true, and who must be obeyed implicitly, that the elements in the Eucharist are changed into the very body and blood of Christ, that the Blessed Virgin Mary is to be adored and prayers addressed to her as if she was God. And in another church he would see only a platform with a man on it in ordinary clothes, who would conduct service, the essential thing in which was a sermon, and where, very occasionally, the people, sitting in their pews would eat bread and drink wine as a memorial of the Death of Christ. And there he would find the people taught that they need not believe anything even about the most abstract and mysterious things, except what commended itself to each one personally.

Now would not a stranger going first into one and then into another of these churches naturally think that they were two different religions, or think that one was the Christian religion and one was not? But if he looked into the matter further he would find that both these different sets of people believed in the same God, and professed the same creeds; that they reverenced the same Holy Book and were all admitted into the Christian body by the same rite, that of baptism. The things on which they differ are not essential to salvation. A man may be saved whether he believes in the Pope and Transubstantiation or not, or whether he worships the Blessed Virgin Mary or not, or uses forms and ceremonies in his worship or not. These things are not essential. They are largely matters of taste and temperment. Of course, down to the time of the Reformation there was but one church and one form of worship. But since that event men have become so widely separated from each other, and adopted such different modes of worship and so many different doctrines have sprung up that it is hard for one set of Christians to understand an other, much less to worship together in the same way.

Of course, so long as some Christians make certain things, as the supremacy of the Pope, a sine qua non of their having any communion with them, there must be divisions among Christians. But it is a great mistake to make lesser things, such as mere forms and ceremonies, causes of division, or to look upon those who think differently or worship in a different way from ourselves as if they professed another religion. These differences have existed so long now, and so many have been brought up in one or the other way that it is impossible for many to understand each other, or believe that there is any truth or reality in any thing but what they themselves believe or do. But as people generally become better educated this ought not to be the case. People ought to learn to discriminate between what is essential and what is not, and so long as persons agree on the great truths of our religion, recognize them, as its sincere professors, though in immaterial things they may differ from us, or they may have other ways of expressing their devotion from those to which we are accustomed.

It is only as people become capable of doing this that there can be any hope of that final reunion of all Christians into one body, which is so much to be desired, being accomplished.

Let us realize that though, from temperament or habit, people may worship God in different ways, still if they all believe in the same God who has revealed Himself to men in the Christian religion, and have by baptism been admitted as members of that religion, they all belong to one and the same body.

PARISH NOTES

CHRISTMAS DAY, while typical Christmas weather, was too severe for many of our people, as the attendance was smaller than we usually have on a great festival. The church looked beautiful as usual, and the choir rendered that most beautiful of services, Guinod's St. Cecelia, very well. The offerings for the day amounted to $319. We trust others will yet come in to swell this amount. When Christmas occurs on a Sunday people should remember to give a special Christmas offering in addition to the one they give for Sunday.

MISSIONARY SERVICE.—There is a Missionary Society composed of the students of our Diocesan Divinity School. It asks permission to hold service once a month during the winter in different churches. Its meeting this month will be held in our church on the evening of January 8th. The address will be delivered by the Ven Archdeacon Fay, of the Diocese of Fon du Lac. He is a very good speaker, and we hope our people will show their interest in him and in the subject by turning out in strong force.

MISSIONARY BOX.—Our ladies made up a very nice missionary box and sent it off before Christmas to a clergyman in the Diocese of Easton, Maryland. The following letter was received in acknowledgment of it:

December 13, 1904.

MY DEAR MRS. GILPIN:

The box has been received and opened and everything it contained is so nice. My suit fits exactly.

My wife is particularly pleased with the articles for her department, all of which is most acceptable. We did not overlook the postage stamps in the little calendar. The entire box betokens a great deal of care and thoughtfulness on the part of those who were so kind as to provide it for us. And to you especially, my dear Mrs. Gilpin, do we owe a debt of gratitude which we are wholly unable to pay.

May God reward you for us is the earnest prayer of yours, most gratefully,

ST. ALBAN'S GUILD.—On Dececember 19th St. Alban's Guild held its second meeting at the call of its Director, five members being present. Eight Servers were appointed for duty on Christmas Day and provision was made for every Sunday until Easter,

An invitation was received from the Servers' Guild of St. Thomas' Church to take part in a festival service on December 26th, but the Guild felt obliged to decline, our organization having been so recently formed and in several ways unprepared as yet for such an occasion.

ST. JOHN'S SENIOR GUILD.—We met on December 5th, fourteen being present. Reports were received from the Committee on Basket Ball, Minstrel Show, Gymnasium, etc , all of which reported satisfactory progress. The office of the Guild was said and their Director spoke of preparation for the Christian Communion.

ST. JOHN'S JUNIOR GUILD —The December meeting was attended by thirteen members, and an interesting meeting was held. The Guild is growing and the boys seem interested. The Guild Office was said and an instruction on morning prayer was given by their Director, who presented to each one present a prayer card for use for that purpose. It was encouraging to have every boy present state that he had said his prayers every morning since the last meeting, and in the case of a large proportion of them this was a new habit. It is painful to see how little instruction many children receive from any source, their clergy or parents or teachers, as to practical duties of their spiritual life.

ST. ANDREW'S JUNIOR BROTHERHOOD.—This branch of the Brotherhood has had two meetings during December. At the first meeting they were addressed by their Superior and at the second by their Director, both in regard to their Christmas Communion. The first and third Sundays at 7 P. M. are the meeting nights for this branch of the Brotherhood.

ST. AGNES' GUILD—This band of little girls is very happy in their weekly meetings and come most faithfully. On one of the snowy nights recently, when the snow was falling in an almost blinding storm and quite deep, there were fourteen of us gathered in the comfortable Parish Building saying our Office, hearing an instruction and having lots of fun with a new game. During the month they made their Director happy by the gift of a beautiful pair of gloves, for which he is very grateful.

SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS.—We regret very much to have lost from among our number Mrs. Wm. H. Morgan, who has long and faithfully taught a large class of little girls. We are thankful to have come to us as her successor, Mrs. Hurst, the wife of Mr. Hurst, who has become our Assistant Superintendent. It is a great pleasure to have them both with us.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL WORKERS.—On the evening of December 26th, five teachers, two of St. Mary's Guild and two others filled 250 boxes with candy, and December 28th a number of other teachers dressed the Christmas tree.

GIFTS TO THE SCHOOL.—One kind friend gave us 175 pounds of candy, and another 250 candy boxes and 200 oranges, another furnished the electrical lights, etc., for the tree, and another the batteries for lighting them. A number of persons made gifts of money and some of dolls, etc. For all of these we are grateful, and they have enabled the children to have a brighter Christmas in their Sunday-School.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL FESTIVAL.—On Holy Innocents' Night the school sang their carols in the church and heard an address from the Rector.

After the service the school and congregation repaired to the Parish House, where the children of both the primary and main school gave an interesting exhibition.

This was followed by a series of tricks in Magic by Prof. Raustein, who surely mystified both young and old by his remarkable feats Teachers and officers and scholars all received a Christmas gift, together with a box of candy and an orange. Santa Claus officiated most acceptably, quite disguising the fact that he was one of our own faithful young men.

The attendance of children was materially larger than last year, and it was all a success. A pleasing innovation this year was that a number of the children brought, to be given to the poor, toys, books, vegetables, games and fruit, which were on the following day distributed.

Our Sunday School Christmas was happy and satisfactory.

THE CHURCH—HOME

There is nothing people set so much store by as having a home. There are a few restless souls who prefer to roam about without any settled dwelling-place, but most persons love above all things to have a place which they can feel is their own, where they belong, which they can make just what they want and where they can do just what they choose, which is to them all that is conveyed by that endearing word, Home.

Now that is the way people ought to regard, and the feeling they ought to have for, their Parish Church; they ought to look upon it as their spiritual home. And as the spirit is the highest and most real part of a man, so is it of more importance and value to him to have a spiritual home than it is to have one for his body.

The church is home in the sense that it is the house of our Heavenly Father, the place where He would gather and protect and care for all His children. It is there that we realize how all do constitute one family under the care of the one all-powerful, all-wise, all-good Parent. It is where we meet week by week to think of that Parent and hold communion, spiritual intercourse, with Him, to think of, and be taught our duties towards Him, and our fellow-members in the one great family of which we form a part. It is there He feeds us with that spiritual food which is just as necessary for the sustenance of our souls as material food is for our bodies. It is, or should be, the bright and beautiful and rich place which impresses us with a sense of the greatness and glory and splendor of eternal things, where one can give expression to his sense of thankfulness and gratitude in times of prosperity and peace, and find comfort and support in seasons of adversity and gloom.

It is the one place where every man, even the most lonely and isolated of mortals, can feel that he has a home and place where he has a right and welcome and which will supply his deepest and most vital needs. It is the one home which is never broken up. Earthly homes change or are destroyed by death and removals and the constant alterations which are going on in human relations and conditions, but the Church remains for generations. In old parts of the country, the House of God in which our fathers worshipped, their children worship from generation to generation. And even if the material building be a new or different one from that of your parents or of your own youth, still the organization is the same. The Church Christ founded will be on earth till He comes again in glory. The sacraments and the services and the teachings are the same. From early youth to oldest age no one need ever leave or lose the privileges, the joys and comforts of that home.

The Church thus being to us all, and more than all, than earthly home, we ought to feel towards it, and do for it, what people do for their earthly homes. Every Christian should see that he has such a home, that there is one particular parish to which be belongs, which he attends regularly, whose pastor knows him personally and looks upon him as a member of his congregation. And one should do all he can for that parish, do his full share in supporting it; see that it has a regular income sufficient to meet its expenses. And he should take pleasure in decorating and making that church beautiful and attractive as he would his own home. There is the place for the memorials of his dead, rich gifts which both serve to make that house beautiful and render it solemn and sweet with its associations with those who have gone hence, but whom we delight still to remember.

Any one who really looks upon his church as his home will do for it what he does for his own home, make it just as efficient and attractive as it can be, and have the same affection for it. Every Christian should feel for the church as the devout Jew did for Jerusalem;

"If I forget thee, O Jerusalem, let my right hand forget her cunning. If I do not remember thee, let my tongue cleave to the roof of my mouth; yea, if I prefer not Jerusalem in my mirth."

CHURCH DEBT FUND

The Committee on the church debt is disappointed that subscriptions have not been coming in as rapidly as they would like to see since the first of the year. But about ninety persons in all have so far responded to the appeal—five-sixth of our communicants have let it fall on deaf ears. How can the committee dare to hope to interest outsiders in helping to lift our burden, if our own people will not exert themselves. Will not each and every person who worships in the Church of the Ascension rise to the appreciation of the privilege that this year is theirs? One united effort will free the church from debt and the edifice we have loved so long, to which we have brought so many sorrows and in which we have thanked God for so many blessings, to be consecrated to His perpetual service. Will not each one of us love the church the more if we feel that in some little way a personal sacrifice has been made to give it to Him who gives us so much! If the united offerings of each member of our congregation fail to reach the desired sum, it can only be said that the task proposed was to heavy for us; but let it never be said that we have failed because some of us held back.

Let us do all we can—and let us all do what we can.

PARISH NOTES

CONFIRMATION—The Bishop Coajutor of the Diocese will visit this church to administer Confirmation on the evening of Wednesday, April 5, and the clergy call upon all in the Parish who have reached years of discretion and are not yet Confirmed to present themselves for Confirmation at that time. The Prayer Book directs that all who are baptized shall be brought to the Bishop to be Confirmed by him "so soon as they can say the Creed, the Lord's Prayer and the Ten Commandments, and are sufficienly instructed in the other parts of the Church Catechism set forth for that purpose." That all in this Parish may be properly prepared in this way, a series of instructions will be given every Wednesday, beginning February 1st after the 8 P. M. service by the curate, and on Tuesdays, beginning February 21st, at 8 P. M., by the Rector.

It is well for persons brought up in, or belonging to, other Christian bodies and desirous of entering the Episcopal Church to attend these instructions that they may become thoroughly familiar with the teachings of the Church. Any who have been already Confirmed are welcomed also to attend them.

ENVELOPES.—Another quarter's envelopes are sent out with the beginning of this month. These envelopes are intended to take the place of pew rents, and secure the church a regular revenue to meet its current expenses. It is very important, therefore, that every one in the Parish should use them, giving thus what would be given in another church for a pew or sitting.

We cannot imagine that any one would attend a free church in order to take advantage of the seats not being rented to escape paying a sufficient sum towards its support. And yet unless the envelopes are used people will be very likely through carelessness or forgetfulness not to give what they should. It is earnestly asked therefore that every one, no matter how small the sum may be that he or she feels they can give, will give it in this way to secure its being paid regularly. If you have not already taken them ask the Rector to send them to you.

With this quarter there is sent out a special envelope for Diocesan Missions, towards which this church is asked to contribute $100, and it is collected in this way. This envelope can be placed on the plate at any service during the quarter.

There is another envelope marked "Church Debt" for the use of those who have not already contributed to this special fund. This envelope will be supplied in any numbers to those who wish to contribute to this fund in installments.

"THE MOTHERS' MEETING."—Miss Thompson reports concerning Christmas dinners were not to be generally given out, so no money was solicited. However, through the kindness of friends, $3.75 was received and also some provisions, enabling us to give several dinners—these in cases of sickness. We also received a barrel of half-used clothing, books, etc., and a large box of pictures and scrap-books.

Christmas cards were distributed to the members on the last meeting held before Christmas, and they also received each a box of candy, the last kindly presented by Mr. Cameron through Mr. Witmer.

The "Christmas Meeting" was held on January 3, when some recitations were very kindly given by two members of St. Mary's Guild and a reading by the Rev. Mr. Hodge. Ice cream, cake and tea were served later. We are sure all truly enjoyed the occasion.

One large bag of sewing has been finished and returned to hospital, and the members of the Mothers' Meeting are now filling out an order to hem 200 towels for another hospital.

The members of the Meeting have been most glad to adopt a suggestion that that they give up the pay they receive for their sewing for several weeks, the amount resuling therefrom to go toward the Church Debt.

We should like to say just here that we thank the ladies of the congregation for their contributions of clothing, etc., through the winter. We will receive gladly everything. There is a demand for boys' clothing, shoes especially; half-used bedding, carpets, matting, etc. will be purchased by members of the Meeting. In this way if contributions of money cannot be given toward the mission work of the church, at least some money may be made. If any of the ladies of the church would desire to have a "Rummage Sale" for this purpose, we think it would be a success.

PROGRESS OF THE FREE CHURCH MOVEMENT

Mr. J. Vaughan Merrick, president of the Free and Open Church Association, has compiled from annual reports the following table showing the growth of the movement:

	CHURCHES
Year	Free	Pewed	Total
1879	1350	1650	3000
1885	2079	1221	3300
1888	2835	942	3777
1891	3023	939	3962
1894	3483	886	4367
1897	3843	877	4720
1900	4203	725	4928

In twenty-five years the number of free churches has increased from 1350 to 4418, or from forty-five to eighty-five per cent., while the number of pewed churches has diminished from 1650 to 786.

Thus, deducting the 864 converted churches there have been 2204 new free churches. Apart from this mark of progress in the movement for free and open churches, it must be observed with regret that the rate at which new parishes are established is much reduced. In the ten years from 1884 to 1894 the annual increase was 112 parishes, and 1894 to 1904 the annual increase was 84 parishes, and of late this has been reduced to 69 parishes.

THE USES OF LENT

The observance of the season of Lent is of great antiquity and very extensive among Christians. We can trace it as far back as 90 A.D., and it is to-day kept in all branches of the Catholic Church, and to some extent by the Lutherans. Other Protestants have given it up as they have so much else that belonged to the historic church, though there is a tendency now to realize how useful it may be and to try and restore its use to some extent.

But we are afraid that a great many of our own church people do not appreciate it and recognize it as they should. Some church people we fear make no difference whatever between Lent and any other season of the year. And a great many men seem to think that they have no time to observe it and so pay no attention to it whatever, and so of course gain no benefit from it.

What then are its uses and why should it be observed? Its great use is the revival of the spiritual life, the making at least once in each year a special and determined effort to cultivate the spiritual side of one's being. Of course we should do this all the time. One should never lose sight of his spiritual nature, of his duties and obligations, of the power and blessing of coming nearer to God. But experience proves that it is well to have special times for quickening of those efforts, the directing of the attention more than ordinarily away from the earth, the merely material, and concentrating it on spiritual things. We are all apt to sink down to a dead level of satisfaction with the standard to which we may have already attained, and not make the efforts after progress that we shonld. Many of us are apt fo fall behind even, and not be as attentive and as earnest and zealous for good things as we once were.

All religions find the necessity of times of revival. And the church, instead of leaving such revival to the uncertain and spasmodic motion of individuals, accompanied as such efforts often are with an unhealty excitemənt and transitory effect, provides this regular sober revival every springtime. The awakening of nature to a new life in the spring should in itself be a call to us to rise to a newer life. Lent means spring. It should be to the souls of men what spring is to inanimate creation. Let us try to think thus of it and make it a time when we shall take a new start, begin, if we have not made any effort at all before, or try and make stronger efforts, if we have been making some, to live a more righteous, sober and godly life. We are all surrounded by influences which tempt us to evil, engross us in the merely worldly and temporal, making us forget and neglect the higher aims and aspirations every intelligent man should have, drag us down to what is only earthly and sensual. We want to make an effort to fight against and break away from these influences, especially for a time, and that will strengthen us to do it altogether.

So we should keep Lent by giving up amusements and pleasures we indulge in at other times in order to be undistracted and as a discipline. So we fast that we may gain the power of self-control at all times. So we attend more frequent services that we may have closer communion with God. We listen to more instructions or read devotional books, that we may learn to live a holier life. And we practice acts of self-denial and charity that we may attest the sincerity of our intentions to do good to our fellow men.

Let each of us resolve to use this Lent in these ways as far as we can, and we shall feel and realize its practical benefit. What a blessing it would be to our own lives, and to the community in which we live, if all Christians would keep such a holy Lent.

PARISH NOTES

LENTEN SERVICES.—We have so many services all the time in this parish that they are not greatly increased in number, but we hope to see a large increase in the attendance at them during Lent. The boys of the choir will be present as usual at the daily 5 P. M. evensong, and there will be a lecture by a special preacher each Friday, with a collection of Lenten offerings. The preacher on the first Friday in Lent will be the Rev. Mr. Tait, Rector of S. Paul's Church, Chester, lately elected Coadjutor Bishop to Bishop Hare, of South Dakota.

CONFIRMATION INSTRUCTIONS are given every Tuesday evening at 8 P. M. by the Rector, and every Wednesday evening after the service in the church by the Curate. All in the parish not yet confirmed are asked to attend one of these classes.

The instructions on Tuesday evening are intended especially for the older, and those on Wednesday for the younger members of the class.

A DONATION—Three pairs of long real wax candles for the altar were recently sent to the church, we presume, as a donation. We have no means of ascertaining who sent them, so take this means of thanking the anonymous donor.

ST. MARY'S GUILD.—A most enjoyable entertainment was given under the auspices of St. Mary's Guild on Thursday evening, February 23, the proceeds to be given toward the church debt.

We are always glad to see the Dames of Cranford, with their quaint costumes of many years ago, their equally quaint manners and conversation, and the Dames on this occasion did credit to their ancestors of 1830.

An excellent musical programme was rendered, consisting of instrumental and vocal selections; also selections for the piano and violin. Master Louis T. Scheel was most kind in coming to play for us on his violin.

A young "George Washington" in attractive costume aided us in distributing the programmes and showing our audience to their seats.

St. Mary's Guild gave the flowers for the altar on the "Feast of the Purification."

A small sales of fancy articles was held by the guild in December. The proceeds were contributed to some of the church work.

The guild has had excellent classes in English and embroidery during the winter. At the February business meeting an appropriation was made for material for the sewing during Lent.

MISSIONARY WORK.—The Ladies' Aid have determined to work during Lent for the poor white people in the mountains of North Carolina who are represented as very destitute, even of clothing; so garments of any description will be acceptable. The society meets in the Parish building every Wednesday at 2 P. M. and invites any of the ladies in the congregation to join them. Donations of money or materials will be acceptable.

NEW WORKERS.—We gladly welcome Miss Walsh and Miss Amy Peters as additional teachers in the Industrial School, Miss Katharine Greer in the Sundap-school, Mrs. Harry Worth in the embroidery class, and Miss Peters and Miss Viola Bidlack on the Altar Committee.

NEW BIBLE-CLASS.—Mrs. Hodge has begun a class composed of some of the older girls of the parish and of some outside the parish, which will meet at her house on Sunday afternoons at 3 o'clock.

PRIZES FOR NEW SCHOLARS.—Through the kind generosity of our assistant superintendent a prize was offered some weeks ago to the child bringing the most new scholars in the male and in the female department of the main school. A considerable number have been competing for these prizes, and only last Sunday one boy brought four children with him.

CHURCH DEBT FUND

This fund grows slowly, as every one coming in the church door can note, as the receipts for each week are recorded there, or as they see them reported in this paper month by month.

We are glad to say that sufficient subscriptions have been paid in to enable us to make another payment of $500 on account of the mortgage. Thus our debt diminishes and we are relieved of so much interest.

We suppose many of our people are waiting to see how large a subscription they can make before putting down their names. But they must remember that because they make the subscription they do not have to pay it at once. They can pay it by instalments if they like, or in any way or at any time before the end of next November.

On the first Sunday of this month the Rector will make another appeal to the congregation on behalf of this fund, and mite chests will be given to all who will take them for collections during Lent. If this debt is to be paid it must be by the persistent efforts of every one in the parish. Let each make some self-denial during Lent and put the money that is saved thereby into this fund

THE PASSIONTIDE

The last two weeks in Lent have from very early times been obseaved in special commemoration of our blessed Lord's Passion, the word Passion being derived from the Latin word passio, to suffer. His whole life was a life of suffering in that it was one of self-abnegation, hardship, constant labor for others, and exposure to the hatred and malice of enemies. But it was during the last two weeks of His life that those sufferings culminated in what He endured during the last Passover which He celebrated with His disciples at Jerusalem. The Sunday which begins those two weeks is generally called Passion Sunday because it ushered in this season, and it was about that time that our Lord "set His face to go up to Jerusalum," knowing full well what was to happen to Him there. From that day on His soul was "straitened" within Him until the terrible tragedy should be accomplished. As that tragedy formed so important a part in His human experience, as it was all endured for love of us, and as it has bound up in it the deepest and most precious lessons and explanation of the mystery of human suffering, so it is well that Christians should annually commemorate it in the most solemn way and try to learn and lay to heart all its precious teachings.

So we try to make the Passiontide differ from all other seasons of the year. Our churches put on their most sombre aspect. All pictures and statues are covered, the cross and ornaments of the altar draped, hymns about the Passion sung The last of these two weeks is called the Holy Week, because in it the betrayal, seizure, trial, mocking, scourging and crucifixion took place. The first day is called Palm Sunday because on that day Christ entered Jerusalem amid the waving of palm branches by the multitude. This we commemorate by a procession of the choir and clergy round the church carrying palms. During each day of this week there is a special altar service, all the accounts of the Passion being read in the Gospels appointed for the several days. We have in this parish always two celebrations each day, one at 7 A. M. and the second after Morning Prayer at 10 A. M., except on Good Friday. On Maundy Thursday, so called from Maundy, a gift, white is used at the celebrations to show our joy and thankfulness for the great gift given to us at that time in the institution of the Holy Communion. On Good Friday there is a plain, early celebration at at 7.30 A. M., as the Prayer Book appoints a special altar service for that day and does not provide for a mass of the presanctified such as there is in the Greek and Latin churches, but the sung service in the middle of the day is omitted. At 9 A. M. there is a special service for the children of the Stations of the Cross, pictures of which are hung round the church and are explained to the children as they stand in turn before each of them. At 11 A. M. there is Morning Prayer and the Litany, followed by the singing of the Reproaches and the Preaching of the Cross from 12 to 3 P. M. This is broken by the singing of hymns at regular intervals, during which those who do not wish to remain the whole time can leave the church and others can enter it. There will be Evening Prayer without any sermon or address each day at 5 P. M., and 8 P. M., a special service adapted for the Passiontide, or a sermon. This service will also be used at the children's service on Passion and Palm Sunday afternoons and on the Wednesday evening before Palm Sunday.

We trust all our people will make use of these full provisions for observing this holy season, and that it may be blest in helping them to realize all it teaches and enable them thereafter more faithfully to bear their own particular crosses which the providence of God may lay upon them, and to take up the cross of self-sacrifice which our Lord says every one must do who would be His disciple. And by so learning to bear the cross by contemplating His Passion "may we be brought," as the beautiful collect for the feast of the Annunciation expresses it, "unto the glory of His resurrection," which we celebrate on Easter day.

CHURCH DEBT FUND

Since our last issue enough has been paid in for this fund to enable us to pay another $500 on account of the mortgage, thus reducing it to $8500. Let us see if we cannot keep on paying at least $500 a month until it disappears altogether. Only $201.05 were received during the month in new subscriptions. There ought to have been many more. On the Sunday before Lent over 200 mite chests for collections for the fund were given out to those present at the services. These should be returned during Easter week. Any person who has not receive done can get one from the verger any time he is in church. In addition to this several members of the committee have written personal letters to persons connected with, or interested in the church, which we trust will be responded to by many additional contributions.

If there are any who are paying their subscriptions by putting contribution in the offertory in envelopes marked "church debt," they should always write their name or the number of the regular envelope on it that the amount may be credited to them.

The fund stands now as follows :

PARISH NOTES

EASTER DAY.—There will be celebrations of the Holy Communion on Easter day at 6.30, 7.30, 8.30 and 11.30 A. M., the latter being choral and preceded by Morning Prayer with a short sermon at 10.30 A. M. The children's Easter service will be at 3.30 P. M., at which time their missionary collections during Lent will be presented.

EASTER OFFERING.—The congregation must remember that we need, as usual, a large Easter offering to meet our current expenses for the year, and we trust that the special offerings which have been made for the debt fund will not be allowed to detract from the usual special Easter offering. We ought to have $1000 in order to pay up all our expenses to May 1st. Let us see how near to it we can come.

Offerings for the Easter flowers can be placed in the alms box in the vestibule of the church, which will be marked for the purpose.

THE STORY OF THE CROSS.—A cantata by Dudley Buck will be rendered on Thursday evening, April 13th, at 8 P. M., by the choir, assisted by Mr. Harvey W. Hindermeyer, formerly one of our choirmen, now singing in Calvery Church, New York.

A silver offering will be made for the benefit of our debt fund.

MITE BOXES FOR BONTOC.—The children are collecting money this Lent for the use of the Rev. Walter C. Clapp at Bontoc, Phillippine Islands. He, with the Rev. J. A. Staunton and some women helpers, are doing a real work in the full and frank teaching of the people there the truths of our holy religion and how to work out those truths practically in their spiritual lives. Their's is a vocation with some hardships and participations in their Lord's Passion, but they seem to be brave and happy and there are now and again conversions to God.

NEW SCHOLARS IN THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL.—The offer made by Mr. Hurst of a new Bible to the boy and girl bringing the most new scholars has had its effect and, according to the record, some twenty odd new children have become connected with the school.

If only one of them should really absorb the principles of the old religion and learn to receive and correspond with its gifts of grace, who can measure its results in that child's life and upon the world? There are many embryonic saints about us and many who are waiting to be developed into choice propagators of the faith and many who have been entrusted by God with a message, who are waiting to have imparted to them the grace and truth stored up for God's elect in the divine reservoir, His holy Church. Perhaps one or more of these new scholars may be one of them.

ST. JOHN'S GUILD MINSTREL SHOW.—The Senior Branch of St. John's Guild will give a minstrel show on Tuesday in Easter week. April 25th, at 8 P. M. for the benefit of the church debt fund.

Members of the choir will take part, as well as the guild, and a really enjoyable entertainment may be expected. Already a large number of tickets have been sold and a large attendance is anticipated.

THE TEACHERS' INSTRUCTION CLASS.—The teachers of the Sunday-school are asked to attend this class that they may be the better prepared for the serious and responsible work of teaching the children. How serious the work is is sug, gested by this one fact, among many others: that their instruction to these boys and girls for the half hour they are together once a week is, in almost all cases, the entire teaching they receive at all, with the exception of the Superintendent's instruction in the church at the close of the school for about fifteen minutes. The Superintendent appreciates the regular attendance of nine of the teachers and two of the officers of the school.

LENTEN SERMONS.—When not at the Ascension, the Rector has been preaching during Lent in the following churches: The Reconciliation, Trinity Southwark, S. John's Lower Merion; S. David's Manayunk; S. Martin-in-the-fields, and S. Ann's, Annapolis, Md.

The Curate has, been preaching in S. John Chrysostomes, Church of the Transfiguration, Calvary Monumental, S. John's Norristown, S. Paul's Oaks, and Christ's Church Hammonton, N. J.

NEW HELPERS IN THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL.—Mr. C. E. Pratt has joined our force of officers and has been assigned to the post of Assistant Seretary. Miss Millikin has been put in charge of a class of little boys. Help was needed in both of these positions. We welcome them among us.

OUR EASTER

The way in which Easter is kept in a parish is a very fair indication of how it is prospering, especially when the annual Confirmation occurs about that time. So we can congratulate ourselves on the way in which Easter passed with us. The Confirmation which took place shortly before was the largest we have had for years. At the same time the hearts of the clergy are pained to think how many others there are, who should have been Confirmed, who did notpresent themselves. May they have both the grace and the opportunity of doing so another year.

Easter day itself was a beautiful day; the church was particularly well decorated with flowers, including plants secured by the exertions of Mr. Witmer for the Sunday-school. The congregations were large, the music was good, and the number ofcommunions made was over three hundred.

The offerings for the day amounted to over $600, which, considering the additional amount given for the debt, is good, though it is not sufficient to meet our current expenses up to the first of May. Our people do not seem to realize how essential it is for a church to have a regular and steady income. This can only be secured by pew rents or subscriptions made through the envelopes or some other system. If people only give spasmodically when they happen to be in church, and not at other times, the income is not realized and we are constantly confronted by a deficit.

Will not all our people use the envel-

PARISH NOTES

VESTRY ELECTION.—The old members were re-elected on Easter Monday and Mr. Keese was reappointed Rector's Warden and Mr Lloyd re-elected Accounting Warden for the ensuing year.

PARISH FESTIVAL.—As Ascension day does not occur until June the 1st this year our annual parish tea will not take place until June 5th. It has been suggested that we combine with that this year a package party for the benefit of the debt fund. Each person coming to the tea is requested to bring a package containing a useful or fancy article which will be sold for the benefit of the debt fund. They will probably be auctioned off to the highest bidder. It will add to the interest of the occasion and swell the debt fund.

There will be the usual anniversary service on the evening of Ascension day, and the annual guild service on Sunday evening, June 4th, in which all the guilds of the parish will take part.

THE CANTATA given in the church by the choir, assisted by Mr. Harvey Hindermeyer, was very well rendered and attended by a large congregation. The offering on the occasion netted $40 for the debt fund.

THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL EASTER SERVICE.—At 3.30 P. M. on Easter Day the children sang their carols, received an instruction from their superintendent, listened to kind words from their friend, Mr. Witmer, were presented with a pot of geraniums apiece, and three of them received a prize. It was delightful to hear the tots of the Primary School recite without mistake almost the entire Catechism, which they have been learning this winter.

PRIZES FOR NEW SCHOLARS.—Mr. Hurst, our assistant superintendent, presented a handsome Bible to three of the children who had done best in bringing new scholars. The winners of the prizes were George Tait, Tillie Smith and Lillian Larkin.

MISSIONARY OFFERINGS.—On Easter Day the school mite boxes were returned and the proceeds amounted to $25. A large number of boxes were not brought back at that time and we shall, therefore, no doubt, have an addition of perhaps $10 to the above amount. The money is to be sent to the Rev. W. C. Clapp at Bontoc, P. I., who is doing a real work and laying true foundations there.

THE WAY OF THE CROSS.—On Good Friday, at 9 A. M., the school marched around the church singing the Stations of the Cross. At each station a brief office was said, a short instruction upon that particular event in the Passion given, a versified description sung, and Faber's beautiful processional verse chanted on the way to the next picture. It was a simple, touching devotion to the Passion and the children took part in it with noticeable reverence. The Stations were also sung twice in Holy week.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL EASTER ENTERTAINMENT.—Preparations are being made for the annual Easter entertainment of the school. Miss Hodge has kindly consented to take charge of the affair, and we may expect an enjoyable evening. Tuesday, May 2d, at 8 P. M., is the time appointed. There will be no charge for admission and tickets can be procured from the children.

THE CONFIRMATION CLASS.—At the visitation of the Bishop Coadjutor twenty-eight persons received confirmation. Their instructions had been unusually thorough in two classes for eleven weeks.

An average attendance of thirty-five at the Curate's class for younger people and of eight at the Rector's class for older persons showed that many besides the candidates took advantage of the instructions.

THE FIRST COMMUNION OF THE CLASS.—Nearly all of the class made their first communion at the 8.30 A. M. celebration of the Blessed Sacrament on Easter Day. It was a happy occasion for many.

THE WEDNESDAY NIGHT CHOIR AT KEITH'S.—The little volunteer choir which sings on Wednesday nights repaired to Keith's Theatre on April 27th and probably none of the audience better appreciated the performance. Five boys and three men as special guests composed the party. We arrived at Keith's a few minutes after 6 P. M and remained to the end.

S. JOHN'S GUILD MINSTREL SHOW.—An unusually good show was given by the guild on April 23d, in the presence of a large audience. The choir men lent their aid and every number was well rendered. The profits amounting to $50. were given to the Debt Fund as the gift of S. John's Guild.

S. AGNES' GUILD'S GIFT.—On Palm Sunday the little girls of the guild invaded the Sacristy in force and presented to the Rector a beautiful piece of cut glass for the use of the church. It was purchased with money from their weekly dues, and they enjoyed giving it. It has been used at every Celebration of the Blessed Sacrament since.

MISS WAGNER.—All in the parish who knew her were much shocked by the sudden death in Easter week of Miss Carrie Wagner, a member of S. Mary's Guild, and for some time one of the teachers in the Sunday-school. A girl of unusual character and attractiveness we shall greatly miss her, and our deepest sympathies are extended to her afflicted parents.

CHURCH DEBT FUND

We are glad ro report this month $1000 paid on account of the mortgage and we have $204.44 in hand for still another $500 payment.

The first of the mite boxes for Lenten collections for this purpose was returned during Holy week containing $100—a very good beginning. A large number of others were returned on Easter and Low Sundays. Those who have them are requested to open them, and put their contents in an envelope, marked Church Debt, and place them on the plate at any service they attend, if they have not already done so And any who would like new boxes to use during the summer can obtain them from the verger.

Among the subscriptions to the debt we have been much gratified by the amounts raised by the choir and different guilds of the parish, and especially by the contribution of $15 from the Mothers' Meeting, the members of the meeting giving up the pay they should have received for their work for this purpose.

The fund stands now as follows:

PARISH YEAR

As usual on the evening of Ascension the Rector preached an anniversary sermon reviewing the work of the parish for the past year. We give the substance of it here, as many of our people were prevented from being present, owing to Ascension day this year being so unusually late, they having already left the city for the summer.

After reading the annual report to the Bishop, giving all the statistics of the parish from May 1, 1904, to May 1, 1905, which we print in full, the Rector pointed out that the number of baptisms, marriages, confirmations and burials were about the same, some more and some less, as in the corresponding period last year, showing that the church is holding its own in spite of its suffering from removals, owing to changes in the neighborhood.

The number added to the communicant list for the year was 42, a very fair increase, but the number of names removed from the list, owing to deaths and changes of residence, was exactly the same, 42, thus keeping us in just about the same condition. Of those who died during the year, eight in all, it is singular that all except one were young or in middle life, and all but one died suddenly. They were Dr. Savery Pearce, Mrs. Julia DeV. Peters, Mrs. Margaret Botwright, Miss Frances Voigt, Mrs. Anna Sank, Mr. Elmer B. Conger, Mr. Joseph R. D. Lindsay, and Miss Carrie Wagner. May they rest in peace and may we all be prepared to follow them whenever we may be called.

The Sunday and Industrial Schools of the parish show a slight increase in numbers for the year and could doubtless be largely increased if we had more faithful and earnest teachers. Are there not those in the parish, men and women, who would be willing to give themselves up to this most charitable and needed work? The Mothers' Meeting has been efficiently carried on and has been a great help to those attending it. The different Guilds have been well maintained, especially that for the younger men and for little girls. The members of the latter have made the practice of attending the mid-day Celebration each Sunday, which we are sure is most beneficial to them and is an example to others.

In reviewing the financial statistics for the year the Rector called attention to the fact that the amount contributed for all parish purposes was within 91 cents of the amount contributed last year and 64 cents of that of the year before, showing how steadily we hold our own. The offerings for outside purpose and from the Sunday-school and Guilds was somewhat less than what was realized the previous year This was doubtless owing to the efforts we have been making, and in which all our organizations and societies have taken part to free the church from all indebtedness. A circular was sent out in November, 1904, asking for special contributions for this purpose, in order thus to commemorate if possible the completion of the twenty-fifth year of the present Rectorship which will occur next November. The responses so far have been very gratifying, nearly $5500 having been subscribed, of which over $4600 has been paid in. Most of it has come from our own people, though some of our former members have been very good in helping us, as well as some outside of the parish, but interested in it from one cause or another. Whether the total amount can be raised by next November or not we do not know, but if not, we must keep at it until it is all raised, as the church should not only be free from debt, but endowed, in order to secure it from any contingencies in the future. We trust that all who can do so will remember it in their wills.

The amount contributed for the debt fund made the total receipts more than $3000 more than those of last year.

The review of the year therefore is most encouraging, and we can go on in the hope of improvements coming in our neighborhood and in the certainty that the position of the church will always be central and prominent and thus enable it to do a good work.

CHURCH DEBT FUND

Again we can report another $1000 paid on account of our mortgage debt, $860 77 having been paid in on account of subscriptions during May.

In six months we have raised nearly half of the total amount we asked for. Can we do as well in the other six months? Will not all interested in the parish keep this fund in mind during the summer? Perhaps they can be doing some work for it, even while they are away from home. Perhaps they could get up some entertainments where they may happen to be whose proceeds might be given to it.

We have still a large number of mite boxes for the debt fund on hand and would be glad if any would take them for collections during the summer. Ask the verger for them.

PARISH NOTES

SUMMER SERVICES. The only change in our order of services during the summer months will be the omission of the Litany on Sundays, and of the daily evening prayers, and the daily morning service during July and August. In those months prayers will be said on Wednesdays and Fridays at 10 A. M. and the morning of all Holy days

The Rector expects to be away during July and August, when the Curate will be in charge of the parish, and the latter will take his holiday in September, when the Rector returns. During that month there will be no early Celebrations during the week, but the Sunday services will be as usual.

Let our people remember the privilege and duty of discharging their religious obligations in the summer as well as in the winter.

CHURCH PERIODICAL SOCIETY. A branch of this society has been formed in the parish and Miss Caroline Thompson appointed treasurer and secretary. Its object is to collect church papers and magazines and literature of all kinds and send them to persons or institutions where they are not able to procure them for themselves.

If there are any in the parish who have such papers and magazines and would be willing to send them to others after they have finished with them, Miss Thompson will furnish addresses of those who will be glad to receive them. Her address is 1123 Spruce Street. Or, if they are sent to the church at any time, they will be disposed of from there.

Miss Thompson will be glad to receive any donations to defray the expense of postage on these packages.

OUR DEFICIT. It will be remembered that before Easter the Rector announced that one thousand dollars would be required to meet our current expenses up to May 1st. Of this amount only about seven hundred dollars was received at Easter, leaving a deficit at the end of our financial year of some three hundred dollars. An effort has been made to make up this amount. One gentleman gave one hundred dollars, three others twenty-five each, one fifteen and one ten dollars. Are there not others in the parish who would contribute similiar sums to complete the small total still needed?

S. MARY'S GUILD. The last meeting was held May 23d. At the May business meeting resolutions were taken regarding the death of Miss Wagner expressing the great sorrow and sadness of the members of the Guild and their sympathy with the parents of Miss Wagner. She will be so missed our loss can scarcely be expressed. These resolutions are to be sent to Mr. and Mrs. Wagner.

At the yearly business meeting of the Guild Miss Miller was re-elected secretary, Miss Emelia Palmgren treasurer, and Miss Greer banner bearer.

Three appointments were made: Organist, Miss Wagner; Librarian, Miss Moreland, and Assistant Librarian, Miss Trice.

MOTHERS' MEETING. The Easter entertainment was given as usual on April 26. The last meeting was held May 31. On Wednesday evening, May 24th, Miss Payne, superintending nurse of the Episcopal Hospital, gave an address on "The Care of the Sick." It was a most interesting talk, and Miss Payne kindly answered a number of questions regarding nursing.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL PRIZES. On Trinity Sunday the closing service of the regular sessions of the school will be held. The prizes will be delivered to three sets of scholars, viz., first prizes to those who have not missed more than two Sundays during the season, a second prize to those who have not missed more than three Sundays, and honorable mention for those who have not missed more than four Sundays

SUMMER SUNDAY-SCHOOL. The sessions will continue to be held in the afternoon at the same hour as during the winter, i e., at 2.45 P. M. A class session will be held in the Parish Building, followed by the Children's Service in the church, with an instruction by the Curate.

The weather will be hot and the work trying, and it is to be hoped there are teachers in the school who for this reason will be glad to do some work with and for young minds and souls, which will involve at least a little self sacrificing. Alas! how little willingness, not to speak of desire, there is our so-called church work to participate in Christ's Passion, to brand our labors with the mark of any real crucifying of self.

No teachers are urged to come during the summer, but surely there are some with enough love for the Crucified to make them welcome an opportunity to do something where there is little chance for self-pleasing.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL PICNIC. Of course there will be our usual picnic, which we are looking forward to with such pleasure. Last year we had a great time with races and sports and varied amusements, and we trust we shall enjoy our coming time as much.

It is too early to have made any definite arrangements, but we can feel sure of having such an outing. Let us begin to pray that on this picnic some work may be accomplished with one or more souls for God.

WEDNESDAY NIGHT INSTRUCTION CLASS Every Wednesday night at 8.45 P. M., at the close of the evening service, the Curate has an Instruction Class for adults in the Parish Building A book is read in concert, with running comments by him and any members of the class who choose to make any remarks. The subject being studied is the portion of the book upon the Creed, and both leader and the class have been already benefited. Thirteen persons have been present every Wednesday so far. The class will be continued all summer if the members continue to attend.

MUSICAL SERVICES

We formerly always had in this parish a full musical service every Sunday afternoon and a plainer service in the evening, only a part of the choir being present. Last year we gave up the afternoon service and had a full musical service one Sunday in the month in the evening and only a partly musical service on the other Sundays. This year it is proposed to have a full musical service every Sunday evening, as there is no reason why we should not, as we now always have the full choir at night, and a service which is partly said and partly sung seems very incongruous. We know there are some persons who do not like intoning, which is recitation on a single note or with inflections. But its object is to make the service more beautiful and effective, as the object of all singing is to make the words uttered more touching, powerful, or pathetic. In large churches, too, it is necessary in order that all may hear, as the voice in singing will carry much further than it could in conversational tones. So too it secures order and symmetry. It is much better, for instance, in the parts in which the people join or make responses, that all should recite what is said together on the same note and at the same time, instead of one saying it in one tone and another in another, and some faster and some slower. And the full musical response in measure cadence is certainly much more telling and edifying than the mere confused murmur which is sometimes all that is heard in our churches.

There are some, however, who object to intoning because they say that hymns only should be sung, not prayers But a large number of our hymns are prayers. And there is no more reason why music should not be used effectively in uttering prayers than in rendering praises to God. In fact, music can add enormously to the feeling that should be expressed in prayer, if it is appropriate and well rendered. Then others say that intoning is strained and unnatural, and is seldom well done. The last is true, because there are only a few persons comparatively who can sing well. But then, too, there are only a few who can read well. And it is very disagreeable to hear the service orated, delivered as one would deliver an oration. This is very commonly done. And it is disagreeable, too, to hear the service recited in a singsong of one's own, a habit any one is apt to fall into who has constantly to recite the same words. For these reasons, therefore, we personally prefer a musically rendered service.

In this parish the effort has been to please both those who prefer a musical, and those who like a simply read, service. The early Communions always are, of course, only read. In the middle of the day the Morning Prayer and Litany have always been read, and the second Celebration has been sung. In the afternoon we have had an entirely choral service, and then again at night one that was plainer, in which only the hymns and canticles were sung. But now that we have only one evening service it seems better to have that fully choral. And in order that it may not be too long and that the people may become familiar with and take part in the singing of the Psalms, it is proposed to use frequently, in place of the Psalms for the day, a few of the shorter selections of Psalms. We believe this will make the service more attractive and add to the pleasure of those who attend it.

PARISH NOTES

WINTER SERVICES —The daily morning and evening prayers recommence this month, together with the other weekday services which were suspended during September. The Sunday-school reopens its regular sessions, as well as the male and female Bible classes We trust both teachers and scholars will be prompt in re-beginning their attendance.

REPAIRS TO THE ORGAN.—During the summer the organ has been thoroughly repaired. This was absolutely necessary, as parts of it could not be used, owing to leaking in some of the valves and other results of wear. This cost $125, and it is impossible that it should be paid out of our ordinary income. We must ask for special contributions for the purpose. One gentleman has already given $25 towards the amount, one-fifth of the whole. Are there not others who will give the same or smaller sums towards it?

ST. MARY'S GUILD was most pleasantly entertained on June 26 by S. Margaret's Guild of Christ Church, Rev. Mr. Gilpin, Rector. The Guild re-opens with its devotional and business meeting second Tuesday of October.

THE MOTHER'S MEETING.—Money was kindly contributed toward some outings. There were two picnics to Chestnut Hill Nursery and a number of tickets to the nursery distributed. Several of the mothers with their families have been in the country.

The first Mothers' Meeting for the year of 1905–1906 will be held on the first Wednesday in October. We will welcome all the members More important than the meeting itself is the attending of the Wednesday evening service.

OMISSION OF SERVICE.—We regret very much that there should have been no early celebration of the Holy Communion on the second Sunday in September. It was due to a misunderstanding between the Rev. Mr. Dyer and the clergyman he supposed he had engaged to take his place. We trust such a thing will not occur again.

THE CLERGY.—During July and August the Rector and his family were at Capon Springs, West Virginia, where he officiated each Sunday except one when he was sick. The Curate took his holiday in September, spending part of it with his family at Atlantic City, the rest in going to the Thousand Islands, etc. Both have returned with renewed health and strength.

DEATH OF CARETAKER.—A figure long familiar in the church has disappeared in the death of Charles F. Costen. He was by profession a teacher, at one time a tutor in the Rev. Dr. Clemson's school at Claymont, Del. Afterwards for many years he conducted a private school of his own. Lately, his scholars falling off, the Rector permitted him to hold his school in our parish building, where he had a few pupils from time to time. For the last two years he has acted as one of the caretakers of the church. His death is a happy ending to a distressed and painful life. He was buried from the church on September 25th. May he rest in peace.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL PICNIC.—On Saturday, July 15, the annual picnic of the children of the school took place. The day was delightful, two cars were made to ring with the joyous shouts of the happy crowd, everybody seemed in a good humor, and the outing was a real success. In the afternoon the sports took place. There were six events for the men, seven for the boys, one for the little tots, one for the women, six for the girls, and two for the little girls. Besides receiving prizes of some intrinsic value the fun involved in it was great. So exciting did it become that a considerable crowd of people from other picnic parties mingled with our own to enjoy the contests.

After the sports had ended ice cream came as a welcome refreshment, and soon after that we started for home, tired and and yet refreshed.

AN OUTING.—Thanks chiefly to the kindness of one person, fourteen children and several grown people (to care for them) enjoyed a steamboat ride and a day in the country. We went by water to Fairy Grove, leaving at 8.30 A. M. and returning at 8.30 P. M. A lunch in the open air, games with prizes, the various amusements to be found at such places, and a charming moonlight ride home made a day which we shall long remember with pleasure. To the kind lady who provided most of the money needed we return our very hearty thanks.

PRIZES FOR THE SUMMER SCHOOL.—On the last day of the Summer Sunday-school six medals were bestowed upon those who had earned them. While the school has not been large, it has really been helpful, and probably every one who attended enjoyed it. Each Sunday some Old Testament character was the subject of study, and how interesting they could be made was a revelation to some of us.

ATTENDANCE AT SUMMER SERVICES.—One encouraging feature of the summer has been the improved attendance this summer over last year. The Wednesday night services increased from 190 in the aggregate to 250; the early celebrations on Sundays from 117 to 173 and on weekdays from 106 to 168; while the other services have not increased in such proportion, they have more than held their own.

SS. SIMON AND JUDE'S DAY.—The ladies of the congregation will not forget that this is the anniversary day of our Women's Guild. All the female communicants of the parish are expected to attend the celebration of the Holy Communion that day, Saturday, October 28, at 10 A. M., and immediately afterwards the business meeting of the Guild is held, when the reports of the preceding year are read and the work for the coming year arranged. Let each woman in the parish take at least this much interest in her church as to be present on this occasion and acquaint herself with what is going on in it.

CHURCH DEBT FUND

We are glad to report over $1000 additional as subscribed to our church debt fund during the summer This brings the total now up to nearly $7,000, leaving us still $5,400 to raise before the end of November. Can it be done? Will not every one in the parish who has not yet given something to this fund do so before then? Will not our parishioners try and interest their friends as well in helping us? Cannot some of those who have already subscribed repeat or increase their subscriptions? And will not those who have subscribed, but not yet paid their subscriptions, do so as soon as they can.

We think we have done very well in raising as much as we have in the ten months since we began this effort, but we want to see the whole amount raised that our church may be entirely free from debt and solemnly consecrated to its holy purposes.

A large number of the mite boxes taken out last Lent have not yet been returned. We trust those who have them have been trying to fill them, and we hope to see them shortly come in.

The fund stands now as follows:

A MISSION

The Rector has asked the Rev. Father Huntington, Superior of the Order of the Holy Cross, to hold a mission in this parish early in the coming year. The purpose of a mission is to stir up the devotion of the people and to bring into the Church those living in its neighborhood who are careless and indifferent. That it may accomplish its purpose there ought to be a very careful and thorough preparation made for it. Father Huntington is coming to spend the second Sunday in this month with us to explain to our people just what a mission is and how it should be prepared for. He will preach both morning and evening on that day, and we trust that all our parishioners will make a point of being present and hear what he has to say, that they may learn how they can and should aid in this effort to put new life and power into our parish.

Do not forget the date, November 12th, morning and evening. Father Huntington has a national reputation as a preacher, and every one will be glad to hear him irrespective of the question of the mission. We trust the church will be full.

WHAT SHOULD ONE GIVE FOR CHURCH SUPPORT?

The support of a church is like the support of a family. There are certain expenses which must be met for rent, food, fuel, light, etc. If there is not money enough for these the home must be given up or expenses reduced by taking a smaller house or in some other way. And it is only after these expenses are met that money can be expended for dress, entertainments, or other luxuries. So the house one lives in and the way one lives is dependent on one's income.

So in a church. If it is of a certain size and requires the services of one or more ministers, a choir, etc., there must be money forthcoming to meet these expenses. And how to raise that money is always the question. If a church is so fortunate as to be endowed, then it is safe, and there is no trouble about supporting it, as in case of a family that has property from which it derives an income. And it is much to be desired that all our churches should have at least some endowment, as that is the only way to protect them from changes in the population and the loss of those able to support them.

Where there is no endowment the plan largely resorted to for church support has been that of renting the seats. That enables the vestry of a church to fix the rate of the pew-rent at a sum sufficient to meet the necessary expenses. But there are great objections to this system. It turns the church, which should be looked upon as the home of all of every class and condition, into a private club-house of a certain class who are well enough off to pay the rent required. This limits the efficiency of the church and prevents its reaching and ministering to all classes, the poor, the solitary, and the indifferent.

The better and higher way is to have all seats free to any and every one, and support the church by voluntary offerings. Then what one gives is for the glory of God and the carrying of His work on earth and not simply as an equivalent for personal privilges.

But that these offerings may be sufficient for church support there must be conscientiousness on the part of the givers. It will not do for one to put in the plate any sum of money, no matter how small it may be, that one happens to have in his pocket. Each must give a fixed and due proportion to bear the common expenses, according to his ability. So each attendant of a church should ask himself what would be a fair amount for me to give, considering my income and other expenses. That should should be the test of what one ought to give. One dollar a week, $52 a year, would be a great deal for a person to give whose whole income was not more than $500 a year But it be a very little for one to give whose income is, say, $5,000 a year. Now, we notice a great disparity in the way in which people give to this parish. There are some persons whose incomes we know are limited, and who live in a very simple way, who give perhaps 25 cents each week—$13 a year—and there are others whose incomes we know must be a great deal larger and who live in a much more expensive way who do not give any more.

What proportion does $13 a year bear to what those people expend for dress, amusements, and luxuries of one kind and another? And is it right that they should spend so much on themselves and give so little for the support of that institution and those services which are of more consequence to the welfare and happiness of the individual and the community than anything else on earth?

Will not our people consider this and see if they cannot increase the amount they are giving for the support of their church. We are sure there are many who can and ought to do so. We have difficulty every year in making our ends meet, though the expenses of the church are fixed at a very moderate rate; the salaries paid the clergy, choir, etc., are much less in this church than in others similarly situated, and we ought to meet them freely and promptly. And we could do so if every one connected with the church would give his or her full share according to the means which they have.

PARISH NOTES

DONATION.—We have to thank again an unknown donor for another box of six long real wax candles for our altar which were recently sent anonymously to the church.

ORGAN REPAIRS.—We are glad to say that donations have been received in response to the appeal we made last month nearly sufficient to pay for the repairs we had to make to our organ.

OUR GUILDS.—The Rector will this winter take charge of S. John's Guild for young men, and the Curate act as Chaplain for S. Mary's Guild for young women. Miss Elsie Ashburner has become Superior of this guild in place of Miss Thompson, who may be obliged to leave the city for a time. Miss Anna Kirkpatrick has been elected secretary in place of Mrs. Harvey Hindermeyer, who has removed to New York.

At the business meeting held on October 25th a committee was appointed to procure a basket ball and arrange for games this winter. The young ladies seem quite enthusiastic at the thought of regular practice, and much pleasure is anticipated.

Another committee was appointed to select and begin preparations for a play later in the season. With the incoming of new members, of several of whom we already know, we shall have abundance of material for such an affair.

THE TWENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY of the Rev. Mr. Hodge's entrance upon the Rectorship of this parish will take place on the last Sunday of this month, November 26th. He will preach a sermon commemorative of the occasion on the morning of that day. He particularly requests all the parishioners to be present.

S. AGNES' GUILD.—This society of the smaller girls resumed its sessions on October 14th and began with nearly twice as many members as at the beginning last year. Miss Anna Epprecht is its Superior this year, and she will be helped by at least four assistants. Twenty-nine were present at the opening meeting, and since then a few more children have joined.

We need games suitable for girls, and if any who read this would kindly send us some that may be lying idly at home it would give pleasure to our young folks and help us in the work of our little Guild.

Heretofore we have purchased our games, but as our dues are only one cent a week we naturally have not a large fund upon which to draw. May we not look for some response to this suggestion? The need is not very urgent, but it would please and help the children if some reply were made.

WEDDING.—A very pretty wedding was held in the church on the evening of S. Luke's Day, October 18th, when one of our old guild boys and choirman, Mr. Harvey Hindermeyer, was married to Miss Gertrude Miller, long member and secretary of S. Mary's Guild. The bride was given away by her cousin, Mr. Jas. Dunlap, and attended by a maid of honor, two bridesmaids and four ushers. The church was quite filled by relatives and friends of both parties. We wish the bridal couple all happiness in the future.

CHURCH DEBT FUND

During October $1500 was paid on account of the church debt, and our subscriptions now amount to $7255. There still remains nearly $5000 to be raised and only this month in which to do it if the original scheme of paying off the debt on the completion of the twenty-fifth year of our Rector's service in the parish is to be carried out. To do this will require great exertion and interest on the part of every one connected with the church

We estimate that so far the subscriptions made represent only about one-half of the communicant members of the church, we have therefore some two hundred and fifty yet to hear from. If each one of these would give on an average $10 a price it would amount to one-half the amount needed. Some certainly could do this and many a great deal more, enough surely to make up the other half. Will not each do what he or she can and do it promptly, that the whole amount may be realized ahd our church at last be relieved from the burden of debt.

The fund stands now as follows :

THE choirmaster would be glad to hear of boys who may be available for the choir. Boys are constantly needed to keep up the required number of singers, and it is often very difficult to find good boys. Boys from ten to twelve years of age are especially desired, and they may apply to the choirmaster on Wednesday afternoons at 4.30 or at one of the Sunday services, or the choirmaster will call if names and addresses are given to him.

THE MISSION

It has been announced that a mission is to be held in this parish from March 2 to March 16, 1906, and we want to explain to our people what a mission is, what its purpose is, how and by whom it is to be conducted, and how to prepare for it.

A mission consists in a series of special services, sermons and instructions given by one or more clergymen, at various hours during each day of the week, and lasting for a week, two weeks, and even sometimes longer. Its object is to stir up the careless and indifferent, to draw to the church those who perhaps never go at all, or very seldom, to help and comfort those who have any special troubles, doubts, or spiritual difficulties, to instruct the young and old alike more thoroughly in the truths of the Christian faith, form and perfect Christian characters and enthuse them with earnestness and zeal in the service of their Divine Lord,

Of course these are the objects of all church services and sermons, what the parish clergy are trying to do all the time. But the fact that the same persons are trying to do the same thing all time makes it monotonous, When people hear constantly the same voice, saying substantially the same thing week after week and year after year it loses its effect. The people fail to listen to it and be profited by it, as they would be if some new man with a different way of putting things comes in, especially if that man is one who is a man of ability, who has made a special study and practice of doing just this thing. And the multiplied services and crowds that are attracted, and the interest and enthusiasm which are thereby stirred up, often produce an effect which no one clergyman carrying on the ordinary services of the church possibly could.

This particular mission is to be conducted by some of the members of what is known as the Order of the Holy Cross. This is an order which was founded a number of years ago by the Rev. Mr. Huntington, a son of the late Bishop of Central New York, for the special purposd of doing just this sort of thing. The members of the order have no parishes, but they live together in a house on a piece of property which was given them at West Park, above West Point, on the Hudson River, New York. Here they carry on constant services, hold from time to time retreats for the clergy and others, and offer a refuge for those who are in trouble or want to retire for a while to a place where they may give themselves especially to prayer and discipline. But their chief business is this holding of missions, conducting quiet days, holding parochial retreats or preaching on various occasions. So that they are specialists in the work of arousing the indifferent, leading men to Christ and His Church, and instructing and building them up in the Faith. They are given the title of Father to distinguish them from the ordinary parochial clergy.

The special reason for having a mission in this parish is because the present Rector has been here a long time and he feels that while things have been running on very smoothly and a good work has been done, yet the people need to be roused up by a new voice and novel methods Many of our people have moved to a great distance from the church and are very irregular in their attendance, and we fear in the performance of their religious duties, and they need to be recalled to a sense of their solemnity and obligation. Then there are a great many people in our neighborhood living in boarding-hou es and apartments who are not definitely connected with any church and seldom, if ever, attend church services. These we want to reach and make them, if possible, regular and interested church members.

That the mission may be a success all our members must be willing to work and to pray for it. Father Huntington laid great stress on this in the day he spent with us last month to tell the people about the mission. He wants every one who will do so to agree to say from now until it takes place a daily prayer on its behalf. A copy of this article, together with a form of prayer for the mission, will be sent to every member of the parish with a stub attached on which is the promise to use the prayer, the stub to be returned either by being placed in one of the alms-boxes in the vestibule of the church or sent by mail to the Rector.

Later a card will be prepared giving a list of all the services to be held. This will be sent not only to all our members, but distributed in all the houses in the neighborhood of the church. This the members of our Brotherhood of S. Andrew have undertaken to do.

All the services, as always in our church, will of course be free to every one, but the mission will involve considerable expense in printing, postage, advertisement, etc., and the mission preachers have no regular salaries or income, but depend for their support upon what is given them from time to time. So to defray these expenses we shall have a box placed in the vestibule of the church to receive offerings for the expenses of the mission, and the offering made at the week-day celebrations during the mission will be for the same purpose.

We trust that all will do everything they can to promote the success of the mission and that unceasing prayer may be made from now until it takes place that God may bless it to the bringing of many souls to Christ, reclaiming the wanderers, strengthening the weak, and the upbuilding our beloved church.

CHRISTMAS OFFERING

As usual we ask for special offerings on Christmas day. It is only by a large offering at Christmas and Easter that we can hope to make up the average needed to meet our current expenses. Those especially who do not use envelopes must remember to make up by a large gift at these times for all the Sundays in the year when they contribute nothing through absence.

That our people may know exactly what we need to meet by the Christmas offertory we give here a detailed statement. Note of the church given to meet current expenses during the summer due the beginning of January, $500; on account of salary of Rector to December 1st, $250; interest on mortgage, $126.88. These items must be met by the Christmas offering, as the usual weekly receipts are only sufficient to meet the expenses for the month.

PARISH NOTES

THE Twenty-fifth anniversary of the Rector's coming to the parish was celebrated on November 26th. A large congregation was present, composed of many of the former as well as present members of the parish. The chancel was handsomely decorated with palms through the generosity and kind thought of Mr. Arlington Moore, one of our old choir boys, now of a firm of florists at 1420 Columbia avenue. The Rector preached in the morning an historical sermon, giving some account of the parish from its inception in 1835, and especially of the last twenty-five years. In the evening he preached from the same text on which he had preached the first Sunday he entered on his rectorship, urging the people again, as he had then, to help him build further up and perfect the walls of our spiritual Jerusalem. The Rector received many congratulations and several very handsome testimonials of affection from some of the parishioners.

CHRISTMAS DAY celebrations of the Holy Communion at 6.30, 7.30, 8.30 and after Morning Prayer at 10.30.

SPECIAL PREACHER.—On the morning of December 17th we expect to have as preacher the Rev. Thomas E. Green, D. D., of Iowa, the Chaplain General of the Society of the Sons of the Revolution. He is a professional orator and we are sure will give us a fine sermon.

ST. AGNES' GUILD ENTERTAINMENT.—The little people of this Guild propose giving their annual entertainment on the evening of Tuesday, December 19th, at 8 P. M.

The purpose of the affair is first to interest the children and also to provide them (from the profits received) with a small fund out of which during the year to defray the necessary expenses of their society. This entertainment, in addition to their penny-a-week subscriptions, is the only source from which they receive any assistance whatever.

They are working hard in preparation and have a surprise or two in store for their friends. The price of admission will be ten cents. Please buy some tickets.

CHURCH DEBT FUND

During November $500 was paid on account of the mortgage, reducing it now to $4,000.

Our total contributions to this fund since we started it a year ago—all being free-will offerings—amount to something over $8,000. Though this is not all we undertook to raise, still it is two-thirds of the amount and a very good showing for a congregation in which there is as little wealth as there is here.

As the whole of the $12,000 we needed to free the church entirely from debt is not yet in hand the committee having the matter in charge have simply resolved to keep on at it until it is all raised, and their hope is that that may be accomplished during the coming winter, so that the church might be consecrated on next Ascension day, which would be a most appropriate time.

There are persons in the congregation who have not yet given to this fund, and if there are any who feel they cannot afford to give the lowest sum that was asked—$5—let them give $1, or even less if they cannot give that much. It will be noticed that a good deal has come in in sums under $5, and we should be glad to see more. Let every one in the congregation give something. Envelopes for the debt are sent out with every set of envelopes quarterly, and others can always be found in the rack near the door in the church; they can be filled and put on the plate at any offertory.

The fund stands now as follows:

5—	$500	subscriptions	$2500 00
3—	250	"	750 00

HERESY

In the Litany and some of our Collects we pray to be delivered from the sin of Heresy. What is it, and how is it a sin? Heresy means literally individual choice. It is the deciding for oneself and prefering to live and be guided by what we think best rather than by what God has revealed to us.

In some dozen places in the New Testament this is referred to as a sin. In one place S. Peter calls it "damnable," in another S. Paul calls it a "work of the flesh," and says an heretic is "to be rejected," and in a number of places exhorts Christians to be all of one mind, so that the divisions which result from heresy will not take place.

Now this does not mean that we are not to use our minds, to think or reason about the truths which have been revealed to us, or that we believe in certain dogmas without having sufficient grounds for doing so; but it means that no person or number of persons should venture to set up their individual opinion against that of the whole church, and to presume to judge of things which are beyond the range of human intellect. The Christian religion is not a human philosophy or discovery. It is something God has revealed to us, and in what we call the deposit of the faith are matters no human mind could ever have discovered for itself, and the test of what that faith is—the general consent of all Christians. Christ promised His continued presence to the whole church, that the Holy Spirit should lead it into all truth, so it cannot be that the whole church should fall into error. Individuals may err, communities of Christians may err, but all Christians cannot agree to receive what is erronious, otherwise Christ's promise would fail.

And it is wonderful how the Christian faith has been preserved through the centuries, and all the changes in human thought and modes of conception, and the different races and kinds of peoples by which it has been received. The creed, which is all that is required in belief for admission into the church by baptism, dates back to the very times of the Apostles and has always and everywhere been received. The great symbol drawn up at the councils of Nicea and Constantinople has had the same universal acceptance. And so have all the essential truths and practices of our religion. What but the overruling Spirit of God and the fact that they are true and divinely revealed could have secured that unanimity?

And yet, in spite of this wonderful agreement among Christians in regard to the essentials of the Faith, there has always been this tendency to introduce heresy. It appeared even in the times of the Apostles, as S. Paul wrote to the Corinthians, "I hear that there are heresies among you," and he sharply condemns it. And from that time to this there have never ceased to be those who have not hesitated to set up their own opinions against those of the great body of the church, and to teach this or that peculiarity, or deny this or that doctrine and so cause division and sow seeds of doubt and uncertainty and thus draw people away from the Christian Faith and retard its progress among men.

The catalogue of heresies is a long one. The names of many of the early ones are now almost forgotten. They have lasted some a few years, some for centuries, and then died out, and new ones have arisen in their stead.

This is the case still. There seems to be no opinion, no matter how novel or absurd it may be, but some persons are ready to receive it. The last few years has seen the rise of new heresies, such as those of Christian Science and Dowieism, which have already grown to large proportions. When will men be ready to believe God rather than men, and when will they learn humility and not attempt to dogmatize about things which are beyond the powers of the human mind to grasp? Men talk about the dogmatism of the Church, but the Church only speaks on the authority of Him who was the wisest and the best who ever spoke, and its dogmatism is as nothing compared to the arrogancy of those who presume from a merely human standpoint to say what can or cannot be done in all the universe, of which we know so little.

Let us pray God, therefore, that we may be delivered from this tendency to depend on human choices, which are so unreliable and introduce such confusion among human faiths. Let us thank God that He has given us in the Catholic Faith which has never varied, all that is necessary, probably all that is possible for us to know, and let us hold fast to that faith and not be led aside by the vaporings and speculations of men, which are ever changing and have only human authority. Let us pray devoutly that we and the Church at large may ever be defended from the sin of heresy.

CHURCH DEBT FUND

It was with the deepest gratitude and thankfulness that all in the church on the last Sunday in December heard the announcement by the Rector that the total amount needed to pay the mortgage debt on the church had been contributed. This was made possible, first, by a donation of $500 from the Society for the Advancement of Christianity in Pennsylvania, made on the condition that all of the debt was paid; secondly, by a collection made by a lady of the congregation among her friends of $700; thirdly by an offer of an old and good friend of the parish of $250., provided three others would give the same. This was responded to on the same day by two others promising the like amount And, finally, on the Sunday morning after Christmas, just as he was about to enter the church, the Rector received a card from a gentleman attending the church, saying that he and his wife would be responsible for the remainder of the debt whatever it might be. This will enable us to cancel the entire mortgage on the property as soon as all the contributions made have been paid in. And the church being then free from debt can be consecrated. The heartiest thanks of the Rector and of the committee having the matter in charge are due to all those who have contributed towards bringing this result about.

This freeing of the church from the mortgage debt does not mean that we have raised all of the $12,000 we undertook to raise a year ago. Part of that was to pay off a floating debt we then had, which has now been paid, and part to make some very necessary repairs to our parish building. To make up the $12,000 we shall still need $900. We trust this will be contributed so as not only to put us out of debt, but place our buildings in good state of repair.

PARISH NOTES

CHRISTMAS was a most beautiful day and was well kept in our parish. There were more communicants than last year. The congregation in the middle of the day was not large. But, then, it never is, as many who come to the early communions do not return again, and so many are kept at home by household festivities or preparations for them and many go away to spend the day with relatives and friends. The music was very good, though many regretted that we could not have had the whole of the S. Cecilia Mass.

Through the exertions of Miss Thompson, who has charge of our Mothers' Meeting, Christmas dinners were provided for twenty families, and toys and candies given to nearly fifty children. Miss Thompson returns her thanks to those in the parish who furnished her with the means to do this, and also to the children in Media, Pa., who sent a large box of toys, etc., to be distributed among some children in the city whose parents could not afford to buy toys for them

The offertory on Christmas was not, we are sorry to say, as large as it ought to have been and we need, to meet our immediate obligations. We require still about $300.00 to meet a note of the church for $500, due January 7th, for money we had to borrow during the summer. All other current obligations have been paid. Who will contribute towards making up this $300,00?

SUNDAY-SCHOOL FESTIVAL.—On Holy Innocents' Day the school held their Christmas festival. The Rector stated that the attendance was larger than for many years.

Mrs. Williams provided a most interesting exhibition by a gymnastic class.

Mr. Carroll Hodge kindly provided electrical decoration for the tree.

A present and a box of candy was given to every child and a pleasant evening was spent.

Before the entertainment a carol service was held in the church, with an addresses from the Rector and Curate.

ENVELOPES.—The Rector would like to know who it was to whom he recently gave No. 42, as he neglected to record the name.

Every one attending the church is asked to contribute to its support regularly through the envelope system. The Rector will give them to any applying for them after any service.

THE MISSION.—Last month copies of the form of prayer for the coming mission in the church were sent to every registered communicant by mail. If others would like to use it, they can get copies from the clergy or they can find them in the rack near the door.

It has been licensed by the Bishop of the diocese for use in the public services of the church until the mission is over.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL ATTENDANCE.—It is a pleasure to state that so far the attendance at the school this season has been larger than last year. This is encouraging when we are conscious that attactions are being offered to children by the schools of the various denominations around us, which strongly appeal to a child's nature and yet cost far more money than is at all available for the school of the Church of the Ascension.

GIFTS TO THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL.—The assistant superintendent has provided each child of the school with an album in which to preserve the Perry pictures received in token of their attendance. The children are charged two cents each for them, which is a mere fraction of their cost.

Our secretary has generously offered to pay half of the cost of the Perry pictures, so that now we are able to give a picture a Sunday to each child, in place of one every two Sundays as formerly.

The assistant superintendent and secretary jointly have offered a Bible to the boy and to the girl who by the end of the season has brought to the school the largest number of new scholars.

The superintendent has offered a Bible to every child who recites to him the Catechism without missing one word. Already one girl has done so.

One of our little girls, Hattie Greer, has presented a number of story books to the library. We would be grateful for any suitable contributions.

Our Sunday-school organist presented a bunch of flowers to every child present on the Sunday after Christmas. He generously provided 100 bouquets for the school. We are very grateful to him.

The Curate is deeply grateful for more than a dozen gifts to him from various members of the school at Christmastide.

The Church received a gift of a very fine new mat for the vestibule of the church. The old one had been in use since the church was built.

INSTRUCTIONS TO S. MARY'S GUILD.—On the second Tuesday in each month their Director speaks to the guild at their monthly meeting in the church, and on the other Tuesdays their Superior is giving a course of instructions upon the Gospel according to S. John. An Office of Devotion is recited at every meeting. In these ways the guild is doing much more than merely providing weekly sport for its members.

GIFT FROM S. AGNES' GUILD.—The little ones of this guild presented to their Director as a birthday gift a handsome seal traveling-bag to be used as a vestment case for cassock, etc., when called away to preach or otherwise. He greatly appreciates it, not only because of its intrinsic worth and beauty, but far more as a token of their love.

GAMES FOR S. AGNES' GUILD.—In response to the suggestion last month Miss Anna Epprecht has sent to the guild one game and Mrs. Dr. Fenton has sent three. These new amusements will further brighten up the children's meetings, and so tend to bring more children within the reach of the Church's teaching and training.

Perhaps some other kind friends will remember us this month.

THE CONSECRATION OF THE CHURCH

Though the church has been in use for nearly twenty years it never has been Consecrated, because, according to the canons of the church in the diocese, no church can be Consecrated until free from debt. But now that we are at last happily in that condition the date fixed for this event is Thursday, February the 8th. The services for the day will be as follows: There will be celebrations of the Holy Communion on the morning of that day at 7 A. M. by the Rev. Wm. Bernard Gilpin and at 9 A. M. by the Rector. At both of these celebrations the Collect, Epistle and Gospel appointed in the Prayer Book for the Consecration of a church will be used, as well as at the service in the middle of the day.

The Consecration proper will be at 11 A. M., and will be performed by the Rt. Rev. the Bishop of the Diocese, and it is hoped the Bishop Coadjutor will be present as well. All the clergy of the Diocese will be invited to be present, and the front seats in the middle aisle will be reserved for them. They will assemble in the parish building, where, with the choir, they will form in procession and, if the weather permits, pass out into Broad street and enter the church by the main door, where the Bishop will be met by the Vestry of the church. If the weather should be inclement the procession will enter the church from the parish building and pass down the west aisle until it reaches the main entrance and go up the middle aisle. A hymn will be sung during the procession, which will be continued until the choir reach their places in the sanctuary. The clergy will open ranks and stand on each side of the middle aisle, while the Bishop passes up between them, reciting alternately with them Psalm xxiv. He will be followed by the Rector and Vestry, for whom places will be reserved in front of the clergy. When the latter have taken their places in the pews Mr. Francis S. Keese, the Senior Warden, will read the request for Consecration and present the Bishop with the certification that the church is free from all indebtedness, the satisfied mortgage and the deeds of the property. The latter is, by resolution of the Vestry, to be transferred to the Trustees of the Diocese to prevent any possibility of its encumbrance or alienation in the future. After this the Bishop will proceed with the Consecration according to the form in the Prayer Book, which is the next to the last service in the book. This will be followed by shortened morning prayer as it is there prescribed, and the celebration of the Holy Communion. The music for this will be Gounod's St. Cecilia Mass. The celebrant will be the Rev. H. Page Dyer, Curate of the parish, the Gospeller and Epistler will be two of the former Curates. The sermon will be preached by the Rector. It will occur immediately after the Nicene Creed, no break being made in the service, all present being expected to remain until the end. The order of service will be printed for the use of the clergy and congregation.

After the service a collation will be served in the parish building for the clergy present and the choir. The Rector will be glad to receive contributions towards defraying the expense of the collation and for the printing of the invitations and forms of service.

REPAIR OF THE PARISH BUILDING

In our last issue we announced that the amount needed to pay off the mortgage on our church had been raised. No sooner was the copy of the news issued than the Rector was enabled the very next Sunday to announce that the entire $12,000, we undertook a little over a year ago to raise, had been secured.

This enabled the vestry to pay the mortgage, which was satisfied of record January 13, 1906, and having also paid off the floating debt we had when we began the movement, $1000 was still left to repair the parish building. Estimates were at once procured and contracts made for doing the necessary work. This included putting an entire new roof on the building, as the old one had given a great deal of trouble through constant leaks, which disfigured the walls and ceilings. All the latter are being painted for the first time in oil, and all the walls wainscotted to the height of four feet to prevent the breaking of the plaster and disfiguring of the paint by the rubbing of the chairs, etc., against them. The large room in the second story is to be divided into two by a rolling partition, which will make the front room much more shapely, put all the gymnasium appliances, which are so incongruous with a Sunday-school room, in the back room, and give us the latter for an additional Bible class-room. And by rolling up the partition the whole can be thrown into one room as before when it is so desired. Advantage was also taken of the painting of the walls to introduce gas into the side walls and do away with the chandeliers. This will give much better light and there will be nothing to interfere with playing basket ball and giving entertainments. The exterior woodwork of the building and the fence on Kater street is to be repainted and the brick work repointed. The swinging doors in the vestibule of the church are to be covered with red leather and the walls there wainscotted and all the woodwork revarnished. In addition to this, the cross on the top of the flèche at the junction of the nave and choir which was broken off and blown down in a recent storm and the crown beneath it broken and bent, will be renewed and replaced. Thus the church and the parish building will be put in perfect order in time for the Consecration.

PARISH NOTES

RESIGNATION AND ELECTION OF VESTRYMEN.—At a meeting of the vestry of the parish on January 4th the resignation of Mr. John H. Mason was presented and accepted with much regret. This resignation was due to Mr. Mason's removal from the city and the impossibility of his attending the services of the church in the future. The vacancy was filled by the election of Mr. William P. Henszey, who has been attending the church for the last three winters and who has taken much interest in it.

THANKS TO THE COMMITTEE ON THE DEBT.—At the same meeting of the vestry a resolution was passed thanking most heartily the committee which was composed of ladies and gentlemen of the congregation for their labor and interest in securing the money necessary to pay off our debt, congratulating them on their success and discharging them from any further duty.

COMMITTEES OF THE VESTRY.—A committee was appointed by the vestry to assist the Rector in making the necessary arrangements for the consecration of the church. It consists of the Rector's Warden Mr. Keese, Mr. John S. Newbold and Mr. John D. Henderson. The latter has kindly addressed all the envelopes for the invitations to the service. Committees to superintend the repair to the building and to prepare the deeds for the transfer of the property of the parish to the trustees of the Diocese were also appointed.

CONTRIBUTIONS TO THE DEBT.—The only additional contributors to the church debt fund since the list we printed in January were Mr. Alfred C. Harrison and Mr. Eckley B. Cox, Jr. All the subscriptions made have now been paid in excepting some small ones, amounting in all to $50.

ST. AGNES' GUILD TO KEITH'S.—On January 15th thirty-two of us went to see a really good show at Keith's. It was a pleasure to see how the little girls enjoyed their evening. Nothing occurred to mar our pleasure.

A GIFT TO ST. AGNES' GUILD.—Miss Schell kindly gave to the guild two games, which they will greatly enjoy.

ST. AGNES' GUILD'S GIFTS TO SUPERIORS.—The children of the guild took great pleasure in presenting to their four superiors, Miss Anna Epprecht, Miss Palmgrin, Miss Barker and Miss Milliken, a gift in commemoration of St. Agnes' Day. It took the form of a year's subscription to a magazine for each one of them, in recognition of their unfailing kindness and weekly attendance at the guild.

ATTENDANCE AT THE EARLY CELEBRATIONS.—It is a great pleasure to say that this winter the attendance at the 7 A. M. Celebrations in the week has almost doubled in number those of last year.

PLAY BY ST. MARY'S GUILD.—The members are working hard in preparation for two plays to be given on Tuesday, February 24th, at 8 P. M. A professional trainer is helping them in the study of their parts. The plays are entitled "A Cup of Coffee" and "Our Country Aunt." Twenty-five cents will be the charge for tickets. Music will add to the interest of the occasion.

ST. MARY'S GUILD ATTENDANCE.—A number of new members have recently joined and the attendance is larger and more regular than for years, and all connected with the guild are encourged.

WEDNESDAY NIGHT VOLUNTEER CORPS.—In recognition of their faithful attendance on Wednesday evenings, the Curate took five boys to Dumont's Minstrels on January 8th. Mr. Pratt, our Sunday-school secretary, who is with us every Wednesday night, joined us in our fun.

THE MISSION.—In another month the Mission will be upon us. We trust all are using daily the prayer for it. A goodly number of the prayer slips have been returned, but not nearly all that were sent out.

We hope all will not only pray for the success of the Mission, but work for it, by telling others about it and trying to bring to it those who are careless and indifferent or go nowhere to church. It is for these people especially that it is intended.

QUARTER'S ENVELOPES. — A new quarter's envelopes are sent out with the beginning of this month. The special envelope this quarter is for Diocesan Missions, for which this parish is apportioned $100. We look for this amount to be returned in the envelopes.

The Rector will be very glad to send a set of envelopes to any one in the congregation who is not yet using them. Every one attending the church is requested to do so, as its support is provided for in this way instead of by pew rents.

THE MOTHERS' MEETING.—On January 3d was held the yearly Christmas meeting and entertainment. Miss Peters and Miss Hodge very kindly gave to us a delightful concert which was much enjoyed. Miss Carman was prevented from helping us, which was regretted. Refreshments of ice cream and cake and coffee followed. The beautiful Christmas cake was the gift of a friend.

The choirmaster would be glad to hear of boys who may be available for the choir. Boys are constantly needed to keep up the required number of singers, and it is often very difficult to find good boys. Boys from ten to twelve years of age are especially desired, and they may apply to the choirmaster on Wednesday afternoons at 4.30 or at one of the Sunday services, or the choirmaster will call it names and addresses are given to him.

THE MISSION

The Mission we have been so long looking forward to is at last upon us, and we pray God it may accomplish the good for which it is intended. We have tried to make all due preparation for it, we have kept it before the minds of our people, we have asked all to pray daily for its success, and lately we have had placed in shop windows and on fences everywhere in the neighborhood of the church, and in those parts of the city where a number of our people live, a placard announcing it and inviting all to come to it. In addition to this, the men of our Brotherhood of S. Andrew and S. John's Guild and some of our ladies have been leaving at the different houses in the neighborhood cards of invitation with the hours of services. Two thousand of these have been distributed. And we shall publish it more or less in the daily papers.

The Mission will be conducted by Fathers Huntington and Sill. The services will be as follows:

Daily, on the week days, at 6.15 and 7 A. M. Holy Communion with five-minute talks called "The Watch Word."

10 A M.—Morning Prayer with Instruction.

3 P. M. (March 5–10) Address to Women.

4 P. M.—Children's Mission.

5.15 P. M.—Evening Prayer.

7.45 P. M.—Mission Intercessions.

8 P. M.—Mission Sermon.

There will be no choir at the night services. The singing will be congregational, a special Mission hymn book being used, copies of which will be provided, but are not to be taken away from the church, as they will be needed there every day. There are also special cards with hymns for the children's service.

Those wanting to see the Fathers personally can do so after any service.

We trust all our people will try not only to profit by the Mission themselves by attending as many of the services as they can, but tney will try and aid it by bringing to it as many others as possible, especially those whom they know who do not go to church at all or are very indifferent and careless in performing their religious duties.

This Mission is not, like some others which are being held in this city, simply an appeal to the emotions, relying upon a sudden impulse to govern all the future life. It is an effort to arouse men indeed out of their forgetfulness of the importance of religion, to which we are all so liable, but its chief aim is to instruct men, leading them to the use of the sacraments and observance of the rules of the church. Nor is it an intemperate denunciation of all the innocent pleasures of life, demanding men to return to a Puritanical strictness the world has long since outgrown, but its design is to strengthen them to live godly, righteous and sober lives, observing true temperance in all things—speech included.

If our people will look upon it as a special opportunity given them for their own uplifting, and as a means by which they can bring a blessing to others, they may be able to influence others to attend it, we are sure it will do great good.

As we have said before, all the advertising, printing, books, etc., together with the remuneration which the Fathers should receive, and they live entirely on the free-will gifts which they receive from those for whom they minister, will amount to a considerable sum. Two alms-boxes in the vestibule will be marked for "expenses of the Mission," and all the offerings at the early celebrations on the week days will be devoted to this purpose. On the last day of the Mission a large thank offering should be made, which we trust will be sufficint to meet all the expenses and yield a handsome honorarium to the missioners.

THE CHURCH CONSECRATED

At last our church is free from debt and solemnly consecrated and set apart to be always devoted to the worship and service of Almighty God.

The day of the consecration proved most auspicious; one day, or a few hours later, the weather would have been disastrous and kept many away. As it was the church was crowded, though many additional seats had been put in the aisles. There were two Bishops and about seventy-five clergymen in the procession. Many more were in the church. The Bishop Coadjutor was prevented by illness from being present Everything went off smoothly. The Procession was interspersed with banners, the choir singing the hymns "Blessed City Heavenly Salem," and "Christ is Made the Sure Foundation" from the time it left the parish building, passed along Broad street and entered the church until it reached the chancel. The Vestry met the Bishop at the entrance of the church and joined the procession up the middle aisle, sitting in front of the clergy. The Gospeller and Epistler were vested in the ancient Deaconal garments prescribed by the Prayer Book of the Church of England, which were borrowed for the occasion, as, not having enough clergymen in the parish to act as those ministers in the celebration ordinarily, we do not possess them. The music of the service was beautifully rendered by our choir, which was only slightly augmented for the occasion.

The Rector's sermon was a setting forth of the principles and objects he had in view in the building and conducting the church. It was printed in full in the Church Standard of February 24th. The Rector has a number of extra copies he will be glad to give any members of the congregation who would like to have one.

The clergy present, members of the choir and servers were bountifully entertained after the service at a collation served in the Parish building.

The Rector returns his thanks to the members of the congregation who subscribed towards the expenses of the Consecration, the greater part of which has now been provided for.

PARISH NOTES

CONFIRMATION.—Owing to the Mission our annual Confirmation will take place later this year than usual, as it was thought better not to begin the Instructions for Confirmation until after the Mission closed. The Bishop has appointed the evening of Wednesday, April 25th, for the purpose

The Instructions will begin on Monday, March 19th, at 4 P. M., in Parish building by the Rector, and on Wednesday, March 21st, after the 8 P. M. service in the church by the Curate and continued on the succeeding Monday afternoons and Wednesday evenings until the Confirmation. It is hoped that all the adults in the parish, who have not yet been confirmed, no matter what their age, will present themselves at this time. Confirmation admits to the Holy Communion, and no Christian should live without regularly receiving that as Christ commanded.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—There was placed on the altar and used for the first time on the day of the consecration a new piece of silver plate for the altar service. It is a pyx or box to hold the altar breads It is on a stand about as high as a chalice with a cover surmounted by a cross which serves for a handle. It is a memorial to Mrs. Julia deVeaux Peters, who was a member of this parish. She died about eighteen months ago. It is presented by members of her family. We are grateful, too, for some additional coal orders for the poor.

We should also acknowledge the obligation of the church to Mr. F. C. Botwight, one of our choir men, for doing part of the carpentering work in renovating the Parish building, and also to Mr. McGarrick, another member of the choir, for repairing the tiles in the church. Master Harry Hurst, one of our choir boys, painted the signs for the Mission.

LENTEN SERVICES.—During Lent the services will be the same as in former years, except that during the Mission the daily evening service will begin at 5.15 P. M. in order to allow time for the Children's Mission at 4 P. M., and on the two Sundays of the Mission there will be Choral Evensong at 4.30 P. M., with a sermon, instead of as usual at 7.45 P. M., as the Mission sermon will be preached then.

ST. JOHN'S, SR., GUILD RECEPTION.—On February 19th this guild gave a reception in union with the St. Mary's Guild. Twenty-nine persons attended, an orchestra furnished good music, and a pleasant evening was spent in dancing and other amusements. Ice cream and cake were the refreshments.

ST. AGNES' GUILD RECEPTION.—It was a merry evening when, on February 17, forty five members of the guild and their friends met for a reception. A dozen boys accepted invitations from some of the little girls, and a well-behaved and happy company they were. Ice cream and cake were served plentifully and ended a meeting which was full of innocent joy. A happy fact was that, with scarcely an exception, every member of the guild who was present at the reception was also present at the celebration of the Holy Communion the following morning.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL MITE BOXES.—The children this Lent will be asked to give their Lenten offering to the Rev. W. C. Clapp, who is working in a lonely spot in the Phillipine Islands under Bishop Brent. The money will help him in procuring necessities and will also cheer him with the consciousness that friends far away remember him.

A Mission will be preached to the children, as well as to the grown people, every day during the stay of the Holy Cross Fathers. It will begin daily at 4 P. M., and a notice has been sent to every child who has been a member of the School at any time during the past three years.

Prizes, pictures, medals, etc., will be given to children earning them, and those who attend will probably never forget Father Huntington and Father Sill and the lessons they will teach.

WOMEN'S CONFERENCE

A Quiet Hour, followed by the Church Women's Conference, will be held in the Parish building of the Holy Trinity Church, Twentieth street near Walnut, on Thursday, March 22, at 10 A. M.

Conductor of Quiet Hour.—Rev. Nathaniel S Thomas.

Topics of the Conference:

"The Right Use of the Gift of Speech," Mrs. Mary M. Armstrong.

"The Influence of Companionship," Mrs. Bolton.

"The Loss of the Sense of Responsibility," Miss Margaret Shearman.

"Prisoners and their Claims Upon Us," Mrs. Charles Whelen.

A SUCCESSFUL FREE CHURCH
St. George's, New York City

The Rev. Wm. S. Rainsford became rector of St. George's parish in 1883. He was then thirty-two years of age, of splendid physique and in robust health. When he assumed his charge the church was practically without a congregation; with limited facilities for parish work; with small endowment; and with a reputation in the diocese that was little more than a tribute to a memorable past. He lays down his charge after twenty-two years of exhausting labor, impaired in health by the burden of a care of 7000 souls; with the endowment fund increased to $300,000; with a parish building complete in accommodation and equipment, and which is a model of successful and useful operation; with a deaconess house, a trade school, and a seaside cottage; with an official force of twenty men and women, an army of volunteer workers unsurpassed in numbers, intelligence, and devotion; and with a reputation acquired for the parish as extended as American Christianity.

RESULTS OF THE MISSION

The Mission we were so long looking forward to has been held and we are now in a position to estimate to some extent its results. In the numbers attending it, in the interest excited and the effect produced on many in the parish, it was certainly successful. It is estimated that at all the services put together there was an attendance of about seven thousand. Of course this did not mean seven thousand different persons, for many attended all or most of the services. But it gives some idea of the extent of the influence exerted.

Everyone was delighted with the missioners and their methods. There was a freedom from all effort after excitement or sensationalism, yet evident earnestness and sincerity. The Fathers did not spare themselves in their efforts to make the mission accomplish all it could and to secure for it lasting results. From 5 A. M. each day until after 11 P. M. they were working incessantly, frequently not giving themselves time for their meals. They each had their own special gifts, one affecting one class of people, the other another. Their methods of dealing with the children were especially interesting, not only riveting the attention of the children so that most of them were sorry when the Mission was over, but from fifty to a hundred grown people attended each day the Children's Mission and were greatly edified by it.

We are sure that many people were deeply touched and affected by the sermons and instructions they heard, and we trust the good seed found lodgement in many hearts where perhaps it would never otherwise have fallen and will bring forth much fruit. Our only regret in regard to it is that many of our parishioners whom we had hoped would have been benefitted by it never came to a single service, and that we did not reach all those persons living near the church who seldom, if ever, go to church at all. The lament of the church over the world is the same as that of our Lord Himself over the men of His own generation, "ye will not come to Me that ye might have life."

We were glad, however, to see many at the services who had not been in church for a long time, or had been very irregular, and we trust it will be the beginning of a new life and joy to them.

In response to many requests for it the Rector decided to continue the daily Eucharist which had been held during the Mission for the rest of Lent, and so far it has been very well attended, from ten to nineteen being present every day. The attendance at the early Communion on Sundays has been also largely increased; fifty-six were present on the morning of the last Sunday in March.

What the permanent results of the Mission will be it is yet too early to say; in fact, it will never be known in this world. Hearts may have been touched, lives affected, results produced which will never be revealed until the last day.

Our earnest prayer is, that all who had the privilege of attending the services and listening to the instructions will try to profit by them and fulfil in their lives the teaching they have received. We hope to see the regular attendance at the church increased and the spiritual earnestness of our people heightened. There is a great deal that our parish could do if our people were as faithful and devoted and liberal as they should be. And we trust the holding of this Mission may be the occasion of increasing in our people all those characteristics.

We should not cease using the prayer that the benefits of the Mission may be fully realized, on until Easter, to which time the Bishop of the Diocese licensed it.

PARISH NOTES

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—On the first Sunday in Lent there was used for the first time a very beautiful new silk embroidered chasuble made by the Altar Chapter of our Woman's Guild, on which they have been working for a long time. The materials were provided by Miss Elizabeth S. Gilpin and the members of the Bible Class, a very handsome gift to the church. This now gives us two chasubles, a handsome and a plainer one, for each of the principal seasons of the church year.

There was received last month another box of large wax candles for the altar and a large blotting-pad for the Vestry from a "Lover of the Church." We return our thanks to the unknown donor. Fifteen books were received for the parish library. A new set of violet coverings for the altar ornaments during the Passiontide and twelve linen purificators and six lavabo napkins were also presented.

HOLY WEEK services will be as in other years, 7 A. M, daily celebration, 10 A. M. Morning Prayer and second celebration with address, except on Good Friday, 5 P. M. Evening Prayer, and 8 P. M. sermon. The Rector will preach on Tuesday. Thursday and Friday evenings on S. Peter, Judas Iscariot and S. John as types of different characters of men. The Curate will preach on the other evenings.

On Good Friday there will be the description of the Stations of the Cross for the children at 9.30 A. M. by the Rector. At 11 A. M. there will be Morning Prayer and the Litany, followed by the singing of the Reproaches and the preaching of the Cross until 3 P. M.. The latter will be given by the Rt. Rev Leighton Coleman, D. D., Bishop of Delaware.

EASTER DAY.—There will be celebrations of the Holy Communion at 6.30, 7.30, 8 30 A. M., in addition to that in the middle of the day. A special Easter offering is asked from every one attending the church. We should on that day raise at least a thousand dollars, as the church owes two notes of five hundred dollars, due shortly after Easter for money it had to borrow during the summer to meet its current expenses. This may seem a large amount in view of the fact that we have now got rid of our mortgage debt. But it must be remembered that that has only recently been paid and that we had to make the two semi-annual payments of interest in June and December last, almost the same amount as formerly. It is in the coming year that we shall feel the relief of the mortgage being paid, though as we were always running behindhand in order to pay the interest our people must remember that they must give just as liberally as ever to enable us to meet our ordinary expenses.

In addition to this special offering we still need to make up the $100 asked for from this parish for Diocesan Missions.

Offerings for the Easter flowers may be placed in the almsboxes in the vestibule of the church, which are so marked, or given to Miss Parmelee, the treasurer.

CONFIRMATION.—Instructions preparatory to Confirmation are given on Mondays at 4 P. M. by the Rector and after the evening service on Wednesdays by the Curate. Will not all the adult members of the congregation not yet confirmed attend one or both of these series of instructions? The opportunity is given them now of entering the full communion of the church. Ought they to deny themselves that privilege? The opportunity may never come to them again.

The Confirmation will be on the evening of Friday, April 27th, not that of Wednesday the 25th, as announced last week.

THE UNITED OFFERING.—The Bishop has appointed Wednesday, May 2d, at 10.30 A. M., in the Church of the Incarnation, at Broad and Jefferson streets, as the time and place for the second annual Presentation service of the united offering of the Women Auxiliary of this Diocese. It is requested that those who have mite boxes and all who will contribute will send their offerings to Mrs. G. Ashley Faught, the Parish Treasurer, 1430 Spruce street, on or before April 28th.

LENTEN PREACHING.—The Rector is preaching during Lent, in addition to his services in the Parish, in S. Michael's Church; Germantown; Christ's Church, Sixth and Venango streets; Trinity Church, Southwork; S. Martin's, Oak Lane; S. Philip's, West Philadelphia; S. Peter's Church and S. David's, Manayunk. The Curate preaches in the Church of the Transfiguration, S. Thomas; Christ Church, Sixth and Venango streets; S. Alban's, Olney; S. Mark's, Hammonton, N. J. He also takes the three hours sermon on Good Friday in S. Jude's, Brooklyn, N. Y.

S. MARY'S GUILD.—It is proposed to make S. Mary's Guild a branch of the Girl's Friendly Society. A representative of the society visited the guild one evening last month and explained the purposes of the society, but a probation of three months must be served before the branch can be established.

THE MOTHERS' MEETING.—Miss Thompson reports number of articles returned this month finished to one of our hospital, 120. For especial Lenten work the members of the Meeting will do additional hospital sewing and also make a contribution for a small number of articles to be sent by the Foreign Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Boys' School at Cuttington in Africa.

By a stated monthly contribution through the kindness of some of our friends in the parish all expenses will be met until the summer, when we will greatly need an outing fund.

An entertainment is to be given in the New Century Drawing Room for the benefit of this Fund on the evening of April 25th, tickets for which may be obtained from the Misses Hodge.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL EASTER ENTERTAINMENT.—It will be held about the second week after Easter, the precise date to be announced later. The Girls' Bible Class will give a short play and various songs and recitations will be added.

MITE BOXES OF THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL.—The children seem to be working in earnest with their boxes, with which they are trying to raise money to be sent to the Rev. W. C. Clapp, of the Philippine Islands. Real work is being done by him and his associates among the uncivilized Bontoc natives, and yet they are happy and contented even amid such surroundings. It is to be hoped a generous offering will be made to him.

THE ST. AGNES' GUILD AND FR. SILL.—The little people were delighted and edified by a visit of Fr. Sill to the Guild during the Mission. He congratulated them upon their attendance every Sunday at the Blessed Sacrament and tried to deepen their love for their Savior and His Cross and Passion.

ST. JOHN'S JUNIOR GUILD—From ten to twenty little boys meet every Thursday night for an Office of Devotion and an Instruction in their religion. We are studying in a brief and modified form what the Confirmation Class is learning. After the Instruction they have their fun in the gymnasium under the guidance of an instructor. They are looking forward to Spring sports.

WANTED—A piece of linen for new cottas for the choir. The ladies of the Altar Guild will make them up if some one will give the material.

THE ROLLING PARTITION in the large Sunday-school has been put up, and it is very satisfactory, dividing it into two good-sized rooms, or permitting it still to be used as one if desired.

SCHISM

We spoke lately of the sin of Heresy. There is another sin associated with it and which naturally flows from it, and which, with it, we pray to be delivered from in the Litany and Collects, that is Schism. What is it? How is it a sin? Who commit it? The word schism comes from a Greek word meaning "to cut." It signifies, therefore, the cutting up or making a division in a body. This is most distructive unless, in a material body, a diseased part is cut off to save the rest. The same might be true in a body politic or a church. Heretics sometimes have to be cut off from the general body of believers to maintain its purity. Any other division of a physical or political body destroys, or at least weakens it. "A house divided against itself cannot stand." If a state is rent by revolution or dissension it will fall. In our country during the civil war it was thought right and necessary to expend thousands of lives and millions of money to maintain the integrity of the Union. Had the doctrine of secession prevailed, that any state or number of states might secede from the Union and set up a separate government or governments, the United States, instead of being as it is to-day a great, prosperous, world power, would have been broken up into a number of small principalities, waring with each other, weak and without influence in the world. The same is true of the church. Schism is the sin of rending the one Body Christ founded and breaking it up into innumerable small organizations, teaching different doctrines, striving with and hindering each other, bringing the religion of Christ into contempt and making it powerless to convert the world.

It is a sin not only because of these manifest results, but because the Scriptures and the creeds never speak of but one Church. It is "the church," or "My Church." The only divisions spoken of in Scripture are teritorial divisions. S. Paul sharply rebukes the Corinthians because he hears "there are divisions among them, one says he is of Paul another of Apollos," and asks whether they "were baptized into the name of Paul," and says "there is but one Body" as there is but one Lord, and tells them "to see that there be no schism among" them, and writing to the Romans tells them to "mark them which cause divisions among them and avoid them."

This tendency to schism among Christians, which thus appeared even in the times of the Apostles, has continued ever since. It is the result of heresy. Men set up their own opinions and follow their own choices and then separate themselves from their fellow Christians who do not agree with them. And this has done, and is doing to-day, more to cause weakness to, bring discredit upon, and hinder the spread of the Christian religion, than anything else.

There were many smaller schisms in the early church, some of which were subsequently healed, but others have continued to this day in the different sects in the East. The first great schism was that between the East and the West, dividing the Church into what was known as the Greek and Latin churches. This was chiefly brought about by the usurpations and claim of the Bishops of Rome to universal jurisdiction over the whole church. This was never acknowledged in the East and finally led to its complete separation from the West. This led later to the separation of the Church of Rome from that of England. In that schism England did not cut itself off from the rest of the Catholic Church. It was Rome which excommunicated England unless it would acknowledge the supremacy of the Pope. And to-day any Roman Catholic priest or layman may be received into any Anglican church, but Rome will not receive us unless we accept her peculiar teachings.

It was the same cause, together with certain corruptions which had sprung up in the church, and the gross immorality of many of the clergy, which led to the general reformation in the West. But in breaking away from Rome the Protestants generally seem to have lost all idea of the sin of schism, and so have gone on dividing and subdividing themselves into all sorts of differing organizations. This, being wrong, has been the weakness and the curse of Protestantism, and has done so much to bring all religion into contempt and make men think it a matter of small importance or mere choice and fancy. And as so many of these divisions have lasted now for centuries, it is very hard to make men realize that there is anything wrong in them or that one Christian body is to be preferred to another.

But as a rebel or a secessionist who would destroy his country is to be condemned, so is a schismatic. We do not say that they who have been born and brought up in these different organization, and have never been taught nor realized that there should be but one Catholic Church, are guilty of the same conscious sin as they who first cut themselves off from the great body of the Church, but we say the thing itself is sinful and destructive of the power and influence of the Church, and our constant effort should be to arouse our brother Christians who are divided into all the different sects to a realization of that fact, and do all we can to restore to the Church the priceless and essential note of unity.

And let us pray constantly that the Good Lord would deliver us, and Christians generally, from the spirit of self-sufficiency and arrogancy which leads to division and deliver us from the sin of Schism.

To my Rector and Fellow Parishioners:
CHURCH OF THE ASCENSION

DEAR FRIENDS:

To everyone interested in the beautiful gift and testimonial presented to me by the Rector on Easter day, I wish to express my heartiest thanks, and can assure you that I highly appreciate, not only the watch itself, but the kind words which came with it, and back of it all, the kind thoughts that prompted the giving.

Very faithfully yours,
WALTER ST. CLARE KNODLE.

PARISH NOTES

EASTER.—Our Easter was a good deal spoiled by the rain, especially early in the morning. Still, nearly three hundred communions were made, which is about our average at that festival. The church was decorated as usual and the choir rendered the S. Cecilia Mass very well. The offerings for the day amounted to nearly the $1000 asked for. $500 of this was the very generous donation of one of our vestrymen. So it took the gifts of all the rest of the congregation to equal his. And even this, we are sorry to say, does not pay up all our expenses to May 1st. Our expenses during the past year have been very heavy. Not only had we to pay the interest on the greater part of the mortgage for the year, but we began the year with a deficit, and the Consecration of the church and the Mission both entailed expenses which were not fully made up by special subscriptions, and only about half of the $100 we paid for Diocesan Missions was received through the special envelopes. But we hope with our debt paid, and without these extra expenses, we shall do better in the year to come. What is needed to make our ends meet is large and regular offerings from each member of the congregation. There are many, we fear, who do not give the equivalent of what they would pay as a pew rent in another church.

GIFTS.—A number of lilies were sent to the church for Easter in addition to the contributions in money. S. Agnes' Guild for little girls presented a new cut-glass cruet for the Altar. Some friends of the Curate presented him with a new cassock and biretta. A number of persons, about one hundred in all, contributed towards purchasing a gold watch and chain for our choirmaster and organist, Mr. Knodle, in recognition of his faithful and acceptable services to the parish. 250 Manilla envelopes were given for the Sunday-school roll cards. In addition to these gifts the Vestry has raised the salary of our sexton as a testimonial of their appreciation of his services.

VESTRY ELECTION.—Those members of the Vestry whose terms expired on Easter Monday were re-elected, and Mr. Keese and Mr. Lloyd were continued as Wardens. Mr. Keese, Dr. Neilson and Mr. Newbold were elected as delegates to the Diocesan Convention. They also represent the parish in Convocation.

FOUND.—A very handsome copy of the Prayer Book of the Church of England, with hymns ancient and modern, bound in red, was found in the church. It will be given to anyone who claims it.

ASCENSION DAY.—On Ascension Day, May 24th, there will be at 7 A. M. an early plain Celebration, at 10 30 A. M. Morning Prayer and Choral Celebration, 5 P. M. Evening Prayer, and at 8 P. M. shortened choral service with anniversary sermon by the Rector. As this is our special parish festival, the name day of the church, we trust all our people will take part in it and attend as many of these services as they can. On the following Sunday night there will be the annual Guild service, and on Monday the 28th, our Parish Tea. We hope to see all our parishioners together socially on that occasion in our renovated parish building.

OUR ANNUAL CONFIRMATION took place on the evening of April 27th. Twenty-three were confirmed from the parish and two from S. Simeon's Church. This was about our average number. But we can never help thinking on such occasions of how many more there are in the parish who ought to be confirmed, and how sad it is that they neglect to receive it and thus deprive themselves of the great blessing it would be to them.

CHURCH POSTAL CARDS.—We have had printed a number of postal cards with pictures of the exterior and interior of the church on them. They are sold for the benefit of the church, two for five cents. Apply to the Verger for them.

ANNIVERSARY SERMON

We regret that owing to the season of the year when Ascension day occurs there is never the attendance at the anniversary service that we should like to see. We, however, print the substance of the Rector's sermon for the benefit of those who were not present that night. He dwelt first on the ground for gratitude we have this year in celebrating our parish festival in the fact of the church being at last free from debt and solemnly consecrated and set apart for the permanent worship of God and benefit of His servants, thanking each and all who had contributed or worked towards attaining that end.

After reading the annual report of the Parish for the year ending May 1st he pointed out that there had been two more baptisms, two more marriages and seven more burials than during the previous year. Six less had been Confirmed. It was disappointing that the Mission had not resulted in bringing more to Confirmation. Over eighty persons had been personally notified of the Confirmation by the clergy and urged to present themselves, but of these only twenty-three had done so. Forty-two persons had been added to the communicant list during the year by Confirmation and by transfer from other parishes, and the same number of names had been removed from the list owing to death, transfer, or because in the judgment of the clergy they had ceased to be communicants, or had removed without giving their address.

This indicates very fairly the condition of the parish, that we hold our own, but that, owing to removals from the neighborhood, we lose about as many as we gain each year.

There were only four deaths among our communicants during the year: Miss Mary Macauley, formerly a most devoted and hard-working member among the children; Mrs. Wakefield, an elderly and patient sufferer; Mrs. Volmer, a member for twenty-five years coming to the church from a great distance, and Miss Mealey, also a member for many years. May they rest in peace.

The Sunday and Industrial Schools and the different Guilds and Mothers' Meeting have all been maintained at about the same average of membership and work accomplished. But all these agencies could be largely increased if we had more workers and larger resources for them, and the Rector urges all in the Parish to emulate the life of our Blessed Lord in taking some part in carrying on these good works.

In regard to the financial report it is to be noted that the receipts were nearly $5000 more than in the previous year. This was chiefly owing to the special gifts for the payment of the debt on the church, but actually receipts for current expenses were some $800 more than the previous year, though this included special contributions for the Consecration expenses and for the Mission. But the amounts given for missionary purposes and raised by the women's societies and the Sunday-school were slightly larger than in the year before, showing that the gifts for the church debt did not diminish the offerings for the ordinary work of the church.

The great progress made by the Parish in the year was the payment of the mortgage and the improvement of the Parish building, over $1000 having been expended for this purpose, putting it in very good condition. Another cause of thankfulness was in the two weeks' Mission held by the Holy Cross Fathers. The attendance each day was excellent, and its benefits were carried far and wide, as many came from other parishes. The effect on our own people was good, as shown especially in the increased attendance at the early services both on Sundays and weekdays. If more persons were not brought into the church from the neighborhood that was doubtless due to announcement of the services not having been as widely distributed as they should have been, though some 4000 cards of invitation were printed and distributed in various ways.

After reviewing the past year the Rector exhorted the people not to feel that because the church was now free from debt there was no need of further effort on their part. A live church should always be growing and making progress. The chief needs to which we should devote ourselves were (1) the increase of the endowment of the church in order to insure its being carried on always under all circumstances and to enhance its efficiency. This could probably chiefly be accomplished by persons remembering it in their wills, which it is hoped that all who can will certainly do. (2) Improvements should be made in the church. While we were in debt it did not seem right to expend money in this way, but now that the debt is paid there are certain things which should be done. We should have a stone altar and reredos worthy of the church, the tower should be completed, a rood screen erected, the remaining windows filled with handsome glass. All these are opportunities for memorial gifts. (3) The Parish building should be enlarged to give more room for work, sexton's quarters, etc. (4) We need more workers. Two clergymen cannot do alone all that should be done in a parish situated and conducted as ours is. (5) To do all this we need more means. Every one attending the parish should contribute regularly and liberally to its support. Because the seats are not rented people should be more liberal in their gifts. And that they may do it systematically they should use the envelopes, which will be sent to all applying for them.

We are devoutly thankful for the progress made in the past year and earnestly pray that it may continue in the year to come.

PARISH NOTES

THE ASCENSION was kept as usual in our parish as our special parochial festival, but occurring again this year so late in the season the attendance was not as good as in some previous years. The Rev Mr. Richsecker preached an excellent sermon at the morning service and the Rector the anniversary sermon in the evening. The Rev. Dr. Gummey, of Germantown, preached before the parish Guilds on the Sunday evening following. The night of our Parish Tea was a pouring rain, so that not more than half the usual number of persons were present. But quite a nice entertainment was provided, after an address by the Rector and another from the Curate, there was singing by some present and former members of the choir and recitations by Miss Carmen and Miss Florie Anderson. The supply of refreshments was abundant and everything of the best. We are much indebted to Mrs. John Mason, who had the general direction of everything, and to the other ladies who assisted her and worked hard in making the necessary preparations.

SUMMER SERVICES.—There will be no change in the services of the church during the summer, except that the daily prayers will be discontinued during July and August and the daily celebration during September, when the Curate will be absent on his holiday. And we trust our people will realize the privilege and necessity of performing their religious duties as much in the summer as in the winter.

CHILDREN'S OUTING.—Our Sunday-school children are counting as usual in having a picnic during this month. This is the only glimpse some of our children have of the country, and we are anxious this year to give them a real good excursion, not simply to the park, where many of them can go by themselves, but somewhere to a distance. This will take money. Any willing to contribute to this treat for the children can send their contributions to one of the clergy or any of the officers of the Sunday-school.

MOTHERS' MEETING.—The entertainment given for the benefit of the Mothers' Meeting last month realized about $250 after paying all expenses. This will provide outings for some of the mothers during the summer and carry on the work of the meeting next winter.

ST. AGNES' GUILD PICNIC.—On Saturday, June 9th, the children of the guild expect to spend a part of the day on a picnic. One purpose of the occasion is that we may enjoy the country together, and another is that we may gather flowers for the closing session of the Sunday-school on June 10th. Ice cream and cake will be served upon our return to the Parish building.

CLOSING SESSION OF THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL.—On June 10th the School will close its regular session at 4 P. M. It will be a floral affair. Over forty first prizes and ten second prizes will be distributed, besides some honorable mentions. Our friends among the congregation are invited to be with us at that time.

SUMMER SUNDAY-SCHOOL.—While the regular sessions of the School close on June 10th, such of the teachers and scholars as care to do so will meet every Sunday at 3 P. M. for a short session of singing and instruction. It will so continue until September.

ST. AGNES' GUILD AT KEITH'S.—On May 4th six adults and twenty-seven little girls went to Keith's Theatre and enjoyed the show. They met at their Director's house and we formed quite a procession as we wended our way to Chestnut street. Few people enjoyed the evening more than did our company.

WEDNESDAY NIGHT CHOIR TO DUMONT'S MINSTELS.—The little volunteer choir of Wednesday nights went together to see the minstrels on May 7th. We had good seats and nothing occurred to mar our enjoyment of the most amusing programme. After the entertainment was over we adjourned to the Automat and refreshed ourselves with a modest feast.

GIFT TO MISSIONS.—Twenty-nine dollars and fifty-nine cents is the children's offering to date to the Rev. W. C. Clapp's work in Bontoc, P. I. It has already been sent, and we are glad to have part in the teaching of those uncivilized people as to God's Ancient Church and truth.

THE CHILDREN'S OUTING.—It is to be hoped that special attention will be paid to the Rector's request for contributions to the outing fund for the Sunday-school children this summer. With all of the schools about us offering all sorts of attractions to the children of the neighborhood it is too bad for us to have to limit our annual outing to merely a five cent ride to Fairmount Park. For years this has been all we have been able to do.

Will not some of those who read this paper send us a little money that we may take the children on a boat ride or something of the sort? Please do it for the children's sake.

THE MISSIONARY THANK OFFERING

At the last General Convention of the Church, held in Boston in 1904, it was resolved to reassemble in 1907 in Richmond, Va. This decision was reached largely because next year will witness the three hundredth anniversary of the first permanent settlement of English-speaking people upon this continent—at Jamestown, in 1607. Our forefathers brought with them their church, and next year we will commemorate the first celebration of the Holy Eucharist in English in this country. The far-reaching importance of this event impelled our delegates at Boston not only to hold their next convention as near as possible to Jamestown—the scene of that historic service—but also to recommend to the men of the Church a means of setting forth their gratitude for the transmission of their great inheritance in the Anglican branch of the Catholic Church.

No one can fail to feel deep thankfulness to God and a sense of pride in the growth and development of that seed of truth planted three hundred years ago. But that it has been incommensurate with the growth of our great nation is undeniable. Only one of about sixty people one meets on our streets rejoices in the precious heritage which is theirs by right. Special causes have operated to produce this lamentable condition. Careful thought and earnest prayer have been devoted to ascertaining the present chief cause for our Church's apathy in the face of perhaps the greatest opportunity since the time of the apostles —for truly the world at heart differs but little from Roman times. The best opinion ascribes our weakness to a lack of concerted effort. Our people do not move as a unit. The advantages of our system of parishes, to a large extent self-sustaining and independent, are not to be gainsaid, as it seems peculiarly suited to the individualistic spirit of modern times, but undoubtedly we have lost the drive and push which mark the more highly organized and centralized bodies both of churches and business world. We have but to look at our nation's history to appreciate what can be accomplished by a persistent and continuous recognition of the fact that in unity there is strength. Particularly the men of our Church are unorganized as members of the whole Church, and it is to effect this organization that the Missionary Thank-Offering has been planned. The idea primarily of one of our fellow-churchmen in Philadelphia, the convention enthusiastically endorses it. Every man in the congregation of the Church of the Ascension should have received this summer some pamphlets describing in detail the object of the M. T. O. and the method of operation, together with a letter appealing for assistance in making the movement a success in our parish. The time has now come to put our shoulders to the wheel and to unite, not only as fellow-members of this parish, but as laymen of the Church at large, to show our appreciation of our common inheritance in English Christianity. The name of every man in every parish in our whole country has been secured. The roll-call of the Church is on file. This is something. The next thing to do is to quicken those names into life and get a tangible expression from each person of personal gratitude. There is no greater mistake than to think of this movement solely as a money-making scheme. If the men of the Church are aroused, the money will be forthcoming, but the far more important feature is the lining up of the men to present a solid front to the world at large. It has seemed peculiarly fitting that, as we are commemorating the transmission to us of our Faith, the money contributed, in gratitude for the blessings secured by that Faith, should be devoted to the furthering of our already magnificent efforts to inform the heathen world of the One True God we worship. But mindful of the varying interests each man has, the money contributed can be designated for special objects. When we recall the all-important part the Chuch plays in our lives—Baptism, Confirmation, Marriage and Burial, not to mention the constant infusion of life through the Holy Communion—it seems impossible to think that any man could fail to find a specific instance for which he would wish to thank God for the blessings procured through his Church. No man, however, can have a memory which does not reveal a wife or child, parent or friend to whom in some trying period the Church has not come with its message of peace. Let that be his inspiration for this public act of gratitude. Not money only, but a determination to line up with his fellow-churchmen as a witness to the Faith once for all delivered to the Saints. It should not be necessary for the committee to hunt out every male parishioner of the Church of the Ascension, and in a face-to-face interview try to interest him in this movement. It should be spontaneous. From now on, meetings will be held—not only parochial but diocesan—as on Nov. 8th at the Academy of Music, when every opportunity will be afforded for the men of the Church to unite and organize. Addresses will be made by those at the forefront. Enthusiasm will be aroused, and in October, 1907, on the scene of that humble little service on Jamestown Island, three hundred years ago, a testimonial will be presented bearing witness to the presence with His Church of the Almighty God. Under His guidance all things are possible. Let us do our plain duty.

JOHN S. NEWBOLD,
Chairman of Parochial Committee.

PARISH NOTES

MOTHERS' MEETING.

The members of the Mothers' Meeting enjoyed two picnics in the summer. The first was when a party was made up to go to "The Country Nursery," Chestnut Hill, in July. Lunch and tea was taken there, all having a pleasant day. A number of tickets were given to us for the Nursery, and besides this day, many other smaller parties have picnicked at "The Nursery." Several of the children have been able to spend a week at Chestnut Hill.

The second excursion was a delightful one down the river, on August 15—an hour on the river and a trolley ride through some beautiful country, and we were at our destination, roaming through the woods, picking the wild flowers, a row on the lake and a safe return, a day we all enjoyed.

Several of our families have also been out for a week or two in the country.

ST. AGNES' GUILD EXCURSION.—Through the kindness of several friends of the children this Guild enjoyed an excursion to the above park. They had their difficulties, for on their intended day the rain poured down at the hour for departure, so we could not go. Later in the day the rain stopped and ten of us spent the rest of the day at Chamounix.

But on August 18th we made another attempt, and a bright, beautiful day was granted us. Twenty-five children and friends took the fascinating ride up the Delaware, and a bright, cloudless day was spent in the Island grove and rowing on the river. Again we had our races, etc., with prizes, a small fund distributed for amusements, and again we reached home all safe and sound.

CLOSING FEAST OF THE JUNIOR ST. JOHN'S GUILD.—On June 7th, twenty-nine boys, three girls and twelve men gathered at the closing meeting of this Guild. Games which boys love, energetic but not quiet, filled the evening till refreshments were announced. Miss Maria Gilpin, the boys' good friend, honored us with her presence.

CLOSING FEAST OF ST. AGNES' GUILD.—Just one month after the above festivities the little girls also had some farewell fun. Forty-four of the children and their friends spent a happy evening together, and were sorry to realize that this was their last meeting for four months.

CLOSING SERVICE OF THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.—On Trinity Sunday, June 10th, the last session of the School for the season was held, about 125 persons being present. Thirty-nine first prizes, 11 second, and seven honorable mentions were awarded. Mr. Hurst, the Assistant Superintendent, and Mr. Pratt, the Secretary, gave a finely bound Bible to each of two children as rewards for bringing new scholars. The School presented to each of the four officers—Messrs. Hurst, Pratt, Thayer and Fairchilds—a book of Church Instruction, and Mr. Hurst, in the name of the School, presented to the Rev. Superintendent a beautiful Waterman fountain pen.

On the afternoon before the above service the St. Agnes' Guild, with some older people, altogether 25 in number, went into the neighborhood of Chestnut Hill and gathered large quantities of flowers. These were formed into a floral arch at the head of the middle aisle and added to the beauty of the children's service.

SUNDAY SCHOOL EXCURSION.—The School had its first real excursion for many years on Thursday, July 12th. About 100 went to Burlington Island by steamer. About five hours were spent on the water, and a delightful sail it was. At the Island a small amount of money was given to each child with which to enjoy some of the many amusements. We also had a series of sports, for which a large number of prizes were given. A ravenous appetite made our lunch seem delicious, and we reached home about 9 p. m., tired and satisfied.

WINTER SERVICES.—The full routine of winter services are resumed with this month, daily early communion at 7 A. M., morning prayer at 10 A. M., evening prayer at 5 P. M., Wednesday evening service at 8 P. M., and all the different young people's guilds resume their meetings. Let all our parishioners use and take part in these services and associations and see what a live and prosperous parish we can have.

MEN'S THANK OFFERING.—A letter with tracts explaining object of this movement has been sent to all the men connected with the parish and a meeting of all the men will soon be called to take action in the matter.

ANNIVERSARY OF WOMEN'S GUILD.—We want to see all the ladies of the congregation at the annual business meeting of our general Women's Guild on Monday, October 29, the day after SS. Simon and Jude's day, after the 10 A. M. prayers. Then we hear the report of the past year and make our plans for the coming winter.

TELEPHONE.—We have had a pay telephone put in our parish building. This will be a great convenience to those wanting at any time to communicate with the clergy, choir master or sexton, or wanting to know about hours of services or other meetings in the church or make engagements for baptisms, marriages, burials, etc. The number is Spruce 3253 A.

REOPENING OF THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.—On Sunday, October 7th, the school will resume its sessions. Mr. Hurst will be our Assistant Superintendent and Mr. Pratt our Secretary. We expect to have a few new teachers, and some rearrangement of the present ones.

INCREASED INCOME.—We need very much a larger income to meet our current expenses, and we believe our people could and should give more than they do. We expect that there are some who do not give as much as they would be required to give if the pews were rented. A year ago we called the attention of our people to this, and were much gratified by a number of our contributors increasing, some doubling, the amount they gave through the envelopes. Are there not others who will do the same?

RESUMPTION OF GUILDS.—The St. John's Junior Guild will begin again on Thursday, October 11th, and the St. Agnes' Guild on Saturday, October 13th.

Miss Gilpin will be with us still in the former, and the same Superior and her assistants in the latter.

The first meeting of the Girls' Friendly will be held on the third Tuesday, October 16th.

MEN AND THE CHURCH

We spoke last month of the movement to secure from the men of the church a great thank-offering for the establishment of the Church in this country. But we hope that this movement is going to do a great deal more than secure one large offering for missionary purposes. We hope it is going to do a great deal to arouse the men of the church to a greater realization of their obligation and duty to it. There is no more alarming sign of the times than the very large neglect of the church by men generally. It is a common observation among all denominations, except possibly the Roman Catholics, that but few men comparatively belong to, or even, attend church. All our congregations are chiefly made up of women. What does that mean? That men have lost their faith in God, and a future life, that they no longer believe in the Christian religion? If so, then they will soon lose their faith in all morality and virtue, for there is no basis or sure sufficient motive for the practice of virtue but religion. We freely admit that there are many moral and good men who are not members of the church, but they are such because they have had a religious training. But what about their children, if they give them no such training and convey the impression by their own conduct that religion is a matter of no importance at all?

If religion is worth anything, it is the most important concern of life both for men and women. The latter may be more sensitive to its claims, because their natures are more delicate and appreciative, and they are guided more by their instincts which recognize its value and necessity. But the man needs it as much, or more. He leads a more exposed life, has greater temptations, and has greater responsibilities, and so requires the help and guidance and protection which only the ordinances of religion can give. It is of no use to say that a man can have religion without making any profession of it or using its ordinances. That is like having the kernel of a nut without its shell, the fruit of a tree without its stem and roots and branches, or a man being a patriot or a friend without even acknowledging himself as such.

There is a most extraordinary delusion among men nowadays on this subject, in the apparent utter indifference of intelligent, practical men to the church and its claim and privileges. But we cannot believe it will last. The absolute necessity of religion will assert itself and make itself felt as it always has. But it may not be until many have learned by bitter experience the mistake they have made in ignoring it, and the progress it should make in the world has been long retarded and set back by their neglect and unfaithfulness. Let every sensible man consider whether he and the world can afford to be without a religion, whether there is any possible substitute for it, whether there is anything else which has such power to protect human nature from the evils to which it is exposed and do so much to make human life and human relationships beautiful and sweet and prosperous, and whether amid all the religions or philosophies ever presented to the world there is any which can be compared in its perfection and efficiency to that which we call Christianity? Of course, if any man can show that the Christian religion is a delusion and a fraud, let him in the name of God do everything he can to rid the world of it. But it is not something that can be ignored. If true, it demands the obedience and all the love and devotion a man can give. And every wise man will decide the question for himself whether it be true or false and act accordingly. If it is false, of course it has then no claim upon him, and he should do everything he can to make its falsehood evident to the world. But if it is true, he will want to gain all the good he can from it and discharge all his obligations towards it as he would towards the country which has brought him forth and nourished and protected him.

Every man who appreciates what the church of God is will (1) belong to it, (2) learn what it teaches, (3) receive its sacraments through which its blessings are given, (4) regularly attend its services to render his bounden duty to God, to gain the benefits they can be to him, and to influence others by his example; (5) he will contribute regularly to its support as he pays taxes to the state, the amount he gives being as generous a portion of his income as he can spare from what is required for the support of himself or family or other claims there may be upon him; (6) he will, by his life, always try to show forth the principles of his religion and bring them to bear upon others; (7) he will take an active interest in all the affairs of the church, trying in every way he can to make it as strong and efficient as possible to carry on its beneficent work in the world.

The church is suffering terribly to-day from the lack of men in her ranks, from the need of their interest and help in all her concerns. Of course, it will require effort and sacrifice for men to do their duty to the church. But are they not the greatest and most beautiful virtues, and are our men willing to confess that they are lacking in them, and so be content to sink down into mere indolent, selfish, sensuous animals, swayed as they will be then only by passions and tempers? Let our men be virtuous, and virtue will bring its own reward.

Truly religious men will not only be blessings to their families and to the community, but their own lives will be infinitely better, brighter and happier than they can be without religion.

PARISH NOTES

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—One of our ladies has worked with her hands two kneeling mats for the sanctuary, which were much needed.

Forty-three new books have been presented to the Sunday School library and to the parish library, also eighty-five old school books of various kinds, which may prove useful to some who are wanting to study.

Linen is needed for new cottas for the choir.

WINTER WORK.—All our departments of work re-begin with this month. The Mothers' Meeting on Wednesday evenings, the Embroidery Class on Thursday mornings, the Ladies' Aid on Wednesday afternoons, and the Industrial School on Saturdays after morning prayer, and the monthly missionary meetings on the first Friday of each month. All the women in the parish who are willing to take any part in our church work can certainly find the opportunity in one or other of the activities, and we want help in them all. The chief missionary work this month is the making up of the annual missionary box which we want to send off before Christmas.

And will not all our people at this time of the year, when they are overhauling their wardrobes, remember that we can dispose of in the parish almost anything they have to give away—even to old shoes, carpets or furniture. Any having bundles to send to the church, if they will 'phone to the sexton—Spruce 3253 A—he will call for them.

Any fruit sent to the church for Thanksgiving Day decorations will be distributed afterward to the sick.

ENVELOPES for another quarter are sent out this month. And again we ask every one connected with or regularly attending the church to make use of them in giving to its support, which secures their giving regularly and lets the vestry know what it can depend on, taking the place of a pew rental. The special benevolent envelope this quarter is for general missions, towards which every one should contribute. There is also a special offering for Christmas. We depend on the special offerings at Christmas and Easter to make up for the small amount which is received during the summer months, when so many are away, and the receipts are so small. We need $800 to meet notes of that amount, due in January, for money we had to borrow to carry the church through the summer.

MEN'S THANK-OFFERING FUND.—A mass meeting of men in the interest of this fund will be held in the Academy of Music on the evening of November 8th. Addresses will be made by the Bishop of Chicago, the Bishop Coadjutor of New York, and Mr. George Wharton Pepper, of this city. The music will be by a combined choir of men and boys, our own choir being included. We hope all the men connected with our church will be present.

ST. JOHN'S GUILD.—The Junior Guild expected to begin its sessions for the season in the early part of October, but was prevented from doing so. Its first meeting will be the first Monday in November. We are to have a professional trainer for the boys at their weekly meetings. The Senior Department of the Guild will meet this winter on Thursday evenings, and the Juniors on Monday evenings.

The Seniors are organizing a basketball team.

ST. AGNES' GUILD OPENING.—At the first meeting of the Guild thirteen girls and their Superior and her assistants, with the director, were present and began their Guild work for the year. They said their office, received their instruction and spent the rest of the evening in play and fun. A Book of Games, just published, had been procured and was used. Three of the older children, Emily Stewart, Edna Carrigan and Gertrude Monahan, who had been faithful last year, were appointed as helpers to the Superiors, both at the meetings and also at the celebration of the Holy Communion in the church.

A CHESTNUT HUNT.—The St. Agnes' Guild had planned to go on a chestnut hunt on Saturday, October 20th, but continuous rain prevented. Not to be outdone, we determined to go on another Saturday, and did so on October 27. Because we were disappointed in our country outing, we determined to have an impromptu feast. So one of our friends gave us some cake, another gave us some money, and we had a fine time that evening. After our office and instruction, nineteen children, four officers and five visitors made the parish building resound with mirth and enjoyed the ice cream and cake.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.—On Sunday, October 7th, the school resumed its sessions. Three new teachers have joined us, Miss Florence Brodie, Miss McKnight and Miss Clinton. We are glad to welcome them among us.

In accordance with the latest theories of Sunday School management, the school has been much more largely put into the hands of the lay officers. The Curate has resigned into the charge of the Assistant Superintendent and the Secretary, Mr. Hurst and Mr. Pratt, the actual working and management of the school. The Curate reserves to himself the instruction of the teachers' class and the catechising of the school every Sunday at the close of the session, as well as the appointment of teachers and officers; but the laymen are expected to attend to all the details of practical management. It has worked well so far.

WOMEN'S GUILD.—The annual business meeting was held on October 29th about twenty ladies were present. After the reading of the reports and arranging of the work for the coming year, Mrs. John Mason addressed those present urging upon them the necessity of working for the endowment of the church. Now that the parish is out of debt this is the most pressing need we have. The church ought to have an endowment of at least $50,000. We have about $10.000 of this now. To accumulate that sum will, of course, require time, but a start should be made. The ladies took up the idea at once and $11 was subscribed on the spot. It was also decided to have a Christmas sale for the same purpose, arrangements for which were made on the spot. See notice below.

A CHRISTMAS SALE

For the benefit of the Endowment Fund of the parish will be held in the Parish Building on Thursday, November 22d, from 2 until 10 P. M. Contributions are earnestly requested from every member of the church. Articles not sold will be returned to the donors. Contributions either of money or articles may be sent to Miss Lydia Smith, 309 S. Hicks Street. Home-made cake and candy can be sent to the church on the morning of the day of the sale.

THE ENDOWMENT OF CHURCHES

To carry on the work of the Church, there must be buildings, and those not mean and insignificant, but of such appearance and adornment as shall set forth and teach the great purposes for which they are erected. These must be heated and lighted, and they require attendants to take care of them. Then there must be ministers, who have to be trained and educated to discharge their duties, and they must give their whole time to it. They cannot support themselves; they must be provided for. So organists and choirs are required. And there is a missionary and eleemosynary work, which should be carried on in connection with every parish. And all these things require money. How is it to be provided?

In some countries, where the Church is established, funds are provided for it by the State, its ministers are paid as the officers in the army and navy, or as schoolteachers are paid. But here, where there is no connection between the Church and State, this is impossible. So all churches have to rely on voluntary contributions raised in one way or another.

One method resorted to is that of supportng churches by pew rents for their current expenses, with collections for all charitable purposes. But this is very objectionable, as it practically turns the church into the private club of those who can afford to enjoy its benefits. It makes it almost impossible for a church to carry out the Lord's command to bring every creature within His fold; it makes the poor man feel that there is no place for him, that he is not wanted there; and many, even in moderate circumstances, find it impossible to go on the terms required.

Another way to support a church is that which we use in this parish, that called the envelope system, by which each regular attendant is asked to give a stated sum, according to his ability, without demanding any special privileges or a reserved seat. This secures the freedom of the seats and equal rights for all. But both of these systems depend upon the financial ability of the people who at a given time happen to be attending a church. If a few even of the wealthier people die or move from the neighborhood and give up their pews or contributions, the revenue decreases, the church goes down, and often has to be torn down and moved to a wealthier neighborhood, though the place where it was may be that in which there is the greatest poverty and irreligion, and so where the church is most needed

The only way to guard against these contingencies and secure the work of the Church being carried on permanently and efficiently is to have our churches endowed. This is done universally in the old country They never think there of building a church without making some permanent provision for its support. And in many places in this country, we are glad to say, this is being done now. Many of the older churches in this city could not be maintained now if it were not for their endowments. Persons attached to certain parishes give or leave to them by their last wills capital sums, which are invested as a permanent fund, and the interest of which only is used for their support. This protects the parish from the vicissitudes to which it would otherwise be subjected, and prevents the possibility of its being taken away from a neighborhood where perhaps it is most required and can do the most beneficent work.

We are glad to say we have the beginning of such a fund in this parish, about $10,000, but it as as yet utterly inadequate to answer the purposes of such a fund. Will not those of our members who can afford to do so make from time to time contributions towards it or remember it in their last wills? We should suppose that anyone who has been contributing regularly towards the support of a church would like to feel that that work will be carried on after he has departed, especially if it is in a parish where he knows the absence of his contributions will be greatly felt. Will not all who have the ability to contribute towards such a fund think of this, so that gradually an endowment may be accumulated sufficient to maintain our church efficiently and permanently?

PURCHASE OF CHRISTMAS GIFTS

The Consumers' League of Philadelphia asks us to impress upon all our people the necessity of buying their gifts for Christmas before December 15th, thus lessening the heavy strain upon the employees in the shops. Will not all try to do this?

MEETING ON BEHALF of the MEN'S THANK OFFERING MOVEMENT

A free stereopticon exhibition illustrative of the history of the American Church will be given in our Parish Building on Thursday, December 20th, at 8 P. M., by the Rev. Llewellyn N. Caley. The Rev. John B. Harding, Rector of S. Mark's Church, Frankford, and Mr. John S. Newbold, chairman of our Parochial Committee, will also make addresses.

All our parishioners, male and female, are invited to be present, but the presence of the men is especially desired.

PARISH NOTES

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—There was received during November a long mirror in gilt frame for the ladies' workroom in the parish building, a long mirror in walnut frame for the clergy vestry room, another small mirror, an eight-day clock for the choir room, a door-mat, a piece of oilcloth, and enough carpet to cover the vestry room and the floor under the stalls in the chancel, a number of magazines for the current month, and church papers; painting of a section of the church by the architect, Mr. Charles M. Burns, also a number of coal orders and some provisions for Thanksgiving day.

DECORATION OF THE CHURCH.—Now that our parish is free from debt, we can more properly than we could before do something towards the further decoration of our church. We still need a really handsome altar and rood screen, and there are a number of the windows which are lacking rich glass; there are three large ones in the chancel still to be filled and a great many in the clerestory story. Are there not those in the church who would take pleasure in having one or more of these filled as a memorial to some dear one? There is no place to put such memorials better than a church, enriching it and making it attractive, and where they can be seen and enjoyed by so many.

THE FAIR held last month, though but little notice was given of it, proved very successful. The proceeds amounted to over $230. This will form a nucleus of an endowment fund for the parish in order to provide for its efficient and permanent support. It will be placed by the Vestry in the hands of Trustees, so as to prevent the possibility of its being used for any other purpose. We trust it will rapidly grow by gifts and bequests until it amounts to a very considerable sum.

We heartily thank all the ladies of the parish who worked or contributed articles for the fair, and especially Mrs. John Mason, Miss Lydia Smith and Miss Helen Hodge, who formed the committee which had the matter in charge, and to whose energy and hard work the success was due.

CHRISTMAS SERVICES.—There will be celebrations of the Holy Communion on Christmas day at 6.30, 7.30 and 8.30 a. m., as well as in the middle of the day, in order to give all an opportunity to make their Communion on that great festival. The music at the choral celebration and on the following Sunday will be Gounod's S. Cecilia Mass.

CHRISTMAS OFFERING.—As usual, we have to depend on the special offering on Christmas day to pay the money we have to borrow in the summer to meet our expenses when so many are out of town and our receipts are so small. Two notes of the church, given for this purpose, one for $500 and one for $300, are due early in January and should be provided for in this way. Can we not make the offering the $800 needed? We can if every member of the parish will give liberally. We trust they will.

THE GIRLS' FRIENDLY SOCIETY has organized for its winter work. In addition to Miss Ashburner, the Branch Secretary, the following have been elected officers:

SENIOR CHAPTER.—Chairman, May Moreland,; Secretary, Ida Trice; Treasurer, Lillie Gill.

JUNIOR CHAPTER.—Chairman, Rosina Frank; Secretary, Anna Graham; Treasurer, Emelia Klofach.

The society had a separate table of its own at the fair, and made over $25 for the expenses of the society. Its meetings are held every Tuesday evening. Classes in elocution and voice culture have been formed.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.—A new Secretary is welcomed in the school in the person of Mr. C. F. Botwright who began his labors on November 18th. Already his efforts in behalf of the school have produced results. We are sorry to have lost the efficient help of Mr. Pratt, who has resigned as Secretary.

Prizes.—Prizes of five dollars, a Bible, a Prayer Book and Hymnal have been offered to the children bringing the most new scholars before the close of the season.

New Teachers.—We are glad to number among our staff of teachers Mrs. Herman. She has an interesting class of little girls.

St. Agnes' Guild.—The Guild kindly remembered its Director on his birthday, presenting him with a fine umbrella.

St. John's Jr. Guild.—An average attendance of eighteen has been its record during November. Before the physical training each meeting, they are studying some things concerning the Lord's Prayer, as well as saying a brief Office together. Mr. Snoke is doing well as a trainer.

Candy Party.—Through the efforts of our Superintendent, Mr. Hurst, and the help of Mr. Greer and daughter, a most entertaining candy party took place on November 16th. Taffy pulling and games and gifts of candy made the evening pass happily. All the teachers worked faithfully, and it was a great success.

POSTURES IN WORSHIP

It is natural that Christians should observe certain postures and acts in their worship of God indicative of their sense of appreciation of its solemnity. Just as in our intercourse with our fellows there are certain forms we invariably use, such as rising from our seat, taking off the hat, shaking hands, which we consider absolutely essential to good manners, so surely when we approach Almighty God we should assume such attitudes and perform such acts as will express our realization of who He is and of our relationship towards Him.

The most universal attitude and use by devout persons in prayer have been those of standing or kneeling. Standing was probably the oldest form and that which was thought particularly appropriate on Sundays, that of kneeling, indicating only penitence seemed out of place on a festival occasion. Some of the old canons of the church actually forbade kneeling on the Lord's day. To this day standing is the universal use in the Greek church, interspersed with numerous prostrations at the more solemn parts of the service, that is, kneeling so as to touch the forehead to the ground. So our priests always stand at the altar, kneeling only at the confession and prayer of humble access and before and after receiving the elements. But kneeling has become with us the general attitude of the people during all prayers and throughout all the Communion service, except during the reading of the Epistle and Gospel, the recitation of the Creed and singing of the Gloria in Excelcis or hymn in the thanksgiving after the Communion. And this act should be really performed, a mere leaning forward or bowing of the head is a poor substitute for it. It is like one making a feint at rising up when a stranger enters a room without really doing so. It is strange that men who are punctilious in performing acts of courtesy to their fellow-men should not be equally so in approaching Almighty God.

Another very ancient act in prayer is that of stretching out the hands as if calling down a blessing from heaven. Thus Moses held up his hands when he prayed that the Israelites might prevail, and Solomon, when he knelt before the altar, stretched out his hands towards heaven. The heathens used the same attitude. We find ancient sculptures and pictures of men praying in that position. So it is a very old and universal attitude for Christian priests to stand at the altar in the same way, with their hands raised.

As kneeling is with us the attitude for prayer, reception of the sacraments, etc., so standing is the position assumed for praise. It is certainly more reverential than that of lolling in one's seat, as some do. So it is appropriate for the solemn profession of our faith in reciting the Creeds, at the reading of the Holy Gospel, in the Communion office, at the administration of baptism and confirmation, at marriages, etc.

Some Christians who have not been accustomed to these acts do not understand them and object to the worship in our churches, because, they say, we are always getting up and down. But it is simply good manners to do so. And we cannot understand how any can think it is more reverent or appropriate to go into a church and sit down and never move from that position for prayer or praise or any other act from one end of the service to the other. And the large neglect of worship altogether among so many we cannot but think is largely due to their having been taught first that all outward acts and forms are of no importance. As we all are composed of soul and body we naturally use the one to express the feeling of the other, and are helped by doing so.

PARISH NOTES

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—The church received a very acceptable Christmas gift of the largest and most handsomely bound edition that is printed of the new marginal Bible set forth by the last General Convention, and also a new altar service, similarly bound. The Rector also received coal orders for four and a half tons of coal for the poor.

RESIGNATION OF CHOIRMASTER.—We regret to announce that Mr. Walter St. Clare Knodle, who has been our organist and choirmaster since May, 1900, has resigned to take a similar position in the Church of the Incarnation, at Broad and Jefferson Streets, where he has a larger organ and a higher salary than we are able to give. We cannot wonder, therefore, that he leaves us, though we regret to lose him, as his services have been very satisfactory.

His place has been supplied by the appointment of Mr. Philip F. Alburger, for some years organist of Grace Church, Haddonfield, N. J. He is very highly recommended and we trust will be able to keep up the standard of music we have always maintained. He enters on his position as early this month as he can get away from his present engagement.

THE ENDOWMENT FUND.—At the meeting of the Vestry, in January, it was determined to transfer the Endowment Fund of the church to the Pennsylvania Company for Insurance on Lives and Granting Annuities, to be held and invested by them, and the income only paid to the church. This gives us the capital of that company as security for the safe keeping of the fund and prevents the possibility of its being used by the Vestry for the payment of current expenses.

The Vestry also directed that hereafter the offerings on Ascension Day be devoted to this fund, and that an extra envelope be printed and sent out each year with the envelopes for that quarter for this purpose, so that those who cannot attend the services on Ascension Day can make a donation to the fund at some other time, or send it to the church that day by mail. Thus continual additions will be made to the fund, and we hope it will receive them from bequests as well. The future surroundings of the church are so uncertain that this fund is absolutely essential for its preservation.

MEN'S THANK-OFFERING MEETING.—The lecture on the American Church, illustrated with stereopticon views, by the Rev. Mr. Caley, and the address by the Rev. Mr. Harding at the meeting held last month, on behalf of the men's thank-offering movement, were most instructive. We regret very much that a larger number were not present to profit by it. But the night being bad, and the time so near Christmas, and the fact, we think, that the impression got abroad that only men were expected to be present, combined to make the attendance very small.

We are glad to announce that $261 have already been sent to the Treasurer of this fund from members of this parish, but we hope to send a great deal more, as every man in the parish is asked to give something. If donors will send their contributions directly to the Rector, it will save personal solicitations on the part of the committee.

SPECIAL PREACHERS.—The Rev. J. Saunders Reed, formerly Rector of Trinity Church, Materford, New York, will preach on the morning of the Epiphany on behalf of the general missions of the church, and we expect to have the pleasure of having Father Sill, one of our mission preachers of last year, spend Sunday, January 20th, with us. He will preach both morning and evening, and we are sure all those who listened to him and Father Huntington with so much pleasure last year, will be very glad to see and hear him once more.

The Bishop of Wilwaukee preached on the evening of December 30.

GIRLS' FRIENDLY SOCIETY.—On Sunday evening, December 30th, the Bishop of Milwaukee held an admission service for our Girls' Friendly Society and admitted the secretary, a married branch assistant and six members. Others will be admitted later in the year.

THE CHRISMAS OFFERING amouted to just $550. This was some $25c more than last year or the year before. We regret, however, that it was not larger still, as a gentleman in the congregation offered to give $300 if $1000 could be raised before the end of the year to wipe out all the indebtedness the church had to contract for during the summer to carry on the services when so many were out of town. It is a disappointment that the church could not have availed itself of this offer.

CHRISTMAS DINNERS.—Through those interested in the Mothers' Meeting a number of Christmas dinners were distributed at the Parish House on Monday afternoon before Christmas. Besides the dinners, kind friends out of town as well as in the city had sent toys and books and some clothing.

To all contributing many thanks are given for their kind and generous gifts. We know of no more successful nor happy Christmas than was enjoyed this year by the members of the Mothers' Meeting and those interested in its welfare.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.—On the evening of Holy Innocents' Day, December 29th, the Christmas carol service and entertainment of the school was held.

A professional magician was engaged for the amusement of the school, candy and presents were distributed, and Santa Claus was on hand to distribute them. Parents and friends of the children were present, and all had a pleasant evening.

Miss Maria S. Gilpin was the recipient of a handsome cut-glass vase from the members of her class, Miss Helen H. Hodge of cut flowers from her class, and the assistant superintendent presented each member of the school with a calendar for the new year with the name of the Ascension on it.

GIFTS TO THE CURATE.—The Curate returns his thanks to over two dozen members of the congregation for gifts which he highly appreciates, among them being a revolving desk chair with leather fittings. This, with a set of roll-top letter files also received, will make bis study more complete and comfortable.

RESIGNATION OF MR. HURST—We regret very much to announce the resignation of our assistant superintendent of the Sunday School, Mr. Albert E. Hurst, on account of his removel from the city to take a business position near Pittsburg. We shall miss him very much in the Sunday School, and also as a member of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew in which he was most active. We wish him every success in his new work.

YOUNG WOMEN'S BIBLE CLASS.—Miss C. W. Hare having resigned the charge of this class, Miss C. L. Thompson has been appointed in her place.

A SOCIABLE.—On December 6th the St. John's Guild and a portion of the Girls' Friendly Society met together for a dance. About fifty persons were present, including visitors, and all enjoyed the occasion.

The music and refreshments were provided by friends not members of the above organizations.

WOMEN'S MISSIONARY MEETING

The Epiphany meeting of the Pennsylvania Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary will be held in the Church of the Holy Trinity, Walnut and 19th Streets, on Thursday evening, January 24th, at 8 o'clock. Addresses will be made by the Rev. B. L. Ancell, of Soochow, China, Rev. James J. Chapman, of Kanazawa, Japan, and the Rt. Rev. James H. Darlington, of the Diocese of Harrisburg.

OBLIGATION OF MISSIONS

In the deliberate view of the whole Church missions are no longer a side issue, or something outside the business of the parish, but pre-eminently its main business, and should be taken hold of by the Vestry as a recognized part of the working plant, just as they generously provide for their clergy, their sexton, their fuel and light and repairs. To give to missions is not a charity. It is the duty of each Christian man, woman and child to meet his or her share in the great campaign fund which has for its object the victory of God's militant hosts, over the world's sin and sorrow, the preaching of the Gospel to every creature as our Divine Master bade us. —From Bishop Talbot's Convention Address, 1905.

ACTS OF REVERENCE

There are certain acts which Christians have very universally used in their worship. One is the bowing of the head whenever the name of Jesus is mentioned in the service. This is enjoined by one of the canons, or laws, of the English Church. It is to express our sense of how dear that name is to us to show that we feel Christ should be worshipped, and as a reparation, as it were, for the blasphemy of those who take that name in vain.

Some also bow in the Gloria Patrie and at other times when the Blessed Trinity is mentioned, or when God is spoken of as worshipped. Some kneel in the Creed at the words "and was made man," to testify their appreciation of the infinite condescension and goodness of God in coming to earth and taking upon Him our nature.

Another act which has been used from the very earliest times is that of making the sign of the cross. As every nation has its flag and insignia, so the Christian Church naturally took as its great sign the form of the cross, that instrument of torture which the Blessed Son of God voluntarily assumed for the love of man.

What sign could more forcibly set forth the essence of Christ's religion, his willing sacrifice for man, and the necessity of every follower of Christ being ready to suffer as God calls upon him to do or he has the opportunity of doing for others. So it has ever been regarded as the great standard of the Christian faith. It is held aloft where all may see it on the top of our church spires and domes. What more striking way could there be of teaching the Christian faith, and what it requires, than by that object high in the air, glistening in the sunlight or standing immovable amid clouds and tempest? So we blazon it over our altars, or elevate it on a great screen, called the Rood screen, at the entrance of our chancels, that it may be ever kept before the eyes of worshippers and they thus taught that they cannot hope to approach God's altar without being willing to pass beneath it. So the sign of the Cross has been used by the clergy in certain acts, as the consecration of the elements in the sacraments, in pronouncing absolution or giving benedictions, or marking the persons of those baptized, confirmed, anointed or ordained. The first English prayer book directed it should be used on these occasions, and all English prayer books do so in the act of baptism.

In the Roman Church it is used by the priest and his assistants an innumerable number of times during the course of the mass. But our Church shows its usual moderation and discrimination in retaining its use on occasions which have a deep significance without employing it so frequently as to make its use seem merely mechanical.

So devout Christians often mark this sign upon their own persons. It is a prayer or consecration or placing oneself beneath the divine protection by a sign. Doubtless it has been used superstitiously in this way, looked upon as a charm which would in itself bless or protect one irrespective of the state of the heart or the conduct of one's life. And there are those who have a great repugnance to seeing it so used as if it only meant that. But this is very uncharitable. Different persons have different ways of expressing their devotion, and each should have liberty to act as they choose. No one should find fault with or mock those or assume that they are not sincere, who use such signs.

Another act of reverence Christians perform is that of bowing to the altar when they pass it, or kneeling in the presence of the Blessed Sacrament. As we teach our children in our public schools to salute the national flag, as soldiers present their arms to it, or as the peers in the British House of Parliament bow to the vacant throne of the king when they pass before it. So surely may Christians salute the sign of their faith, or that which serves as the throne of our Divine Lord in our churches, the altar whereon He vouchsafes to us His sacramental Presence, or that Presence itself.

The true rule in regard to all these things is that which was laid down in the Prayer Book of King Edward VI: "As touching, kneeling, crossing, holding up of hands, knocking upon the breast, and other gestures they may be used or left, as every man's devotion serveth without blame."

But as a general thing it is best for those attending a church to do as the clergy and choir do, as they set the standard which should be observed in that church. If individuals set up a standard of their own it introduces confusion and is distracting to persons who do not understand it. We should follow the apostolic injunction of doing all things decently and in order, that all may be edified.

CONFIRMATION

The Bishop Coadjutor of the Diocese will visit this parish for the purpose of conferring Confirmation on the evening of Tuesday, March 19th, and we trust that every adult attending the church who has not yet received that blessing, and the Holy Communion to which it admits, will not let this opportunity pass without receiving it. The Church teaches that all should be Confirmed as soon as they are old enough to understand and have been sufficiently instructed in regard to the obligations of the Christian life. Not to receive it is not only to deprive oneself of great privileges, but to fail in the discharge of manifest duty. There can be no reason which can justify its being deferred to some other time—which may never come. The opportunity is offered now and should be embraced by all.

Instructions preparatory to confirmation will be given every Sunday at 4 P. M. in the Guild Room in the Parish Building by the Rector, and after the evening service on Wednesdays by the Curate, beginning with the first week in February, and it is hoped that all thinking of being Confirmed will, if possible, attend both these courses of instruction.

PARISH NOTES

LENT begins this year with the thirteenth of this month. There will be no additional services, but the boys of the choir will sing at the daily evening prayer at 5 P. M., and on Fridays there will be a lecture. On Ash Wednesday there will be services as on Sundays at 10.30 A. M., morning prayer, Litany and Penitential service, with sermon, followed by a choral Celebration. The Wednesday evening service at 8 P.

M. during Lent will consist of the Penitential service with appropriate instruction.

THE ENDOWMENT FUND of the parish has now been placed in the hands of the Pennsylvania Company for Insurance on Lives and Granting Annuities, so that the Vestry cannot henceforth have any control of it except as to the expenditure of the income. The deed of transfer constitutes two funds, one to be known as the Johnson fund, which amounts to $9525, the income to be used as directed under the will of the donor, Mr. Benjamin Johnson, the other to be known as the General Endowment Fund. In this there is now deposited $230, the amount raised by the ladies in October. This will be increased by all offerings made on Ascension Day or through the envelopes which will be issued next quarter for this purpose and by whatever gifts or legacies may be received for it from time to time. The income of this fund can be used by the Vestry for the general expenses of the church.

ELECTION OF VESTRYMAN.—Much to the regret of the Rector and Vestry Mr. William P. Henszey resigned from the Vestry in December, owing to the fact that he is in the city and so able to attend meetings of the Vestry for so short a part of the year. At the January meeting Mr. Walter M. Newnam was elected to fill the vacancy. Mr. Newnam has been a member of the parish for some twenty-five years and a constant attendant and supporter of it during that time, and is most interested in and devoted to its interests. We are sure he will be a valuable addition to the Vestry.

DIOCESAN MISSIONS.—The special benevolent envelope this quarter is for Diocesan Missions, that is for the general work of extending and maintaining the the church, in the new and poorer sections of the Diocese. The city and country surrounding it is rapidly growing in population, so new churches need constantly to be built. And there is a great and increasing fie d for real missionary work in the older parts of the city, so we should all contribute liberally to this purpose. The Rev. Francis M. Taitt, Dean of the Convocation of Chester, will preach on the subject on the morning of March the 17th, and all the offerings at that service, outside of the envelopes, will be given to that object. The parish is expected by the Convocation to contribute this year for Diocesan Missions $125 and we trust at least that sum will be then realized.

LENTEN WORK.—The Ladies Aid will work during Lent as usual for a benevolent purpose and they invite all the ladies in the congregation to meet with them on Wednesday afternoons. They will be glad also to receive donations of money or material for this work.

KEITH'S THEATRE AND THE GUILDS.—St. Agnes Guild (19 of us) went there on January 25th and St. John's Jr. Guild expect to go within a short time. What a happy time we had and how encouraged the performers would have been, if they had known of our enthusiasm. It does one good to make children so thoroughly happy.

Both of these chidren's Guids have their weekly meeting, with a devotional office, an instruction by their director and nearly an hour of fun, and they have been so regular and well behaved that they thoroughly deserve a treat.

WEDNESDAY NIGHT INSTRUCTION CLASS.—This class, held at the close of the Wednesday night service, has recently increased in size, about 18 adults having attended the last few meetings. We are reading together Wescott's "Catholic Principles" and find it instructive and interesting. 9.30 p. m., our closing hour seems to come too soon. We would be glad to welcome new members, provided they undertake to come with considerable regularity. It is a conversational affair sitting around a large table, and everybody talks who cares to do so. Sometimes during our hour we have gone over several pages of the book and sometimes only a few lines.

FR. SILL AT THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.—The children were much pleased at a visit from Father Sill on the Sunday he preached here; the loving and cordial way in which they rose and bid him goodbye showed their affection for him. He referred to the Children's Mission of a year ago, which he and Father Huntington preached and which many of the present children then made.

A NEW ASSISTANT SUPERINTENDENT.—Mr. Botwright has come to our relief and taken the position of Assistant Superintendent, vacant since our loss of Mr. Hurst. He is not a stranger to us and has already won the regard of the children.

A NEW ORGANIST AND TEACHER.—Since our loss of Mr. Thayer, who has been so faithful and efficient for so long a time and whom we greatly miss. Mrs. Harris has been kindly playing for us and we hope she will stay with us as our Sunday School Organist a long while. She will also take charge of the class of little boys, which has been without a teacher since they lost Mr. Hurst much to their sorrow. We are grateful to Miss Mary Hodge for taking double duty during this interval.

NOTES OF "MOTHERS' MEETING".—Too late for the last Issue of "The News" was any account of "The Christmas Meeting" on Wednesday Evening, January 2nd. Miss Schubert most kindly played for us on the Guitar, giving some beautiful music as did also Miss Louise Hodge at the Piano. We also thank Miss Carmen, whose recitations we always enjoyed. Afterward refreshments were served, Ice Cream, Cake, Tea, Coffee and Fruit.

Through the kindness of a friend of "The Mothers' Meeting" on one very cold night before Christmas the members enjoyed a little impromptu Oyster Supper.

The members of the Meeting made a Christmas Gift of $3.00 toward the Missionary work of the Rev. Mr. Littell in Canton, China. This means forfeiting by each member the payment of a week's sewing. Last year the same amount was given to a Boys' School in Africa.

Friday Afternoons, by the meeting of the few mothers who can attend at that time and those interested, many necessary things are accomplished at the finishing off of garments, working button holes, etc, also getting together and packing up the sewing to be returned to the Hospital.

ACTS AND EXERCISES OF DEVOTION

The Church requires her members during this season of Lent to give themselves to special "acts and exercises of devotion." What is meant by that? What can it be but to use more frequent and earnest prayers, meditation, self-examination, reading of Scripture and devotional books, fasting, almsgiving, self-denial, engaging in good works, doing acts of benevolence and charity. These are things which Christians ought to engage in at all times as far as they can, But the season of Lent is a time especially set apart for them, when people are called upon to give up their ordinary pleasures, and occupations even as much as they can, and assiduously devote themselves to doing special acts and exercises of devotion for the cultivation and perfection of their own spiritual lives, the doing good to their fellow men and advancing the cause of Christ among men. If Lent is faithfully used in that way it will be a blessed season to individual souls who thus use it, and a means of blessing to the world.

How then can these acts be best performed? We answer, first, by more frequent church-going. We have more frequent services then in our churches and at unusual hours in order to provide these opportunities. Of late there have been special noon-day services held in some central church for the benefit of those who can only get off from their offices and shops for a short time at that hour. They are used, however, largely by those who go to them simply on account of their novelty and variety instead of going to their own parish churches, where the services are longer and better adapted to devotion. The devotion in the noon-day services is very brief, the address being the chief attraction. Let our people, who can do so, go to their own churches for the purpose of real prayer, for themselves and for intercession for others.

Another way to perform these acts is by using our churches more for private prayer. In the old country you can scarcely ever enter any of the great churches without seeing persons there engaged in private devotion. And it is certainly a very beautiful and must be a profitable habit. Our churches are coming more and more to be left open at all times for this purpose, but they are not used as much as they should be. The Church of the Ascension has been kept open daily ever since it was built, and we frequently see not only our own people, but strangers in it, kneeling, saying their prayers. But there ought to be a great many more to do so than there are.

Another thing we want to recommend to our people is the use not only during Lent, but at all times, of some book of devotion. Our Prayer Book, as admirable as it is, is intended for public services—Common Prayer. But we should pray also by ourselves and it is hard to do this aright without aid. So all should have and use, daily if possible, some such book as "The Treasury of Devotion" by the Rev. T. T. Carter. It can be had at the Church Book Store, Walnut and Camac streets. Such a book will be invaluable in directing and helping one to pray aright. Then in Lent take up some special devotional book for reading—say a chapter every day.

So let your attendance and reception of the Holy Communion be more frequent during this season. No form of devotion can be fuller or more helpful than that. And let your preparation for reception be more careful. See too what acts of real self-denial and sacrifice you can be capable of, especially those by which others can be benefited. Let your almsgiving be something which costs you something and proportionate to the worthiness of its objects. We all spend too much on ourselves and our pleasures and self-indulgences, and too little for those objects by which real good, spiritual and temporal, might be done to others. There is a vast amount of want and suffering in the world we do little or nothing to relieve. There is nothing so startling as to notice the disproportion between what men spend for drink and pleasure and what they give for charity.

There is another act of devotion frequently performed in the old country, but seldom among us, except by the Roman Catholics—that is, the visiting of different churches for purposes of devotion. Most of our principal churches have something in them, or some association, which is calculated to stir up devotion, and can be profitably visited. Such churches in this city as Christ Church, S. Peter's and Old Swedes, with their historical associations and their graveyards around them, and such churches as the Evangelists, S. Stephen's, S. Mark's, S. Elizabeth's, S. James', the Advocate, and S. Mary's, West Philadelphia, and S. James the Less, and S. Luke's, Germantown, are either very beautiful and churchly themselves or have some beautiful adornments in them calculated to arouse the devotional spirit. Such a habit, too, would make people familiar with the history and lead them to take an interest in parishes other than their own.

Let all our people see that in some of these ways they discharge this duty which the church "requires" of all—of performing special acts and exercises of devotion during Lent.

PARISH NOTES

S. AGNES' GUILD ENTERTAINMENT.—On February 11th, the Guild gave its annual entertainment, consisting of songs, drills and recitations. Mr. Chester F. Myers and Miss Sanborn kindly assisted, adding much to the brightness of the evening. Wilbur & Co. supplied gratuitously chocolate cakes, served to the audience at an interval in the programme. We are under obligations to the kind friends who sent the money for tickets, although unable to attend in person.

STEREOPTICON VIEWS FOR SUNDAY-SCHOOL.—An exhibition of views of a missionary character was given to the Sunday-school on the evening of St. Valentine's day, February 14th. A number of the children were present and the views were interesting and instructive.

S. JOHN'S, JR., GUILD.—It is in a flourishing condition, the attendance at the last meeting being 22, which is not much above the average. Mr. William E. Linton is training the little boys in gymnastics after they have recited their office and received their weekly instruction. Monday nights are a useful and happy time for the boys.

A RULE OF LIFE FOR THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL.—The children to the number of 48 have undertaken to keep a simple priest's rule this Lent, having signed the card upon which it is printed with the attesting signature of their teacher and pastor. Every time they break one of their three promises they punch a pinhole in the card, and every Sunday they show it to their teacher. At Easter they will show it to their pastor.

Perhaps some who read this will remember the children in their prayers that they may keep their rule.

CONFIRMATION will be administered by the Bishop Coadjutor on the evening of Tuesday, March 19. Instructions are being given by the Rector every Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Parish Building and by the Curate on Wednesdays after the 8 P. M. service. All desiring to be Confirmed, who have not already done so, should give in their names at once.

HOLY WEEK.—The services in Holy Week will be as in other years: Celebration daily at 7 A. M. Morning Prayer, with short address and second celebration, at 10 A. M. Evening Prayer at 5 P. M. and sermon on the Passion each night at 8 P. M. On Good Friday there will be a children's service at 9.00 A. M., Morning Prayer and Litany at 11 A.M., followed by the singing of the Reproaches and the preaching of the cross from 12 to 3 P. M. This will be interspersed, as usual, with singing of hymns, during which those who do not feel like remaining during the whole time can enter or leave the church. The Rector will conduct this service.

It is hoped that every one in the congregation will avail himself of these many opportunities of observing this most solemn season in the church year and which has such power of speaking to and affecting human souls.

STATIONS OF THE CROSS—On Good Friday the children, as usual, will sing the Stations at 9 A. M. It is a reverent and instructive devotion, impressing upon those who make it the reality of our Lord's way of sorrows and bitter passion The grown people will profit by takIng part in it,

The Three Hours' Service is chiefly preaching; the service of the Stations is chiefly devotion. It lasts less than an hour and is largely sung.

EASTER DAY.—There will be celebrations at 6.30, 7.30, 8.30 A. M., in addition to the service in the middle of the day. Children's Easter service, with presentation of their Lenten offerings at 3.30 P. M.

EASTER OFFERING.—We shall need an offering on Easter day as large as that we asked for at Christmas—$1000—to meet all indebtedness up to the end of our financial year. Now that we have no mortgage debt let us see if we cannot, for the first time in our history, come out with all our expenses for the year paid and no debt of any kind against it. If every one in the parish will give generously we are sure it can be done. We ask all to compare what they give in the course of the year towards the support of the church with what they would have to pay in another church where the pews are rented, and see to it that they give as much, without demanding the selfish equivalent of a reserved seat, which turns the church into a private club instead of God's house for all men. If what you give Sunday by Sunday is not equal to a pew rent make up the average by your Easter offering DIOCESAN MISSIONS.—As we announced last month, all the offerings on Sunday, March 17th, outside the envelopes, will be for Diocesan Missions, for which this parish is asked this year to contribute $125. Let us see that that amount is raised by the collection that day. The Rev. Mr. Taitt, Rector of S. Paul's Church, Chester, Dean of the Convocation of Chester, will preach on the subject of Diocesan Missions at that service.

EPISCOPAL AND CONVENTION FUND.—This parish is assessed for this fund $160.22 and for the Sustentation Fund, $34.72. We ought to have special offerings for these funds, as our ordinary weekly offerings are not sufficient to meet them.

MEN'S THANK OFFERING.—The chairman of our parochial committee for this fund proposes to send a personal letter to each male member of the congregation asking him to make some gift to this great fund which is to be raised as a thank offering in commemoration of the three hundredth anniver,ary of the introduction of Christianity into this country. We trust it will be responded to by all. Let each man feel he has some share in this even though the amount he can give is small.

HOUSE OF THE HOLY CHILD.—Our Ladies' Aid Society are working this Lent for this Home, of which Miss Edith Wharton Dallas, one of our parishioners, is the foundress and secretary. The Rector has also received a letter from Miss Dallas suggesting that the parish, or some one in it, might like to contribute a sum sufficient to support the home for one day—$10. Will anyone offer to do so?

SPECIAL SERMONS.—In addition to their work in the parish the Rector is preaching this Lent in Christ Church and S. Michael's, Germantown; S. Mary's, Burlington, and S. David's, Manayunk, and later in S. Luke's, Germantown.

The Curate is preaching a course of sermons every Wednesday afternoon at the Church of the Annunciation. He will also preach the Passion at the Three Hours' Devotion on Good Friday at St. Timothy's Church, Roxborough. In addition he preaches, at St. Paul's, Perkiomen; St. Mark's, Hammonton, N. J.; St. Thomas's, Philadelphia; St. Paul's, Chester; St. Andrew's, Barmouth, Va.

WANTED—A large musical hymnal for the organ. It is difficult for the organist or whoever plays the organ to see the small hymnals used by the choir. Will any one present one to the church? They cost five dollars.

CONFESSION IN THE EPISCOPAL CHURCH

When S. John the Baptist came preaching we are told the people were baptized of him, "confessing their sins." When the apostles began their preaching the same result followed. S. Paul says, "With the mouth confession is made unto salvation." S. James says, "Confess your faults one to another." In other words, it is not sufficient to feel sorry for sins, but they should be confessed. It is what we exact from our fellow-men when they have sinned against us, we expect them to acknowledge they have done us wrong.

In the early church this confession of sins was made openly before the whole church. And to this day among the Methodists and others, it is the practice in their experience and other meetings for penitents to give detailed public statements of the sins they have committed. But this has been found not to have an edifying effect either upon the hearers or confessors. In some cases it has led to grievous scandal and injury. So it was soon found advisable to substitute private, for this public confession, before a suitable church officer appointed for the purpose, and for some time in the history of the church certain priests called Penitentiaries was set apart for this special purpose of hearing the confessions of penitents. Later on it became the custom for all priests to hear confessions. But all such confessions were voluntary, unless a person was known to have committed some great crime, in which case he could not be received back into the communion of the church unless he had made, or it was certified that he had made, a confession of his sin and had served a term of penance. Gradually, however, the custom sprang up of all Christians making confession to some priest at regular times, especially before receiving the Holy Communion. But it was not made obligatory that they should do so in the Western church until the thirteenth century. And that is the rule in the Roman Catholic Church to-day. No Roman Catholic can receive the Holy Communion without first making confession to a priest and receiving absolution.

This rule was abolished in the Church of England at the Reformation. But private confession was not forbidden or abolished. On the contrary, in the exhortation to be read before the stated times of communion, the priest is made to say to the people, after describing to them how they should prepare themselves to receive the sacrament, "if any of you, who by this means cannot quiet his own conscience, but requireth further comfort or counsel, let him come to me, or to some other minister of God's word and open his grief; that he may receive such godly counsel and advice as may tend to the quieting of his conscience, and the removing of all scruple and doubtfulness, together with the benefit of absolution." And in the office for the visitation of the sick, the priest is directed to move the sick man to a particular confession of his sins if he has aught on his conscience and a special direct, personal form of absolution is provided for such cases. We have a similar provision in our office for the visitation of a prisoner, where the priest is to exhort him to a "particular confession" of his sins. So the doctrine of the necessity of confession of sins and of the authority of priests to pronounce absolution is taught in the Prayer Book, by a form of general confession of sin, together with a declaration of absolution to be said "only by a priest," being put in the daily morning and evening prayer, and in the office for the Holy Communion.

So the position of the Episcopal Church is perfectly plain on this subject. She teaches, as the Bible and the universal church always have, that it is not sufficient to repent of sins, but we must make a confession of our sins. This may be done in the general forms appointed in the public services of the church, after which the priest pronounces the absolution of those who are truly penitent. Or if any one is not satisfied with this general confession, or has any doubt about his penitence, or any scruple on his conscience, then he is exhorted to go to his parish priest, or to any priest he may prefer, and make a private particular confession. In each case the confession is made to God, and the priest speaks in God's name as his official commissioned agent. The advantages of the particular confession in the presence of the priest are for the purposes of humiliation and reparation and to secure a full and real confession being made, or for his judgment and advice in cases of doubt.

But it is entirely voluntary whether one should make such a confession or not. There is not and cannot be any obligatory private confession in the Episcopal Church. It is simply a privilege offered to those who think they would be helped or benefited thereby, and no one should object to any one using it, provided he is not compelled to use it himself if he does not wish to do so.

PARISH NOTES

CONFIRMATION.—Our annual Confirmation took place on the evening of March 19th. Twenty-four were Confirmed. Two or three others were kept away by sickness or other unavoidable cause. This is about our average number, showing that we hold our own in regard to church work, in spite of the difficulties in the neighborhood with which we have to contend. Owing to a severe cold, which kept him in the house for four days, the Rector was unable to be present, the first time he has ever missed a Confirmation in his own church. Most of the class made their first communion on Easter day.

HOLY WEEK AND EASTER.—The attendance at the services during this special holy tide was quite up to the average of former years. The daily attendance at the 7 a. m. celebration during Holy Week was about twenty-five. Though Easter Day was dull and threatening, the number present, especially at the early services, was very good. The number of communicants, we are thankful to say, was more than last year, nearly three hundred in all.

The Easter music was very good, in spite of the absence through sickness of our chief soprano soloist, Master Lester Pursell.

THE EASTER OFFERING amounted to a little over $700. This is about the average offering at this festival, but it is only about half of what is needed to meet all our current expenses up to the first of May, the end of our financial year. Our mortgage debt having been paid, many do not understand why we should not have found it easier this year to meet our current expenses; but we began the year with a deficit of $500, and this is still to be paid off. How is it to be done? It was suggested in the vestry that the ladies in the congregation be called upon to get up some entertainment for the purpose. But we are very loath to do this. It is not the way in which churches should be supported, and if we could pay off $12,000, as we did by free will offerings in one year, why can we not raise $800 in the same way another year? Are there not those in the congregation who would be willing to make subscriptions for this purpose? Even in our rich pew-rented churches there is constantly a deficit which has to be made up at the end of the year. And in a church dependent upon voluntary contributions made from Sunday to Sunday, there must necessarily be great vicissitudes and the necessity of doing the same thing. Let us try this before we resort to fairs or theatricals. But it ought to be done at once, as we shall have to borrow money again to tide us over the summer. Will not some one start such a subscription, or offer to give part of it if the whole is made up?

SUNDAY SCHOOL OFFERINGS.—The Sunday School this year will give their mission money to Father Hughson, for the work of the Order of the Holy Cross among the mountain boys in Tennessee. The order has a school there in connection with the work of Father Claiborne and asked for our offering. We are sure it will be used in accomplishing spiritual and lasting work, and not spent chiefly in the purchase of material things for those who successfully beg for them. The spiritual and material assistance will go together.

The amount received from the children on Easter Day was $30.61, which was about the same as the total offering last year. We have many boxes yet to hear from, this being our first return from them.

SUNDAY SCHOOL EASTER SERVICE.—On Easter Sunday, at 3.30 p. m., the school sang their Easter carols, made their offering referred to above, and were addressed by the Curate and by Mr. Witmer. Each child received a growing plant, a tulip. The attendance was considerably larger than last year, and the occasion was one of festal joy.

EASTER GIFTS OF ST. AGNES' GUILD AND ST. JOHN'S GUILD.—The St. Agnes' Guild has undertaken what is for them quite a large task; they have promised to provide all the small wafers for the Blessed Sacrament for one year from Easter. It will involve a cost of about $9.00. Their weekly dues are only one cent each. But the kindness of friends in the congregation, who recently purchased tickets for these children's annual entertainment, has supplied the Guild with a small fund, and out of it they are glad to make this offering.

The Junior St. John's Guild has assumed the responsibility for the large wafer for the priest for one year. They will cost about $5.00, and the money will come from the little boys' weekly dues of one cent.

It will be a real joy to the children of these two Guilds to feel that they have been allowed to do so sacred a work as this, for they are taught to love their dear Saviour in His holy Sacrament.

THE DAILY CELEBRATION. — March 16, 1907, was the first anniversary of the institution of the Daily Celebration in this parish.

Fifteen people gathered at the altar-throne that day to return thanks to God for that unspeakable blessing. During the year not one day has been missed, except during the month of September when it was suspended through sickness or other cause, and the storms and bleakness of many dark winter mornings have not prevented from five to thirty-one people at 7 a. m., visiting their dear Lord in the Sacrament of His Love. The average attendance during the week days of Lent has been thirteen, and for the other week days in the year about seven. How few this is out of a communicant list of 550, and yet many a pastor would be thankful, indeed, to be able to count upon so many as that to join him in the daily oblation.

"Jesus, our Lord, we Thee adore;
O make us love Thee more and more."
Amen.

Will not you, who read this, undertake to come at least one day each week to do honor to our lowly but Divine Guest?

MINSTREL SHOW

The boys of the choir propose to give a minstrel show Thursday night, April 25th, the proceeds of which are to be used for their summer outing. A committee, consisting of Lester Purcell, Robert Provence, John Mucklow, Samuel Neill and J. Stuart Tait, have been appointed to manage the affair, and tickets, costing 25 cents for adults and 15 cents for children, may be obtained from them or any member of the choir. Mr. Chester A. Myers, who will be remembered for his efforts in the past, will be stage manager and interlocutor. The boys expect their friends to help them in this, their first effort, so that it may be a social as well as a financial success.

WILLIAM PLATT PEPPER

This parish has met with an irreparable loss in the death of Mr. William Platt Pepper, one of its vestrymen, who died at his residence, 1730 Chestnut street, on April 27th. We say irreparable loss, because whoever may be elected to fill his place as a vestryman, or succeed him in other ways, no one can reproduce just the same gracious, genial disposition which was so distinctively his.

For many years Mr. Pepper has been one of the most prominent men in the social and benevolent life of this city. Educated as a lawyer, he never practised beyond the duties devolving on him as the executor and trustee of several estates, which he managed most successfully and conscientiously. He was a member of a large number of benevolent and church institutions in connection with which he worked as hard as if he was doing it for a living. He was one of the founders and for a long time the head of the Museum and School of Industrial Art and a manager of the Episcopal Hospital, both of which institutions took up a great deal of his time. He was much interested in S. Michael's Home for Crippled Children in West Philadelphia. He was a founder and for some time a worker in S. Mark's Working Men's Club, one of the officers of the Free and Open Church Association, a Custodian of the House, and a member in several other charitable societies.

He became a member of this parish in 1889 and a vestryman in 1900. He was in thorough sympathy with its ecclesiastical position, especially its principle of free seats. He showed how he thought this should be carried out by making it a rule always to sit in a different seat each service he attended, so that no one could think he was laying claim to any particular seat. He was most regular in his attendance at the services and vestry meetings as long as his health permitted. He was most liberal in his contributions towards the support of the church, and in addition gave a weekly sum for the poor fund and sent a large number of coal orders to the Rector each autumn to be distributed among the more needy members of the congregation. He was always ready to respond to any extra calls which were made for special objects, and the handsome carved oak stalls in the chancel were his gift.

One of his most marked characteristics was his delight in devising and doing kindly things to persons whom he knew to be in need or to whom he thought he could give pleasure. His benefactions included a large number of persons and extended far beyond the parish.

Such a man will be indeed greatly missed, and it will not be easy to find another to fill his place and manifest the same characteristics.

His health has been failing for three years past and markedly so since the first of this year. He has only been able to be in church once since Christmas, which was a great grief to him. His funeral took place from the church on April 29th and was attended by a large number of his relatives and personal friends. The Vestry of the church attended in a body.

May he rest in peace and may light perpetual shine upon him.

We thank God for his good example and the good he did, and pray that others may be raised up to follow in his steps and serve the church as well.

A BAZAAR

The ladies of the congregation will remember that last autumn they got up very hastily a little parish sale about Thanksgiving and realized from it some $230 for the benefit of the endowment fund. Some of those who had the matter in hand declared that we would have to have such a sale annually. Perhaps it would be well to do so. Certainly it will be necessary for us to have something of the kind next autumn, not for the endowment fund, but to pay off the deficit we have in our current expense account.

As we have explained several times that when we raised the $12,000, which we did a year ago, we paid off by doing so all our mortgage debt and spent a thousand dollars in repairing and improving the Parish building, which was very necessary, but we did not pay off the deficit we had at the end of last year for current expenses of $500. And we have not been able to pay it off since out of our ordinary receipts. In addition to this we have had this last year several unusual expenses. A new insurance had to be placed instead of one which expired, amounting to $80, the chimneys of the church and the roof had to be repaired at the cost of $100, which with some other expenses has increased the deficit to some $800. The Rector has made several appeals for subscriptions to cover this amount, in addition to the Easter offering, but as yet no responses have been made. There seems to be no alternative but to have a bazaar or some other entertainment, or a bazaar perhaps and some entertainments combined with it, in order to raise the money to wipe out this indebtedness. We ought to aim at raising $1,000. To do this will require a good deal of work and energy on behalf of our members. So we speak of it now in order that all our ladies may begin and work for it all summer. We know there are some ladies who are very expert in knitting and doing other fancy work, and all can make some things which could be sold at a fair.

We ask everyone therefore in the Parish to begin now and throughout the summer see how large a store of things they can make or collect for the purpose. For we shall have to have this time a fair on a much larger scale than we had last year. We trust all will be interested in it and do all they can to make it a success.

The details of the bazaar will be arranged at a meeting of the ladies which will be called early in the autumn.

THE ENDOWMENT FUND

We remind our people that by resolution of the vestry the offerings on Ascension Day are hereafter to be devoted to the Endowment Fund of the Parish. It is very important that the Parish should be endowed. It is so situated that it is out of the way of wealth. The few persons of means we have had we are gradually losing through death or removal, and we do not know that others will come to take their place. The neighborhood south of the church is becoming poorer and all the churches of other denominations are moving away from it.

Yet the position we occupy on Broad street is central and prominent and should be permanently held. And the only way to secure that certainly is by an endowment. A sum sufficient for the purpose can only be gradually accumulated by gifts and bequests, and we trust that all who can do so will remember the church in their wills. But in order to keep the matter before the minds of our people and make constantly at least some small addition to the fund, the Vestry has thought it wise to set aside all the offerings on the great festival, which is our parish name day, for this purpose. Special envelopes are also issued this quarter for this object for the use of those who may not be able to attend the church services that day. These may be returned at any time, and whatever is in them will be placed in bank in the special account which has been opened for the Endowment Fund and which never can be used for any other purpose, the Vestry having put it out of their power to do so by placing it in the hands of the Pennsylvania Company for Insurance, as trustees.

BROTHERHOOD OF S. ANDREW CONVENTION

An Inter-Diocesan Convention of the Chapters of the Brotherhood of S. Andrew in the Dioceses of Delaware, New Jersey, Central Pennsylvania Harrisburg and Pennsylvania will be held in Philadelphia on Saturday and Sunday, May 11 and 12, 1907.

Saturday, May 11, 1907 (all Saturday meetings in Holy Trinity Church, 19th and Walnut), 10.00 a. m., short service in the church in charge of Bishop Coleman; 11. a. m., address of welcome by Bishop Mackey-Smith in the Parish House; 11.30 a. m., organization conference; 3.00 p. m., junior conference in the Parish House; 4.00 p. m., senior conference in the Parish House. 6.30 p. m. supper in Holy Trinity Parish House; 8.00 p. m., service of preparation for the Holy Communion.

Sunday, May 12, 1907, 8.00 a. m., Corporate Communion in St. Stephen's Church, 10th above Chestnut; 11.00 a.m., convention sermon in the Church of the Holy Trinity by the Rev. Floyd W. Tomkins, S.T.D.; 4.00 p.m. mass meeting for men at the Garrick Theatre. Speaker: the Right Rev. Frederick Courtney, D.D., New York; 4.00 p.m., mass meeting for boys in St. Matthew's Church, 18th and Girard Avenue. Speakers: Franklin Spencer Edmonds, Esq., and the Rev. F. H. Sill, O.H.C., West Park, N. Y.; 8 00 p. m., farewell meeting in St. Stephen's Church, 10th above Chestnut.

PARISH NOTES

ASCENSION DAY.—The name day of our parish, and so our special Parochial Festival, will be kept as in other years. Celebrations of the Holy Communion at 7 a m. and after Morning Prayer at 10.30 a. m. with the full choir and a sermon as on Sundays. And in addition to Evening Prayer at 5 p. m. a special shortened Choral Evensong at 8 p. m. with the Anniversary Sermon by the Rector and a Festival Te Deum. As Ascension comes earlier this year than it has for several years, we shall hope to have larger congregations at these services than we have sometimes had. The Rector specially asks all his parishioners to try and be present at one of the Celebrations on this day and make the prosperity of the Parish the special object of intercession at that time. We seek for still greater blessings than we have yet enjoyed to be poured out on this parish and we believe that earnest prayer and interest in it on behalf of all our people can secure such. We hope also that all who can will be present in the evening to hear the report of the work of the church for the past year.

The Annual Guild Service will take place on the evening of the Sunday after the Ascension, May 12th, when all the parochial guilds of the young people will enter the church in procession and a special sermon will be preached to them by the Rev. W.H. McClellan, one of the clergy of S. Elizabeth's Church. The Annual Parish Tea will be held on Monday, May 13th, when we hope to see all our people meet together socially. An entertainment will be furnished by some of our young people.

MISSIONARY BOXES.—Our ladies sent during Lent a very nice box of clothing to S. George's Chapel, Kensington, valued at $35; also a very substantial one to the House of the Holy Child in West Philadelphia.

The following letter of acknowledgment has been received:

The House of the Holy Child
627 North 43rd Street

My dear Mrs. Carman:

The box sent by the Ladies Aid of the Church of the Ascension arrived safely and all the contents were much appreciated. All the garments are so well selected and so carefully made that I am sure they will give great satisfaction. The children who assisted in the unpacking remarked on the orderly way in which the things had been arranged. The powder, soap, etc. will be most useful.

I hope you will convey to the members of the Society our appreciation of their interest in the Home. We would be very glad if they would visit the House.

Sincerely yours,
EDITH WHARTON DALLAS.

VESTRY ELECTION.—On Easter Monday the following persons were duly elected to serve as vestrymen for the ensuing three years. Mr. Harry B. French, Mr. John S. Newbold, Mr. George B. Warder, Mr. Walter M. Newnam.

At the meeting of the Vestry following the election Mr. Francis S. Keese was appointed Rector's Warden and Mr. William C. Lloyd was elected Accounting Warden, Mr. John D. Henderson, Secretary, and Messrs. Keese and Newbold and Dr. Neilson, delegates to the Diocesan Convention.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL MISSIONARY OFFERING.—The amount has been increased to $42.65. This is about $14.00 more than last year. It is to be given to the Order of the Holy Cross for their St. Andrew's School for boys in the mountains of Tennessee.

THE ASSISTANT SUPERINTENDENT.—Mr. Botwright has gone to England to see his parents. We all wish him a happy visit and hope to have him with us again within two months. During his absence Mr. Hurst has kindly consented to take his place in the school. It will be like old times to have him with us again.

THE GIRLS' FRIENDLY SOCIETY.—Over twenty persons is not an unusual attendance and their evenings are very full. On April 16th there was a lantern show of views of Ireland and Japan. The views were quite interesting.

GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.—A large music-Hymnal and a musical Psalter for the organ and sixty large picture cards for the members of the Industrial School.

CHOIR BOYS' MINSTREL SHOW.—On Thursday, April 25th, the choir boys gave an enthusiastic exhibition. A large audience was present; the performers seemed to enjoy it as heartily as the guests, and a considerable sum was realized for the cost of the choir's summer outing. The amount received from donations and tickets will be reported in the next issue of the NEWS.

THE PARISH YEAR

In his anniversary sermon on the evening of Ascension day the Rector, as usual, made a survey of the work and progress of the parish for the last year. He pointed out that there had been five more baptisms and one more confirmed than the year before, forty-two had been added to the list of communicants (curiously enough, exactly the same number that was added both last year and the year before), showing that we are not losing our ground, though more had been removed this year—fifty-nine in all. This was due to a very thorough revision of the communicant list, all names of those who having removed from the parish could not be traced, and those who have ceased to come to the Holy Communion for some years, being stricken off. Communicants who had died during the year, seven in all, were Mrs. Butts, admitted to communion on her deathbed; John Lettress, one of our choir boys, confirmed a year ago; Mr Joseph Marshall, an elderly member of the parish who had attended the services very regularly until this last year or so, when his health failed him; William James Potts, son of one of our caretakers, an old Sunday-school boy; William Hall, a cripple, who frequently came to church on his crutches; Mrs. Annie Miller, confirmed and married in the church some fifteen years ago, and Mr. William Platt Pepper, for eighteen years one of the vestrymen of the church. He was long a prominent figure in, and great support to, the parish. His departure will be deeply felt. May all these members of our parochial family rest in peace, and may the Lord reward them according to their works.

There has been a large increase in the number of the daily services, owing to the continuation since the mission of the daily Eucharist, the attendance at which has been quite remarkable for that early hour—7 a. m.

The number of children in our Sunday and Industrial Schools has not been as large, owing chiefly to the change in the character of the population in the neighborhood of the church, so many foreigners and colored people coming in and driving away the families who formerly came to the church. Still, we are persuaded that there are many children about us who could be gathered in if we had the means of reaching them. The work of the guilds has been kept up very effectively, the most notable increase being in the Girls' Friendly Society and the work of the Mothers' Meeting.

In regard to the financial report for the year the total receipts are, of course, less than those of the previous year, owing to the large collections made then for the payment of the debt; but putting those aside, there is a slight increase in the receipts over the year before.

The missionary receipts are largely in excess, owing to the special effort made for the Men's Thank Offering Fund. The tota amount received so far for this purpose has been $538, a very handsome sum for the parish, but we are bound to say that it was contributed by only a few individuals and not, as it was hoped it would be, made up by contributions from every male member of the parish.

The most important fact in connection with the history of the parish for the year was the placing of its trust funds in the hands of a trust Company to hold for the benefit of the parish, and the establishment of a general endowment fund. This was inaugurated by the ladies of the parish having a small fair for the purpose, and it is hoped by gifts and offerings on Ascension Day and by bequests a sum may be gradually accumulated which will be sufficient efficiently to support the church. Steps have also been taken by the vestry to transfer the real property of the parish to the Trustees of the diocese in order to safeguard it from any possibility of future alienation.

The general review of the year is satisfactory, showing that we are well holding our own in spite of somewhat difficult circumstances. Our hope for future progress lies in the improvement of our neighborhood and in obtaining larger resources with which to carry on our work.

PARISH NOTES

ASCENSION DAY.—Our parish festival was kept with a fair attendance of our people. A heavy rain in the middle of the day diminished the number usually at that service. The Rev. Jacob Miller, formerly Curate of S. Stephen's Church, preached in the morning and the Rector in the evening. The offering for the endowment fund was over fifty dollars.

The guild service on the Sunday evening following was well attended by the Girls' Guilds, but with only a poor showing for the boys. We understand the reason given is that the boys do not like to walk in procession. What is it that makes young men so shy?

SUMMER SERVICES.—The only change of services during the summer months will be the discontinuance of the saying of the Litany on Sundays and the daily celebration during the month of September, and there will be but one celebration on Holy days during July, August and September.

A ROOD SCREEN for the church has been offered to us by S. Mark's parish. It is that which now stands in that church and is a very handsome piece of work, but is to give place to a new one there. As our chancel is wider than S. Mark's it will require to be enlarged, and this, with the cost of taking it down and re-erecting it, will be some three hundred dollars. Special contributions to cover this have been made by some members of the parish, but more is still needed, and the Rector will be glad to receive any donations for the purpose. He considers that it will be a very great addition to the church and one he has been long hoping to have.

ELECTION OF VESTRYMAN.—Mr. Millard F. Roberts has been elected to fill the vacancy in the vestry of the church caused by the lamented death of Mr. William Platt Pepper. As Mr. Roberts has been a member of the parish for a great many years and has proved his interest in it by his regular attendance, in spite of the fact that he lives in West Philadelphia, it was certainly eminently fitting that he should be made a member of the vestry.

SPECIAL FUNDS.—The Accounting Warden has been directed by the Vestry to open a separate bank account in which all money contributed for special purposes is hereafter to be deposited.

Although not one cent that was contributed for a special purpose has ever been diverted to any other use since the present Rector became head of the parish, still it is very proper that this precaution should be taken to prevent any possibility of such perversion by their being deposited with the other funds of the parish, and it may secure their more prompt payment in certain instances.

CHOIR OUTING.—The proceeds of the entertainment given by the choir to provide the means for their summer outing amounted to some fifty dollars. This will hardly be sufficient to pay transportation and camp expenses for a week for the entire choir. The choirmaster therefore will be glad to receive further donations for the purpose. About twenty-five dollars more is needed.

GOING ABROAD.—Several of our parishioners are going to Europe this summer—the Misses Williamson, Miss Eva Pitcher, the Misses McIlheny and perhaps others. We wish them all bon voyage and trust they will not forget their church while they are away.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL EXCURSION.— Donations are asked to enable the children to have an outing this summer. Last summer, for the first time in years, we were able to take the school to Burlington Island Park. It would be a disappointment if we should be financially unable to do so this summer. So we would be grateful for some help.

ENTERTAINMENT.—A very pleasant sociable was given the members of S. John's Guild and the Girls' Friendly Society on Thursday evening, May 23d. The refreshments were supplied by a friend of S. John's Guild.

STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL.—St. Agnes' Guild proposes having a strawberry festival on Thursday, June 13th, at 7 30 p. m. An entertainment of a varied character with refreshments may be expected. Tickets 10 cents. The proceeds will be devoted to the little girls' outings this summer.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL.—Prizes.—Silver and bronze medals (38) will be given at the closing session of the school, which will take place as soon as our assistant superintendent returns from abroad. We expect the date to be Sunday, June 16th.

An instruction for adults and children will be given every Sunday after that date at 3 30 p. m.

AMUSEMENTS FOR THE CHILDREN.—During the month St. Agnes' Guild has been to Keith's, the Wednesday Evening Choir Boys to the Circus, and the Junior St. John's Guild to Keith's. The St. Agnes' girls expect to go once more to Keith's this month. Both of these guilds have been faithful in attending the Sunday celebrations of the Blessed Sacrament and their weekly meetings for prayer, instruction and play.

JAMESTOWN ANNIVERSARY.—Sunday, June 16th, is the three hundredth anniversary of the first celebration of the Holy Communion on the American continent according to the English rite, and it has been suggested that every member of the church make a special communion on that day in thanksgiving for the blessings brought to us thereby. We should like to see our people so realize their privileges as to do so. The Rector will preach an historical sermon on the morning of that day.

ORDINATION.—The Rev. Henry Allen Yost, formerly a member of our parish, is to be ordained priest on the morning of Sunday, June 9th, in St. Philip's Church, West Philadelphia. The Rector is to present him.

FRANCIS SUYDAM KEESE.

This parish is again called upon to mourn the loss of one of its most prominent and important members, our late Senior Warden.

Mr. Keese was born in New York City on Christmas day, 1841. His grandfather was an officer in the Revolutionary army. He himself, while only a Sophomore in college, enlisted in the army during the Civil War. He was captain of a company raised especially for him. He served before Washington, on the Peninsula, in Louisiana and before Vicksburg and in the Shenandoah Valley. At the battle of Fisher's Hill he was desperately wounded and incapacitated for further active service. At the close of the war he was mustered out with the rank of colonel.

He lived for some years in Minneapolis, Minnesota, where he was vestryman of the church of which the late Bishop Thomas of Kansas was then rector. For over thirty years he has resided in Philadelphia, for twenty-six years has been a vestryman of this church and for six years its Senior Warden. He was previously connected with Christ Church Chapel when our present rector was in charge of it, so that in his death our rector has lost one who for nearly thirty years has been his warmest friend and supporter.

Mr. Keese was much interested in, and contributed largely towards, the building of the present church. He presented our silver alms-plates, silver pitcher, ever, etc. Though for some years he was much away from the church traveling both abroad and in this country, yet he never forgot his connection with it, sending his contributions towards its support regularly from whatever part of the world he might happen to be in. The last two winters he has been at home and attended its services and the meetings of the vestry very regularly. His presence and his help will be greatly missed He died after an illness of nearly two months and was buried from the church on August 20th

We are glad to say he has remembered the church in his will by a bequest of $3,000, which we presume the vestry will add to our endowment fund which we are very thankful to see thus increased. May he rest in peace and may the Lord reward him for his good deeds.

A ROOD SCREEN.

As we have just had a rood screen put up in our church if will be well for us to consider just what is the meaning and purpose of such a structure.

It is not merely an architectural ornament, though it is such, but, as everything about a church should be, it is as well a symbol and aid to devotion. In the first place, it separates the nave or body of the church from the chancel. The nave represents the earth where we are dwelling now, the chancel represents heaven, where the holy ones are and where we all hope to go, so only those have places in the chancel who have been set apart to minister in holy things and are clothed with the garments which at least represent holiness. And the screen at the entrance of the chancel reminds us that heaven is more or less as yet hidden from our view, we can only see it as "through a veil," get glimpses of the glory and beauty that is in it. It is like the veil which hung in the Jewish temple between the Holy and Holy of Holies, though unlike that veil, which was impenetrable, no one but the high priest ever passing through it and that "only once every year, and not without blood," our veil has been rent by virtue of Christ's sacrificial death, and all can see and pass through it. But having a screen of some kind there reminds us that there is a separation between heaven and earth, that it is a better or more beautiful place than earth, and that only the pure can hope to enter there.

Thus as one sits or kneels in the nave of the church and looks through this open screen into the chancel with the altar and the ministers about it in their rich vestments, with the lights, and the music which comes from it, one is kept in mind of that "better country" which we should all be looking for and "hastening unto."

Then, secondly, it has been the general custom to erect on this screen a large cross, or rood as it used to be called—hence the term rood screen—or sometimes a representation of the crucifixion, the figure of Christ upon the cross and those of the Blessed Virgin Mary and S. John standing beside it. Thus that great central fact of our religion that Christ was crucified for us is evidently and constantly set forth before the eyes of all worshipping in the church—a wise and effective way to teach the great truths of the church by a permanent object lesson. How different from the cold, unadorned interior of most Protestant churches which have nothing in them to attract or draw forth devotion, or teach, except by the words which the minister may happen to utter, which may be more or less edifying and effective.

Then another thing, the cross being placed in this position teaches us is that none approach the altar and so can hope to enter heaven except through the cross. It is Christ's sacrifice upon the cross that alone made the salvation of the world possible. It is only as we pass under the cross, and are willing to sacrifice and deny ourselves, that we can be made like, and commune with, Him. And if any trial or affliction comes to us, by it we can be raised nearer to, and be made more fit for, heaven.

We hope our people will think upon these things when their eyes rest upon this beautiful screen, which they cannot help doing every time they enter the church. We trust and believe it will be a constant and most effective sermon and help to all who worship in our own church. We are sure all who see it will congratulate us on having obtained it. We are glad to say it is entirely paid for by special subscriptions which were made solely for the purpose. Our hearty thanks are due to the donors, and to the Rector and Vestry of S. Mark's Church which so kindly presented the main body of it. We understand the original cost of the screen was $1,200, so we are getting for $300 what is worth $1,500.

PARISH NOTES

SPECIAL PREACHERS.—The Rector is going to arrange to have a special preacher at the evening service every Sunday night during this coming winter. He does this because he believes it will be well for the congregation to hear different preachers and they can do it in this way without leaving their church

If one hears the same person all the time his way of preaching or presenting the truth becomes more or less monotonous. A different voice and manner of preaching may excite interest and arrest attention.

The Rector will invite the various clergymen of the city, or neighborhood, or visiting clergymen, in turn. And in order to enable them to come when necessary the Rector or Curate will take their place in their churches. This will not make any less work for the clergy, but we believe it will be for the edification of our people and we trust it will have the effect of increasing the attendance at the evening service, which of late has not been at all what it ought to be.

We shall try to publish in each NEWS the name of those who are to preach on the Sunday evenings of that month, and they will also appear in the Saturday issue of two of the daily papers, the Ledger and Evening Bulletin.

The preachers in October will be: On the first Sunday evening, the Rev. H. A. F. Hoyt, Rector of S. John's Church, Lower Merion; the second Sunday, the Rev. Edward Ritchie, Rector of S. James the Less, Falls of Schuylkill; the third Sunday, the Rev. R. J. McFetrich, of the Church of the Redeemer, Bryn Mawr; the fourth Sunday, the Rev. H. F. Fuller, Rector of Old Trinity Church, Oxford.

THE FAIR.—We trust all our ladies have kept in mind and have been making things for the fair we shall have to have this autumn. The church has given its note for $1,000, which comes due next month and must be met, and we see no other way of doing it but by having a fair with some accompanying entertainments. Just when it shall take place and how it shall be arranged remains yet to be determined.

We trust all the ladies of the parish, young and old, will attend the annual meeting of the Women's Guild on SS. Simon and Jude's day, October 28th, after the morning service at 10 o'clock, to consult and arrange about it. We are glad to say that Mrs. John Mason, who has so efficiently managed other affairs of the kind in the parish, who has been abroad for the past year, is returning and expects to be present at the meeting on the 28th. She wants all the ladies to meet her and give her their views on the subject and assist in the arrangements. The reports of the women's work in the parish for the past year will be read at the same time

WANTED.—Some new hymnals are very much required for the choir; also a piece of linen for choir cottas. These things will wear out and require constant renewing.

REPAIRS.—Almost every year some repairs have to be made to our buildings. This autumn we have had to have all the gutters and water-spouts of the church renewed and the roof repaired; also some plumbling done at the cost of about $100.

OUR FUNERAL PALL, which has been in use for nearly thirty years, and has been thrown over the coffins of millionaires and paupers, making them look alike in the church, is much in need of repair. We were ashamed to see it used at the burial of our Senior Warden. It consisted of a violet worsted material with embroidered silk bands upon it. The latter are still in perfect condition, but the worsted foundation is in rags. Would any in the congregation be willing to give donations for the purchase of material sufficient for the purpose of replacing this, to which the embroidered bands can be transferred? The members of our Altar Guild will do the work if the material is furnished. It would require about about $30.

SUMMER EXCURSION.—The choir-camp was held at Florence, N. J., beginning August 12th, and was very successful, though marred by the very sad and purely accidental drowning of George Phipps, one of our acolytes, who was a visitor at the camp over Sunday. Though very much shocked, the youthful spirits of the boys asserted themselves and they had a very pleasant week.

Through one of the boys of St. Stephen's parish, Florence, they were successful in arranging a series of baseball games with the boys of the town, so that with boating and bathing the time passed very quickly. They were accompanied by a professional cook, who was voted all right.

In the evening they generally had visitors whom they entertained with vocal selections both secular and religious. A frequent visitor at the camp stated that the boys' behavior was perfect and the grounds were left in better condition than they were found.

THE MOTHERS' MEETING had an excursion up the Delaware River on August 1st. Forty-six were in the party, and though caught in a heavy shower, it cleared up before the return trip, and all enjoyed the trip very much. About twenty of the mothers and their children were sent away for a two weeks' stay in the country and others for a shorter time. Ice tickets were distributed to some twelve families.

S. AGNES' GUILD EXCURSION.—On Saturday, July 27, this guild had an all-day excursion to Burlington Island Park, preceded by a children's celebration. Twenty-nine took part and the day passed only too quickly. Boating, feasting and many amusements filled up the time.

RESIGNATION.—We regret very much to announce that Miss Caroline Thompson, who has for a number of years acted as our Parish Visitor, had charge of the Mothers' Meeting, and occupied a number of other positions in the parish, has resigned to accept a similar position in the church at Wildwood, N. J. Miss Thompson has done an excellent work in the parish and endeared herself to many members of it. She will be very much missed, and it will be very difficult to fill her place. Our best wishes go with her in her new work.

RESUMPTION OF GUILDS.—The S. John's Jr., Guild will resume its meetings on Monday, October 14, at 8 P. M.

The S. Agnes' Guild will begin again on Saturday, October 12, at 7.45 P. M.

SUNDAY SCHOOL EXCURSION.—Owing to the absence from the city of so many of the teachers and the inability of others to leave their work at the time we had expected to have our Sunday School excursion, it had to be postponed. It is the intention now to have an entertainment in place of it at the opening of the school season.

A SUNDAY SCHOOL PARTY.—On Thursday, October 10, at 7.30 P. M., there will be given a Sunday School Party, to which mirth, without charge, all members of the Sunday School whose names apppear upon the roll of last session.

All other friends of the school will be welcome, but are asked to pay ten (10) cents. Refreshments will be served.

BEGINNING OF SUNDAY SCHOOL.—The school will reassemble at 2.45 P. M. on Sunday, October 6. The assistant superintendent will have notified each scholar and teacher in advance. Teachers' instruction at 2.20 P. M. every Sunday.

GIFT TO THE CURATE.—The members of the Summer Sunday Instruction Class, which has met every Sunday during July and August, presented to their teacher a handsome set of Gillette safety razors for his use, especially when travelling. He is very grateful.

THE GENERAL CONVENTION

Perhaps some of our people who do not see any of the church papers would like to have a short resume of what was done at the late General Convention of the Church held in Richmond, Virginia.

All those who were there say that it was a most interesting and inspiring convention. This was largely due to the presence of the English Bishops of London and St. Albans, as well as some Canadian and other foreign Bishops. But it was chiefly due to the effect of the presentation of the men's thank offering, which, together with that of the women's united offering, amounted to $1,000,000, and also to the visits paid to the historic spots of Jamestown and Williamsburgh. where the Church was first planted in this country.

As to the legislation accomplished the chief items were: The adoption of a preamble to the Constitution of the Church which speaks of the Church as the "American Church" and gives a short statement of the great principles on which it is founded.

A proposed amendment to the Constitution providing for the election of the Presiding Bishop of the Church to be paid by the general church, so as to be relieved from all diocesan duties, and to be retired at seventy years of age. This is to take the place of the present method by which the senior bishop by consecration becomes the presiding Bishop, which because he is often a very old man, and having in addition the cares of a diocese, makes him unable to look after the general interests of the Church.

Another proposed amendment to provide for the election and consecration of suffragan bishops. These will be assistants to the bishop of a diocese having charge of a section of the diocese, or of a particular race or class in a diocese, but without the right to vote in the House of Bishops, or of succession to the bishop of the diocese, unless especially elected. It is thought that this will be the best way to provide for the efficient oversight of the larger dioceses, and for those of different races and colors which are coming to be in such large numbers in some sections.

The amendment of the Missionary Canon of the Church so as to divide the Church into some eight departments—which will doubtless grow into Provinces—with power to carry on the special missianary work within their borders.

Another canon gives the clergy the right—which has been often exercised—of allowing, with permission of the Bishop, persons not in Holy Orders to make addresses in the church on special occasions.

Four new missionary jurisdictions were erected in the West; the missionary jurisdiction of Duluth made a diocese and the diocese of Georgia divided into two.

Several important committees were appointed to report to the next convention—one on the revision of the lectionary, one on the thirty-nine articles, one on marriage and divorce, one to consider the propriety of having a form authorized for the administration of unction, and one on Provinces.

Altogether the convention accomplished a great deal of work. It did not do some things we should have liked to have seen done, but large bodies move slowly and desired reforms will doubtless come in time.

THE FAIR, ETC.

At the annual meeting of the ladies of the parish on SS. Simon and Jude's day definite arrangements were made for the fair which, as we have announced, it is proposed to hold this autumn for the purpose of meeting the deficit in our current expenses.

The fair will be held in the Parish Building on Thursday and Friday, December 12 and 13, from 2 to 10 P. M. each day. The admission will be free. Every one in the parish is asked to contribute something towards this fair. Make what you can yourself and collect all you can from your friends. And come and buy all you can and ask all your friends to come and buy too. The fair is to be held in the early part of December in order to give plenty of time to get ready for it, and because it is just the time when everybody is buying Christmas presents. So save up and buy all your Christmas presents there and ask all your friends to do the same. Let all try to make it as widely known as they can and help to make it a success. There will be a cake and candy table, the proceeds of which will be divided between the Mothers' Meeting and the Girls' Friendly Society, as we need funds to carry on those two organizations.

In addition to the fair there will be given, probably in some hall, one or more entertainments, of which due announcement will be made.

Another project the ladies have adopted to raise the sum which we require, which is at least $1000, is that of issuing "Birthday Envelopes" One thousand of these have been printed and will be distributed to the members of the congregation. Every person in the congregation, including every child, is asked to put in one of these envelopes one penny for each year of his or her life as a thank offering for benefits received. This will not be much for any one person, for no one in the congregation is over one hundred years old, so no one will be asked to give as much as a dollar, and many very much less, and yet when it is all put together it will amount to a very considerable sum, which will swell the total. If any one does not receive an envelope they will be found in the rack in the church near the main door. They should all be returned to the church filled on Sunday, November 17th or 24th.

It is hoped by these means the deficit we have, and which must be met, will be made up. And if every one will take an interest and do all he or she can it can readily be accomplished.

We are very glad to say that Mrs. John Mason has returned from Europe, where she spent last winter, and that she will act as chairman of the committee having this whole matter in charge.

PARISH NOTES

SPECIAL PREACHERS for November on Sunday evenings: The first Sunday, the Rev. Joseph Sherlock, Rector of St. Chrysostom's Church at Twenty-eighth and Susquehanna avenue; the second Sunday, the Rev. John A. Goodfellow, Rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Kensington; the third Sunday, the Rev. C. M. Armstrong, Rector of St. Mary's, Wayne; the fourth Sunday, the Rev. G. M. Hayman, Curate of St. Peter's Church, Germantown.

On Sunday afternoon, October 27th, a special meeting was held in the church under the auspices of the Christian Social Union, when a serman was preached by the Rev. Father Waggett, of the Society of St. John the Evangelist, Cowley, England. A good congregation was present and the offerings were given to the work of the society.

THE ANNIVERSARY OF THE WOMEN'S GUILD of the parish was held in the Parish building on SS. Simon and Jude's day, immediately after the regular service for that day in the church. Although all the ladies of the congregation were asked to come only about seventeen were present. Is it not strange that so few will interest themselves in the work of their parish enough to be present even on the one day in the year, when the reports of the work for the year past are read and arrangements made for the coming winter?

Owing to the removal of Miss Thompson from the city vacancies were made in the representation of the parish on the Board of Foreign Missions of the Women's Auxiliary, and of the Secretaryship of the Church Periodical Club. Some one is wanted to supply the former place. The latter position Miss Elizabeth Gilpin will fill.

Another delegates is needed on the Diocesan Committee.

Miss Josephine McLoughlin will also take Miss Thompson's place in charge of the Mother's Meeting, and Miss Helen H. Hodge will be the head of the Industrial School. Miss Elizabeth Ashburner, who so efficiently carried on the Girls' Friendly Society last year, has been obliged to resign on account of ill health and Miss Charlotte W. Hare has taken her place. We are very glad to say this society is very flourishing. A dramatic teacher has been engaged for the winter and other classes also will be formed.

THE INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL on Saturday mornings for boys and girls begins its sessions with this month and will be continued until Easter. If there is any one who could teach wood carving, basket weaving or the like we would be vary glad if they would volunteer to take classes. This school provides occupation for the children on Saturdays and brings them under religious influences. Any children whether they belong to the parish or not are welcome to attend it.

GARDEN PARTY.—On June 22d a garden party was given to raise some money towards the rood screen.

Mr. Willing kindly gave the use of his walled garden at Broad and South streets, where refreshments and a few fancy articles were sold, with two graphophones to make "music in the air," and an automobile ran up and down on Broad street through the afternoon and evening, and it proved altogether a very successful affair. Seventy-five dollars was realized. Those who assisted in making it a success by their donations and interest were: Mrs. Morgan, Mrs. Wagner, Mrs. Tait, Miss S. E. Gilpin, Miss Moreland, Mr. Botright, Mr. Henderson, Mr. Atkinson, Mr. George Morgan, Mr. Daniel James, Miss Carmen, Miss McKnight, Miss Greer, Miss Brodie, Miss Trice, Misses Wharton; Mr. Cameron, Mr. Wm. Boggs, Mr. George Tait, Mr. Stuart Tait, Mr. Clarence Martz.

The account of this party, to which we are largely indebted for the rood screen, was inadvertently omitted from the October issue.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.—It began its winter work on the first Sunday in October. The attendance so far has been materially larger than the corresponding Sundays within the past several years. Several new features have been introduced, among them the following: Certificates of promotion from one department to a higher, cards of birthday greeting, a reminder of absence for primary school, blackboard pictures, monthly reports to parents. Perhaps this has had some effect upon the attendance.

ST. AGNES' GUILD.—This guild at every meeting so far this season has had an attendance almost double that of any previous year. Miss Jennings, Mrs. Herman and Miss Stretch have been added to our corps of helpers for this winter, Miss Jennings being the Superior.

CHESTNUT HUNT.—On Saturday, October 12, four adults and twenty little girls of St. Agnes' Guild went on a chestnut hunt. They gathered few nuts, but had a joyous afternoon. Upon their return to the Parish House supper was served to 22 children and 8 adults and a hungry lot they were. After supper the regular guild meeting was held, leaving at 9 P. M.

ANNUAL ENTERTAINMENT OF ST. AGNES' CUILD.—On Monday, November 18, this guild will give its annual entertainment. The profits arising from this one yearly effort are depended upon to supply the funds for all of their feasts, excursions, games, and other expenses during the year. We would be grateful for the purchase of tickets, which are sold at ten cents each.

A SUNDAY-SCHOOL PARTY.—At the close of the last session we were prevented from having an excursion, as we had intended. So as an alternative the school had a party on October 10th. Refreshments were provided for the children, after which they had a royal good time. After they had gone an elaborate feast awaited the officers, teachers and friends. Twenty-one persons were present and after dinner speeches were made by several of our guests. Prizes which were delayed in New York at the close of the session in the summer were distributed at this time.

NEEDS.—It will be noticed that we have only received $5 in response to the appeal we made last month for money to purchase material for the repair of the funeral pall, when it will require $30, and nothing at all for new hymn books for the choir, which are very much needed. Are there not those who would make donations for these purposes?

MISSIONARY BOX.—The ladies of the congregation are now engaged in making up their annual missionary box to be sent to some needy clergyman in the South and West. Contributions of money for it may be sent to Miss Mary Chamberlaine at the Clinton, Tenth and Clinton Streets, or donations of clothing may be sent to the church. Any clothing not good enough to be put in the box can be used in the parish.

OBSERVANCE OF THE LORD'S DAY.

There is no question but that the observance of Sunday is becoming less and less among all classes of people, both rich and poor, we believe to their great loss and danger. Why and how should it be observed?

First, it is essential as a regular and needed day of rest from labor. We all have to, and ought to, work in this world, but we are not required to work all the time and we cannot do as much, and as good work, if we do. Some think they are strong enough to work all the time and in their eagerness to make money, are tempted to do so. But as no one could work all day and all night too, without soon breaking down, so no one can work every day, without injuring himself. Human experience substantiates this ancient divine law, that man should have a weekly day of rest. It is no more arbitrary to rest one day in seven, than it is to sleep seven or eight hours in every twenty-four. It is what human nature requires for its good, and if a man disregards it, he is injuring himself. Hence the moral obligation of resting.

And if a man ought to give himself rest, he is still more bound to give it to any over whom he has control. For an individual or a corporation to compel one, or take advantage of a man's necessities, so as to virtually compel him, to work seven days in a week, he, or it, is injuring and defrauding that man, just as much as if he beat him or stole from him. If some work must be done on the day generally observed as a day of rest, then those doing that work are entitled to some other day in the week. That is the moral obligation to take for oneself and to give to others, one full day's rest in every seven. Not to do this, no matter what the temptation may be, is both a mistake and a sin.

Then the second purpose of the day is the performance of religious duty, the cultivation of the spiritual life. The spirit is the highest part of a man. What he is and what he does in the world will depend upon what his spiritual character is. So the cultivation and development of his spirit is a moral obligation, and essential to his highest welfare. And this can be efficiently and fully done only by having a set time devoted to the purpose and the use of certain instrumentalities. The most natural and practical day for the purpose is that appointed as a day of rest, when all can have the leisure to attend to these concerns. So Sunday is to be kept not only as a rest but as a holy day, a day for worship. That does not mean that the whole day must be taken up with worship, few would be capable of such a strain and it would destroy the other purpose of the day, its rest. We hold that at least one act of public religious worship should be performed on this day, preferably the taking part in the great distinctive act of Christian worship, the celebration of the Holy Communion, which embodies in it more than any other act of worship can. Then when that has been performed, the remainder of the day can be taken up with any innocent and healthful recreation or occupation one may choose which does not involve labor to oneself or compel others to work. But if a man takes the whole of Sunday simply for rest and neglects all religious duty, he is committing a sin and injuring himself as much as he who works all day.

It is manifest that if a man gives up the habit of regular attendance upon religious worship and considers that there is no obligation of the kind resting upon him, he will become, sooner or later, indifferent to, and forgetful of all religious duty, and lose the guidance, help, support and comfort which only religion can give. It is no answer to say a man can cultivate his spiritual life, without attendance at church. Few try to it otherwise and none can do it so well. There must be a time and place and means for doing this, as there is need for schools, schoolhouses and appliances for acquiring an education. Some men are self-taught, who have never attended school, but very few, and they not as well as those who have. So some men are good, who never go to church, but they are few, and they are not as good, and do not do as much good in the world as they could, if they used the church as they ought.

Hence all should feel the necessity of regularly observing Sunday in these two ways, and do all one can, to counteract the great and growing disregard of it. This neglect of it comes, from the craze to get rich and so use every moment of time and all one's power to become so; from the increase of wealth and luxury, making men indifferent to anything but ease and pleasure; from the relaxation of restrain, the freedom all have nowadays to do just what they like, children judging for themselves what is best and wisest, which they are utterly incompetent to do; from the lack of religious training in our schools and in our homes; from the loss of faith in spiritual things, owing to the great strides we have made in material things and scientific development; and doubtless, also from the natural rebound from a too strict observance of the day enforced by our Puritan forefathers, But the uses of the day are so evident and so essential that we should be most careful to preserve it. We can do so by avoiding all entertainment, travelling, amusements or occupations, which necessitate labor on the part of others, no matter how innocent they may be in themselves, and by scrupulously attending at least one service in God's House, the Holy Communion if possible, unless absolutely prevented by sickness or some other imperative duty which could be performed at no other time, as something which we owe to ourselves and to the world, For there are few ways in which a man can exert a greater influence for good, or obtain more benefit for himself, than by a regular attendance at the Lord's House, upon the Lord's Day. Every Christian should regard the regular and proper observance of Sunday as most essential to the physical and spiritual welfare of himself and of the community, and so do all he can to promote it.

PARISH NOTES.

NEW VESTRYMAN.—At the regular meeting of the Vestry, held Nov. 7, Mr. Edward F. Pugh was duly elected a member of the Vestry, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Francis S. Keese. Mr. Pugh is a member of S. Mary's Parish, Wayne, but he lives in the city the greater part of the year, and has been attending The Ascension, more or less regularly for a number of years. As he is a lawyer by profession, a member of the Trustees of the Diocese, and of its Committee on Trusts, Etc., his knowledge of law, especially church law, will be of use to the parish.

RECTOR'S WARDEN.—The Rector has appointed Dr. Thomas R. Neilson, as Senior Warden, in Mr. Keese's place. Dr. Neilson is now the senior member of the Vesty in continuous service, and is eminently fitted for the position.

ADDITIONAL LEGACY from Mr. Keese. In addition to the legacy of $3000, Mr. Keese left to the parish, we learn that he made a further provision in his will of $2000, to be kept invested by his executors, the interest to be applied in keeping in order, his burial lot in Woodlands Cemetery, and what is left over the amount required for that purpose, to be paid to this church. As the sum required to keep a burial lot in order is small, this means that practically his legacy to the parish was $5000. And we are happy to say that the $3000, he bequeathed directly to the church, has already been paid to the accounting warden.

SPECIAL PREACHERS for December. First Sunday evening, The Rev. Joseph Manuel, Rector of St. Luke's Church, Kensington; Second Sunday, The Rev. Francis A. Launt, D. D., Rector of St. David's Church, Manayunk; Third Sunday, The Rev. John E. Hill, Rector of All Saint's Church; Fourth Sunday, The Rev. George Gunnell, the Rector of St. Andrew's Church; Fifth Sunday, The Rev. F. H. Argo, Rector of the Church of the Holy Nativity, Rockledge. The Rt. Rev., the Bishop of Harrisburg, is also expected to preach on the morning of December 22d.

ELECTRIC BUSSES ON BROAD ST.—We are much pleased that the route of these vehicles has been extended to Wharton Street. This will at last enable persons to come directly to the door of our church, and to leave it in the same way, going either north or south, instead, as formerly having to walk a block on South street, going and coming. The distance was not only a disadvantage, especially in bad weather, but South Street is a disagreeable street to walk in. We are confident too, that the Busses on Broad Street will lead to the improvement of the street, as it will be more seen and appreciated than it has been, and they will make living on the street more convenient. They will also call attention to the church, many persons thus passing it, who otherwise might not have known of its existence.

YEAR BOOK FOR 1906-7—The new year book of the Parish, was ready for distribution on the First Sunday in Advent. Those who have not received a copy, will find them in the rack in the inside of the church near the door. They give an account of the work of the church for the past year, explain how it is conducted, etc. We hope all will take and read them.

NOTICES OF SERVICES.—The Rector has had 1000 cards printed giving a list of our services, together with a cordial invitation to attend them, for distribution in our neighborhood. The Reverend Curate and members of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, have each taken certain blocks, and endeavored to put one in each house, and in the case of boarding and apartment houses, in each room, in the hope of calling the attention of those who otherwise might not know of it, to our church and its free welcome to all.

THE BIRTHDAY ENVELOPES, which were distributed last month for the purpose of helping to make up our deficit, were returned and solemnly presented on the Altar on Thanksgiving Day. There were 202 in all and the sum they contained was $90.53. Many more were given out which have not been yet returned. Will not all in the Parish make this thank-offering of one penny a year for all the years they have lived?

THE FAIR will take place December 12th and 13th, from 2 to 10 P. M., each day. Many of our members are making some very pretty things for it, and we trust every one in the parish will come and bring their friends to buy their Christmas presents there.

CHRISTMAS.—There will be Celebrations of the Holy Communion on Christmas Day, at 6.30, 7.30, 8.30 and 11.30 A. M., with Morning Prayer and Sermon at 10.30 A. M. The music at this service will be "Te Deum", Smart, in F. Anthem, "Behold, I Bring You Good Tiding," by Sir John Goss. Mass; Parker in E.

As usual, we ask for special offerings on Christmas Day. Last year, they amounted to $550. We trust it may be at least the same this year, as it is only by large offerings at the Festivals, that we can make up for the small collections at other times. Those especially who do not use envelopes, must remember how irregular their offerings are from Sunday to Sunday. Some really contribute to the church only at Christmas and Easter, so their gifts then, should be kept large enough to cover the whole year. The ladies in charge of the Mother's Meeting, would be glad to receive donations of money or provisions, to give each member a Christmas dinner.

ST. JOHN'S SENIOR GUILD.

This Guild seems to have acquired new life this Autumn. At the last meeting, Mr. James Atkinson, was elected manager and Mr. William E. Linton, captain of this winter's basket ball team. A committee was appointed to prepare for a sociable later in the season, consisting of Miss Maria Gilpin, Messrs Strong, Tait, and Martz.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL CHRISTMAS ENTERTAINMENT.

The Christmas Entertainment for the Sunday-School, will be held on the Eve of Holy Innocents, Friday, December 27th, at 8 P. M. A committee will prepare it, consisting of Mr. Botwright, Miss Louisa Hodge and Mrs. Harris.

ST. AGNES GUILD ENTERTAINMENT.

This Guild of little girls gave their Annual Entertainment on the evening of Monday, November 18th. The rain poured down all the day and evening, but notwithstanding this about 200 persons were present. Everyone seemed to have a pleasant time, and nothing occurred to mar the evening, save the storm.

We are indebted to Wilbur & Co., for the refreshments, consisting of chocolate and cakes. Antrim's Entertainment Bureau kindly provided us with programmes.

CHRISTIAN WORSHIP

The word "worship" comes from the word "worth". It is the acknowledgment or ascription of worth. It is applied as a title of honor to one who is worthy of it, as "his worship, the Magistrate." So it is used to express the reverence and honor man should ascribe to God. None is of greater worth than God, and so just as if a man possessed a work of art which was very beautiful and valuable, he would constantly look at it, and dwell on its value, so should every one, appreciating the worthiness of God, ascribe honor and glory to Him, consciously and constantly dwell on His attributes, and so render Him worship. We should do it because He is worthy of it, it is His due, and because by dwelling upon that which is so good and beautiful we will ourselves be elevated and blessed. That which a man thinks about and studies about will affect his character. So if a man thinks about God and communes with God, it will make him like God. It is a duty and privilege therefore for any one to worship God. It should be performed regularly and in the way which will be most effective.

What then is the best way in which we can worship God? And how does Christian worship differ essentially from any other worship of God?

The great advantage which the Christian has over everyone else is that he knows God as He has been revealed in the person of Christ. "He that hath seen Me," saith our Lord, "hath seen the Father." To appreciate the worthiness of God, then we must dwell upon the character and life of Christ. Nothing else can so make us realize the worthiness of God. So will our minds and hearts be filled with the sense of reverence and admiration and love and thankfulness. And nothing else can so move us with desire and resolution and effort to become like Him, worthy of His goodness to us.

That therefore which brings Christ most vividly before us will be the best means to enable us to worship. What is that? Some say sermons That is, that preaching about Christ will enable men to realize best what He was And they are very useful if they are good sermons. But it is only a few persons who can preach really good and effective sermons; and the listening to a sermon is after all a purely intellectual process, all persons are not capable of it. And it does not necessarily make the hearer perform any act of worship. So it is with a service composed only of prayers and hymns and reading of the Scriptures. That also is an intellectual process, which men are only more or less capable of appreciating.

But there is another and a better way by which Christians can worship and which Christ especially provided for that end. In the night before He was crucified, the most solemn moment of His life, He took the elements of bread and wine and blessed them and gave them to His disciples, saying "this is my Body, this is my Blood, do this in remembrance of me" That is what that act would recall to them, present to them, make them realize more than any mere words could what He was, and what He did for man. It would teach what He was by a sign, by an object lesson which all the simplest and most unlearned could understand, and be more capable than aught else of bowing their souls in lowest reverence and appreciation of what He was, of what God is.

So this has always been the great act of worship in the Christian Church. The Apostles and early Christians met daily to perform it, and throughout all the Catholic church, through all the ages of Christian history, it has been constantly celebrated as the very best way by which men can ascribe honor and glory to God and learn to appreciate what He is and be affected by it.

It is only among some Protestant bodies in comparatively late years that this service has been relegated into a subordinate position, only casually used, and the preaching of sermons or a service of mere praise or prayer substituted as the chief and ordinary mode of worship. The consequence of which has been that men have come to think that going to church is a matter of small importance. If they can hear a very fine preacher, they will go; if not, they will stay at home and read a sermon or—the newspaper. But none can worship God in the Sacrament of the Altar save in Church, and none can worship Him so well as in and by that sacrament. And as there is nothing which is so right and natural and our bounden duty that we should do as to give worship to God, or which will so affect and bless ourselves if it is rightly and effectively performed, so none should neglect the use of that sacrament. The church has always taught that every Sunday and Holy day at the least should be hallowed by its celebration, and every Christian should avail himself of the opportunity to take part in it. This is the teaching of our Prayer Book. There ought to be a celebration at least as often as that in every church. And those who take part in it will find that it is the most effective way in which they can discharge the natural and most elevating act of the worship of Almighty God.

PARISH NOTES.

CHRISTMAS was a most beautiful day and our Church looked most attractive. The music was excellent, the choir rendered an entirely new Communion Service and Te Deum. The number of Communions made at the early services was in excess of last year. The offertory amounted to $425 against about $550 last year.

The Rev. Curate was presented with a new cassock by the members of his instruction class, the gift was a complete surprise to him. It is of beautiful fine material and he is deeply grateful for the kind feeling which prompted it as well as for the very useful gift. The choir master was also presented with a handsome baton by the men of the choir. He in return presented each of the boys with a pocket knife.

Donations of money and materials were made sufficient to furnish nineteen dinners, consisting of a fowl, vegetables, cranberries and fruit for needy persons in the parish.

The children's festival took place on Holy Innocent's eve. The children met in the Church and sang their Christmas Carols and were addressed by the Rector Curate, and the Assistant Superintendent. Afterward in the Parish building they had a treat of ice cream, candies and oranges; an exhibition of a Victor talking machine together with some recitals. Mr. Myers, a member of our choir kindly impersonated Santa Claus and distributed a gift to each scholar.

ST. AGNES' GUILD PARTY--On December 21, the Guild had a party to which each was allowed to invite a friend. The evening was spent in singing, reciting their office, and instruction and then a number of games. Three prizes were awarded for winning in these games. After this, refreshments were served, consisting of ice cream, cake, candy and fruit. Seven adults and thirty-four children were present.

Before leaving an engraving in a gilt frame was presented to each of the four Superiors. It added to the reality of these gifts to know that every child in the Guild contributed to their purchase.

THE FAIR held last month passed off very successfully. A large number of useful and fancy articles were made and sent to the Church together with cakes and candy. We wish we could acknowledge each article separately but must content ourselves with this general expression of gratitude to all who contributed to it in any way. The large room on the upper floor of the Parish building was handsomely decorated. The tables were persided over by different ladies of the congregation, and there was a special table for the Girl's Friendly Society. The Guild room on the first floor was fitted up as a tea room, where light refreshments were dispensed, the two other rooms were used for cooking.

The total proceeds, including the amount earned by the Girl's Friendly table were something over $300. This together with the receipts from the birthday envelopes makes about $400 received toward cancelling the deficit we have of $1000, in our current expense account, from last year.

SPECIAL PREACHERS for January, First Sunday evening, the Rev. A. L. Atkin, Priest in charge of St. George's Church Kensington. Second Sunday, the Rev. Edwin S. Carson of St. Paul's Church. Third Sunday, the Rev. W. P. Remington, Vicar of the Chapel of the Holy Communion. Fourth Sunday, the Rev. Walter C. Pugh, Curate of St. James' Church. On the morning of the Second Sunday, the Rector will exchange with Rev. L. C. Washburn, D. D., the new Rector of Christ Church.

MUSICAL.—It is hoped that a musical entertainment will be given towards the end of the month, in the Parish building for the benefit of the Church deficit and the choir fund.

ENVELOPES for a new quarter will be sent out the end of this month and we particularly ask all who are not yet using them to begin now. Forms of subscription can be found inside the main door of the Church and anyone taking one and sending it to the Warden will receive a set of envelopes in return. If all would do this and pay regularly what in another Church they would have to pay as pew rent, we would have sufficient income to meet our expenses.

OUR SYMPATHY is extended to our very efficient worker, Mrs. John Mason on the great affliction which has come to her in the sudden death of her husband on Thanksgiving Day. Mr. Mason was not a member of the Parish, but he frequently attended services here, and his funeral took place from the Church on December 2d. It was attended by a large number of his old associates.

CHRISTMAS RITUAL.

[The following Verses, by Canon Bright, contain a devout explanation of the Ritual of Holy Church. Strange to say, there are those who keep on insinuating that we use Ritual and Ceremonial merely for the sake of form.]

When to Thy beloved on Patmos,
Through the open door of Heaven,
Visions of the perfect Worship,
Saviour, by Thy love were given,
Surely THERE were truth and spirit,
Surely there a pattern shown,
How Thy Church should do Her Service
When She came before Thy Throne.

O, the censer-bearing Elders,
Crowned with gold and robed in white!
O, the Living Creatures' Anthem,
Never resting day or night!
And the thousand choirs of angels,
With their voices like the sea,
Singing praise to God the Father,
And, O Victim Lamb, to Thee.

Lord, bring home the glorious lesson
To their hearts who strangely deem
That an unmajestic Worship
Doth Thy Majesty beseem;
Show them more of Thy Dear Presence!
Let them—let them learn to know
That our King is throned among us,
And His Church, is Heaven below.

Then shall faith read off the meaning
Of each stately-ordered Rite;
Dull surprise and hard resistance,
Turn to awe and full delight,
Men shall learn how sacred splendor
Shadows forth the pomp above;
How the glory of our Altars,
Is the homage of our love.

'Tis for THEE we bid the frontal
Its embroidered wealth unfold;
'Tis for THEE we deck the reredos
With the colors and the gold;
Thine the floral glow and fragrance,
THINE the vestures' fair array,
THINE the starry lights that glitter;
Where THOU 'dost Thy Light display.

'Tis to THEE the chant is lifted;
'Tis to THEE our heads are bowed;
Far less deep was Israel's rapture,
When the glory filled the cloud!
O, our own true God incarnate,
What shall Christian Ritual be,
But a voice to utter somewhat
Of our joy and pride in THEE?

What but this? Yet since corruption
Mars too oft our holiest things,
In the form preserves the spirit,
Give the worship angel wings;
Till we gain Thine own high temple,
Where no tainting breath can come,
And whate'er is good and beauteous,
Finds with Thee a perfect home.

OUR FINANCES

(Let Everyone Read This)

It is necssary for us to say a very serious word to our people in regard to our finances. The church has lost recently by death and removal, several of our largest contributors, and the difference caused thereby in our receipts is so great as to necessitate something being done to supply the deficiency. We have still enough people, and of sufficient means, to keep the church up at its present standard, if they would contribute for the purpose as we think they should. But it requires that they should be conscientious and systematic in doing so. We have a great many people connected with the church who do not use envelopes. We have only about 175 persons who do use them. The others contribute doubtless when they are in church, but their attendance is irregular, through the greater part of the year some of them are away altogether, and consequently the amount they give is small and uncertain, and we have not a positive income on which we can rely. Surely it must be possible for everyone to decide how much they can afford to give annually towards the support of the church, and to give it regularly. In a pew-rented church, they would be compelled to do it; why can they not do it of their own accord in a free church when they know how necessary it must be for every church to have a definite income? A free church does not mean one in which there is no need of contributing to its support, but simply one in which people are not so selfish as to demand a reserved seat as the equivalent for what they give, and in which the people are not graded in the church according to the amount they can give, but where all have equal rights and each gives according to his ability, the rich taking pleasure in supporting the church for the benefit of those who cannot do it for themselves. But we cannot compel people to give in this way; we can only call upon them to do it voluntarily.

Moreover in a pew rented church, if the rents are not sufficient to meet the expenses of the church, the Vestry raises the pew-rents, and they have to be paid. This has recently been done by several of our wealthiest city churches and we heard of one country church where it was done with no objection on the part of the people. In a free church like ours, no such compulsion can be used: all we can do is to set before our people the necessity and ask them to increase their regular offerings to the extent necessary. Accordingly, at the last meeting of the Vestry it was suggested that all our people be requested to increase their contributions Twenty Per Cent. That is, those who have been giving $1.00 a week to pay $1.20; those $.50 to give $ 60; those $.25 to give $.30; and so on, above and below these amounts. There are a few persons taking envelopes, who recently of their own accord, even doubled the amount they had been paying. Will not all others give this twenty per cent. increase? It cannot be enforced as it could if the pews were rented. We can only appeal to each contributor to do it, and we trust the appeal will not be in vain.

Another thing we want to speak about is, the contributions for purposes outside the support of the church. In the first place, the parish is taxed for certain Diocesan purposes; one is the fund for the support of the Bishops and the expenses of the Convention; for this we must give this year, $169.30. Another is for Diocesan Missions, for which we are expected to contribute $100, and for the fund for helping to sustain weaker churches, $30.28. Now in a church where there are pew rents, there are always extra collections for these purposes. But we have no collections except for the support of the church, and so these sums have been taken, year after year, out of our regular offerings, and this has largely helped to create the deficits we we have had at the end of each year. We have had special envelopes sent out once a year for Diocesan Missions, but the amount received through them has seldom been more than half what we are required to pay, and the rest has been taken from the general offerings. This year the Vestry has directed that another envelope should be distributed for the Episcopal and Convention fund, with the statement on it, how much the parish is required to pay to it. And we trust the amount will be in this way contributed sufficient to meet this sum, and that through the envelopes for Diocesan Missions the sum of $130.28 will be received. These envelopes can be put on the plate at any service during the present quarter. We trust our calling the attention of our people to these matters in this way will be sufficient. It is exceedingly disagreeable to the Rector to have to be constantly talking about money from the chancel, and some persons complain when he does so. But they must remember that the reason he is compelled to do it, is because their contributions are not sufficient to meet even the exceedingly moderate expenses of the church. If each attendant would give as largely as he or she might and should, no word on the subject need ever be spoken.

In not charging any pew-rents we are certainly working on the highest principle, and trying to increase the efficiency of the church in reaching all conditions of people, making them feel that God's House is their home, where they have a place and a welcome. Will not our people gladly and generously contribute towards carrying out this principle, and not allow the church to lack the means to do its work? If each member of the congregation will do what he or she could, we shall have enough.

PARISH NOTES

CONFIRMATION will be administered in this church on the evening of Friday, April 3d, and the clergy affectionately call on all the adults of the parish who have not yet been confirmed to present themselves at that time.

Instructions preparatory to it will be given by the Rector on Sundays at 4 p m in the parish Building, beginning February 9th, and by the Curate every Wednesday, after the evening service.

SPECIAL PREACHERS for February The first Sunday evening, the Rev. John E. Ewell, of St. Stephen's Church; the second Sunday, the Rev. R. K. Yerkes, Rector of the Church of St. John the Evangelist; third Sunday, The Rev. C. C. Silvester, of St. James' Church; the fourth Sunday, the Rev. Waldemar Jansen, Jr., Minister in charge of St Bartholomew's Church. On the morning of February 9th, the Rev. Edward M. Jefferys, Rector of St. Peter's Church, will preach one of the course of sermons under the auspices of the Christian Social Union, our Rector preaching in St. Peter's Church, the same day on the same subject.

NEW VESTRYMAN. At a special meeting of the Vestry held Jan. 2d, the resignation of Geo. B Warden having been presented, owing to his removal to Germantown, Dr. Geo. Morrison Coates was elected in his place. Dr. Coates has been attending the church for a couple of years and was lately transferred to the parish from S. David's Church, Radnor.

A MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENT is to be given in the parish building on the evening of Feb. 6th. The talent has been procured by the choir-master, and is all volunteer. The proceeds will be divided between the fund, we are trying to raise to meet our deficit, and the choir fund for new hymnals, etc.

SUNDAY SCHOOL. The superintendent reports twenty-seven new scholars during the past month. This is an unusual increase for us. The attendance is larger than last year.

MISSIONARY COLLECTIONS. The members of the Missionary Chapter of the Woman's Auxiliary are making the collections for the present year; Miss Ashbridge collects in the district south of Pine Street, Mrs. C. J. String in that north of Pine and east of Broad, Miss Hare in that west of Broad St., and Mrs. Hare in West Philadelphia. All contributions given to these ladies are brought into the meetings held in the parish building, on the first Friday of each month, and given to the representatives of the different departments of Missions for which they are donated, to hand in at the meeting of the auxiliary at the Church House. We wish more of our ladies would attend these meetings and interest themselves in this great cause of extending and strengthening the church.

ST. AGNES DAY. The guild of little girls kept their Feast Day earnestly. At 7.45 a.m., thirty-two were present at a Celebration of the Holy Communion This included every member save two who were sick and one kept away by work.

At 4.30 p.m. they gathered again for play; at 5.30 p.m., a Guild Supper was served, and then after some more fun, we all enjoyed an evening at Keith's.

ST. JOHN'S, JR. GUILD. On Jan. 20th, the Guild's good friend, Miss. M. J. Gilpin, invited them to Keith's, and twenty-four accepted the invitation. A joyous evening was spent.

ST. JOHN'S, SR , GUILD. The meetings of their society have been far better attended this season than last. The Guild is looking forward to a "Sociable".

TO THE UNCONFIRMED.

You have been Baptized into Christ's Death, opportunity is now at hand to be into it confirmed, strengthened, established. Can you refuse ?

There are some in our Congregation whose life is one of practical Religion and devoted Churchmanship, with these two sad exceptions—they hold back from preforming the Duties of Confirmation and Holy Communion.

Brethren, by these neglects you deprive yourselves of the Blessings attached to the performance of duty, of the Grace conveyed by these particular channels, and, it may be, your refusal causes others to stand aloof. Can you still refuse to be Blessed and to become a Blessing ?

The following Catechism on Confirmation is suggestive of the whole subject. Study it carefully, constantly and prayerfully.

INSTRUCTIONS ON CONFIRMATION.

What is the meaning of the word "Confirm ?"

To strengthen, ratify, certify.

What is Confirmation ?

First :—It is the solemn opportunity presented by the Church, for all Baptized persons to publicly, in their own name, ratify that which their Sponsors promised for them at their Baptism.

Secondly :—The persons so ratifying their Baptismal Vows are strengthened or confirmed by God the Holy Ghost, in His Sevenfold Gifts.

Thirdly :—The Bishop, by laying his hands on the persons, confirms them in, and certifies them of, God's favor and gracious goodness towards them.

How is Confirmation administered ?

1. Confirmation is performed by Prayer and "Laying on of Hands."

2. On those who have been Baptized.

3. The "Laying on of Hands," must be by the Bishop.

What is the Scriptural authority for Confirmation, and that the Laying on of Hands must be by the Bishop ?

First :—Read the ACTS of the Holy Apostles, Chapter viii, Verses 5-17. When the people at Samnaia believed in the Lord Jesus Christ Whom St. Philip preached they were Baptized by St. Philip (vs. 5-12) This being known to the Apostles at Jerusalem, they sent St. Peter and St. John to Samaria, who performed in connection with those Baptized persons, another ceremony, which consisted of "Prayer," and "Laying on of Hands," and to which our Confirmation corresponds, thus :

1. It is for those who believe and are Baptized as at Samaria.

2. It is administered by the Bishops, who are to us what the Apostles were at Samaria.

3. It consists of "Prayer," and "Laying on of Hands," as at Samaria.

Second. Read the Acts of the Holy Apostles, Chapter xix. 1-7. The same arguments apply to this passage as to the previous.

Third. Hebrews vi. 1-2. The "Laying on of Hands," in verse 2, must be those in Confirmation, or it could not be a "foundation"—applying to every one. There is no opportunity except Confirmation for Laying Hands on all persons. Coming immediately after "Baptism" in this Chapter, and compared with the facts of the two passages in the Acts of the Holy Apostles it is evident that the "Laying on of Hands," mentioned here, refers to what we call "Confirmation or the Laying on of Hands."

What instances in the New Testament have we of Confirmation ?

Acts viii. 5-17. Gentiles by the Jewish Apostle St. Peter.

Acts xix. 1-7. Jews by the Gentiles Apostle St. Paul.

Name the qualifications for persons to be confirmed ?

Physical : To have come to years of discretion.

Mental: To know the Catechism.

Ecclesiastical: To be Baptized.

Personal: To be desirous of being Confirmed.

Spiritual and Moral: Repent of Sin, Believe in God, Obey his Commandments.

Why is Confirmation a duty for all to obey ?

1. It is an Apostolic Practice we ought to continue.

It is an Ecclesiastical Ordiance to which we should conform.

3. We should personally and publicly acknowledge God. Confirmation is the opportunity to do so.

4. We should avail ourselves of every means of Grace. Confirmation is a promised means of Grace.

How is Confirmation a Blessing ?

1. The Holy Spirit is given in His Sevenfold Gifts, viz :—Wisdom, Understanding, Counsel, Ghostly Strength, Knowledge, True Godliness, Holy Fear.

2. The necessary preparation of self-examination, meditation and instruction, cannot be faithfully performed without spiritual profit.

3. The Candidate's part cannot be without God accepting the Prayers and Promise.

4. It is the preformance of duty, and duty is never discharged without God blessing those who sincerely perform it.

NON-COMMUNICATING ATTENDANCE

It is often asked whether people should remain in the church during a celebration of the Holy Communion without receiving, and the habit in some of our churches is for all who are not communicants, or not going to make a communion at that time, to leave the church before the celebration begins, or worse still—for that is an interruption of the service—during or after the prayer for Christ's Church Militant. So there are multitudes in Christian lands who never attend a celebration of the Holy Communion, and yet that is the great distinctive rite of Christian worship, which Christ instituted to be His perpetual memorial, and by which, as S. Paul says, "His death"—which was for all men—"is set forth."

In instituting this rite our Lord told us to do two things, to "do this in remembrance of Him" and to "eat" and "drink" of it. So in every celebration both these things must be done. It would not be a perfect rite, Christ's command would not be fulfilled unless it was received as well as offered. So in all liturgies it is required that the priest who celebrates shall also receive, even if he has done so at a previous celebration on the same day. For he is the one who is responsible for and must fulfil the whole command, even if no one else does so. But is it necessary that every one else in the church at each celebration should communicate? To answer this question we must consider the nature of the rite and what has been the general use among Christians.

The rite, as we have said, embodies two actions; one is the "doing" of it in remembrance of Christ, that is for the purpose of recalling to our minds and making us realize most vividly what God did for us in sending His only begotten Son into the world to suffer death upon the cross for man's salvation and to remind God, as it were, of that fact, and plead with Him by that manifestation and pledge He has given us of His love, to have mercy upon us and forgive our sins and hear our prayers. The second and totally different action is to "receive" the consecrated elements, and thus feed on the Body and Blood of Christ and gain the spiritual strengthing and refreshment which that action gives. Now it is manifest that in the first of these actions all men, whether they are professedly religious people or not, or whether one has made the proper preparation he should for the reception of the Holy Communion, have an interest and can be benefitted. It cannot but be an advantage for any one at any time to think about and have recalled to him the death of Christ and the benefits we receive thereby, and that action must be the best time and means by which one can plead with God for himself and for others. Why then should any one leave the church, even though he be not a communicant or prepared to make a communion at that time, when this blessed service Christ instituted to keep men in remembrance of Him and what He did for them and is the pledge of His readiness to hear their prayers is celebrated? Why should this great object lesson, which is perhaps the most effective way by which the central truth of the Gospel can be preached, be limited to comparatively only a few who already profess to have accepted Christ's teaching? And it cannot but be a comfort and help to the communicant to take part in the "doing" of the service, even if unprepared at the time to communicate? Would it not be a limiting of Christ's intention in instituting the sacrament to restrict presence at its celebration only to those who receive it?

What has been the use of the church in regard to this? At the first institution undoubtedly all obeyed their Master's command and ate and drank of it, and for a while when the faith was fresh, and to be a Christian meant to be liable to be put to death at any moment, Christians may generally have received at each celebration. But as time went on, and men were converted to the faith, it was found necessary to train and teach them before they could be received to the full privileges of membership. And as Christians relapsed and fell into sin from time to time it was found necessary to discipline them and deprive them of those privileges for a while. Thus we find in the early church different classes, those who were not permitted to be in the church at all during the celebration of the Christian mysteries, because they would not anderstand them and might mock at them, those who were allowed to stay during a portion of the service and then they were dismissed, those who were permitted to remain during the whole service but not receive, and finally the faithful who were both present and received.

Then from the rule of fasting communion which was early adopted in the church it became the habit to have celebrations early in the morning for those desiring to communicate, and to make the principal service in the middle of the day, chiefly one for worship, which all were encouraged to attend. And this has been the practice of the Greek and Latin churches for centuries, and is largely the use in our own branch of the church.

There are classes among us whom it would not be desirable to have present at any celebration, because they either do not believe in the Christian religion or do not understand, or are utterly inappreciative of, its teachings. There are others who might be greatly benefited by being present though they are not fitted to be communicants. Children even should be encouraged to attend it though they are not yet sufficiently instructed and prepared to receive it. Then there is the class of full communicants to whom it will always be a pleasure and a profit to attend even though they do not make a communion each time from not being sufficiently prepared or from having done so already the same day. Then there are occasions such as the consecration of churches, meetings of conventions, ordinations, etc., large numbers of persons being present, when the rite can be used as a means of invoking God's blessing on the proceedings, when it would unduly lengthen the service and make that a weariness which should be a great pleasure, if they were made times for the general communion of all present.

We conclude, therefore, that it is both right and wise for Christians constantly to assist at celebrations of the Holy Communion without communicating, provided always that they are not content with only doing that, as great a privilege as it is, but also frequently and regularly at other times fulfilling the rest of the Divine Command and receive as well the blessed sacrament of the Body and Blood of Christ that they gain all the benefits of which they can be partakers thereby.

LENT

The solemn season comes to us again with its call to special acts and exercises or devotion to remind us of the necessity of attention to spiritual things and using those instrumentalities which can develop and strengthen our spiritual life.

We have so many services in the parish all through the year that we do not need any extra ones during Lent except in Holy Week. But we trust our people will make more use of those we have. The boys of the choir will sing as usual at the daily 5 P. M. prayers during Lent and there will be a lecture after prayers on Fridays.

Let each one in the parish try to keep Lent (1) by fasting in some way, (2) making some special self-denials or sacrifices, (3) attending, if possible, one at least of these services which are had daily in this church, (4) engaging in some definite work for others, (5) reading some devotional book.

If Lent is kept in this way it will be a blessing and a pleasure to all who do so.

PARISH NOTES

SPECIAL PREACHERS FOR MARCH.—First Sunday evening the Rev. Charles H. Arndt, Rector of Christ Church, Germantown; on second Sunday the Rev. Arthnr Rogers, Rector of Holy Trinity Church. West Chester; the third Sunday the Rev. Wm. H. Graff, Vicar of the Church of the Holy Comforter; the fourth Sunday the Rev. H. K. B. Ogle, Vicar of the Chapel of the Prince of Peace; the fifth Sunday the Rev. James H. Lamb, Rector of old St. David's Church, Radnor.

SPECIAL SERMONS.—The Rector will preach during Lent, on Sunday mornings, a special course of sermons on the subject of "Siu"—on the first Sunday on "the fact of Sin," the second Sunday on "the origin of evil and original Sin," the third Sunday "the different kinds of Sin," fourth Sunday "the atonement for Sin," fifth Sunday "forgiveness of Sins."

He has made engagements to preach outside the parish during Lent in the Chapel of the Divinity School, S. Andrew's Church, Wilmington, Del.; the Chapel of S. Simon the Cyrenian, S. David's, Manayunk; S. John the Baptist, S. Michael's and Christ's Church, Germantown; the Chapel of the Prince of Peace, S. Chrysostom's, S. Thomas', Holy Trinity Church, West Chester; S. Albans, Olney; Trinity and S. Philip's Church. He will also preach daily for a week in S. Paul's Church, Camden, at the noon-day service.

The Curate will preach in S. Thomas', S. Luke's, Newtown; and at Oaks Pa., and also take the three-hours' service on Good Friday in S. Mary's Church, West Philadelphia.

ADDITIONAL AND SPECIAL OFFERINGS.—In response to an appeal last month to those using envelopes to increase what they had been giving 20 per cent., in order to give us an income sufficient to meet our expenses, seven have done so to that extent, one of them forty, and one of them 50 per cent., in addition to which a new subscription of $100 for the year, one for $60 and three for $2.60 a year each have been received. But we have lost since the first of the year by death one who gave $100 a year and by removal two who gave each $13 a year.

We mention these things that our people may be kept informed of the encouragements and discouragements with which we meet. Special envelopes have been returned so far for the Episcopal and Convention Fund containing $11.30 towards the $169.30 we are taxed, and $13.55 have been received for Diocesan Missions for which we have to give $130

CHARITABLE SEWING.—During Lent the members of the Ladies' Aid will, as usual, work for a charitable purpose. This year they will make garments for the poor children connected with the Holy Cross Mission in Tennessee, or any who may prefer to do so can work for the poor in our own parish. The Aid meets on Wednesdays from 3 to 5 P. M. and will be glad if any of the ladies attending the church will meet with them, and they will be thankful for any donations af money or material for their work.

THE MOTHERS' MEETING on Wednesday evenings has been carried on so far this winter by one lady of the parish, one or two others occasionally helping her in cutting out. Garments have been given out regularly to some eighteen persons to be made up, for which they are paid. We consider this the best way of helping those who are out of work or who have large families and are in straitened circumstances. But this requires money, and the special fund raised by an entertainment some time ago has been long since exhausted. The Rector or lady in charge will be glad to receive donations for the purpose.

We are glad to acknowledge the receipt of a number of articles of clothing to be given away, and we would remind the members of the congregation that we can use anything of this sort, even to old shoes, they may have to dispose of.

THE MUSICALE given in the Parish Building last month was a very creditable entertainment. A fair audience was present, and our hearty thanks are due to all who contributed their services on the occasion. Several of the singers were frequently encored.

The total receipts after paying all expenses were $45.00, of which $20.00 were given to the church deficit and $25.00 used for the purchase of new hymnals and service books for the choir.

THE SOCIABLE given by S. John's Guild on the evening of Thursday, February 2, passed off pleasantly for those who were there. But for some unexplained cause many who were expected did not appear. Provision having been made for sixty persons, only about twenty-five were present.

A MUSICAL SERVICE

The Roman Catholic, Greek and Episcopal Churches are the only Christian bodies in this country that ever have full musical services—that is, the whole service, not only the hymns and anthems, but the Psalms, canticles, versicles, responses, the Scriptural lessons and prayers all sung, the minister singing his part as well as the people theirs. And persons who have been accustomed to the ordinary Protestant style of worship do not like it. It seems to them forced and unnatural to sing the prayers and scriptures.

But what is music, and why do we use it in the worship of God at all? Is it not the highest, most artistic and effective form of human utterance? And as we ought to offer to God always the best we have, and make His worship as solemn and solemnizing as we can, so it is natural to employ in it this highest and most perfect form of speech. Is it not more becoming to address the Most High God with measured accents and melodious inflexion rather than with the familiar colloquial tones by which we hold intercourse with our fellowmen? We believe this has been the general instinct of men. We believe all men of all religions, with the exception of our modern Quakers, have used music to some extent in their worship of Almighty God. Certainly the Jews did, both in their temple and synagogue worship. They never read the Scriptures; they are pointed all through with marks of cantilation, and if you go into a Jewish synagogue to-day you will hear the scriptures sung, not read, and the prayers as well. Surely the Psalms should be sung It seems very strange to say "O come let us sing unto the Lord," "O sing unto the Lord with thanksgiving," "O praise the Lord upon the harp, sing unto the harp," etc. Singing brings out the meaning of the words, throws a pathos and power into them no mere reading can. And this is as true of prayers as it is of Psalms or hymns. Many of the words of these are prayers, and if we can sing prayers under the form of hymns, why should we not sing them by themselves. But you say the prayers are often drawled when they are sung. Well, so are the hymns. And you say there are only a few clergymen who can intone the service well. But how few are there who read it well. And every clergyman reading the same words constantly is apt to fall into a sing-song of his own which is neither musical nor pleasant. Is it not better that he should be kept from doing so by having a regular musical intonation to follow? And does it not make the service more complete and the different parts in keeping with each other to have the clergyman sing his part as well as the choir and congregation theirs, instead of the clergyman saying his part and the choir and congregation answering him in music, as is done in so many churches nowadays?

Certainly historically we find that music was used very early in the Christian Church, just as it had been among the Jewish and other peoples of antiquity, as the method by which the worship of God should be rendered. And just as the Christian religion called into being the most beautiful architecture the world has ever seen in the erection of its churches, and its truths presented artists with the most splendid subjects for painting and sculpture, and no works of pencil or chisel can rival the works so created, so her services have afforded inspiration for the exercise of the highest musical genius, and the masses, anthems, services and oratorios thus produced are not equalled by any other human compositions.

It was a most fortunate thing that in the Reformation in England, instead of throwing aside, as the Puritans did, music, as well as art and beauty in the worship of God, the Church of England preserved the old formularies and the old mode of worship. And the service in the cathedral and great churches has never ceased to be musically rendered. Expensive choirs of boys and men have always been maintained in the English cathedrals, singing the daily prayers morning and evening as well as the Sunday and Holy Day services. In this country for a long time there was very little musical ability or the money to maintain such choirs. The first surpliced boy choir was introduced in this country in Trinity Church, New York City, in October, 1860. Since then the spread of boy choirs and musical services has been very rapid, and there are now multitudes of them all over the United States. And we believe that eventually singing the service will be the mode universally adopted for the rendering at least of the chief services on Sundays and feast days.

Of course it is well for the sake of brevity and simplicity to have other services which are only read.

In this parish, in addition to the daily morning and evening prayers which are always read, we have the early communion on Sundays and week days and the morning prayer and litany on Sundays read. So those who prefer that kind of service can always have it, and those who are helped and inspired by, and feel that they are offering to God a worthier worship by a musical service, can attend the Sunday mid-day eucharist and the evensong on Sundays, which are always fully choral. And the more those services are attended the more we believe they will come to be preferred to any other.

PARISH NOTES

HOLY WEEK AND EASTER.—As usual we provide a large number of services in the church during this holy tide, and we trust our people will not fail to make use of them. There is no season in the Christian year so devotional and instructive and calculated to draw out, and appeal to, all that is best in human nature. We hope that even those who may not keep the whole of Lent as strictly as they should will regard the solemnity of this deepest penitential season. There is abundant cause in each individual life, and the world at large to excite penitence and cause us to turn to the life and example of our blessed Lord, especially as exemplified in the scenes connected with the crucifixion, and it is only as we do so that we can find help for ourselves or have hope for the eventual redemption of the world.

There will be celebrations of the Holy Communion each day during Holy Week at 7 a m , morning prayer and a second celebration each day at 10 a. m., except on Good Friday, evening prayer at 5 p. m., and a sermon on the Passion each night at 8 p. m. On Good Friday there will be a service for the children at 9 a. m., morning prayer and the litany at 11 a. m., followed by the singing of the Reproaches and the preaching of the Cross from 12 to 3 p. m. This is interspersed with the singing of hymns. Persons not able to stay throughout the whole of this service can leave or enter the church while the hymns are being sung. The addresses during the three hours this year will be given by the Rector.

On Easter day there will be celebrations of the Holy Communion at 6.50, 7.30, 8.30 and 11.30 a. m., the Rector celebrating at 7.30 and 11.30 and the Curate at 6.30 and 8.30 a. m.

There will be the usual procession of palms on Palm Sunday before the 11.30 celebration.

The children's Easter service in the church at 3.30 p. m.

There can be no excuse for any one in the parish not being able to attend at least one of the services daily during Holy Week, or for not making his Easter communion.

If our people will as fully and devoutly as they can make use of these assistances offered them in this most holy season they cannot fail to find them a means of health and strength to their spiritual life.

EASTER OFFERING.—As usual we have to depend on the Easter offering to make up the average of our receipts for current expenses for the year. We are sorry to say that our receipts up to this date are about $400 less than they were last year This is largely due to the losses we have recently had by death of two or three of our largest contributors. This makes it all the more necessary that the present attendants at the church should exert themselves to the uttermost to make up the difference. The accounting warden informs us that we need about $1,000 to meet our expenses for the year ending April 30th and have only the Easter offering to look to for this sum. Will not each person connected with or interested in this church in any way give as large an extra offering on that day as possible. Those especially who do not contribute Sunday by Sunday through the envelopes must remember how many Sundays in the year they are not at church and so do not give anything and make up for that by a large offering on Easter day.

SPECIAL OFFERINGS.—As we have announced, in addition to meeting our current expenses, this parish is required to pay before May 1st:

For the Episcopal and Convention Fund, ...	$169 30
For Diocesan Missions, . .	100 00
For the Sustentation Fund, .	30 28
	$299 58

Towards this amount we have so far received

For the Episcopal and Convention Fund, ...	$27 20
For Diocesan Missions . .	37 0
	$64 60

If each of our registered communicants would give on an average 50 cents apiece the total needed would be realized. Will not each give at once s methi g according to his ability for these purposes?

EASTER FLOWERS.—Special offerings for these may be sent to Miss Parmele, 1906 Chestnut street, treasurer of the altar fund, or placed in the alms chest in the vestibule of the church, which will be marked for the purpose during the two weeks preceding Easter. We trust the general offerings will be especially large this year, as we shall miss the gift of a lady of the congregation whom we have recently lost by death, whose annual contribution for this purpose for many years has been about one-half of the total amount given.

EASTER MUSIC.—The following music will be rendered on Easter:

Te Deum in E flat	Dudley Buck
Mass, St. Cecilia	Gounod
Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis in F	Tours
Anthem, "Christ Our Passover	Wiegand

VESTRY ELECTION.—The annual election of four vestrymen to serve in the place of those whose term expires on that date will be held in the church on Easter Monday. The polls will be opened from the conclusion of divine service at 10 o'clock until 1 p. m. The accounting warden and Mr. M. S. Roberts will act as tellers. All who have been registered as communicant members of the church and appear by the warden's books to have contributed towards its support during the past year are entitled to vote.

SPECIAL PREACHERS FOR APRIL.—Passion Sunday evening the Rev. T. E. Owen's, Curate of the Church of the Evangelists, Palm Sunday the Rev. F. M. Burch, of the City Missions; Easter Sunday the Rev. S. F. Hotchkiss, Rector of S. Luke's, Bustleton; Low Sunday the Rev. W. H. Graff, Vicar of the Church of the Holy Comforter.

ENTERTAINMENTS.—A play called "School" will be given at the Bellevue-Stratford on Thursday evening, April 30th, in order to meet the deficit in the current expense account. Tickets($1.50) may be had by writing to Miss Louisa B. Hodge, 334 S. 13th Street. Checks to be drawn to the order of Beatrice Howell, treasurer.

It is earnestly hoped that all the parishioners will do their best to sell tickets and interest their friends in this entertainment, as a very strenuous effort is being made by the committee to make it a success. The following ladies, compose the committee:

Mrs. Webster King Wetherill,
Miss Martha O. Pepper,
Miss Mildred A. Hodge,
Miss Louisa B. Hodge,
Miss Armitage Struthers,
Miss Helen S. Sylvester,
Miss Beatrice Howell, treasurer.

The young men and boys of the parish will give a minstrel show for the benefit of the summer camping fund of the choir, in the parish building, Friday, May 8, 1908.

GIRLS' FRIENDLY SOCIETY.—The monthly service will be held on the first Tuesday evening of this month, instead of the second, as that occurs in Holy Week.

SOCIALISM

There are no questions more considered nowadays, or which are more important, or more difficult to solve, than social questions. We mean by that questions of the relationship and interests of different classes in the community, the rich and the poor, employer and employee, and of the different races which are crowding into this country. In spite of the freedom we enjoy here, and the constitution which we supposed secured equal rights to all, we find in our midst the same inequalities and injustices, the same misery and vice, the same tyrannies and cruelties as have been seen elsewhere. And this is causing unrest, trades and interests banding together to resist others, monopolies crushing out opposition, strikes and lockouts, violence and rebellion.

And all sorts of answers are being given to these questions. We have Nihilists, Anarchists, Communists, Socialists, Collectivists, those advocating a more paternal government and co-operation, sharing of profits, etc. Parties are being formed and the very foundations of our government are being threatened. Now among these different answers, what is that of our religion, if it has one? Surely Christ came not simply to save some individuals, but to redeem the world. The kingdom of heaven He proclaimed as being near and for whose coming He bade us daily pray, was nothing less than the actual doing of God's will on earth as it is done in heaven. The commission He gave to His disciples was to go into all the world and baptize every creature. No constituency could be larger than that. And His church is the most perfect democracy on earth. Every one in it stands on an absolute equality with every one else, and with the same rights and privileges. The conception which our faith teaches in regard to human relationships is that of a body composed of many members, each of which is necessary to the whole, and derives its life and strength from the general body, so that all should feel an interest in, and dependence upon, one another. No one can stand in this world utterly alone; he requires the aid of his fellow man and should give him his aid in return.

And this idea of an universal brotherhood in which each should have not only the same rights, but regard and act towards all others as brethren, has been carried out by Christians as it never has been elsewhere. In the early church we are told that all the believers "were together and had all things common and sold their possessions and goods and parted them to all men as every man had need." And in the great religious houses and communities thousands of men and women have lived together all their lives in absolute communism, no one having any property of his own, all provided for from the common store to which each contributes his or her share. And if all men were righteous and regarded and treated others as brothers, such communism might be universal. And it never can be brought about in any other way. No drastic methods, no force or governmental control can ever make men act so towards each other. They must act so on principle, their affections must be won, their characters moulded. And nothing but religion can do that. So we say to the Socialists your ideal is right; there should be absolute commnnity in everything, but it never can be realized until you make men good, otherwise they will take advantage of it and the same injustices and inequalities be seen as under any other system.

As Christians we ought to realize that socialism is the ideal state, but that it never can be realized except on religious principles, and so do all we can to make men Christians and apply Christian principles to all our dealings in our daily life, to our business and all our relationships with our fellow men. Let us try to have the same interest in and feeling for one another as the members of a body should, realizing that each has something he can contribute to the common good, and that if there is any suffering or weakness, or need or discontent in one member "all the members suffer with it, or one member be honored, all the members rejoice with it" So "there should be no schism in the body, but the members should have the same care one for another."

That, and that only, is true socialism. Let us try to make the world realize that the Christian religion thus presents the only true and sufficient solvent for all human wants and human woes.

PARISH NOTES

EASTER.—We had a very successful Holy Week and Easter. There was a very good attendance during the three hours service on Good Friday and at most of the services during that week. On Palm Sunday and Easter day the attendance was very large, and the number of communions made at the various celebrations was satisfactory. We were particularly gratified by the number of young men and boys who made their Communions.

The choir rendered the S. Cecilia Mass excellently. We heard only universal commendations of it.

The Easter offerings amounted to some $650, which is up to the average of other years. This is very gratifying, considering the losses of generous contributors we have sustained during the past year. Still it is not sufficient to meet all our expenses for the year.

There has been a decided falling off in the offerings made Sunday by Sunday. This is what we want to have built up, that the parish may have a regular stated income on which it can rely. Will not every one connected with the church who does not already contribnte each week undertake to do so for a definite amount?

SPECIAL OFFERINGS.—Total amount received for Diocesan Mission, $48.35; for Episcopal Convention Fund, $33.95; amount required for these purposes, $299.30; deficit, which had to be taken out of the Easter offering, $217.00. It is the failure of our people to give to these charitable purposes that is largely responsible for the annual deficits we have.

GIFTS AND MEMORIALS.—S. Agnes' Guild of little girls presented the church with a pair of glass cruets for the altar to take the place of one which had been broken. It has also provided the altar breads for the year at a cost of $12. An order has been given for another clerestory story window in the nave of the church. And we understand the widow of one of our vestrymen, recently deceased, intends putting up a bronze tablet in the church to his memory.

VESTRY ELECTION.—At the annual election held on Easter Money for four vestrymen to serve for the ensuing three years, the following were duly elected:

Thomas R. Neilson, M. D.,
William C. Lloyd,
Millard F. Roberts,
Charles L. Borie, Jr.

Of these Mr. Borie is the only new member of the vestry. He served several years ago as one of our choir men, when Mr. Neilson was choirmaster. He has since been living out of town until this winter, when he returned to the city and parish and has been very regular in his attendance. We welcome him back and are glad to see him placed on our vestry.

At a subsequent meeting of the vestry Messrs. Neilson and Lloyd were reappointed as Wardens, and Messrs. Neilson, Newbold and Newnam were elected as delegates to the Diocesan Convention.

THE ENTERTAINMENT given in the Bellevue-Stratford for the benefit of the church on the evening of April 30th was very successful. The members and friends of the parish were very generous in taking tickets. The total receipts after paying for all expenses were about $800. This together with the proceeds of the birthday envelopes and the Christmas sale we held, completely makes up the deficit of $1000 we had been carrying for some years. We are very glad to have it paid. And our warmest thanks are due to the ladies of the congregation, especially the younger ones, who have worked very hard in getting up this play, and we congratulate them very much on its success.

ASCENSION DAY.—Our parish festival comes very late this year, not until May 28th, but we trust the attendance will be good notwithstanding. We shall have a festival service at 10.30 a. m. and a full choral evensong with anniversary sermon by the Rector in the evening. We trust all in the parish will be interested enough in their parish home to attend, The annual guild service will be held on the evening of the following Sunday and our annual Parish Tea on Monday evening, June 1st.

ENDOWMENT FUND.—As last year, in accordance with the direction of the vestry, all the offerings on Ascension Day will be for the Endowment Fund of the parish. It is very important that this fund should be increased in order to provide a sure support for this Free Church and provide against the fluctuations caused by the death or removal of its members. The fund has been increased this year by a portion of the legacy of Mr. Keese, so that it now amounts to some $13,000. But it ought to be many times that sum, in order to give the church a sufficient income. We trust our people who are able to do so will not fail to remember it in making their wills.

ENVELOPES are sent out the beginning of this quarter to all our subscribers for six months in advance, because so many would be out of reach at the beginning of the next quarter, August 1st, and also in hope that all who can do so will fill up their envelopes before they go away for the summer and turn them in that the church may have an income to meet its expenses during those months when so many are out of town.

The benevolent envelopes for these two quarters are for the poor and the support of the Sunday and Industrial Schools.

There is also an envelope for the Endowment Fund to be returned on Ascension Day or thereafter.

REPORT OF THE CHURCH PERIODICAL CLUB to April 1, 1908. Six members of the parish sent magazines and papers regularly. The number of magazines sent regularly was 684; number of books given, 8; received in subscriptions, $1.25; sent to the treasurer of the Pennsylvania Branch, $1.

Will anyone who has sent during the winter any magazines or reading matter of any kind to homes or hospitals be kind enough to send a postcard telling the number of same as near as possible, so that they can be included in the report of the Parish Branch of the Church Periodical Club to the librarian, Miss S. E. Gilpin, 904 Clinton Street, before June 1st, and she will be very glad to have the names of any who will be willing to send the same during the summer, either personally or to the church for distribution.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL PARTY.—The Easter entertainment consisted this year of a "Party" on Monday, April 20th, at 8, p. m. The children played games until 8.45, when refreshments were served. Of course full justice was done, and at 9.30 p. m. the children departed, tired and happy, for their homes.

TEACHERS' PARTY.—At the close of the children's merriment Mr. Botwright invited the teachers to a "party" which he had provided for them. Eighteen gathered around the table and a sumptuous repast was spread. Everything passed off pleasantly, and at the close of some after-dinner remarks were made.

SPECIAL PREACHERS FOR MAY.—First Sunday evening, the Rev. J. R. L. Nisbett, vicar of Christ Church Chapel; second Sunday, the Rev. Charles S. Lyons, rector of S. Albans, Roxborough; third Sunday, the Rev. F. B. Keeble, vicar of S. Timothy's Chapel; fourth Sunday, the Rev. R. E. Brestelle, rector of S. Paul's Church, Camden; the fifth Sunday, the Rev. Charles H. Hutchinson, rector of S. Clement's Church.

THE PARISH YEAR

In making his usual comments on the history of the parish in his anniversary sermon on the evening of Ascension day the Rector made note of the following points:

First, in regard to the spiritual statistics, the number of baptisms, 27, was ten less than the previous year; number confirmed, 27, was 3 more; number added to communicant list, 43, was one more; number lost by death and removal 7 less, but still greater than the number gained, being 52 in all. The deaths were those of George S. Phipps, one of the servers of the church, drowned during the choir outing; Francis S. Keese, for twenty-six years a vestryman and for six years the senior warden, a devoted friend and large contributor to the support of the parish; Miss Virginia Seckel, long a member and worker in the church as far as her health permitted; Mrs. Mary Ann Hutchinson, for many years a member of the parish; Mrs. Isabel Simpson, admitted to communion on her death bed; Mrs. Linda Wright, brought up in the Sunday School and member of St. Mary's Guild; Mrs. Ida A. Johnson, long an attendant and liberal supporter of the parish; Miss Hannah Cooper, nearly a centenarian, admitted to communion shortly before her death; Miss Matilda Ball, for many years an invalid. To all of these we trust the church has been a blessing. Some of them have been great benefactors to the church, and we pray that they may rest in peace in the state into which they have passed and that their good works may follow them

The Sunday School attendance was about the same as last year, and the Industrial School has been nearly a third larger, owing to the interest and fidelity of the superintendent and teachers. The Mothers' Meeting suffered a loss in the removal of Miss Thompson, who had so long carried it on, but her place has been supplied by one of our younger members, who has kept it up most efficiently, almost entirely unaided. It is a very wise means of extending aid to and benefiting some of the more needy members of the parish. The other departments of church work have been kept up to about their usual standard, though each year it seems to be more difficult to induce people to engage in benevolent undertakings in the parish. It is due doubtless to there being so many increasing calls upon one's time and interest in other directions.

The young people's guilds have been well sustained, especially the Girls' Friendly Society and St. Agnes' Guild for little girls. A faithful two or three still represent the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, but they find it hard to get any to join them in doing real Brotherhood work.

The financial statistics for the year show that the total receipts for all purposes, leaving out of consideration the legacy received and the special men's thank offering of the year before, are just one hundred less, which is gratifying, in view of the loss by death of of liberal contributors we have sustained. But the amount received for current expenses was four hundred dollars less, which was due chiefly to that fact. This shows the necessity of each one in the parish doing all he can by additional contributions to make up for that loss.

The church received a great improvement in the handsome rood screen received from S. Mark's Church and erected last autumn. It has also been greatly benefited by the legacy of five thousand dollars left to it by Mr. Keese. A portion of this by the terms of his will must be kept as an endowment, and the vestry would like very much to add the whole of it to that fund if they could prudently do so, as it is very much to be desired that this fund should be increased sufficiently to protect the church from all dangers arising from changes in the neighborhood or loss of individual members.

In noting the various conditions of the church during the year the Rector is most concerned with the falling off in the attendance at the Sunday night service. Formerly we had two Evensongs on Sundays, one at 4 p. m. and another at night, with seldom much less than an hundred people at each. Now we often fail to have half that number at one service. This is doubtless largely due to the change in the neighborhood, but still many of our own people never go to church but once on a Sunday, and some do not even do that. If those who find, or think they find, it impossible to go to church in the morning would go at night, we should have a good congregation. Will not our people try to do this for the sake of their church, as well as for their own benefit? Let them ask themselves candidly whether they are spending their Sunday evenings as profitably as they would if they went to church.

Let all our people resolve to do better in this respect.

PARISH NOTES

ASCENSION DAY came so late this year that it naturally affected the attendance at the various services connected with our Dedication Festival. Still we had a fair number present at the two celebrations. The preacher at the morning service was the Rev. Charles E. Betticher, lately minister in charge of St. Paul's Church, in Rome, Italy. The attendance at the evening service and anniversary did not show the interest in the parish that the occasion should call forth. The girls' guilds made a good turnout at the guild service on Sunday night, when the Rev. C. S. Hutchinson, Rector of St. Clement's Church, was the preacher.

The offering for the Endowment Fund during the day was $33.19. We trust that other offerings for the purpose will come in from time to time in the special envelope so marked, sent out this month.

The Parish Tea was well attended as usual. Some of the members of the Girls' Friendly Society gave a little play under the direction of Miss Nellie Wharton, which added much to the entertainment.

SUMMER SERVICES.—There will be no changes during the summer until September, when the Curate has his vacation and the daily celebration will be discontinued; except that the Sunday School and children's service will be intermitted from Trinity Sunday to the first Sunday in October. Also the daily 5 p. m. prayers are omitted until October.

SPECIAL PREACHERS DURING JUNE.—First Sunday evening, the Rev. Geo. W. Lincoln, Rector of St. John the Baptist Church, Germantown; second Sunday; the Rev. T. H. Yardley, Curate of St. Peter's Church; third Sunday, the Rev. Wm. R. Scott, Rector of Christ Church, Media, Pa.; fourth Sunday, the Rector.

ST. AGNES' GUILD.—The first picnic of the season was enjoyed by this guild on Saturday, May 23. The party consisted of 21 children and 7 adults. The camping ground was Belmont Avenue, and the hours from 2 to 7.30 p. m. seemed too short for games, lunch, etc.

At 8 p. m. we were joined by two others and ice cream and cake served to refresh 30 tired and happy people. We did not omit to say our Office, and then we separated to meet again at the late celebration of the Blessed Sacrament on the next day, at which we all promised to thank the dear Lord for the pleasure and success of our picnic.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL EXCURSION.—We shall close the regular sessions of the school on Trinity Sunday, June 14th. At that time we shall distribute 18 first prizes, 14 second prizes and 11 third prizes for faithful attendance during the winter.

It is also hoped that we shall have an excursion to Burlington Island Park some time near that date. The doubt regarding the excursion is due to the uncertainty whether the money needed can be provided. If we are to compete on anything like possible terms with the various schools around us, we must offer the children sometimes a secular attraction like this, or else lose children to those schools where so much which money can buy is lavished upon them.

ST. JOHN'S JUNIOR GUILD.—On May 4th their kind guild-mother, Miss Maria Gilpin, took 16 boys to Keith's. A good time was spent and the wonderful deeds of acrobats and jugglers filled the young ones with wonder. The guild has closed its meetings for the summer, it being rather warm in gas-lighted rooms for energetic gymnastics.

RECEIPTS OF THE ENTERTAINMENT.—Total amount of proceeds after paying all expenses, $853.00. Of this $800 was given on vote of the committee who had the matter in charge to the church to make up its deficit, and the remainder was divided between the summer outing fund and the Mothers' Meeting. Again we thank the ladies for their work and interest in the matter.

THE MINSTREL ENTERTAINMENT given by the choir on Friday, May 8th, was very much enjoyed by those present. The boys gave the circle with a great deal of spirit, after which the audience was entertained with music and sketches. Owing to the expense of the entertainment the receipts were insufficient to take the choir boys on their outing, so they would be pleased to receive donations from those interested in giving the boys their annual treat.

ST. AGNES' GUILD.—Recently three new members have joined this guild, with four more about to do so. The attendance has been about fifty per cent. greater than last year. The attendance at the late celebration of the Blessed Sacrament every Sunday has averaged about 25 members.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL CAROL SERVICE.—On the afternoon of Easter Day the school sang their Easter carols. About 125 were present. Most of the mite boxes were returned, the contents amounting to $24.82. On April 26th $5.30 additional was brought in. A pot of flowers was given to each child.

GIFTS.—Framed photograph of the Rev. Morgan Dix, D. D.; notice for vestibule of the church; two small carved wooden figures; quantity of cake, etc., for the Parish Tea.

THE RELIGIOUS HISTORY OF PHILADELPHIA.

In observing "Founders' Week" those in charge of the arrangements have very properly provided for the due consideration of the effect religion has exercised on the history of this city. On Sunday, October 4th, special services are to be held in Gloria Dei and Christ Church, the two earliest church buildings, and all the clergy are called upon to speak to their respective congregations on the subject at the same time. This our Rector will do, and in addition he proposes on the four Sunday evenings of the month to consider more in detail the effect the different religious bodies have had here. On the first Sunday he will speaks of the Swedes and Quakers, on the second of the Church of England, on the third of the Presbyterians, on the fourth of the Roman Catholics and other denominations.

There is no question but that the history of this city has been largely affected by the action of these various bodies. Almost all the early settlers of America were deeply religious people. Many of them came to this country from religious motives, chiefly that they might have the opportunity of freely carrying ont their peculiar religious ideas. The Puritans who settled in New England, the Dutch in New York, the Quakers in Pennsylvania, the Roman Catholics in Maryland, and even the Churchmen in Virginia, broken down in fortune and adventurers as many of them were, nevertheless recognized the importance of religion and at once made ample provision for its exercise. These men largely stamped their characteristics on the various parts of the country where they settled. Philadelphia was long in fact what we still call it—the Quaker City. The sterling qualities manifested by that sect and many of its peculiar ideas have had widely manifest effect here.

Of course the Quakers were quickly followed by the representatives of other bodies, Swedes and Churchmen, Presbyterians, Roman Catholics and others, and these have all had a large share in moulding the character and influencing the condition of things.

The result is seen in the multiplicity and power of our religious and charitable organizations. We believe that there are considerably more church buildings in proportion to the population in this city than there are in New York, and we doubt if there is any city in America which has a greater number of religious and benevolent institutions and societies. Nearly all of the larger denominations maintain hospitals of their own. Many have large and costly educational establishments, and the asylums and associations of benevolence provide for almost all classes of human need.

But with all these religious influences we cannot disguise from ourselves the fact that Philadelphia is not an ideal religious city. The condition of things has largely changed since its first settlers came here to establish a city of "Brotherly love." Multitudes of other people have poured in who have come from no religious motive, but only to seek their fortunes and find a liberty, or license, they could not enjoy in the other country, men of all sorts of religious belief and of none And many whose lives were controlled by the religious establishments in the countries from which they came, finding nothing similar here, have broken away from all religion and suffered accordingly. Then we have grown rich, all classes have prospered, and the inevitable enervating and seductive influences exerted thereby have been manifested. Our mode of government has put innumerable political offices within the reach of all, together with political power and interests which have afforded opportunities for emolument and graft contrary to the principles of religion. Then the advance made in modern appliances for comfort and convenience, travel and amusement have all tended to draw the attention of people away from religion and weaken its influences upon them.

Hence it has come to pass that we have among us as much vice and crime and irreligion and intemperence and poverty and wretchedness as can be found in any of the cities of the old world.

So while noting and being thankful for the influences exerted by religion in the past history of our city, we should mark as well the condition of things as we find them now. Christian men and women of all bodies should seriously and earnestly consider how they can meet and counteract those influences which are so strongly working against all religion and threatening such harm to the general character of our people.

The immense size to which the city has grown and the number and variety of differing nationalities, and races even, that we have now in our midst, makes it a very difficult problem how to control and assimilate so many and such various people.

But we believe the Church of God will be found in the future as it has been in the past the most powerful and efficient instrument for repressing what is evil and bringing out what is best for guiding and governing our people, making them prosperous and blest.

PARISH NOTES

SUMMER SERVICES.—We are much pleased to record that the summer Sunday night service this year exceeded in attendance that of any previous year since the church has been built. During July and August the church was in charge of the Rev. Curate of the parish, and by advertising the subjects of his sermons and sending notices of them to individual members of the congregation he succeeded in raising the attendance on Sunday evenings from some twenty-five persons to about two hundred and fifty. We congratulate him on his success. We trust the interest will keep up. Every effort will be made during the winter to make this service attractive and profitable.

NEW STAINED-GLASS WINDOW.—Another painted window has been placed in the cloistery of the church by one of our parishioners, Miss Hettie C. Dickerson, as a memorial to his parents. It is the figure of St. Philip, and completes the second group of these windows on the east side of the nave and is a great addition.

Designs for the next group of these apostles for the same side of the church have now been made and can be seen in the vestry. Are there not those in the congregation who would like to put in one or more of them? It would add very much to the appearance of the church.

We have also designs for the three large windows in the chancel which are still to be filled. We should be very glad to see one or more of those put in.

THE NEW SIDE ALTAR for early celebrations which the Rector announced on Ascension day had been promised, it is expected will be in place before Christmas; the designs have been drawn and approved by a committee of the vestry and now await execution.

REVIEWING STAND.—During Founders' Week we shall have a stand in front of the church for seeing the various parades. Seats will be rented for moderate rates, and we trust all our members will come there and bring all their friends. During the Peace Jubilee we made enough money from such a stand to pay for tiling all the aisles of the church. And we hope to make much more this time, as there are to be so many more parades.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—In June we made out a list of some twenty-six persons who were behind in their subsciptions to the NEWS, over $25 being due. And as we are considerably behind in meeting our payments we attempted to collect some of this amount by sending out bills. In return we received several notes from those who had received them claiming that the subscriptions had been paid. We always acknowledge every month the subscriptions paid during the previous month, and we particularly request every person who has paid a subscription to notice whether his or her name appears in the succeeding issue, and if not, call attention of the treasurer at once to the fact, as if it is left longer it is impossible either for the person receiving the money or the person paying it to recall the circumstance.

ENVELOPES.—We again urge every one at the beginning of another season to take and use the envelopes provided for the purpose for making contributions toward the support of the church. That is the only way in which a definite and reliable income can be obtained for the church. The special envelopes issued during the summer were for the poor of the parish and the support of the Sunday and Industrial schools. Many of these have not yet been returned. We trust they will still come in.

WINTER'S WORK.—Most of our guilds and societies resume their sessions with this month. And we trust our ladies will not forget the annual meeting of the Woman's Guild, which they are all asked to attend on SS. Simon and Jude's day, October 28th, when the reports of last year's work are read and arrangements made for the coming season. It takes place immediately after the 10 a.m. service in the church.

SUMMER OUTING.—The choir camp was held from August 10th to the 16th at Florence, N. J., and was successful in every way. The boys amused themselves playing ball, swimming and in various ways, and the time passed quickly and without any accidents. The party was accompanied by a professional cook, who was voted a great success. It is hoped that next year the time of the camp may be prolonged to ten days or two weeks.

THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL EXCURSION.—On June 13 about 75 children and adults had an excursion to Burlington Island Park. The day was beautiful and was spent in various kinds of pleasure. Tickets were given to the children for the midget railway, the merry-go-round, the razzle-dazzle, the swings,etc. The adults were given rides in rowboats, a large part of the afternoon being so spent. Refreshments were served.

The Mothers' Meeting was cordially welcomed among us, and the presence of Miss Hodge added much to their and our enjoyment.

RESUMPTION OF SCHOOL.—It will begin again its sessions at 2.45 p. m. on Sunday, Oct. 4, 1908. All the parents of the scholars should see that their children are on hand.

Telegrams will be sent to the older scholars and soldier-boy postals to the primary school.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL PARTY.—The assistant superintendent has arranged for a "party" for the school on the Friday before it opens, Oct. 2, at 8 p. m. The scholars of last year will receive an invitation, and new ones who think of attending this year will be welcome.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL TEACHERS.— All of our last year's teachers will return to school, excepting Miss Maas. We greatly regret to lose her faithful and intelligent help.

TEACHERS' MEETING was held on Sunday, October 23, to prepare for the opening of the school.

SUMMER SUNDAY AFTERNOON CLASS.—This class was not held this summer, but its place was taken by the afternoon following the Sunday night services. The average attendance after the first meeting was fifty. The Bible was read together, usually an Old Testament story, which was mystically interpreted as to the Catholic religion and sacraments and their practical operation in the daily spiritual life.

ST. AGNES' GUILD—OUTING.—We went to the Park once, Keith's twice, picnic once, and Burlington Island once.

MEETINGS.—We did not adjourn at all this summer, and not only so, but the attendance in July and August was sometimes larger than in the winter. The children are so interested that the guild will continue to meet all through September, when the Rev. Director is on his vacation, the office of devotion, the instructions and the games continuing as though he were present. The average attendance of the guild at the Holy Communion on Sundays has been ten.

WEDNESDAY NIGHT SERVICES.—They have continued through the summer with an instruction each night, and an average attendance of nineteen. At the instruction class after the service the average attendance has been seventeen, with a temperature of 90 degrees in the room at times.

THE LAMBETH CONGRESS AND CONFERENCE

We do not know how far our people have read accounts of these two notable gatherings, held during July and August in London, but our church-people ought to know something about them, for they certainly were very remarkable and must have a great influence on the future of our church.

The Congress was composed of all the Bishops of the Anglican Communion who could be present and of clerical and lay delegates from all their Dioceses or missionary Jurisdictions. These amounted to nearly a thousand in all. The meetings were held in several large halls and in St. Paul's Cathedral and were attended by thousands of people at each of the sessions. The great metropolis of England, at the height of the Parlimentary and social season, was moved by it. "The Times" and other newspapers gave long and full reports of, and made favorable comments on, its proceedings.

It was not a deliberative assembly. No resolutions were passed or votes taken. It was like an ordinary church congress, except that its delegates came from all parts of the world and it was chiefly occupied with missionary problems.

Almost all the papers read and speeches made were most interesting and instructive. The information conveyed and the enthusiasm aroused cannot fail to have a great effect in impressing the world with a sense of the extent and power of the Anglican Communion and our own people feel its importance in awakening their zeal and devotion.

The sessions were opened with a great devotional service in Westminster Abbey where the Litany was chanted in procession, and closed with a High Celebration of the Holy Communion in St. Paul's when a great thank offering amounting to over $1,500,000 for missionary purposes was made.

The Conference which followed the Congress was composed only of Bishops, nearly 250 being present. It was the fifth of such conferences which have been held at intervals of ten years, under the presidency of the Archbishop of Canterbury, in Lambeth palace, which has been the residence of the Archbishops in London for many centuries.

They held some fifteen daily conferences, discussing a great variety of subjects in regard to the welfare and extension of the church in the different parts of the world. The most important subjects were referred to committees for detailed study and treatment and after they had reported, a series of 78 resolutions were passed, which together with an encyclical letter and the reports of the committees have been made public. These resolutions deal with a great variety of subjects: The relation of the Faith to modern thought; the obtaining and training of a sufficient number of candidates for Holy Orders; the question of religious education; the dealing with various races and bringing them into the unity of the church; the revision and enrichment of the Prayer Book; the mode of celebration and administration of the Holy Communion; the healing ministries of the church; the administration of Unction which the Bishops recommend should be given when it is earnestly desired; the preservation and sanctity of marriage and its purposes; the question of re-marriage after divorce, the bishops being evenly divided on the vexed question as to whether the blessing of the church should be given in the case of the marriage of the innocent party who has been divorced from an adulterous partner; the social questions of the day in regard to bringing the influences of religion to bear on all business and economic transactions and relationships, the adjustment of wages, relieving of poverty, etc.; the question of constituting a general consultative body representing the whole Anglican Communion; the question of church unity. To further this last object it was directed that a letter be prepared, to be presented in person by two or more bishops to the great National Council of the Russian Church shortly to assemble and a committee was appointed to consider all questions in regard to establishing "inter-communion" with all the Orthodox Eastern churches and the old Catholic churches. Provision was also made for the taking part of Anglican bishops in the consecration of bishops or the ordination of priests for the Moravians. A commission was also appointed to correspond with the Archbishop of Upsala with a view to union with the Church of Sweden. And an opinon was expressed that some temporary arrangement might be made in the case of Presbyterian or other non Episcopal bodies, seeking reunion with the Catholic Church, to cover the transitory period until full Episcopal ordination can be received.

All these are matters of great importance and the expression of the opinion of so many bishops in regard to them, cannot but have great weight. Of course, there are those who will be disappointed that there has not been a more decided and definite stand taken in regard to some of them. But it is the case, just as it is in that of all large deliberative bodies, and still more when as in the question of infallibility of the church when general consent is required, there can only be a few, the great necessary points, on which there is general agreement. On all other questions, until that consent is reached, there must be liberty for individual opinion and practice.

But we advise all persons who are interested, as all should be, in the purity, preservation and extension of the Church of God, to read and consider carefully what our bishops have set forth.

PARISH NOTES

THE REVIEWING STAND during Founders' Week was erected as was intended. Some of our members worked very hard to make it a success, but its financial results were very disappointing. This was owing to the great cost involved in its erection and other necessary expenses connected with it, about $1300 in all, and to the fact that the price of seats, which we anticipated, could not be obtained. This was the case all over, many of those erecting stands actually losing money, not paying their expenses. We have not yet sold all the wood that was in the stand, but when we do so we expect our total profits will be about $300. This is much less than we expected. the stand was an exceptionally good one, the weather proved propitious throughout, there were no accidents and every thing passed off to the satisfaction of all concerned.

Our special thanks are due to Mr. M. F. Roberts, one of our vestrymen, who undertook the very arduous duty of acting as cashier, which he discharged admirably. He was ably assisted by our choirmaster, Mr. Alburger and Mr. Botwright, the verger Mr. Morgan and the young men of the Parish, who assisted him as ushers and worked very hard and faithfully to make it a success.

The results may at least save us from having to resort to any fair or entertainment this year to meet our current expenses.

THE ANNUAL MEETING of the Women's Guild of the Parish was held on SS. Simon and Jude's day. Some 20 ladies were present. The reports of the past year were read and will be printed in the Year Book which comes out the first week in Advent. Arrangements were made for sending off an annual missionary box for which collections will be made at once. Miss Parmelee reported great need for a new set of cassocks and cottas for the choir; also some new clerical surplices and altar linen. Donations for the purchase of material, linen and black serge, are earnestly asked for this purpose.

Several new teachers have promised to take classes this year in the Industrial School and there are some additional helpers in the Beneficial chapter, but volunteers will be welcome in any branch of our church work.

The Missionary and beneficial work, the Industrial School, the Embroidery Class and Ladies' Aid all recommence with this month.

CHURCH PERIODICAL CLUB.—The Secretary, Miss S. E. Gilpin, 904 Clinton street, would be glad if any persons in the parish having magazines or papers they have finished with, would send them to the church for distribution.

SPECIAL SERMONS.—The course of Sunday night Sermons during October on the religious history of Philadelphia have been fairly well attended. The The Rector hopes to arrange for a course of sermons on social subjects later on.

The night service with the music now furnished by the choir is a very attractive one and deserves to be largely attended.

ST. AGNES' GUILD.—The Guild has grown materially during the past year The number reported in the Year Book as having attended during the year is 40. Of these some have moved away and some have not as yet returned, and an actual roll now since October 1 is 25 children and 5 superiors. We know of a number who will soon be with us.

On Saturday, October 17th, at 2.30 p. m. twenty-five members of the Guild and three visitors went chestnut hunting to Chestnut Hill. We had a fine time climbing hills, romping, screaming and playing. Although the ride was three hours long going and returning, the fact that the children were not wearied was proved by their singing and fun in the car as we returned. Upon reaching the Parish Building at 7.45 p. m. we said our Office, the Spiritual Director gave a short Instruction and then we feasted on ice cream (donated by a kind friend of the Guild) and cake (much of which was also the gift of another good friend of the children)

On Thursday, November 12th, at 8 p. m., the little girls will give their annual entertainment. They have been rehearsing for a month, even the evening of the chestnut hunt at their own urgent request being partly devoted to going over some of their pieces. We shall be grateful to those who are kind enough to buy tickets (10 cents) from any of the children, especially if they will purchase before the night of the entertainment. The proceeds of their yearly affair is our only source of revenue for meeting the costs of excursions, feasts, games, etc., save their weekly dues of one cent a week.

SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS.—The classes are provided for with the same teachers as last year, excepting that Miss Walshe has been obliged to give up her class because of change of residence to a distant location. We greatly regret to lose Miss Walshe, who has been so faithful and helpful for a number of years. Her place has been taken by Miss Bessie Jennings, whom the children well know and love from the fact that she is the Superior of St Agnes' Guild.

Miss Maas, who was announced in the last issue of the NEWS as having given up her class, has consented to return and was welcomed back last Sunday.

ALBUMS AND STAMPS. — Artistic stamps have been provided for the school, together with a substantial album, The albums have been paid for by each child, the stamps and album covers being donated by the school. These stamps are little works of art, the production of "The Society of the Faith" in England, each one being a well-engraved picture appropriate to the Sunday for which it is intended.

In addition to the stamps a gold star is affixed to the stamp every Sunday the scholar has been present at a Celebration of the Blessed Sacrament on that Sunday.

SERVERS AT THE DAILY CELEBRATION.—Four little boys (Alex. Boggs, Stanley Atkinson, Willie Boggs and Thomas McClay) have undertaken to serve at the 7 a. m. Celebration during the week, one boy each day There is room for one more boy (Tuesday mornings), if any parents would love to have their little son do this work for his dear Saviour The only conditions are that he be at the church five minutes before 7 o'clock and that he come quite regularly

A MUSICALE will be given in the Parish Hall early in December and the proceeds will be used for the Choir Fund and the Mothers' Meeting.

GIRLS' FRIENDLY.—Miss Hare, who has so efficiently served as Secretary for the past year, having been obliged to resign owing to the pressure of other duties, Miss Ellen C. Wharton has been appointed in her place and will enter on her duties at once.

FASTING COMMUNION

Every one familiar with church history is aware of the antiquity and universality of the rule of fasting communion. Tertullian, writing in the second century, speaks of the Eucharist as that which is partaken of "before any other food." Timothy, Patriarch of Alexandria, in the fourth century, speaks of "a man fasting in order that he may communicate." St. Augustin, about 400 A. D., says that in "the Universal Church the sacrament is always received by persons who are fasting." The Second Council of Braga, 572 A. D., decreed that any priest who "should consecrate the oblation, not being fasting, should be deposed." The Council of Toledo, 646 A. D., forbade "any one to presume to celebrate after taking any, even the least portion, of food or drink."

Of course these were local, not general, Councils, so their decrees are not universally binding, but their action shows what was the mind and custom of the church at that time. The fast began sometimes the evening before, and always from at least midnight of the previous day. And in cases where the Eucharist was not celebrated, as was frequently the case on week days, until 9, 12, 3, and even sometimes 6 o'clock, the fast was always extended until it took place.

The object of receiving the Holy Communion fasting is first to honor it by making it the first food one receives in the day, instead of coming to it after having feasted on the material good things of life; secondly, as a discipline appropriate to the state of penitence and humility, and as a guard against hasty and unprepared reception.

In addition to this, when a communion is made early in the morning, the fresh, quiet hour at the beginning of the day, before one has had anything to disturb or distract one, is the best and most profitable for the purpose. And the effect is felt throughout the day, far better than if one comes when the day is half gone, and after a long service and when many things may have occurred to otherwise fill the mind and disquiet the spirit.

As this rule of fasting communion is not specifically laid down in Scripture, it cannot be regarded as of Divine obligation. But it is a precept of ecclesiastical law. It stands on the same basis as the observance of Sunday, of Feast days, and Lent, fasting on Fridays, etc, none of which are prescribed in Scripture. And being of such universal use and so prescribed, and of such manifest utility, it ought not to be violated without great cause. And yet there are exceptions to it which have been always recognized. When one is in great danger of death, the communion may always be administered to him, whether he is fasting or not. And the same would naturally apply to invalids or those having a long continued illness who could not bear the strain of the service except at certain hours and after receiving food or medicine. This applies as well to elderly or weak persons for whom the effort of rising early and going out to church without having eaten would be too much of a strain. If it makes them faint, or sick, or impairs their health, it would render it impossible for them to profit spiritually by the act. In such cases mercy is better than sacrifice.

This is true, too, of those clergymen who have to celebrate perhaps more than once in the day or have many services or a distance to travel. The highest and best spiritual results are those which we should always strive to gain by our acts of devotion, and any mere disciplinary rule which interferes with or impairs those results must naturally give way in that case.

It should therefore be with each one a matter of conscience whether he makes his communion fasting or not. Unless one is old, or sick, or feeble, or has so much work to do that his strength would be impaired thereby, he certainly ought to comply with this universal rule of the church, and which he will find a most profitable discipline and helpful to his spiritual life, and regard making his communion in the middle of the day as a lazy, careless and indifferent way of performing so exalted an act.

In order that the members of this parish may come in this way to the Holy Communion without prolonging their fast unduly, we have early celebrations on every Sunday and Holy day, in fact daily throughout the year—with the exception of one month. But at the same time it should be distinctly understood that any one is at liberty to make his communion at any celebration, early or late, whether he is fasting or not. It is left to every one's conscience to decide the matter for himself, that being the discipline of our branch of the church. And it is the ideal that there should be communicants in addition to the priest, even at those celebrations in the middle of the day which are chiefly intended for worship.

PARISH NOTES

Endowment Fund.—By a resolution passed at a meeting of the Vestry, held last month, the Accounting Warden was directed to place in the General Endowment Fund $1000, being part of the legacy received from the late Mr. Keese. This is the first large deposit that has been made in this fund. It is much to be desired that this fund should be greatly increased in order to give the church a sufficient and steady income. We trust our parishioners will keep it in mind that by donations and bequests from time to time it may be largely augmented. It is much to be regretted that the whole of Mr. Keese's legacy could not have been thus invested, but as the church owed him $1000 at the time of his death, so much of it went to cancel this indebtedness.

A Bequest.—We were much gratified recently to hear that a bequest of $100 had been left to the church by the late Miss Elizabeth Wilson. Though she had left the parish some time ago, she still bore an affection for it, and thus remembered it in her will. If all, who at one time or another have been connected with the church, had done the same, we might have had a good-sized endowment fund by this time.

Birthday Envelopes.—There are a good many of these left over from the stock we used a year ago for meeting our deficit in current expenses, and it has been suggested by one of our ladies that they should be used to provide the means for carrying on the Mothers' Meeting, which is a most useful and necessary part of our church work.

Some $30 was set aside for this purpose from the entertainment given by the ladies last spring. But that will not be near enough to carry on the meeting during the winter. The Rector will be very glad to furnish these envelopes to any who will take them for this object.

Christian Union Social Meetings.—The Rector has offered the church for a series of services to be conducted during this winter on Sunday evenings under the auspices of the Christian Social Union. The first address was made November 29th, by Mr. Clinton Rogers Woodruff, the President of the Union. The second on December 6th will be by the Rt. Rev. the Bishop Coadjutor of the Diocese. He will be followed in turn by the Rev. Mr. Pomeroy, who is working among the students in Princeton; the Bishop of Chicago; one or more of the Holy Cross Fathers, and other distinguished speakers whom it is hoped can be brought from a distance.

Social questions are exciting more interest than any others at the present time. The tendency towards socialism is most marked both in this country and abroad, and the aim of the Christian Social Union is to express the sympathy of the church with this movement and to try and direct it in the only way by which we believe it can ever be successful; that is, by the application of Christian principles to all our dealings with our fellow men.

The services in the church will be followed each evening by an after-meeting in the Parish building, at which a free and full discussion will be allowed of the subjects introduced.

Thanksgiving Day has come and gone and only one member of the congregation remembered the poor of our parish. No dinners were sent to those who had not the money to provide for themselves, and yet how many of us had family gatherings at our own boards laden with the general Thanksgiving turkey, cranberries and other dainties.

A supper was given to the women and children in the Parish House on Wednesday evening after service, consisting of turkey, cranberries, celery, potatoes, cake and coffee. The money for this was raised outside of the Parish.

Christmas will soon be here, with its message of glad tidings and good will to all men. Do not let us forget to send it to the poorest among us, and our own Christmas will mean something very different to us. Money or donations of food may be sent to those in charge of the Mothers' Meeting, as they know the most deserving and the most in need.

Needs of Our Boys.—Our responsibility to the young boys of our Parish is a growing one. Between the ages of fourteen and twenty we have the opportunity of molding them for future men, husbands and fathers. How are we to do this?

The church alone and its services cannot hold the boys without some attraction during the week. After their work is over and their evenings are free, what can we do for them to keep them from the street corners and the saloons, where many allurements are awaiting them. Our young men have gotten up an Athletic Club among themselves, making a rule that no boy can join who does not come to the Bible Class on Sunday. They have arranged basket ball games with other clubs, teams from other churches coming to the Ascension Parish House. But what have we for them when they come?

Our Sunday School room, which has to be the gymnasium, is very poorly equipped. What we especially need are two hair mats, some gymnasium suits, and above all a boiler put in the cellar connecting with the furnace to provide hot water for the shower. Estimates have been gotten and the lowest bid is $47 which will also give a hot water spigot for the general use of the building. At the present time no hot water can be had for any purpose in the Parish House, except by heating in a kettle on the gas stove, which of course is no use for the shower. The addition of a hot water boiler would be the greatest advantage for the general use of the Parish House.

Any one desiring to assist in providing these necessities for our boys, and thus sharing the responsibility of making their future by providing innocent pleasure and healthful recreation, may send a donation, no matter how small, to Miss Helen H. Hodge, Treasurer of this Fund, and it will be most gratefully received.

Christmas.—There will be celebrations on Christmas day at 6.30, 7.30, 8.30 and after morning prayer at 10.30 A. M., at one of which we trust every communicant member of the Parish will receive. No one can really keep Christmas unless he feels that he is in real union and sympathy with God and in peace with his fellow-men, and the Holy Communion is the means by which we are brought into that state and by which our spiritual life is strengthened and perfected. Let no one fail worthily to receive it at this holy blessed season.

The music to be rendered by the choir Christmas Day will be Te Deum, (Dudley Buck), Eb; Anthem, "O Zion that Bringeth Good Tidings," by Barnby; Mass, (Berthold Tours), in C.

The Christmas Offering.—When at this season we are giving gifts to all we love, do not let any fail to present a special gift to his dear Mother, the Church, to whom we all owe so much, and which is so necessary for the blessing and benefit of mankind. In a church of this kind, where no charge is made for seats, and its income depends upon voluntary contributions, all should be careful to make their contributions large and sufficient to meet all the church's needs.

As so many are absent from the city for six or eight months in the year, it is only by large offerings at Christmas and Easter that we can hope to make up the amount needed to carry on the church. As this year we have no outstanding debts to meet, all that is given on Christmas day will go to replace the money we had to take from our reserve fund to meet our expenses during the summer. This amount is fully $1000.

St. Agnes' Guild: Three Records Made.—This month has been a record-breaker for the Guild:

1. The largest attendance ever at a merely regular meeting. (30)

2. The largest attendance at an ordinary Sunday celebration of the Blessed Sacrament. (25)

3. More people in the Parish than ever before responded to the printed circular as to the Guild's annual entertainment. (85 so far.)

There will be a Musicale in the Parish House Monday evening, December 14th, for the benefit of the choir fund and the Mothers' Meeting.

Books for Boys, new or old, are needed for a boys' school, and will be forwarded by the Church Periodical Club if sent to the church.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

There is, we believe, no more vital question nor one deserving more consideration, especially at the present time, than that of the religious education of the young.

That youth is the time for learning is undoubted. Note the aptitude of a child in acquiring a language, and the difficulty of teaching persons in advanced life, if they have not at least acquired the fundamentals of education while they were young. This applies to religion as to everything else. Not only does a child require religion to guide and protect it from the dangers to which it is exposed as much as every one else does, but if one does not gain and have cultivated the religious instinct while still young, it will be very difficult to do so later. Hence the vital importance of children being brought up in "the nurture and admonition of the Lord," being taught the principles of the Christian faith and acquiring the habits of devotion which will keep it alive and produce its fruits.

Formerly in this country people were generally very careful as to the religious training of their children. The majority of homes were pervaded with a religious atmosphere, family prayers were said, the Bible read, Sunday strictly observed, children taken regularly to church, and brought to the enjoyment of its full privileges of membership. But for a generation or two there has been a great relaxation in these particulars. Through the growing wealth and luxury of the times, the multiplication of means of interest in merely earthly affairs and amusements, the Sunday newspaper and public libraries and athletic sports, the ease and cheapness of modern methods of locomotion, a great change in the habits of our people has taken place. Religion has been relegated to a subordinate place if not altogether ignored, the attention is so fixed on advancement in life and on amusements that many have now no time or thought for higher things. We doubt if there are many Christian homes where there are regular family prayers. Sunday is becoming rapidly secularized. Even heads of families neglect church attendance. Excursions to the country or spending the whole day in sleep and reading or playing games or visiting and entertainment takes the place of church going. Naturally under these circumstances the religious education of the young is neglected, often no effort whatever being made to secure it.

And the consequences are evident. The age is becoming more and more godless. Multitudes of men and women have grown up absolutely ignorant of the fundamental principles of the Christian religion. Having more or less education, many think out the problems of life for themselves and form their own conclusions and construct certain crude religions of their own. But how little effect they have is seen in the increasing ungodliness of our people, their worldliness, intemperance and sensuality, the corruption and peculation in our political life, the rapid and fearful increase of crime, the disregard of the marital tie and duties of parentage, the general absorption of time and interest in merely secular and material things.

Frantic efforts are made from time to time by religious bodies to stem and change this condition of things by means of revivals, and the conversion of hardened sinners. But we believe but little can be accomplished in this way. We must get at the root of the evil and give our youth an effective religious education to secure their right living in after life.

How is this to be done? Owing to our religious divisions we have had to adopt in this country the principle of the State giving only a secular education. So we have to depend solely on the family and on the church to provide this vital element of religious training of the young. We must try to make our homes more religious. Let parents show in their own daily life and conduct their appreciation of the value of religion. There can be no more effective way of teaching than by example. If parents are religious their children generally will be so too. Bring your children to baptism and "see that they be taught so soon as they shall be able to learn" what is the meaning of the Christian profession, its duties and privileges. Ground them in the Church Catechism. Cultivate in them the habits of church going and devotion. Try to give them a love for the church and religious things. Bring them early to Confirmation and Communion. Impress upon them the nobility and beauty of living for others and not only for themselves.

Do this for your own children, and that you may do something for the education of the children of those who are too ignorant or indifferent to do it for them, make the church as efficient as it can be to do this work. Let our most intelligent and cultivated men and women undertake the most charitable work of teaching in our Sunday-schools and Bible classes. Let us raise up if we can, as they have in the Roman church, orders of men and women who will give themselves wholly to the work of charitable education. And let us see if we cannot promote the efforts that are now being made to introduce at least moral education into our public schools.

If we would save our own children and their descendants from moral deterioration and our state from inevitable decay, we must attend promptly and seriously to this all-important question of the religious education of the young.

PARISH NOTES

Christmas was a beautiful day and the season was marked by many pleasant incidents in our parish. The church looked more beautiful than ever with its recent addition in the side altar, and the choir gave us an admirably rendered service, the Mass being one which had not been sung for a number of years. The number of communions was about the same as last year. The offerings amounted to $269.31 compared with $388.26 the previous year. But in that offering were one $100 and two $50 gifts which did not come in this year, so the general offering of the people was really larger. But we fear many of our attendants fail to realize that what they give through the envelopes on the plate is, or should be the equivalent of what they would pay as pew rent in another church, and, with a few exceptions, they do not give as much as they would be compelled to do there. Can they not act on principle in this matter and take pleasure in seeing that our free church, which can do so much more good than a pew-rented church can, is amply supported?

The Rector received as a Christmas gift from a member of the congregation a beautiful new cassock, of which he was much in need. The Curate received $25 in gold from the members of his instruction class to purchase a new overcoat. The choirmaster received a beautiful silk umbrella and a box of cigars, Miss Gilpin was presented with a beautiful glass bowl by the members of her Bible class, and many of the teachers and scholars in the Sunday-school exchanged gifts. The verger was presented with a ten dollar gold piece by the young men who frequent the church in recognition of his kindness to them.

A large gymnasium mat was presented to the boys by Mr. Rodman Wanamaker.

On Christmas eve a large basket containing a turkey or chicken, with vegetables, cake and fruit, was sent to 18 of the most needy families in the parish, and pies, cakes and candies to a number of others, so that each member of the meeting received a Christmas remembrance. Thirty-three dollars were contributed for the purpose by members of the parish, and some of the ladies of the congregation assisted in packing the baskets. And on the Wednesday after Christmas an entertainment consisting of music, recitations, and refreshments was given to the members of the Mothers' Meeting after the service in the church.

Sunday-school Christmas Festival.—One of the brightest and most delightful Christmas entertainments ever given for the Sunday-school took place on the evening of Innocents' day, December 28th. The school before the entertainment sang carols in the church, were addressed by the Rev. Rector and Curate and sang a brief office of devotion. The success of the entertainment was largely due to the efficient committee who arranged it—Mr. Botwright and the Misses Mildred Hodge and Maria Gilpin. The thanks of the school are cordially extended to those persons who so kindly and effectively took part, viz.; Mr. Marks with his giraffe, ably assisted by two young men of the parish; Miss Rosina Frank, Anna Delany, Anna Anderson and Bessie Frazier, who recited, together with humerous sketches by Mr. William Cathers and friends.

At the close of the entertainment Santa Claus distributed with clever fun, presents and candy to every scholar.

A musicale was given in the parish building on the evening of Monday, December 14, by several members of the choir and some friends of the choirmaster. The attendance was good and the performance very creditable. It was for the benefit of the choir fund and Mothers' Meeting. Our thanks are due to those who so kindly volunteered their services.

Our new altar was in place the day before Christmas and was used for the first time and dedicated on Holy Innocents' day at the 10 a. m. service, the Rector using at the offertory a special prayer of benediction, which had been recently licensed by the Bishop of the diocese for use on a similar occasion. By request of the donor it is to be known as "Saint Saviour's Altar." All the early celebrations, except on great festivals, and all daily services will hereafter be said there.

We feel sure all will agree that it will be not only a great convenience in drawing the people together in one place, whenever there are only a few present, instead of their being scattered all over the church; but it is a great enrichment and adornment to the church. Its position also hides the door into the parish building which heretofore when open exposed the choir-room to the view of all who were in the church. Our hearty thanks are due to the kind thought that prompted it.

The Special Christian Social Union services will be continued this month on Sunday evenings with special preachers who have made a particular study of social subjects. The object of these services is especially to prove to the working man that the church is interested in him and sympathises with him and is fitted to be the very best friend he can have.

Domestic Missions.—The congregation will notice that in the package of envelopes for the present quarter was one for this object, and that is the only method for contributing to the general missions of the church provided in this parish, except the collections made by the members of the Woman's Auxiliary. We trust all these envelopes will be put on the plate before the end of this month, with something in them even if the amount is small. Let all feel they are contributing to some extent towards the great work of establishing the church throughout our own land and carrying the Gospel throughout the world. That is the special call of the Epiphany season.

Mrs. Dallas.—The Parish has met with another loss in the death on New Year's eve of the wife of Judge Dallas, Although she had been much of an invalid for some years, so that she rarely could come to church, she never lost her interest in it, and the clergy ministered to her regularly in her home. She was not only a liberal contributor towards the support of the church, but always gave to those extra calls which are ever recurring, to missions, etc.

The daughter of the late Mr. George M. Wharton, who was not only a distinguished lawyer, but one of the most leading churchmen of his day, she inherited from him that knowledge of, and love for, the Church which she retained to the last, and has in turn transmitted to her children.

We are sure she has now entered into that rest and blessedness she so well deserved.

TRUE AND FALSE CATHOLICISM

Every one who recites the Apostles' Creed professes his faith in "the Holy Catholic Church." But some have a true idea of what that is and some a false idea. What is the true? What do the words mean? First, there is the definite article "the," which means that there is but one Church. That was Christ's intention. He never meant that His disciples should be divided. He said their unity would be the proof of their Divine guidance. If there are divisions among Christians they are wrong—some one is to blame for them.

Then Catholic means universal. That was Christ's conception of what His church should be, one universal society, extending throughout the world, embracing every being. Could there be a more splendid ideal, than that all people of all nations, languages, classes and conditions should be bound together in one universal fraternity, in which each should look upon all others as brothers, caring for and working with and helping each other as brothers should. Until the great body of Christian people comes to be so united and so act, Christ's idea of His Church will not be realized or its work on earth be done.

For this universal body Christ prescribed all that was necessary for its doctrine, discipline and worship, as He said to His Apostles that they were to teach their converts to "observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you." Of course for such a body so diffused and so diversely constituted, these things were necessarily few, but they were all that was essential. The reason of the divisions among Christians is that men want to be wiser than Christ, and to have a certainty and uniformity in matters in which He did not see best to grant it. We need more of the tolerance and liberality of Christ.

To this body so constituted and teaching only what He prescribed He promised His continual presence and guidance, "lo, I am with you always"—that is, with the whole body of His disciples—"even until the end of the world." By virtue of that promise it is impossible to believe that the whole Church will ever fall into error. Individuals or groups of individual Christians may fall into error, but not the whole body. Christ never promised infallibility to any one man or section of the church, but to the Church as a whole. So Catholicity is the test of truth. What has been held and taught by Christians always, everywhere and by all must be true by virtue of Christ's promise. Nothing which has not that authority should ever be required as essential in the teaching or practice of the Church. Only a body acting on this principle is truly Catholic.

What is false Catholicism? Manifestly the claim of a section only of the great body of Christians that it and it only, is the Catholic Church and teaches the true faith. Every Protestant body which has separated itself from other Christians and set up a new organization claiming to teach the true faith, has done this, and has manifestly no authority beyond that of the wisdom or virtue of its founder. And the Church of Rome has done precisely the same thing. It has separated itself from all Christians who will not acknowledge the claim of the Pope to universal jurisdiction. It has excommunicated the eastern church, and all outside of itself in the western church, and claims that it and it only, is the Catholic Church, the body of Christ. If the claim of the Bishop of Rome had been admitted always and everywhere, if it had real Catholic authority, of course it should be received as true. But as a matter, not of theory or denunciation but of evidence and fact, this is not so. Its claim therefore is that of a false Catholicity. Manifestly a part cannot be greater than the whole. If Catholic means universal, then that which constitutes only part of the Christian body, cannot be the Catholic Church.

If it is said that the English Church too is only a part and therefore cannot be the Catholic Church, the answer is that it does not claim to be. It acknowledges the Church of Rome and the Eastern churches as well to be parts of that church. When we say we believe in the Holy Catholic Church, we do not mean only the English branch of it to which we belong, but the whole Church which is constituted of all the baptized. The only divisions among Christians should be geographical ones, so if the Roman Catholic Church were only a national church, as the Greek or English churches, one might pass from one to another and be in communion with all. But Rome claims to be more than that. So as long as it maintains that claim this is impossible. To become a Romanist means to cease to be a Catholic and to become a Schismatic, to cut ourself off from the great body and join a section which is out of communion with the rest, and this by its own act. England never excommunicated Rome. To this day any Roman Catholic can be received at our altars. It is Rome which excommunicates and refuses to acknowledge as Christians any who will not recognize her un-Catholic claims.

To become a Roman Catholic therefore means to act on schismatic principles, to profess a false instead of a true Catholicism.

PARISH NOTES

Confirmation.—The Bishop of the Diocese has appointed the evening of Friday, March 26th, for the annual administration of Confirmation in this parish, and the clergy affectionately call upon every person who is of sufficient age to give in their names for presentation to the Bishop at that time.

The Prayer Book directs that every baptized child shall "be brought to the Bishop to be confirmed by him so soon as it can say the Creed, the Lord's Prayer and the Ten Commandments, and it is sufficiently instructed in the other parts of the Church Catechism." That is, that as soon as a child is old enough to learn and understand what are the obligations of the Christian life he should voluntarily take those obligations on himself, and be brought to receive the laying on of hands of the Bishop, which is the invocation upon, and imparting to, him of the grace of God which is necessary to enable him to keep those vows. No one escapes any responsibility by not being confirmed, because any one who knows what the Christian religion requires is bound to fulfil those requirements whether he promises to do so or not. His being Confirmed is simply the acknowlegment that he recognizes his obligations and is going to seek God's help through the Sacraments to enable him to do what he cannot do in his own strength.

And though Confirmation should be received just at that age when one is beginning to act for and govern himself, yet if for any reason one has not received it then, it should be received at the first opportunity, no matter what one's age may be. We trust therefore no one in this parish who has passed childhood and is not yet Confirmed will allow this opportunity of receiving it pass without availing himself of it. To put it off is to fail in the performance of a manifest duty, to forego a great blessing, and possibly to let slip an opportunity which may never come again.

Instructions preparatory to Confirmation will be given by the Rector on Sundays at 4 p. m. in the Parish Building, and by the Curate on Wednesdays after the Evening Service beginning with the first week in February, and every one desiring to be Confirmed is expected to attend one or both of these courses of instruction.

Unction.—There has been presented to the parish a supply of Oil, which was blessed by one of our Bishops, for use in the Anointing of the Sick. This is one of the most ancient and Scriptural rites of the Church. It is founded upon the statement in S. Mark's Gospel that the Apostles "anointed with oil many that were sick," and S. James' direction in his Epistle that "if any is sick let him call for the Presbyters of the Church and let them pray over him, anointing him with oil in the name of the Lord." The first English Prayer Book provided a special office for the administration of Unction. And though this was omitted in subsequent revisions, owing doubtless to the abuse which had grown up of using it only as a preparation for death, and not, as S. James says, for the healing of the sick and for the forgiveness of sins The Bishops at the late Lambeth Conference said that it was not to be forbidden to those desiring it, and many of our clergy administer it when requested to do so.

The Stock containing this Oil will be kept in a cupboard we have in the back of our new altar as an appropriate place for it, where it can always be in readiness for use.

Mrs. John Alexander.—In the death of Mrs. Alexander the parish has lost its oldest communicant. Her name was one of the fifty-three names the present Rector found on the list of communicants when he came to the parish in 1880 Of these only six now remain, and Mrs. Alexander's membership considerably outdated any of these. Her husband was at one time a vestryman of the church, and on his death in 1882 she erected the very beautiful window repre-the Annunciation, which is in the west aisle, to his memory. She was devotedly attached to the parish, and though for some years she has been living at a great distance from the church, she came to it as often as her health would allow.

She lived to a good age a godly Christian life, and we pray that she may now rest in peace and that light perpetual may shine upon her.

A New Piano Needed.—The choir is very much in need of a piano for use at rehearsals. The parish at present possesses two instruments, neither of of which is fit to be used, making it necessary to rent one every time an entertainment is given. If any one has a used piano they wish to donate it will be thankfully received or donations may be made toward the purchase of a new one.

The White Envelopes for this quarter are for Diocesan Missions, for the Episcopal and Convention Fund and for the Easter offering. The first two are taxes which this parish has to pay, one of $134.45 for Diocesan Missions and the Sustentation Fund for weak churches and the other for $167.76 for the support of the Bishops and the Convention expenses. And these special envelopes are provided for these purposes that their payment may not come out of the ordinary offerings, which are not in themselves sufficient to meet the current expenses of the church. Our people must bear in mind that in another church they would have to pay their pew rent and contribute to collections for these and like purposes besides. These white envelopes are to take the place of collections, and all our people are asked conscientiously to contribute through them according to their ability.

St. Agnes' Day.—Thursday, January 21st, was St. Agnes' Day and was kept by the guild of little girls as their festival. We began with a choral Celebration of the Holy Communion at 7 a. m., at which there was an attendance of 34. At 6 p. m. 29 were present at a guild supper, after which we attended a moving picture exhibition, followed by a visit to the Automat. The guild spent a happy day and return their thanks to the Rev. John Cook, celebrant at the early Celebration, and to Mrs. Harris, who played the organ at that service.

Sunday School.—We welcome as a new teacher in the Sunday School Mr. Frank B. Wallace. He has a class of boys, who already have evidently become attached to him.

Child Labor Law.—Will not our members interest themselves in and exert what influence they can to secure the passage of a child labor law by the present session of our Legislature, that they may do something to correct the terrible evils resulting from child labor in our factories and stores.

ROMAN CATHOLICISM

We tried to show last month how false is the claim of the Roman Catholic Church, how on the contrary, its position is the denial of true Catholicism. Let us consider now what are its special characteristics. The essence of Romanism is the recognition of the Pope of Rome as the absolute, supreme, universal governor of the Church, having power to rule and decide in all questions civil and ecclesiastical. This claim we know to be unfounded, because there is no evidence for it in Scripture, nor in the early church, and has never at any time been acknowledged by all Christians. It was never acknowledged by the Eastern Church, which is almost as large as the Western and was only received, and that with continual protests, in England for a short time, and for over three hundred years it has been utterly rejected by the Anglican Church and all Protestants. It was manifestly a gradual growth; the earlier Bishops of Rome made no such pretensions as the present Popes. It was due to the political position in which the Bishops of Rome found themselves, owing to the removal of the seat of the Imperial government from that city to Constantinople, leaving the Bishop the chief person there, which had so long been the capital of the civilized world. This was taken advantage of for the acquisition and extension of a purely political power. And the acknowledgment of that claim has resulted in the absolute suppression of the powers of the Episcopate and clergy and the rights of the laity, and even it is claimed of ecumenical councils, the Pope being regarded as superior to all.

It is the very audacity of this claim that is attractive to some minds. They think that here alone they can find that certainty and assurance on all matters they so crave. But what right have they to demand a certainly in all things where God has not seen fit to give it them? In how few things comparatively in the natural world have we absolute certainty and how can we expect more in the subtler spiritual sphere? And if the claim to give this certainty is not well found, what does it amount to? The claim is that the Pope is infallible. But even if that could be proved, it is notoriously not the Pope who speaks in the decrees of the Roman Church, but a body of theologians constituting what is known as the Curia, a number of Italian ecclesiastics for the most part, men utterly out of touch with the great living, throbbing body of the Christian world, and who are at this moment trying to suppress all human thought and progress and hold their followers to the scholastic ideas and definitions which became stereotyped in the Middle Ages. If any one can believe that he can hear the voice of God issuing only from such a source, of course he should become a Roman Catholic. But it is against Scripture, Catholic authority and human reason.

And if any one thinks he will find unity in the Roman Church he is very much mistaken; there are as divergent schools and parties there as elsewhere. The only unity that is found is that secured by despotism, the forceable suppression of freedom of thought or expression. The only true unity is that which comes from real agreement in thought and belief. And there has largely been that unity among Christians in regard to what is essential. It is about non-essentials chiefly that Christians differ. So there should be liberty in regard to those things. So a truly Catholic Church grants that liberty. And it is the glory and the power of our branch of the church that it does so, instead of it being, as some persons look upon it, a sign of weakness.

There are many other things connected with Roman Catholicism, such as the Cult of the Blessed Virgin and of the Saints and the Sacred Heart, the worship of images and relics, the doctrine of Transubstantiation, the withholding the cup from the laity, the doctrine of indulgences and dispensations, the enforced celibacy of the clergy and compulsory confession, etc.; these must all be received by any one becoming a member of that communion. Yet these were all gradual growths in that part of the church, none of which have Scriptural nor Catholic authority.

How any one can leave our great English branch of the Church which is governed by real Catholic principles, and join this body which denies them, we cannot understand. If some few have done so in our day, as some greater ones have done before them, we may be sure their defection will have no greater effect and do nothing to retard the progress of that great body, which we believe has the promise of the future, because beyond all other Christian bodies it is most truly Catholic.

PARISH NOTES

Confirmation will be administered in this parish by the Bishop Coadjutor of the Diocese on March 26th at 8 P. M. Preparatory instructions are now being given by the Rector on Sundays at 4 P. M. in the Parish Building and by the Curate on Wednesdays after the 8 P. M. service All persons attending the church who are not yet Confirmed are affectionately urged to avail themselves of this opportunity and to attend one or both of these courses of instruction.

Lenten Services.—The boys of the choir will sing at the daily 5 P. M. service, and there will be a short lecture after it on Fridays. The Penitential Office will be used on Wednesday evenings at 8 P. M.

There is also the daily celebration of the Holy Communion at 7 A. M., except on Thursdays, when it is at 9 A. M.

The Ladies' Aid meets on Wednesdays from 3 to 5 P. M. and will during Lent sew for a missionary box to be sent to the large Indian School at Oneida, Wisconsin, which is now in charge of the Rev. Mr. Thorn, who was formerly a Curate in this parish and who has appealed to us to help him. Donations of money or material for this work are needed.

Gifts to the Church.—A brass altar desk and two brass vases, an oriental rug and a kneeling cushion for the chancel rail of St. Saviour's altar have been presented, and an order for a set of colored cloths for this altar has been given to our embroidery class. They hope to have the white one finished in time for use at Easter.

A former member of the parish has also presented about an hundred bound volumes of most excellent books for our Parish and Sunday School libraries. These libraries are at the disposal of our members, and books can be given out after any service when the Verger is in the Parish Building.

One of our members, who is a bookbinder, has kindly bound for us another set of the copies of the NEWS extending over seven years. This is the third volume we have now, each covering seven years, which gives a full history of the parish for that period of twenty-one years in all, a very valuable thing.

Special Sermons.—The concluding sermon in the course of sermons on social subjects will be preached on Sunday evening, March 7th, by the Rev. Father Huntington, of the Order of the Holy Cross, when, we have no doubt, the church will be filled.

The Rector is preaching this Lent outside of the parish, in Christ Church Chapel, S. Martin's, Radnor; S. David's Manayunk; Christ Church and S. Michael's, Germantown; S. Philip's, West Philadelphia; S. Paul's, 15th and Porter streets, and at the Young Men's Christian Association meetings, at Broad and and Federal streets, on one Sunday afternoon.

The Curate preaches at Newtown, at S. George's, West Philadelphia, at S. Elizabeth's and at S. Mary the Virgin's in New York. He will also give the three hour sermon on Good Friday in S. Luke's Church, Germantown.

Special Collections.—All the offerings on Sunday morning, February 28th, outside of those in the regular envelopes, were for Diocesan Missions. But the total amount received for this object so far is only $42.91 and we have to contribute $100. Will not each member of the parish give through the envelopes marked "Diocesan Missions" an offering towards making up this total?

On the last Sunday in this month all the offerings outside the envelopes will be for the Episcopal and Convention Fund, towards which this church has to pay $169. We trust this will be made up at that time or by the envelopes sent out this quarter, which are so maked.

In addition to these payments the church has to make, the ladies of the Missionary Society are now making their collections for the different branches of missionary work of the church at large. What better objects for Lenten self-denial could one have than these different agencies for carrying the light of the Gospel and the ministrations of the church to those who are without them. The whole future of our country and of all countries depends upon the question whether men are Christians or not, and it is for us who have that blessed religion to see that it is carried to others.

St. John's Guild Sociable.—A goodly number of young ladies and men attended the dance given by the guild on Thursday, February 18th. Refreshments and music were provided by a friend.

The Sunday School.—The attendance this winter has been larger than for several previous years, especially of boys. We have a faithful corps of teachers and good work is being done, but some of the classes are too large and another teacher for boys is very much wanted. Will not some one volunteer for this most necessary work. Beautiful stamps prepared by the Society of the Holy Faith in England are given, and four times we have been obliged to increase our order.

Mite Boxes.—Mite boxes for Lent have been distributed, the proceeds to be given to the Rev. Father Hughson for his work among the mountain children in Tennessee.

Children's Rule of Life.—About fifty children made and signed a Rule of Life for Lent, in which they promised to punch a pin-hole on their card every time they broke any item of it, and to show their card to their teacher every Sunday and to one of their pastors at the end of Lent.

MISSIONARY MEETINGS

A missionary rally under the auspices of the Pennsylvania Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary and a committee of the Church Club will be held in Witherspoon Hall, Walnut and Juniper streets, on Tuesday evening, March 23d, at 8 o'clock.

Mr. George C. Thomas will preside, Mr. George Wharton Pepper will speak of diocesan missions. Mr. W. R. Butler, of Mauch Chunk, will speak of missions in our own country, including colored and Indian missions.

The offering will be for missions.

A quiet afternoon for the leaders of the Junior Auxiliary, followed by a service for children conducted by Father Sill, will be held in this church about the middle of Lent.

"I will pray, as for the living, for the dead, each day."

How can I cease to pray for thee. Somewhere
In God's great universe thou art to-day.
Can He not reach thee with His tender care?
Can He not hear me when for thee I pray?
What matters it to Him who hold within
The hollow of His hand all worlds, all space,
That thou art done with earthly pain and sin?
Somewhere within His ken thou hast a place.
Somewhere thou livest, and hast need of Him:
Somewhere thy soul sees higher heights to climb;
And somewhere still, there may be valleys dim
That thou must pass to reach the hills sublime
Then all the more because thou canst not hear
Poor human words of blessing, will I pray—
O true, brave heart! God bless thee! whoso'er
In His great universe thou art to-day.

JULIA DORR.

PRINCIPLES OF THE ENGLISH REFORMATION

In the XVIth Century there was a universal demand for the reformation of the Church in its head and in its members. Even the Popes felt the necessity for it and several councils were called for the purposes of effecting it. But they failed materially to do so. The consequence was that on the Continent the Protestants broke away entirely from the Church and set up in its stead a number of different Christian associations formed according to their individual ideas. But in England a real and permanent reformation of the Church was effected. The Church remained the same as it always had been in its essential principles, but it was reformed and purified from certain abuses and accretions which had grown up in the course of the centuries. All churchmen ought to clearly understand what the principles of that Reformation were.

First and foremost, it consisted in throwing off the usurped authority of the Bishop of Rome by which he had come to claim that he was the Vicar and representative of Christ on earth and the sole, absolute and universal governor of the Church, and of the State as well. How groundless this claim is we tried to show last month. Its rejection was effected in England by the Parliament forbidding any appeals being taken to the Papal Court. All causes were to be settled in England by the Ecclesiastical Courts of the realm. This carried with it, of course, rejection of the claim of the Pope to appoint to Bishoprics or Benefices, or to issue dispensations or indulgences or to exercise any authority in the English Church, it being contrary to the universal discipline of the Church that any Bishop should have authority outside his own Diocese, except such as belonged to primates and metropolitans in their respective provinces.

The second great act of reformation was the revision of the liturgy and its translation into the language "understanded of the people." This created our Book of Common Prayer, the most priceless heritage of English people. In doing this the aim was not only to make the words of the worship of the Church intelligible to those taking part in it, but its acts and ceremonies as well. Hence, these were simplified, many forms which were doubtless very beautiful and symbolical in themselves, but which had become so elaborate and complicated that only an expert could follow or understand them, were omitted, that the worship rendered might be real and intelligent, not blind, mechanical and superstitious. So too all devotions to the Blessed Virgin Mary which exalted her to a place as mediatrix between God and man equal, if not superior, to that of her Divine Son, and of undue honoring of the saints were omitted, the use of the Sacrament of the altar in a way which Christ had not commanded, reserving it for purposes of worship, carrying it about or lifting it up, were omitted. The cup was restored to the laity, and the duty of the reception, as well as of assisting at the offering of the sacrifice was emphasized, and provision made for the administration of the other sacraments in their simplicity and purity.

Together with this reform of the worship return to the earlier discipline of the Church was secured. The compulsory celibacy of the clergy and obligatory confession were done away with, though of course the clergy could still remain unmarried if they chose and any one could use confession if he felt the spiritual need of it. And the discipline of the Church was to be exercised by the parish Priests, the Bishops, and the regular Diocesan and Provincial Courts.

In regard to doctrine the distinct declaration was made by the Convocations representing the clergy that there was no intention of departing from the teachings of the universal church; only those catechisms and decrees issued solely by Papal authority were rejected. And while the thirty-nine articles were set forth as a kind of catechism to instruct the people on certain points then in dispute, only profession of faith in the Catholic Creeds was exacted as necessary to membership in the Church.

Thus no new church was set up or new discipline or worship or faith invented, but the old Church continued the same, delivered from a usurped authority and abuses consequent to it.

And these have continued the characteristics of the Church of England and her daughter churches to this day. It differs from the Roman Catholic Church in that it retains the primitive constitution of the Church in which all Bishops were equal; that it requires belief only in those truths which have been universally accepted, and that while it uses those general elements of worship which have always entered into all worship, it avoids that over elaboration and ceremonial which is apt to become purely mechanical and spectacular, though it allows a wide divergency of use so long as the essentials are preserved. And it differs from the Protestant bodies, on the other hand, in that it has preserved its continuity with the past and appeals for authority for everything it does or teaches to that of the primitive and undivided church, which saves it from the divisions and the merely human teachings and devices, the crudities and eccentricities which those bodies exhibit. The Anglican Communion—as these churches taken as a whole are called—thus stands before the world as the purest branch of the great Catholic Church of Christ, truest to the principles of its Founder. It presents the wisest, sanest, most liberal and most effective type of the Christian Church in its doctrine, discipline and worship. And on the principle of the survival of the fitest we believe it has the promise of the future, that men will come gradually on the one hand to break away from the unyielding tyranny of Rome, and on the other to abandon the suicidal divisions and negations of Protestantism and find in it the only common ground where all can meet and realize that universal brotherhood which Christ meant His Church should be, guided and energized by His Holy Spirit.

PARISH NOTES

Our Annual Confirmation took place on Friday evening, March 26th. Owing to the sickness of the Bishop-Coadjutor his place was supplied by the Bishop of of Nevada, who has been acting for the Bishop of the Diocese, who is also incapacitated by loss of his eyesight. The Bishop had another appointment for the same evening, but kindly took this also, reaching the church at nine o'clock, thus saving the class from a great disappointment. Twenty-eight in all were Confirmed, though several others had been prepared, but failed to come from one cause or another. This, however, was the largest class Confirmed in the Church for some years, which is very encouraging.

Holy Week.—The services for the last week in Lent will be as follows:

Palm Sunday as usual on Sundays, except that the procession of the clergy and choir round the church takes place just before the mid-day celebration in place of the ordinary introit.

Daily (during the rest of the week), 7 a. m., Holy Communion; 10 a. m. (except Friday), Morning Prayer and Holy Communion; 5 p. m., Evening Prayer; 8 p. m., Stations of the Cross. Addresses on two or more Stations will be made each evening, on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday by the Rector and on Wednesday, Friday and Saturday by the Curate.

Good Friday, 11 a. m., Morning Prayer and Litany, followed by the singing of the Reproaches; 12 to 3 p. m., Preaching of the Cross.

The preacher on Good Friday morning will be the Rector.

The preaching will be interspersed by singing of hymns, during which persons can enter or leave the church if they do not wish to remain during the whole three hours. Copies of the words of the Reproaches will be distributed to those present, which they are requested to leave in the church that they may serve for future use.

Easter Day.—There will be celebrations of the Holy Communions at 6.30, 7.30 and 8.30 a. m., Morning Prayer and Sermon at 10.30 a. m., and Choral Celebration at 11.30 a. m. Children's Easter service at 3.30 p. m. and Choral Service and Sermon by the Rector at 7.45 p. m.

Easter Offering.—We shall require a very large Easter offering this year. Owing chiefly to the losses we have sustained recently by the death of several persons who had been large annual contributors our receipts this year for current expenses are some $500.00 less than for the same period a year ago. This can only be made up now by every one giving at Easter as liberally as possible. The offering should be $1500.00, to enable us to meet our expenses for the year. And will not all who have not yet done so make a special offering for Diocesan Missions and for the Episcopal and Convention Fund? Unless the amount required for these purposes is made up the balance necessary for the purpose will have to come out of the Easter offering.

Contributions for Easter flowers can be placed in the alms box in the vestibule, which will be marked for that purpose, or handed to the treasurer, Miss Parmelee. As we have lately lost by death a lady who for many years contributed largely for the Easter flowers, we trust others will be moved to take her place and secure the church's being properly decorated for the Festival.

The Easter Music to be rendered by the choir will be:

Te Deum in B flat	King Hall
Mass—St. Cecilia	Gounod
Magnificat in D	Field
Anthem. "Break Forth into Joy"	Barnby

Parish Library.—We have received a further donation of some thirty volumes for this library, including a copy of the American Encyclopedia Mrs. S. A. Harris has very kindly consented to act as Librarian, and her professional skill has classified and renumbered it She will give out books any Wednesday evening, or at other times when she may be in the church.

Mr. William P. Henszey died on March 23d. He was for some time a Vestryman of this parish. He contributed largely towards paying off the debt of the church, which enabled it to be consecrated. And from time to time he has materially assisted us in other ways. For the last year or two his health was such that he only rarely attended the church, and on this account he resigned his position on the Vestry. But he still kept up his interest in it, and we shall greatly miss him. Our hearty sympathy is extended to his wife on the severence of the tie which so long bound them together.

His funeral took place from the Church of the Redeemer, Bryn Mawr, as that was near his summer home where he resided most of the year, and he was buried in the adjoining cemetery

St. Agnes' Guild.—Just before Lent, in the midst of a drenching rain, 18 of the guild spent an evening at the theatre and greatly enjoyed it, in spite of the weather. They expect to have another outing after Easter.

Flowers for St. Saviour's Altar.—St. Agnes' Guild has received peruission to supply half the flowers every day for the Daily Celebration at the St. Saviour's Altar. They feel it a great privilege to have a share in this way of helping to make their Lord's Throne beautiful.

Little Altar Caretakers.—Every day two girls of the St. Agnes' Guild assist in taking care of the altar, cruets, etc, cleansing the extinguisher, dusting, etc., after the 7 a. m. Celebration. They feel greatly honored at being allowed to do this for their Saviour.

An Entertainment.—Soon after Easter the St. Agnes Guild expect to give an entertainment, not so much to make money as to provide a pleasant evening for their friends and themselves.

Many Baptisms.—A beautiful baptismal service was held on Wednesday evening, March 24th, at 8 p. m. Twelve persons were baptised. The eight women and girls, wearing veils, together with the four male candidates, stood before the font with their witnesses surrounding them and a congregation of 68 in the pews. It rained all the afternoon, but the attendance was good. At the close of the service, 34 met for Confirmation Instruction in the Parish Building.

CHILDREN'S EUCHARISTS

By these we mean special Celebrations of the Holy Communion arranged particularly for the attendance of children or the training and encouraging of children to be present at the regular Celebrations provided for grown people. Is it wise and beneficial to do either of these things?

Among many Protestants the Holy Communion is looked upon as a very special and sacred service in which only a few most devout people are expected to take part, at which adults even who are not intending to communicate are not to be present. But any one who is at all familiar with the history of the Christian Church or the constant practice of the great historic branches of the Church knows that this has not been the way in which the Holy Communion has been generally regarded. From the book of the Acts of the Apostles we learn that the great purpose of the coming of Christians together on the Lord's day was for its celebration, and that the Apostles celebrated it even "daily." And from that time on it continued to be used in this way. It is true that for a while, when the Christians were generally surrounded by heathen, none but the faithful were allowed to attend its celebration, because others would not understand it and would misrepresent and mock at it. But when the State became generally Christian no such restrictions were maintained, except in cases of discipline. Those who had lapsed from the faith or been guilty of immoral conduct were for a time prohibited from attendance, and then only gradually on repentance readmitted to the full privileges of membership, being first permitted to be present during the celebration of the mysteries and then finally to become partakers of them. The teaching of the Roman Church is that it is a moral sin for one who has been confirmed not to attend Mass every Sunday and great feast days, and as they confirm children very young this of course applies to them. The general use therefore of the Catholic Church has been to encourage and teach children to attend and take part in this great Act of Christian worship. And why is it advisable to do this? Just because it is the greatest and most important Act of worship, that which alone combines all the elements of worship, confession, absolution, prayer, praise, instruction, adoration, communion and thanksgiving, and which is distinctively Christian, that which teaches the essential truths of our religion most fully and effectively. So it is that which children should be taught to take part in, that they may learn and have those truths most deeply impressed upon them, and find in it the grace and comfort which they need. In fact, it is especially adapted to children and child-like people, because it is an object lesson; it appeals to the eye as well as the ear. This is admittedly one of the most effective ways of teaching, and is doubtless one of the reasons why our Lord adopted the sacramental way of conveying His grace as He did the parabolic way of teaching.

If the Christian religion is true, it means that its teachings and its practices are of vital importance and necessary for all men of all ages, classes and conditions. And unless people are taught to learn and appreciate and use them when they are young it will be very difficult to do so when they are old. There is no more alarming symptom in connection with the present attitude of men in regard to religion than the widespread neglect of the sacraments and of any religious worship even on the part of so many of our people. Thousands in this so-called Christian land are born, live and die without ever being admitted even to the Christian Church or taking part in any of its rites or having their lives and characters effectively moulded by its teachings.

It is not only wise, therefore, but exceedingly necessary, that we should give our children all the religious teaching and training that we can. And we know of no means of making them come to feel and understand what that religion means and the use its offices can be to them than that of training them to take part in that greatest and most perfect and "most comfortable" act which our Lord commanded "all" His disciples to "do" as His perpetual Memorial, by which His death—in sacrifice for all human sin and the proof and pledge of His infinite love for men—should be "set forth until He come."

PARISH NOTES

Easter.—Our Easter was bright and encouraging. If we did not have the crowd we used to have, which required chairs to be put down each side of the aisles, we had what perhaps was better—a larger attendance at the early services. There were over thirty more communions made than at Easter a year ago—nearly three hundred in all—and though the offerings were not all that were asked for and needed to meet all our current expenses, they were some $200 more than last Easter, about $850 in all.

The church looked very beautiful with a number of new adornments, viz., a new brocade dossel for the rear of the main altar, a new white silk embroidered altar cloth for St. Saviour's altar, new fair lined cloths and credence covers for both altars, the choir appeared in an entirely new set of cottas, three new albs and amices, and two new surplices were also provided for the clergy. All these things were the work of our ladies and those who have assisted them in the embroidery class and the Ladies' Aid. And the Altar Chapter presented the dossel and some of the linen and other material that was used.

The decoration of the chancel was very much augmented by some large and beautiful palms which were kindly loaned for the occasion by our neighbor, Mr. T. Sully Darley, and by several donations of flowers.

There was also a donation to the church this month of some thirty-four more books for the Parish library, a china tea-set, some coffee cups, a teapot and some china ornaments.

Two new sets of numbers for the hymn boards of the church have been presented by one of our Vestrymen. They were much needed, as the old ones had been in use for over twenty years, and were much defaced and could scarcely be seen at a distance.

St Agnes' Guild presented to the church a cut-glass cruet and stopper from Caldwell & Co. The sacred monogram was engraved upon it. It is the custom of this guild to make a corporate offering to God at every Easter.

Vestry Election.—At the annual election for Vestrymen, held on Easter Monday, those whose terms expired at that date were re elected, so that the Vestry remains the same as last year. And at the meeting of the Vestry held in Easter week the same officers and delegates to convention were re-elected.

Lighting of the Church.— People have often complained that the church was not well lighted at night, and some visiting clergymen recently were much struck with its gloomy appearance. The Vestry have therefore had larger fixtures and burners substituted for those so long in use, and the effect is a great deal better, especially on occasions, as at the week-day services, when only a portion of the church is lighted up.

Improvement of the Grounds of the Church.—The portion of the church property south of the church, which is unoccupied, has long been a great eye sore. Some years ago one of the then Vestrymen had the ground put in order and sown with grass and for a time it looked quite respectable. But in time the soil then placed on it has been entirely washed away and the surface is now only stones and gravel. This has made the yard a resort for all the children in the neighborhood. Games are played here which collect a crowd of onlookers on the street, and the noise, the bad language used, the people standing on the steps of the adjacent house, balls thrown over the fence, etc., have been a great cause of annoyance both to our own people and to the neighbors. Frequent complaints have been made, and the steps taken to put a stop to the nuisance have proved ineffectual, as it would require some one to be on guard all the time to drive intruders away,

The only possible way to end this misuse of the ground and at the same time adorn the property and make it attractive would be to have the whole yard sodded and an iron fence erected on each side of the approach to the parish building. Some bushes and flower-beds might also be set out.

This would of course deprive our own children of the use of the yard as a playground, which we very much regret, as the choir boys and others are so much about the church that they should have some place of the kind for recreation.

But experience has taught us that it is impossible to reserve it for them and exclude others. And if it were kept as a playground it would still be unsightly.

But the question is how to meet the cost of improving the ground, which would be considerable. Is there any one in the congregation who would be be sufficiently interested in this matter to undertake it, as the Vestry have no funds in their hands they can use for such a purpose? If there is, we should be glad to hear from them.

Ascensiontide.—Ascension day, our special parish festival, occurs this year on May 20th, and we hope to keep it with the accompanying festivities we have usually had. The service in the middle of the day will be Morning Prayer at 10.30 a. m., followed by a choral celebration of the Holy Communion. At 8 p. m. there will be shortened choral Evensong with the anniversary sermon by the Rector, which we hope all our parisioners will be sufficiently interested in the church to attend. On the following Sunday evening will be the annual guild service, when all the parish guilds will enter the church in procession, and a special sermon will be preached to them. And on the following Monday, May 24th, will be the annual Parish Tea for our parishioners and any friends they may bring with them, the tickets of admission being twenty-five cents to defray the cost of the entertainment.

The Endowment Fund.—By standing order of the Vestry all the offerings on Ascension day are for this fund. And it is very necessary that the small fund we now have should be largely increased. When even such a wealthy church as S. James', with its large pew rental, has just been making an effort to raise its endowment to $100,000, it is certainly far more necessary that a free church situated as ours is in a poor neighborhood should have a similar means of support, and one which will secure its future, no matter what contingencies may arise. Our fund has been increased during the past year by the addition of $1,000 from the legacy left the church by the late Mr. Keese, and by the investment of $300 from another legacy and the offerings on previous Ascension days, making the total fund now about $13,000. But this is utterly insufficient for the purpose. Are there not those interested in the parish who might make a large addition to this sum either by donations at this festival or by remembering it their wills? And will not those who cannot give largely at least give something in the special envelopes which are sent out with the other envelopes for this purpose this quarter?

Special Sermons.—A special course of sermons has been preached during the Easter season on Sunday evenings alternately by the Rector and Curate on the conditions of the future life. That on the evening of Easter day by the Rector was on "the reasonableness of the Resurrection," on Low Sunday by the Curate on "the characteristics of the resurrection body," on the following Sunday by the Rector on "what the dead are doing." On the first Sunday evening of this month the Curate preached on "the recognition of friends hereafter," on the second Sunday the Rector will discuss the question "whether we may pray for the dead," and on the Sunday following the Curate will preach on "Do the Saints and Angels know what is transpiring on earth?"

St. Agnes' Guild—Eighteen members of the guild, with their superiors and two guests, spent a pleasant evening at a picture show. No portion of the audience was happier or more appreciative than our little people.

On Thursday, April 29th, the guild gave an entertainment of brief plays and recitations and music. The audience was of good size and seemed to enjoy the efforts of the children. A kind friend provided refreshments for all present, which added to the sociability of the occasion. The small amount of profit will be used for summer outings of the guild.

THE PARISH YEAR

In his sermon on the evening of Ascension day the Rector as usual reviewed the history of the parish for the past year, it being the twenty-ninth annual occasion in which he has done so, there being now only five other Rectors in the Diocese who have been longer in their cures.

After expressing his thankfulness for this long period of work in this field and for the continuance of his health and strength, he went on to read the statistics for the past year and to comment upon them. In comparing them with those of a year ago he pointed out that in almost every instance they showed an improvement, proving that the parish is not losing ground, in spite of the changes which have taken place by the death of some of its most important members and the general deterioration of the neighborhood, which has caused the removal from it of so many churches. There were five more baptized, three more confirmed, and five more added to the list of communicants, there being forty-eight additions in all. This is a good showing, though it is counterbalanced by the loss of an equal number from death, transfer and revision of the list. This last item includes those whose names have been taken off because of persons leaving the parish who cannot be traced, they not having left any address, which ought never to be the case, or because they have practically ceased to be communicants, which also ought never to be.

The communicants lost by death during the year were Mrs. Whitehouse, formerly of All Saints' parish, and later living in West Philadelphia and long an invalid; Mrs. Milliken, a member of the parish since 1880, a regular and devout attendant, especially at the early services, as long as her health permitted her; Miss Hendry, also a member from the same date, at one time most useful in the embroidery class, many of the articles she made being still in use; Miss Schock, once a teacher in the Sunday School and very popular with her class; Mrs. Dallas, a devout church woman and liberal subscriber to all the funds of the parish; Mr. Houseman, who became a communicant on his death-bed; Mrs. Alexander, the widow of a former vestryman, at the time of her death the oldest communicant of the parish, one of the few who belonged to it before the present rectorship; Mrs. Brown, an Old Country woman, rarely able to attend the church; Miss Barands, a member of and helper in the Mothers' Meeting; Mrs. Hiller, a member since 1880, keeping up her connection with the parish though living in West Philadelphia, and Mrs. Keese, the widow of our late lamented Senior Warden, who was at one time active in the work of the Mothers' Meeting. May all these members of our Parochial family find rest and light and refreshment in the new life into which they have entered.

The Sunday School has decidedly improved in numbers and in the average attendance during the year; also the younger boys and girls' guilds. The members of the Industrial School remain about the same, and we are much indebted to a number of ladies outside the parish who have assisted as teachers in this work. The Brotherhood of St. Andrew and the work among the men of the parish needs improvement. Some plans are in hand to effect this another year. The Woman's Guild has raised about the same amount of money as in the previous year and made up two valuable missionary boxes. The Embroidery Chapter has an order for a complete set of altar cloths for the side Altar, part of which has been executed.

The financial items show the total receipts, exclusive of legacies, to have been some $450 more than those of the previous year, but a large part of this year's receipts came from the proceeds of an entertainment and the reviewing stand. The offerings for current expenses were over $200 less than last year, but this is not really a bad showing considering the losses we have sustained. The offerings for purposes outside of the parish were almost exactly the same. A great improvement was made in the erection of the new side Altar, and the putting in of another clerestory window and the endowment fund has been permanently increased by the investment of $1000 of Mr. Keese's legacy. This sum ought to be largely increased in order to make the church permanently safe and to enlarge its work.

The Rector noted with pleasure the large attendance at the night services during the last summer and also of late, and expressed the hope the same will continue during the coming summer. The credit for this is due to the Reverend Curate.

On the whole, the year's review is decidedly encouraging, and greater interest on the part of each individual parishioner will ensure greater advance in the future.

PARISH NOTES

Our Parish Festival, celebrated in the week of the feast from which the parish gets its name, was kept with full as much interest as formerly. It is always hard to get out large congregations on a week day, but there were enough present on the evening of the Ascension to testify to the affection of some at least to their parish church. The turnout of the young people at the guild service was good, and the attendance at the Parish Tea certainly showed appreciation of that event. If our people were not so much scattered as they are the attendance on each of these occasions would have been better still. The members of the Girls' Friendly Society contributed a pantomime and a play to the entertainment for the parish tea, which, with a bountiful spread and an address from the Rector, followed by some dancing of the young people, filled up the evening. The Rector pleaded for greater personal interest and contributions from each member of the congregation, and particularly urged that an effort be made to interest more of the men in the church.

Summer Needs.—Funds to provide a picnic for the Sunday School, a camp for the choir boys, and various outings for some of the mothers and children who have no means of getting away from the city. Contributions for these purposes will be thankfully received. Will not those who are able to go away for a holiday extending over weeks or months do something to provide a similar relaxation for those who have no other holiday but what they get in these ways?

Summer Services.—There will be no changes during the summer until September, when the Curate has his vacation, and the Daily Celebration will be discontinued; except that the Sunday School and children's service will be intermitted from Trinity Sunday to the first Sunday in October.

Summer Sermons.—During July and August the Reverend Curate will preach a series of sermons on Sunday nights upon the subject of various kinds of re ligion, such as Mormon, Christian Science, Spiritualism, Ethical Culture, Faith Cure, etc.

It is also hoped that some orchestral instruments may be procured, in order to make the hymn singing more rich and enthusiastic. This can only be done through gifts of money with which to employ one or two or three players on wind instruments for the nine Sunday nights.

The Rev. Dr. Campbell Morgan said recently that New York is the greatest summer resort and (in July and August) the greatest missionary field in the world. In a measure this is true of Philadelphia, too; as was indicated in a small way last summer by the fact that the congregation here grew every Sunday night during the nine weeks, until it increased from about 25 at the beginning to 256 at the end.

Will you not be one of nine persons to make a contribution for this purpose? With this assistance even better, perhaps, might be done than last summer.

It will require about $40 or $50 for the nine Sundays.

St. Agnes' Guild.—This society of little girls was so in love with their meetings last summer that they did not suspend them at all; indeed the numbers present were at times greater than in the winter.

So this summer we shall continue to meet as long as the children come, and perhaps that may be all summer.

Sunday School.—The school will close its meetings on June 6th, at which time prizes will be distributed.

The sessions have been better attended this season than for several winters past. This has been the more remarkable, considering the removal from this section of a large number of its members and the gradual deterioration of the neighborhood.

This success has probably been due chiefly to the fact that the Priest-in-charge, the assistant Superintendent and six out of the fifteen teachers have never missed a session during the season; that four other teachers have missed only one or two Sundays through sickness; and that the five other teachers have been absent from four to seven times each.

St. John's, Jr., Guild.—The members of this guild held their spring sports exhibition on May 17th, under the management of their trainer, Mr. Clarence Martz. Twenty-five members took part. Louis King won first prize for the best in drill exercises. James Boggs won three prizes and did good work in all the events: also John Delany, Ritsett, Pike, Cornelius. Samuel Neill succeeded in winning the high jump. Alexander Boggs secured first prize for good attendance and behaviour. The pie-eating contest was won by Willie Boggs, who showed great ambition, taking part in every event. Many others did good work. This guild also helps in the work of the church. Several members serve at the early Celebrations, and their Guild pennies buy the large Wafers for the Blessed Sacrament. At Christmastide Mr. Rodman Wanamaker presented a handsome mat to the guild, and Mr. Alfred Harrison and Mr. Spencer Ervin contributed to help the boys in their athletic sports. It will resume operations in the autumn, upon the Rev. Curate's return from his vacation.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT OF MISSIONARY BOX

ONEIDA, Wis., May 14, 1909.

MY DEAR MR. CARMAN,

The box so kindly prepared for the Oneidas by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Church of the Ascension has reached us safely, and I cannot find words adequately to express my appreciation of this labor of love.

The box contained just what we need, and if you could realize how happy the hearts of some of the Indians will be made by your gift I am sure you would feel amply repaid for the time and effort expended during Lent.

Most of the articles will be kept for the Christmas bundles which are distributed each year. Each family receives one and every member of the family is remembered. As last year we made up over 250 of these bundles you can imagine what a task it is.

The box was also a message of good cheer to me. Perhaps you may remember that I was curate at the Ascension many years ago, and I can assure you that it is no small pleasure to be helped by some with whom it was my privilege once to work, and I trust that you may continue to feel some interest in us.

Thanking you and your noble band of co-workers.

Yours faithfully,

W. B. THORN.

houses or in places where they have no opportunities of spending a pleasant evening. Even those who are married and have homes of their own, feel the need of something outside their own houses to interest them. Hence it is that so many frequent saloons and pool rooms and other places where they are led into spending their money foolishly and cultivating habits which are injurious to them. And it is the duty of the Church to provide something in place of these things and do all she can to provide for the highest welfare of her sons.

We want also to do all we can to make the men feel that the Church is their truest home and is as necessary for them as it is for their wives and children. There are many men who want their wives to go to church and send their children to Sunday school, but who never think of having anything to do with the Church themselves. This is a great mistake for them, for they need all that the Church can give them in spiritual things to make their lives all that they should be and those joys and comforts which nothing but religion can supply.

And then the Church needs them. The men should be her chief constituency. It is the men who do the voting and occupy all the offices in the State. Why should all the work of the Church be left to the women? The responsibility lies primarily upon the men, they are the heads of the families, and as the temporal support and care of the family rests upon them, so should its spiritual interests. The children naturally look up to their father for example and guidance. So if a man neglects religion it is absurd for him to expect his children to have any respect or use for it. They may attend Sunday school as long as they are compelled to do so, but as soon as they are old enough to act for themselves they will act as their fathers do. This is the saddest thing connected with our Church work, the impossibility of the Church counterbalancing the improper influences of the homes of the people when they are not what they ought to be.

What is needed is to arouse the older men to a sense of their duty and responsibility in spiritual things, to make them appreciate how much the temporal, and probably eternal, interests of each member of their families depend upon their own conduct and example.

And then we want to make the men feel at home in the Church, feel that it is a place which it should be a pleasure and profit for them to attend. And if you can't go anywhere without a pipe in your mouth, why come and bring your pipe with you, and meet other men; be sociable. It is never good for a man to shut himself up to himself and not have any friends or associates or only such as he will meet in a saloon, who will be no good to him. And every man should try and cultivate himself and have some other interests in life beside those of his work or his family.

So we trust every one who is invited will join this club and see what good it can be to him and what he can contribute to make it of use to others. And above all we hope it may lead him to look upon and learn to prize and love the Church as the one thing on earth which can bless and comfort him in every way.

PARISH NOTES.

THE SUMMER.—While as in all city parishes, there has been a great deal of letting down of work during the summer, still in this there has been less than in most churches. The Sunday services, with the exception of the children's service, have been kept up as during the winter. And the Sunday night services, through the exertions of the Reverend Curate have been most successful, with an added after meeting which in some instances was prolonged to eleven o'clock.

In the summer of 1908 we felt much encouraged at the unexpectedly large attendance at these services The attendance grew to 256 on the last Sunday. The after-meeting was also encouraging.

But this summer of 1909 has quite surpassed the previous summer. In 1908 the attendance at the Night Services was 1296, or an average of 130; this year it was 1561, or an average of 156. At the after-meeting last year there were in the Parish Building 404, or an average of 45; this year the attendance at the after-meeting was 711, or an average of 71.

We trust this will continue through the winter, and no efforts will be spared to make it do so. We want the Church to be a real living power, arresting the attention and interest of men and women enabling them to grapple with the problems of their daily life and occupations, and come to feel that the ancient church of the one living God is the most important and helpful factor in their lives. Nothing is sadder or more alarming than the way in which so many are neglectful and feel indifferent to it.

The daily celebration at 7 A. M. was continued until September with an attendance varying from 5 to 20, and the Thursday celebration at 9 A. M. was made choral and was attended by children as well as by grown people.

Miss Woolverton kindly played the organ.

THE WEDNESDAY NIGHT SERVICES have continued through the summer with an Instruction each night, and an average attendance of 16. At the Instruction Class after the service, the average attendance has been 12, with sweltering heat in the room at times.

The Rector passed July and August with his family in the Adirondacks where he held services twice each Sunday and the Curate spent September in travelling through Canada to the Pacific coast, returning by way of Arizona.

The summer was fairly cool and comfortable, though we lost three of our communicants by death.

CHOIR CAMP.—Through the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Neilson a very successful camp was held during the second week in August on their beautiful grounds at Florence, N. J. The boys look forward always to this summer outing with great eagerness, and they thoroughly enjoy it when it comes. We thank the kind friends who made this and the Sunday school excursion possible.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL EXCURSION took place on July 10; about 90 children and adults went to Burlington Island Park. The day was beautiful and was spent in various kinds of pleasures. Tickets were given to the children for the Midget Railway, the Merry Go Round, the Razzle-Dazzle, the Swings, etc. Refreshments were served.

Members of the Mothers' Meeting were cordially welcomed among us, and we regretted the absence of Miss Hodge, their Superior, who had been obliged to leave the city for her summer sojourn. A number of the mothers and children were also provided for a week or more in the country.

RESUMPTION OF SUNDAY SCHOOL.—It will begin again its sessions at 2.45 P. M. on Sunday, October 3, 1909. All parents of the scholars should see that their children are on hand. The assistant superintendent has undertaken to see that the school is notified of its opening.

SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS.—All of our last year's teachers will return to school, excepting Miss Maas. We greatly regret to lose her faithful and intelligent help. We welcome to our midst Miss May Stretch, who will take Miss Maas' class.

A TEACHERS' MEETING was held on Sunday, September 29th, to prepare for the opening of the school.

ST. AGNES' GUILD did not adjourn at all this summer, and the attendance in July and August has been good. Various picture shows, Keith's, Burlington Island Park and some ice cream treats have helped to make the summer sessions pleasant. The children are so interested that the Guild will continue to meet all through September, when the Rev. Director is on his vacation; the Office of Devotion, the Instructions and the games continuing as though he were present.

The average attendance of the Guild at the Holy Communion on Sundays has been 12.

GIFTS.—Eighty illuminated certificates for baptisms, a light summer cassock for the Rector, 100 prayer books and 50 hymnals, a Welsbach light for the vestry room have been presented to the church. A cassock, surplice and stole were sent to a missionary in Georgia, and a surplice to one in Virginia.

APPOINTMENT AS ORGANIST.—We congraduate Mr. Henry Uhlrich on his appointment as organist and choirmaster of St. Elizabeth's Church. For six years he has been a member of our choir and has worked so hard that he deserves promotion.

It is one of the advantages of boy choirs that it gives boys a musical education and often cultivates a taste for music they would not otherwise have had. Some six of our choir boys are now making their living by music, which doubtless never would have been the case if they had not been brought into a choir while boys.

DEATH OF FORMER CURATE.—We regret to note the death of the Rev. Louis A. Lanpher who was Curate of his parish from 1892 to 1898. After leaving here he was for some time a Curate in Orange, N. J., and afterwards in the church of St. Mary, the Virgin, in New York, where his great musical talent found ample scope in the rendering of the elaborate musical services they have there. Later he had a parish in Canada, and finally some work in Boston, Mass.

Many in this parish will remember him for his kindly, cultivated manners, the beautiful way in which he sang the service, and for the pleasure and assiduity with which he visited those especially committed to his care.

May he be rewarded for his good works and rest in peace.

THE WOMEN'S GUILD.—Will not all the female communicants of the parish remember that they are considered as belonging to the Women's Guild, which holds its anniversary on SS. Simon and Jude's day, October 28, after the ten o'clock service in the church? The reports of the work of the different chapters of the Guild are then read, and arrangements made for the work of the coming winter. Will not all show this much interest in their parish as to attend this one general meeting in the year and acquaint themselves with what is going on and see if they cannot each aid it in some way, either by gifts or by personal service. We want so to make our parish a means of help and blessing in every way we can, and each one belonging to it should be glad to have some share in doing so. Come to this meeting.

HOW IS THE BIBLE THE WORD OF GOD?

The Bible, so called because it is "the Book" of all books, is divided into two volumes, called the Old and the New Testaments. The word means what it does when we speak of one's "last will and testament," the declaration of the will of God. Each of these is subdivided into a large number of books written at different times by many different persons; some are histories, some poems, some wise sayings, some letters, some sermons. Now how is such a collection of books of such different kinds, written by so many different persons and at such varying times, some of them centuries apart, how is it, as Christians have always considered it to be the Word of God? The Scriptures answer this themselves, they say in II Peter, I, 21, "Men spake from God, being moved by the Holy Ghost." God being a Spirit can communicate with spirit. We believe that He so communicates with all men to a certain extent. What we call conscience is the voice of God speaking to us, pleading with us to do what is right, warning us against doing what is wrong. And if a man listens to this voice, gives himself up to its leadership, he will find himself so in accord and sympathy with God that he will come to have the mind of God. Some have done this so fully that they have felt that they had authority to speak on God's behalf, in His Name. This is what the old prophets felt when they said, "Thus saith the Lord." They were sure they were speaking His mind. They were "moved by the Holy Ghost." This is what is meant by inspiration. Only a very few, exceptional men have been thus gifted, and the Holy Scriptures are the words or the record of the deeds of these men.

As there are many different kinds of writings, so there are different degrees of inspiration. This has always been recognized. Those parts of Scripture which contain the actual words which our blessed Lord Himself spoke are, of course, of the highest authority, so the four gospels containing those words and the account of His life and works are the most valuable of all. And we know that that account and those words are true because no four fishermen of Galilee could have conspired together to draw the portraiture of the most perfect character and record of the most sublime and convincing words that were ever uttered, if He whom they depict, and who thus spoke, had not really existed.

Next in value come the writings of those companions of Christ who had most caught His spirit and were taught by Him, which we have in other books of the New Testament.

The most inspired parts of the Old Testament are the Psalms and the writings of the prophets, and the books of wisdom. The historical books did not require a special inspiration. In them we believe rather that we have providentially preserved for us what is essential for us to know of human history. Though even in them we have the manifestation of a knowledge of God's methods and purposes in His dealings with men that we do not have in other histories, which is most invaluable.

But if it is admitted that certain men were moved by the Spirit of God to write what was true and what we could not otherwise have known, how do we know that just these particular men so wrote, and that these books only are inspired? The answer is that this is the deliberate judgment of the whole Christian Church. The Old Testament Scriptures were selected from a number of other writings by the authorities of the Jewish Church after long consideration, and were so accepted by Christ. So on that authority we receive them. The books of the New Testament, likewise, were carefully selected from among many others which were read in the early church, and these were finally set forth and received as those only to be esteemed as inspired, and authority for the determination of what is to be believed.

The church is not founded on the Bible. It existed and taught the Christian faith for many years before any of the New Testament was written, perhaps a hundred years before it was all written. They were written to preserve and expound the faith of the church, and it is on her authority that they are received. But the common judgment of men substantiates this authority. The world has ever felt that these books are superior to all other books. Men have only to read them to find in them a light and guidance and manifest inspiration they find nowhere else. This is the great practical test that any one can apply, and which nothing can invalidate. Hearing is believing. If the Bible speaks to your soul in terms that you feel to be the words of God, you need no other arguments to convince you that its authors, though they be but men and show their human characteristics in their writings, were yet "moved," influenced "by the Holy Ghost," and so what they wrote was, as the whole Christian world has always held it to be, in very deed, "The Word of God."

PARISH NOTES.

MEN'S CLUB.—On the evening of Oct. 19th some fifteen men connected with the parish met and organized themselves into a men's club. They resolved to have a regular meeting one evening each month during the coming winter, at which "a smoker" and some kind of entertainment will be given for the men of the parish. The first meeting will be held Friday, Nov. 12th. A committee, consisting of Mr. M. E. Roberts, Mr. Edward F. Pugh and Mr. P. F. Alburger will have the matter in charge. An invitation will be sent to every man in any way connected with the parish who is over eighteen years of age. It is hoped this will be the means of increasing the interest of many of these men in the church.

COURSES OF SERMONS.—The Rector has been preaching a course of sermons since the first Sunday in September on Sunday evenings on the Bible, with the object of meeting many of the difficulties men feel now-a-days with the Bible, especially the Old Testament. As there are many of our people who do not attend the evening service, and this subject is so important, we print in this number of the News and in the December number a short summary of some of the rules given in those sermons to serve as a guide in interpreting difficult portions of the Scripture.

During the four Sunday nights in Advent the Rev. Curate of the Parish will preach on the four last things, Death and Judgment, Heaven and Hell, to be followed by a question Box and an After-Meeting.

THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE WOMEN'S GUILD was held on St. Simon and Jude's day. A number of the ladies were present, and the reports of the work of the past year were read. The Rector then presented the special needs of the coming season. The most pressing of these is to obtain money to carry on the Mother's Meeting. This is a part of our parish work which has been carried on for many years and is most useful. It is held every Wednesday evening during the winter, after the service in the church, which the members are expected to attend, and it is often the only church service they can attend, and then in the parish building work is given them, garments, etc, which is sent by the various hospitals to be made up, for which the women are paid. This is a great help to them, many of whom have large families and but small means, and at the same time it is a help to the hospitals, as it saves them from employing a seamstress. Funds for this purpose have been provided by entertainments and other sources. But this year we have no money at all on hand, and must trust to donations being made for it. We hope our people will not allow so good a work to be stopped from lack of funds.

Death of Former Rector.—Last month we chronicled the death of a former curate of the parish, the Rev. Louis A. Lanpher, and this month we note the death of a former rector, the Rt. Rev. William Hobart Hare, Bishop of South Dakota. Mr. Hare first took charge of the church in 1864, when it was in so depressed a condition that it had become a mission chapel of St. Luke's Church. But he soon so improved it that it became again an independent parish of which Mr. Hare was made rector and remained so until 1870, when he became secretary to the Board of Missions. The amount of good which he accomplished is attested by the number of baptisms, confirmations, etc., which the Parish Register shows took place during his rectorship. It is a singular fact that while Mr. Hare was rector, an effort was made to remove the church from its old building on Lombard street to the lot on which the church now stands, and designs were actually prepared for the purpose. It was not until fifteen years later that this was accomplished. Since 1872 Mr. Hare has been the devoted Bishop to the Indians and others in his vast jurisdiction of Southern Dakota. May he rest in peace after his long, laborious life of unselfish service.

Wanted.—We need very much a new piano in the parish building; what we have is not fit to rehearse the choir with, nor is it suitable for an entertainment. Is there not some one connected with the parish having a piano which is not in use, who might be willing to donate it for the purpose?

Howard Hospital Services.—At the request of the City Mission, we of the Church of the Ascension have undertaken to visit the Howard Hospital on the fourth Sunday in every month, at four P. M. A brief service is held, hymns are sung and the patients spoken with individually at their bedsides by those who go with us. Our party consisted of sixteen on Oct. 24th, and the hour was enjoyed by the visitors and we hope by the patients. We would be pleased to have any men or women join us the next time, Sunday Nov. 28th, at four P. M. We meet at the parish building at the close of Sunday school.

St. Agnes' Guild Entertainment.—The annual entertainment of this Guild will take place on Monday, Nov. 22d, at eight P. M.

This yearly affair is the one and only source from which this society of little girls receives the funds with which they pay their guild expenses for the coming year. These expenses are considerable. The Guild also gives to the Parish certain amounts every season. These include all the small wafers for the year for Holy Communion, costing the guild about $9.00; also at Easter, they make a gift, that of last Easter being two cut glass cruets, also half the cost of the flowers for the S. Saviour's Altar every day.

The Guild would be grateful if the congregation would buy as many 10-cent tickets as they can. They will be on sale by the children, and some will be mailed to friends in the congregation about the 1st of November.

Sunday School.—The school resumed its sessions on October 4th with a slightly larger attendance than last year, and on each Sunday since we have done somewhat better than on the corresponding date last year.

A new instruction manual is being imported from England, "The Eldermoti Review," which contains a description of the beautiful and instructive stamps which we have been using, the production of the "Society of the Faith" in England; together with the Church Catechism, and a story with a moral appropriate to the day's lesson.

District Visiting.—The Sunday-school teachers have agreed to undertake a systematic visitation of the whole district surrounding this church. It is proposed to visit every house and endeavor to get any available children to this Sunday School. The work has already begun.

A Mission in Hammonton, N. J.—The Rev. Curate has been asked to preach a mission at St. Mark's Church, Hammonton, N. J. It will begin on the evening of Sunday, November 14th, and continue till Sunday, November 21st. There will be the Mission Sermon every night, followed by an After-Meeting. Then will be the other addresses, conferences, etc., which pertain to a mission.

Will not the members of this congregation help this effort to win souls by their daily intercessions until November 21st; especially by remembering it when at the Blessed Sacrament?

Wednesday Night Service.—The attendance during October has been materially larger than last year. At 8 P. M. a shortened evening service is said, followed by a fifteen-minute address upon the Gospel for the week. At the close of this as many as care to do so go into the Parish Building for an After-Meeting. This attendance at these latter meetings has been for the last three Wednesdays, 33, 31 and 19. The whole closes at 9.30 P. M. Will not some who read this come, at least a few times?

HOW TO INTERPRET THE BIBLE.

There are many difficulties people have with the Bible. One is that it contains accounts of miraculous events. But a miracle is not a violation of law, but an effect produced by some one who has a great knowledge of the laws of nature than we have, or who possesses a special spiritual power capable of effecting material things, as our spirits control our bodies. What is no miracle to us would have seemed so to our ancestors or to savages. So, if Christ was the Son of God, as we believe Him to have been, He must have been able to produce results by His superior knowledge and power that which no one else could. This accounts for all the wonderful works recorded in the New Testament as performed by Him. And as His disciples became like Him in some measure they were able to do some of the same things. And we have the record of other holy men in later, and even at the present time, doing some such wonderful things.

As to the miracles of the Old Testament, those which were acts of healing and some physical effects, may have been produced in the same way by especially holy and spiritually gifted men. Others were mere natural events which, to those unacquainted with the laws of nature, seemed to be miraculous. There are others which have been supposed to be supernatural from taking literally statements which were only intended as poetical or parabolic. All Eastern writings abound in such expressions. Accounts which we read as history may have been only hyperboles or parables or allegoric. Then, other things are related as actual events which were really only things seen in visions and ecstacies or dreams. In all cases where it is said "God spoke" or that men "saw God," we are not to understand that there was any audible voice or visible appearance, for we are expressly told that God has no shape or form or voice. It was spiritual apprehension and recognition of His will. The application of these rules will remove the difficulty one has with the supernatural element in Scripture

But there are discrepancies in the Bible which trouble many. Different books describe the same events in different ways or make apparently contradictory statements in regard to them. But that is to be expected in different writers. No two persons would see or describe an event in precisely the same language or notice just the same characteristics. The writers of the books of the Bible writing in this way shows that there was no collusion between them and strengthens their value as witnesses. The wonderful thing is that there should be such general and substantial agreement among them, not that there should be some trifling differences. Many of the discrepancies, too, have arisen from the Bible, as we have it bring a translation from one or more languages from that in which it was originally written, and from its being preserved so long in manuscripts in which naturally differences would arise or interpolations be made.

The most important discrepancies, those in the difference of moral teaching between the Old and the New Testament, are due to the fact that the revelation made in the Bible is a progressive one. Men could only be taught the most elementary moral truths at first and gradually lead on to the apprehension of a higher standard. Much of the language of the Bible, too, is mere human language: God is spoken of as if He were a man actuated as men are. Only so could the writers think of Him, or only so could they be understood by those they were addressing. Many things also are ascribed to God which He only permitted, as when it is said "God hardened Pharoah's heart," meaning thereby the same thing as when it says again, "Pharoah hardened his heart." So, acts of cruelty, or wrong, or hatred, or malediction, were not those which God approved, but were human impulses, or in some cases inspired by a righteous indignation against evil.

The discrepancies between the Bible and the teaching of modern science are naturally the result of the ignorance on the part of the writers of scientific laws. The Bible was not intended to teach science, but morals. And the wonderful thing is that the language of the Bible should be capable of being reconciled to the extent it is with our constantly expanding knowledge of those physical laws of which its authors were unfamiliar.

As regards the whole question of the interpretation of the Bible and the allegation that any one can find in it what he wants, as one person interprets it in one way and one in another, we must remember that the Christian faith does not rest on an interpretation of the Bible because it was given and taught before the New Testament was written. It was written to teach and enforce the faith. So, the church is the true interpreter of the Bible. It is not what an individual thinks he finds there that is its true meaning, but what the whole body of Christians—that is, the Catholic Church—has taught as its true meaning. God's words of infinite wisdom must be hard to understand in all their fulness, they are often "dark sayings" to our minds. It is only His spirit that can lead us gradually to know all truth, and that leading He has promised to His church as a whole, so only what all have agreed on is of faith, where there is not agreement, they are open questions. But there is agreement among Christians in regard to all that is essential, all that is necessary to make us wise unto salvation. We know this interpretation of the Bible is true.

PARISH NOTES.

Christmas—On Christmas day, as on all great festivals, there will be celebrations of the Holy Communion at 6.30, 7.30 and 8.30 A. M., and after morning prayer at 10.30 A. M. On this great annual feast of joy let every one seek to have the true joy of Christmas spread abroad in his heart by an act of real communion with God, which means having His spirit imparted to us.

The music at the mid-day service and on the succeeding Sunday, will be the beautiful St. Cecilia Mass.

And let no one come to worship the Lord "empty" on that day, to worship with words or feelings only, but let each prove his sincerity and the reality of his love by a gift, as we give such to our earthly loved ones at this season. This parish depends largely upon the special offerings made at Christmas and Easter to meet its expenses for the year. During the summer we had to borrow some $700 to meet our expenses when so many of our people were out of town. This we must make up in this way. Let each do his share towards it by a generous gift.

Then, too, we want money to provide a Christmas treat for our poorer people in the parish and for our children. Extra price gifts for these purposes may be placed in the alms boxes in the vestibule of the church, which are marked for those purposes or given to the ladies in charge of the Mothers' meeting or the teachers in the Sunday school. The Christmas festival of the children will take place on Tuesday, Dec. 28th, Holy Innocents' Day. There will be a service in the church at 7.30 P. M., followed by an entertainment in the parish building.

Christmas will soon be here with its message of love for all. Will you not remember the poor of our Parish and help us give them the same definite gift as last year? Through the kindness and forethought of some of our friends we were able to pack and send out about twenty-five baskets to those who probably would not have been provided for otherwise. Can't we do even better this year? And then this joyous season will have a deeper meaning for us.

New Altar Cloth—On the first Sunday in Advent St. Saviour's Altar was vested in a new violet cloth made for it by our ladies' embroidery class.

The Men's Club, which was inaugurated in the parish last month, was a great success. Nearly sixty men were present the first night, all but eight being connected with our own parish. The committee which had the matter in charge deserve great credit for the way in which they arranged things and the provision made. The entertainment consisted of pipes and tobacco, coffee, crackers and cheese, and some men of the present and former members of the choir gave a minstrel show. There was also some other singing, all very good. All present seemed to find it a very enjoyable evening.

The club will meet this month on Friday evening, December 10th. The committee in charge will be: Mr. Charles L. Bone, Jr., Mr. Walter M. Newmann, Mr. F. C. Botwright. Invitations will be sent out as before, but any men over eighteen years old or their male friends will be heartily welcome to attend.

Special Sermons.—On the Sunday nights during Advent the Rev. Curate of the parish will preach on the four last things, Death and Judgment, Heaven and Hell. Advent being a penitential season the service will be made very plain. The prayers, versicles and psalms will be said, not sung, and chants used for the Canticles. But there will be an anthem each night as usual.

Industrial School—One or two of the students in the School of Industrial Art have volunteered this winter to teach the boys in our Saturday Industrial School; so, we hope to have some fine and useful work done.

St. Agnes' Guild Entertainment.—The annual entertainment took place on November 22 at 8 P. M. The parish hall was full to overflowing, some standing throughout the evening.

The little girls did themselves much credit and everybody seemed happy. Our thanks are extended to Mr. Boggs for the use of his large phonograph, which gave much pleasure. It was operated by Mr. James Boggs, Mr. William Boggs and Mr. Alex. Boggs, assisted by some of the boys.

Donations to St. Agnes' Guild.—The Guild desires to thank very cordially the many persons in the congregation who so liberally responded to the request to buy tickets. The receipts to date have been larger than ever before and therefore funds are on hand for the support of the Guild for a year ahead.

We would be much pleased if some of those who have shown such interest in the church would attend a meeting occasionally and see what we are actually doing in the way of prayer and instruction and play. We meet every Saturday at 7.45 P. M., summer as well as winter, with no vacation throughout the year.

The Mission at Hammonton, N. J.—The Rev. Curate wishes to express his gratitude to the grown people and children of the parish for their intercessions for the work of the mission. The evident success was due largely to them.

former. Our blessed Lord promised to be with His church to the end of the world, that is with the Church as a whole. He did not promise infallibility to any single Bishop, or to any one part of the Church, but said that "the gates of Hell should never prevail" against His "Church," which would be the case of the whole Church falling into error. So when the whole Church speaks, or agrees on certain things, we may be sure that they are true by virtue of this Divine superintendency. Thus Christians have always believed, and our Lord's words are meaningless or deceptive if this is not true.

Moreover it is the most rational way of determining what is the true teaching of the Christian religion. It is the method we apply in regard to any other teaching. If we want to know what is the truest scientific teaching we trust to what has been the general concensus of the scientific world, rather than to that of a single teacher no matter how original and brilliant he may be, at least until after his teaching has been submitted to the opinion and judgment of other scientists. So what the whole Church has agreed upon as a correct statement of the Christian faith is much more likely to be true, even apart from our Lord's promise in regard to it, than that of any particular theologian or sect.

The most practicable way for the Church to speak as a whole is by General or Oecumenical Councils composed of all the Bishops of the Church, they being the order which alone possesses all the powers of the ministry and to which Christ specially committed the government and teaching of His Church. Such Councils must be free, every one present having the liberty of expressing his mind on the subject under discussion and when all who care to have done so, if a general agreement is reached and decrees issued we may be very sure that they are true, though we cannot be sure of it until we learn afterwards whether they meet with the general approval of the Church. For no General Council even is the whole Church. It is not possible for all the Bishops of Christendom to attend a single Council, and the Bishops even alone do not constitute the whole Church. Catholicity then is the test of truth. Only that which has been received "always, everywhere and by all" is to be received as a part of the Christian faith.

If we be asked what has this authority of having been universally received, we answer, (1) the Creeds; they have been in use in all parts of the Christian Church, and have always been recognized as teaching the fundamental facts and truths, and they are generally so received by all Christians to-day. Outside the Creeds are the decrees of the seven Oecumenical Councils, those Councils which alone were composed of Bishops representing the whole Church. These decrees teach the doctrine of the Trinity in all its parts, of the Incarnation in all its parts, of the validity of schismatical and heretical baptisms, of the abrogation of the Jewish ceremonial law, and that pictures and images should not receive the honor which should be rendered to God only. Outside of these truths there are many others which have been universally received in the Church, though they have never been the subject of Conciliar decrees, such as that the Bible is the Word of God, the Christian Law of Marriage, the Episcopal government of the Church, the doctrine of the Priesthood, of the Real Presence in the Holy Communion, &c.

As to matters of discipline the law of Catholicity does not apply, the Church being a living organism is free in every part to adapt itself to varying times and conditions. At the same time a custom or discipline which has long and widely prevailed has proportionally that authority and ought not to be abrogated or contravened without grave cause. But all matters of belief which have been universally received should be regarded as parts of the Catholic faith which it "is necessary should be kept whole and undefiled."

PARISH NOTES.

Christmas.—In spite of the great snow storm which interfered with the size of the congregation in the middle of the day and on the succeeding Sunday, we had a good attendance at the early celebrations. There were twenty-five more communicants than on Christmas a year ago, and the offerings were more than double. This was owing to a specially large donation from one member of the congregation, though apart from that the general offerings were somewhat larger. Thus if our offerings for the remainder of the financial year keep up to their former average it will enable us, we trust, to meet our expenses without a deficit.

In addition to the offerings for current expenses, liberal donations were given for Christmas dinners for the poor and for the Children's Festival. Fifteen dinners were provided and other gifts of pies, cake and candies were sent to the different members of the Mother's Meeting.

Christmas Festival.—In the midst of deep snow and biting cold a goodly number of children, teachers and officers of the Sunday School gathered at 7.30 P. M. at the Parish Building on Holy Innocents' Day, December 28th.

They sang carols and said prayers in the church and finally received their gifts at the hands of Santa Claus in the school room. Mr. George Wilson kindly took the part of the good old Patron Saint of the little people and did well.

The Children's Gifts of Toys.—Two new departures were made this year in connection with the Sunday school festival.

The first was that the children not only received gifts from the school, but also they brought gifts for those who were poorer than themselves. And a good number were brought. They will be given to a Home for children and our little people will have the joy of knowing that they have brought happiness into the life of many a boy and girl who has no home with a mother and father.
